MOVIE PICKANNINIES PROVIDE EXCITEMENT.

The young inhabitants of Jackson, in Northern California, a small mining town, had never seen coloured children until Will Rogers and the company making "Boys Will Be Boys" arrived there to "shoot" scenes.

When the contingent of fifteen coloured kiddies detrained it caused immediate excitement, and there ensued a gala day as good as a circus, for every child in Jackson who "had the nerve," played hooky and followed the dusky little movie performers from place to place, watching their every movement with rabid curiosity. The pickanninies are part of the local colour in this latest Will Rogers story, which comes to the Allen Theatre for two days, commencing to-day.

AT THE ALLEN

Irene Rich, who supports Will Rogers in "Boys Will Be Boys", which comes to the Allen Theatre for 2 days, commencing Friday, has appeared several times with the popular star. She is his favorite leading woman, and some of his best pictures have been made with her support. She is especially winsome as the country school "marm" in this whimsical Irvin Cobb photo-comedy.

":The Silver King"

"The Silver King", which has been chosen as the vehicle in which to introduce the Trans-Canada English Players to the patrons of the Grand Opera House, is unquestionally one of the foremost domestic dramas ever written. First produced in the year 1882, it has held its place among the standard plays of the last century, and was really the fore runner of the modern problem play.

The piece was first produced by the eminent actor, Wilson Barrett who played it over a period of twenty years and in practically every English speaking part of the world.

In the Trans-Canada production the role of Wilfred Denver will be played by that distinguished romantic actor, Mr Henry Lonsdale, who was last seen here as leading man for the late E. S. Willard. The other outstanding role, "The Spider", will be in the capable hands of Mr. Norman B. Cannon. Mr. Fred erick Ross, Mr. Vernon Fortesque, Mr Bert Randall, Mr. Hilliard Vox and the other splendid actors of the company will also be seen to advantage, as will Miss Dorothy Reeve, Miss Peggy Bryatt and Wee Dorothy Mackay.

The second play chosen for presentation here is "East Lynne", often styled 'the play that will live a thousand years.' 'Most everyone has seen this piece many times, but it is doubtful if the present generation has ever seen it given a production as satisfying as that which Trans-Canada Theatre own imported dramatic company is giving now to the people of Canada.

EXHIBIT WORTH WHILE AT THE MOTOR SHOW

OVERLAND AND MITCHELL CARS HOLD THE INTEREST OF VISITORS.

At the motor show C. R. Banks & Agnew have an exhibit of cars full of attraction and decidedly interest-holding. It consists of "Overlands"—comfy coupe and strong, durable and speedy five passenger touring car, — together with a graceful Mitchell Five Passenger 1921 model. The Overlands are too well-known to need extended reference, but the fact that 145 satisfied Peterborough owners are singing their praises offers food for reflection to prospective purchasers of cars this season.

The Mitchell Touring car is a model of beauty, combined with comfort and general utility, a car in which superlative fittings and spring resiliency, make for riding under conditions where vibration is all but an unknown quantity. In fact, every feature lends itself to durability, economy of upkeep appearance and convenience. Snow, wind and rain cannot find access to this popular car when the curtains are up; the front seat and foot room is generous with easy access to transmission and batteries and altogether this is the best car Mitchell has ever built.

Banks and Agnew are to be congratulated on an exhibit of serviceable and graceful cars adantable to city streets and country roads — cars they will be pleased to demonstrate to you as they did for many an inquiring visitor at the show last night. Their garage is on Charlotte street.

OLDSMOBILE CARS ARE DISTINCTIVE

DISPLAY AT THE MOTOR SHOW ATTRACTS ATTENTION OF CROWD.

It was very apparent, judging from the large number of motor enthusiasts who visited the show at the armouries on the opening day that general business conditions are rapidly getting back to normal.

The crowds displayed keen interest in the different exhibits and especially in the products of our Canadian factories.

One possibly worth of special mention is that of the Olds Motor Works, a subsidary of General Motors of Canada, Ltd., of Oshawa, Ontario.

The new line is a popular priced 4-cylinder, the produce of 23 years experience in automobile engineering and designing.

It comprises a 5-passenger touring, 5 passenger Sedan, a 4 passenger roadster (an innovation), and a 4 passenger coupe. The coupe and touring are being shown by Mr. Edgar Burnham, who has been appointed local Oldsmobile distributor.

Closed cars are becoming very popular and it is evident that the designer of this coupe had foremost in his thought the comfort and convenience of the motorists. The seating arrangement is ideal, carrying 4 passengers comfortably, and the general apeparance is truly characteristic of Oldsmobile distinctiveness.

This company also build an 8 cylinder 7 passenger and sport model, one of which is also being shown.

REFUSES TO WITHDRAW HIS REMARKS ABOUT COUNSELL WHEN ASKED TO DO SO BY MARSHALL.

INCIDENT CLOSED

TORONTO, April 16.—(Canadian Press.)— Hon. W. E. Raney's remarks in the Legislature Thursday night, in which he cast aspersions upon J. L. Counsell, of Hamilton, who represented Police Magistrate Hastings, of Dunnville, in inquiry into the O. T. A. enforcement, have been allowed to pass unchallenged, before orders of the day were called in yesterday, Thos. Marshall of Lincoln, rose to ask Attorney-General to withdraw his statements. He said that he knew who had engaged and paid Mr. Counsell, that it had been F. R. Lalor, M.P. for Haldimand. Mr. Marshall wanted to know if Mr. Raney was placing Mr. Lalor as one of "gambling and boot-legging fraternity."

"The House has heard my statement and statement of honorable gentlemen," said Mr. Raney. "My statement stands."

Mr. Ferguson objected to this curt dismissal of the matter. He said he had been amazed at Mr. Raney's statements, but he had believed that in cooler moments the Attorney-General would realize how unfair he had been. Attorney-General did not move from seat and the incident was closed.

STEADY DEMAND FOR CANADIAN CATTLE

H. P. KENNEDY, LTD.. SHIPPING OVERSEAS AND TO STATES.

This week, H. P. Kennedy, Ltd., loaded a shipment of choice export steers at Boston for Glasgow and another shipment from Portland to Liverpool, and to-day Mr Maybee for the firm, is loading a shipment of 350 head from Boston to Liverpool.

These cattle were bought for the Toronto, Edmonton and Chicago markets. Prices were somewhat low er, $8.40 to $9.00 being paid in Chicago and $8.75 to $10.25 being paid for Canadian markets.

Next week, H. P. Kennedy, Ltd., are getting several shipments ready for foreign markets, one shipment of 460 head from Portland to Liver pool, one from St. John to Manchester, one from Baltimore to Glasgow and one of 300 head to Ant werp for Switzerland. For Liverpool account, the firm, through their Edmonton branch at the Edmonton stock yards purchased a car of 15 extra choice steers. These were bought at the Stock Show in Edmonton at $9.10 per cwt. This should be encouraging news to the Alberta farmers considering that the same week, strictly choice export steers were brought on Chicago markets at $8.40 to $9.00.

Mr. Kennedy reports prospects for a steady market for the next few weeks. If the Emergency Tariff Bill now before the Senate, passes in the United States, it will naturally depress the stocker and feeder prices in Canada.

ANYBODY WANT A FEMALE FRITZIE? OPPORTUNITY IS KNOCKING AT THE DOORS OF PETERBORO BACHELORS

Duisberg, 29th March, 1921.

J. Stahl,
Duisburg (Germany),
Realschulstrasse 14.

To the Editor of The Examiner, Peterborough, Ontario.

Dear Sir,

Will you please excuse the liberty I take in addressing you in the following matter:

On account of the unhappy war, in which more than 1,800,000 young Germans lost their life, a still greater number of young German ladies are deprived of the opportunity to find a husband. This calamity, if I dare call it thus, is still increased by the fact that, owing to the extraordinary dearness of household furniture and the scarcity of apartments the matrimony has become a luxury and a privilege of the rich in this country.

In their distress our young ladies look over to America in the hope of finding there the conjugal happiness for which reason they appeal to all American bachelors who cannot find a match over there and who are desirous to contract matrimony with a well-bred young German lady, to approach them on this behalf. The linguistic difficulties should be no obstacle as our ladies are mostly acquainted with the English language.

The German ladies asked me to be their interpreter in assisting them to find an American husband, for which reason applicants are requested to apply to my above address.

I should feel grateful to you for bringing this letter to the notice of the readers of your newspaper and tender you my anticipated thanks.

Very faithfully yours,

J. STAHL.

Motor Show Again is Huge Success; Second Night Well Attended

ATTENDANCE LAST NIGHT ONE OF THE LARGEST IN THE SHOW'S HISTORY, OFFICIALS SAY.

LAST TIME TO-NIGHT

A line-up or massed effects seemed to be the rule at the Motor Show last evening. Murray street from George to the Armories, was packed with automobiles, and, according to the officials, the attendance at the Show last night was one of the largest in its history. Crowds surrounded every attraction. It was impossible to get anywhere near the dance hall. Even the stairs was jammed with a waiting line, the entrance to the fashion show for both exhibits lookes like an eager theatre "rush" crowd, and the minstrels, which are extremely popular, had packed houses. Flower girls, just as fresh and attractive as their lovely wares, circulated among the crowd, ice-cream cone vendors did a rushing business, and everyone had a couple of doughnuts and coffee during the evening. In the tea-room, every table was filled with people having some light refreshment) or poring over Mrs. Lemay's dainty water-colour menu cards. The Thursday Club with ice cream, and the Business Girls at their pretty booth, did a heavy trade, and the exquisite flower basket at the entrance was once again covered with beautiful blooms. The King's Daughters did well at the fish pond and their table of fancy articles was covered with the daintiest little fancies in bags and toilet-table accessories. The exhibits were well patronized.

The Coleman Quick-Lit gasoline lamp continues to revolve in a fascinating dangerous manner, and the Massey bicycle to cover many miles in its rapid stationary revolutions. Turnbull and Company have a cosy little corner exhibit of household appliances, and once again, the Utilities electrical demonstration attracted an interested audience. The war trophies shown are good examples and called forth some curious queries from spectators. Music by Mr. Gliddon's orchestra was enjoyed all evening, and Miss Lillian Eastwood's solos received much applause.

The raffle booth, with Mrs. A. H. Stratton in charge, continues to be a centre of great interest. An auction took place there last evening, and throngs of people surrounded the auctioneer to bid on all manner of useful things.

Prize List.

The prize winning numbers on admission tickets for last night at the Motor Show were as follows:

No. 4098, 1 barrel flour, donated by the Peterborough Cereal Co. Unclaimed.

No. 1489, 6 photographs, donated by F. L. Roy Studio. Unclaimed.

No. 496, 1 six-quart ice-cream

DAVID MACNEIL IS GIVEN FOUR YEARS

ST. CATHARINES, April 16. —(Canadain Press.) — Chief of Police Greene received word yesterday that David MacNeil, the young man so nearly lynched in Thorold last August when a mob set fire to the Town Hall, is now serving a term of between 4 and 5 years in the Eastern Penitentiary, having been sentenced at Philadelphia for a series of burglaries.

MacNeil led a gang of burglars operating on silk and fur stores. He brought some of the loot to Thorold, it was ascertained, after he had been arrested for the murder of four-year-old Margaret Boucock. At his trial in Welland, MacNeal was found not guilty by a jury .

HOUSE SPENDS QUIET FRIDAY

SETTLES DOWN TO ROUTINE AFTER EXCEPTIONALLY STORMY WEEK.

OTTAWA, April 16. — With but momentary reminders of the stirring week, the House spent a typical Friday, a day of brief discussions, a general cleaning up of the order paper, and the passing of much supply. The day saw the Royal assent to the interim supply bill, which had a stormy career in the Commons. It saw the third reading in the House of the bill to ratify the trade agreement between Canada and France, and the passing of resolutions for the issue of a five cent nickel coin in Canada.

Sir Henry Drayton announced that he hoped to have the budget ready at an early date. The prime Minister announced that it might be necessary to introduce legislation in regard to the Grand Trunk Railway.

The third reading was given to the following bills: To define the Canadian Nationals, to amend the corrupt practices act, to amend the judges' act, to ratify the France-Canadian trade agreement, to amend the winding up act, to provide a remedy for the business of the Canadian wheat board.

EX-WARDEN OF KENT IS DEAD IN RIDGETOWN.

RIDGETOWN, April 15.—Benj. W. Wilson, ex-Mayor of Ridgetown, and ex-Warden of Kent County, died at his home here yesterday, aged 77. He was a Conservative, and unsuccessfully contested East Kent for the Legislature and Commons.

FIND MAN WHO MAY PROVE TO BE A. J. SMALL

MAN OF MYSTERY TAKEN INTO CUSTODY LAST NIGHT NEAR KINGSTON AND WILL BE EXAMINED TO DAY.

ANSWERS DESCRIPTION

KINGSTON, April 16.—(Canadian Press).—Believed by a number of people to be the missing Ambrose Small, the man of mystery who has been wandering about in the vicinity of Verona was taken into custody late last night and taken to Verona, where he will be examined this afternoon by a magistrate and doctors.

It was reported this morning that Gordon Edwards, who for some years was in business in Toronto near the missing theatrical magnate's office, had identified the man as Small. Interviewed over the telephone, Mr. Edwards preferred to await examination before making a statement, but admitted that it might be Small.

Constable Tallop, Verona, stated that the man's description tallied fairly well with that of the missing man.

PRICES HIGHER ON LOCAL MARKET

EGGS CHEAPEST ARTICLES ON MARKET---POTATOES PLENTIFUL.

There seemed to be only one thing unusual about to-day's market and that was the crowds in the basket section. There was no apparent reason for the rush of buyers. Eggs were the only low-priced articles, so it could not be a bargain-seeking crowd. Likely the cold weather accounted for the preference shown to the upstairs, rather than the open market. Whatever the cause there was a jam of people, pricing, buying and gossiping in the market hall larger than on other Saturdays.

Eggs sold at 26, 28 and 30c. Butter seemed settled at 63 and 65c and chickens were very scarce at 35 and 40c a pound.

Potatoes Lower.

Most of the farmers and the city buyers found it chilly and uncomfortable around the square and few lingered over their purchases longer than was absolutely necessary. Potatoes floundered down to 75c and 80c, and even at that level the householders took considerable coaxing to buy. Onions were 40c and 50c a peck. Apples are not being offered to any extent for the very obvious reason that they are an almost unknown quantity at this season. Ben Davis sold at 50c a peck or $5 to $7 a barrel.

Eggs for hatching were 75c a setting. Duck eggs, carefully packed in a basket filled with straw, were $1.50 for a setting of 11.

One man on to-day's market had raspberry bushes for sale. He asked $1 for a bunch of 50 slender bushes.

Only three wagons had any maple syrup to-day. By the quart it sold at 90c and $1 and $3.60 and $4 a gallon. Maple sugar sold by the cake from 10c to as high as you cared to go.

Six weeks old hogs were $16 and $18 a pair on the market this morning.

U.S. RAISING TRADE BARRIER

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES PASSES EMERGENCY TARIFF BILL BY OVERWHELMING MAJORITY.

GOES TO THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, April 16. —(Canadian Press.)—By substantially a party vote and an overwhelming majority the House of Representatives last night passed the Emergency Tariff Bill, including anti-dumping and foreign exchange sections. The vote was 259 for and 112 against.

Action on the bill came at the end of five hours' consideration of various sections under the five minute rule. Numerous amendments were offered by Democrats and a few by Republicans, but all were voted down upon the insistence of Chairman Fordney, of the Ways and Means committee, who declared that the only chance for enactment of the measure in the Senate lay in making no changes from the form in which it was previously approved by the upper branch of Congress.

The bill as passed provides increased rates of duty on a score of different agricultural commodities, this portion of the measure being identical with the bill as vetoed by former President Wilson. The new parts of the bill, which may cause some dicultffiy in the Senate, are the anti-dumping provisions, designed to prevent the sale of foreign goods below a fair value in the home country as a means of destroying American industries, and provision for the regulation of foreign exchange.

SPLIT WHICH DEVELOPED IN TRIPLE ALLIANCE YESTERDAY MAY HAVE SERIOUS EFFECT ON LABOR.

NOT TO RESUME WORK

LONDON, April 16.—(Canadian Press).—A conference between delegates of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain and representatives from all the coal districts in the United Kingdom, at which the coal strike situation will be considered, was to-day fixed for next Friday, April 22. In the meantime work will not be resumed in any of the coal fields affected by the miners' strike.

The Labor forces of the United Kingdom are apparently broken into sections as a result of the refusal of the railwaymen and transport workers to continue their support of the miners. The opinion prevails in some quarters that the action of the railwaymen and transport workers means the death warrant of the Triple Alliance. This view is not held universally, but, without doubt, the split which developed yesterday will have a serious effect upon the rank and file of labor.

Whether the Miners' Federation, in its turn, will split up, as predicted in some quarters, remains to be seen. Mr. Hodge's position has become delicate, but it is known he has the support of a strong minority. The hands of the present executives of the organization are tied, but the new conference of delegates which has been called may consent to modify its instructions so that negotiations may proceed. In the meantime, the stoppage of coal mining continues, and it is pointed out in various quarters that the situation is still serious. Announcement is made on behaelf of the Government that efforts to reach a solution will not be relaxed.

PARIS PAPER SAYS FRENCH CABINET YESTERDAY DECIDED TO EXTEND AREA OF OCCUPATION.

PAYMENT DUE MAY 1ST

PARIS, April 16. — (Canadian Press). — The occupation of more German territory by the French forces, should the Germans fail to meet the Allied demands for the payment of twelve billion gold marks by May 1, may go beyond the Ruhr district and include at least a part of the industrial section of Westphalia, it is declared by the Echo de Paris.

In discussing yesterday's meeting of the French Cabinet, at which the question of eventual extension of military penalties was considered, the newspaper says that two reports, one military and the other economic, were adopted.

SOME CRITICISM OF NIXON'S BILL

MARRIAGE LICENSE MEASURE GETS SECOND READING.

TORONTO, April 16.—(Canadian Press.)—H. C. Nixon's bill to place the issuing of marriage licenses in the hands of municipal clerks and take that privilege away from jewellers was given a second reading in the Legislature yesterday, after a desultory debate that lasted for over an hour. The bill met with a good deal of criticism from members who objected to this wholesale method of eliminating the present issuers of marriage licenses.

Hon. Manning Doherty's Dairy Standards Act was given a third reading after the Minister refused to entertain the proposition by Hon. G. S. Henry that provision be made in the bill for the sale of milk for human consumption on a buter fat basis, but that the clause be not effective until made so by proclamation.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson supported his colleague, pointing out that the presence of such a clalse in the Act would have an educational effect and that the fact that it need not be brought into effect right away precluded any chance of it interfering with the operation of the Act as already endorsed.

SAYS LABORERS HAVE STRONG CASE AGAINST THE CITY

M. RYAN, CANADIAN ORGANIZER, EXPRESSED CONFIDENCE THAT ANY JUDGE WOULD ORDER AGREEMENT FULFILLED.

"If the earth had to be jacked up to-morrow and a pin had to be put under the south pole they'd get a laborer to do it," said M. Ryan, general organizer of the Laborers' Union in Canada, in an address to a large number of the local members in the Labor Hall last night. He declared that the laborers should have pride in themselves. "You are the most essential class on the earth. You have built up the world. Christ Himself was first a laborer, and He learned the trade of a carpenter. If you men will hold your organization together you can get your rights. Take it easy and gradually. Show the public and the employers that you are sane, far saner than those who are trying now to drive workers into revolution."

Mr. Ryan admonished the men not only to have a good opinion of themselves and of the service they render, but to assist one another and to watch carefully their organization, keeping it vigorous and strong. He recommended that they should not look for any higher wages than they received last year.

The Bridge Dispute.

Discussing the question of the city's cut in the wages of the laborers on the Hunter Street Bridge, Mr. Ryan pointed out that the union had a case which he believed would be upheld by any judge. As evidence there was the agreement, which should not have expired until April 30, signed by Mayor McIntyre and George Gregory, secretary of the Laborers' Union.

There were also two motions passed by the Council that the men be paid the money which had been withheld from them since January 1.

Referring to the wages that are being offered in some places, Mr. Ryan said that local townships had made a scale 30c an hour for road work. The Provincial Highways Department were offering 35c an hour, and this was also the wage on the new dam. On the other hand, the Government's own report showed last month that the cost of five commodities for a man and his wife and four children was $24.37. In other words, the cost of living was not decreasing at anything like the rate at which the contractors were trying to cut the laborers' pay. It was true, Mr. Ryan said, that some prices had dropped, but rents were higher than ever, taxes were up, and the actual cost of living had not made much headway in its expected descent.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

MAIL EDITION

EC PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, APRIL 16, 1921 PRICE THREE CENTS

DAY DRIVE IS NEAR THE END

TO-DAY WINDS UP CAMPAIGN WHICH HAS BEEN THE WARMEST THE PROVINCE HAS EVER KNOWN.

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT

TORONTO, April 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Ontario's "bone-dry prohibition" race is in the home stretch. The province is at the end of the last week in what has been probably the warmest plebiscite campaign of its history. While meetings will be numerous and canvassers active throughout the province, on both sides of the question until the last minute before the polling on Monday next, it is thought that the peak of the activity of the pro and anti campaigners has now been reached.

The question to be voted on by the registered men and women voters from one end of Ontario to the other is this, "Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquors into the province be forbidden?" Already there is a Provincial law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the province. The question of the Referendum on Monday is simply to also stop the importation of the same from other countries, provinces or States. If the majority of the ballots are marked "yes," the Dominion Government will close the doors of Ontario to such importations, and the Ontario Government will seal the bargain by putting into operation what is known as the "Sandy Hill," preventing "short circuiting" or delivery from manufacturers to consumers in Ontario—for there will be still no law to prohibit the manufacture within the province.

Both Sides Confident.

In the discussions at the meetings of both "bone-drys" and "antis" the question of "Government control" has been much debated. There is, however, no question of Government control before the people. That proposition was before the electors of Ontario in October, 1919, and was negatived by a majority of more than 250,000. If Ontario votes "yes" on Monday next, the province will be placed in the same category as the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Nova Scotia, which have already by popular vote of the electorate, prohibited the bringing in of liquor from outside their respective borders.

As might be expected, the leaders at the Provincial headquarters of both sides of the fight are confident of victory. The executive of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance with their allied church and other organizations, predict an overwhelming victory for bone-dry prohibition, some of the less optimistic, while conceding that some of the cities may vote "wet," count upon the rural districts and smaller villages and towns to turn the tide to a "dry" aggregate for the province.

On the other hand the Provincial headquarters here of the Citizens' Liberty League hold the view that there has been a tremendous change in public opinion since the last referendum, when the "drys" obtained big majorities. The "dry" majorities, they say, will be changed to "wet," leaving the province just where it is in the matter of importation of liquor.

Any form of sale of liquor in the province will still be illegal, of course, under the Ontario Temperance Act, no matter how the vote goes on Monday.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 16. MOVE EIGHT-STOREY BUILDING AND BUSINESS GOES RIGHT ON WITHIN

PITTSBURGH, April 16. — Engineers are directing the work of moving an eight-storey steel and brick business building in the downtown section forty feet from its former location. The work of moving started yesterday, and before the end of the day the 4,000-ton structure, including basement and sidewalks, was eight feet north of the original foundation.

All service as maintained in the structure during the moving process. No furniture or stock was removed from the building, and employees remained at their desks.

The change in the location of the structure was made necessary by the widening of Second Avenue, which is to form part of a new highway, the Boulevard of the Allies.

A PROTESTANT RALLY IN TOWN HALL, NORWOOD

UNDER ORANGE AUSPICES—INSPIRING ADDRESSES—PROHIBITIONIST PREPARE FOR REFERENDUM.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

NORWOOD, April 16.— A Protestant rally was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday night, under the auspices of the Orangemen.

The hall was filled to its utmost capacity by an enthusiastic, appreciative audience.

Mr. Henry Thistlewaite occupied the chair, and gave a very short opening address.

The local clergymen, Rev. Mr. Terrill, Rev. Mr. Rich and Rev. Mr. Noble, also many other clergymen were invited to the platform, but on account of illness in the family, Rev. Mr. Noble of the Anglican church, was unable to be present.

Mr. Wm. Montgomery, Reeve of the village, and Mr. John Scott, Reeve of Asphodel, both members of the Orange Lodge, were also seated on the platform.

Mr. McKinley of Peterborough, favored the audience with a solo, "Roamin' in the Gloamin'," which was so enthusiasticaly received that he had to respond to the encore by singing another song, "The Wee House in the Heather."

Mr. Terrill then gave an excellent address, in which he impressed the fact that Protestantism stands for nothing but enfightenment.

Mrs. Morton Porter then sang "Pegging Away," a solo with a splendid moral.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. OBrien, of Ottawa, who is holding a series of meetings — Protestant Rallies—throughout Ontario, thrilled his listeners when he spoke so earnestly and learnedly on the 'Irish Question.' He urged firmly on all that the trouble in Ireland is not a political one, but religious.

Before Mr. Rich's address, Mr. McKinley sang, 'The Road to Inverary,' which was heartily encored, to which he acceptably responded.

The programme was ended by two more Scotch songs by Mr. McKinley, who no doubt has won the favor of those who heard him.

Mrs. Fred Garlick was the accompanist of the evening and acquitted herself in her usual pleasing style.

After the National Anthem all adjourned to their homes, protfied by and pleased with the evening's programme.

Referendum Meeting.

Rev. Dr. Speer of Toronto, delivered a most inspiring and enthusiastic lecture on Thursday night in the town hall in the interests of prohibition. A large crowd was present to hear him in spite of the threatening weather. Dr. S. P. Ford president of the local temperance commitee, was in the chair. Short addresses were given by the members of the committee, Messrs. Arthur Brethen, Wm. Cuthberson and Henry Thistlewaite.

Rev. Mr. Noble of the Anglican church, gave his views in favor of prohibition in a very decided and impressive manner.

During the evening Miss Marjorie Miller, Mrs. Norton Porter and Mr. W. J. Stares rendered solos, which were well received.

The Cradle.

On April 12th, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Tighe of Gore Bay Mrs. Tighe is the oldest daughter of Mr .and Mrs. John McNaughton, Norwood.

Seamen and Firemen Vote Against Strike

A MAJORITY OF 57 AGAINST STRIKING IN SYMPATHY WITH MINERS — LONDON HERALD CONCEDES LABOR'S DEFEAT.

A NEW SPIRIT

LONDON, April 16.— (Canadian Press.)—A ballot taken by the Seamen's and Firemen's Union on the question of whether the Union should call a strike in sympathy with the coal miners, resulted in a majority of 57 against the strike. The total poll was nineteen thousand.

The Daily Herald this morning declares: "This is the heaviest defeat that has befallen labor in the memory of man. There is no use pretending otherwise."

The Herald, recognized as the mouthpiece of organized labor, calls for new machinery and a new spirit in the Triple Alliance Congress. When the joint committee fails to function it says, it "must start fresh and get machinery that will function."

LOW POSTAL WAGES BLAMED FOR THEFT

CHICAGO, April 16. — Low pay and poor working conditions of postal clerks have cost the Government $7,000,000 in mail robberies in less than a year.

This was the opinion many postal officials in Chicago have stated. Leo George, secretary of the Chicago Postal Clerks' Union, charged the mail hold-up epidemic to the temporary clerk system, which, he said, was the result of night work and poor pay.

A Campaign to Protect You in Buying Your Watch

RALPH WALDO EMERSON, more than fifty years ago, speaking in one of his essays of a distinguished man, said: "He is put together like a Waltham Watch."

This remarkable tribute to Waltham greatness is the result of the genius of many men whose inventive faculties have been concentrated for nearly three-quarters of a century to make it the wonderful time-keeping device it is.

The buying of a watch is an investment in time-keeping. And time is the most valuable possession of man.

You purchase a watch for one thing—to keep correct time for you—to tell it to you with dependability at any moment of the day or night.

A good watch, therefore, must have something more than good looks—it must have good "works."

Millions of people imagine that the "hand-made" watch is the "best" —or, at any rate, that its works are superior.

Yet, at the great Expositions, the watches of the world's other leading manufacturers have invariably been defeated by Waltham.

In a series of advertisements we are going to show that there is a watch made completely by one factory organization whose time-keeping mechanism is more trustworthy than any "hand-made" watch can be.

A watch that is easily and economically repaired because its parts are standardized,—

A watch that represents origination and leadership in mechanical skill,—

A watch that has revolutionized the art of watch making and assured accurate and dependable time-keeping.

We are going to take you through the "works" of a Waltham —lay bare those hidden superiorities which have led the horological experts of the greatest nations to choose Waltham as the watch for the use of their government railroads.

Duane H. Church, famous inventor who filled the great shops at Waltham, Massachusetts, with exclusive watch-making machinery that performs miracles of accurate and delicate work which the human hand could never equal.

When you have finished reading these advertisements, which will appear regularly in this publication, you will walk up to your jeweler's counter and ask for the watch you want—because you will know how it is built and why it is superior to any other watch.

Look for these advertisements. Read them.

SATURDAY, APRIL 16TH, 1921.

AN EXPLANATION.

A woman reader of the Examiner who wishes to vote on Monday, writes to inquire if the voters are expected to write the word "yes" or "no" on thir ballots. Certaintly not. All that is required is to place a cross opposite the printed word "yes" or the printed word "no" that will be found on the ballot paper. Putting any mark on the ballot but a cross will, of course, result in the vote being thrown out, and while this fact must be generally known, there may be others like the Examiner's correspondent who thought that it would be necessary to write "yes" or "no." For their benefit this explanation is published.

MR. RANEY'S MISTAKE.

The trouble with Attorney-General Raney seems to be that he cannot possibly imagine himself being wrong on any subject. This perhaps explains his absurd charge that criticisms of himself and of his administration of his department are part of a Province-wide effort to discredit the Ontario Temperance Act, and his even more foolish statement that J. L. Counsell of Hamilton, who acted for Magistrate Hastings in the Dunnville inquiry, was employed by bootleggers and the gambling fraternity. Mr. Raney seems to be knocked off his balance through an over-appreciation of the importance of himself and the position he holds. Otherwise, he would be the first to see the folly of trying to line up with the bootleggers everybody who objects to certain sections of the Ontario Temperance Act or to the manner in which it is administered. The Attorney-General seems to be suffering from a bad attack of enlarged cranium, aggravated by a very thin skin easily penetrated by even the bluntest shaft of criticism. His ailments, while by no means unknown among members of the near great, are scarcely an asset to men in public life. Mr. Raney, in making the assertions he did in the Legislature the other day, only succeeded in making himself ridiculous; he had better learn to stand a little criticism or his career will be a short and not particularly a merry one.

GET TOGETHER.

The fear expressed by The Examiner a few days ago that the municipalities in the Kawartha Lakes district might jeopardize the chances of having a fish hatchery established in this section of Ontario by greedily grabbing for the prize for themselves instead of making a combined effort to obtain the hatchery, seems likely to be confirmed. Already The Lindsay Watchman-Warder has come out with an article advising the Lindsay authorities to lose no time in asserting their claims for consideration, and adds that Bobcaygeon is also in the field as a possible site for the much-wanted enterprise. This petty rivalry should be set on one side. It does not really matter where the hatchery is situated so long as the selected site is somewhere along the Kawartha chain; the mere fact that the facilities for replenishing the supply of fish in the district waters have been provided will benefit the whole Kawartha section. The municipalities should forget their own interests and join in a co-operative effort to secure the hatchery—the choosing of the site might well be left to the Government. The danger is that if the various towns show a grasping spirit the Government may in disgust wash its hands of the whole affair, and that would be disastrous. Why can't all the municipalities unite in going after a proper hatchery instead of squabbling over the business until they eventually succeed in killing the whole scheme?

MONDAY'S VOTE.

In spite of attempts to becloud the issue the people of Ontario must be by this time fully aware of the exact question they are to decide on Monday and they should be in a position to vote intelligently upon the matter. They are not compelled to vote blindly, with no previous experience to guide them. They know what the conditions were like in Ontario before the Ontario Temperance Act became law, they know what the conditions were like in Ontario during the period when importation into the province was stopped by the Dominion Government; they know what the conditions have been like in Ontario since the Dominion order-in-council was lifted and the flooding of the province by imports from Quebec and elsewhere began. They know that during the last years of the war when importation was forbidden that drunkenness was reduced to a minimum and that the O.T.A. was effective just as they know that once the barrier against the bringing in of liquor was removed that drinking increased, bootlegging became rampant and parts of Ontario became the headquarters of bands of rum runners using this province as a base for their operations. As long as liquor may legally be imported it is obvious that the Ontario Temperance Act cannot be enforced—at least not efficiently. Premier Drury admits that fact and he calls upon the people of the province to vote "yes" on Monday, put a stop to the importation and give him a law that can be carried out.

There is a recently-resurrected cry for "government control." It is used by people who do not know what it means, by others who do not care what it means and a third class who are sincere in their belief that a system by which the Government would take charge of the sale of liquor under certain restrictions is the sanest way of dealing with the problem. There are undoubtedly many strong claims to be made on behalf of Government control, but granting that fact the voters should have little difficulty if they think for a moment at arriving at the conclusion that such a method of handling the liqour traffic is not before them at the present time. They must simply decide on Monday whether or not they wish to prevent liquor from being brought into the province, as it is legally being brought at the present time, whether or not they wish to perpetuate a system that is responsible for boot-legging and rum-running or whether or not they wish to return to the conditions prevalent in 1918. They have the facts before them, and if they will compare Ontario as it was before the ban against importation was lifted with the present status of the province, it should be fairly evident that a "yes" vote on Monday is a vote for a cleaner, better Ontario.

The issue is simple; the history of the past few years furnished ample guidance, and the voice of the people as expressed at the polling booths should be emphatically against the continuance of the present system of importation.

THE BASIS OF THE STRUGGLE.

It is a handicap to the British coal miners in the great stduggle upon which they have entered that the issue at stake is so complicated that it passes the comprehension of the majority of the rank and file. There is no greater asset of a party in any industrial struggle than a single issue crystallized into a slogan that spurs on the lukewarm and rallies the diffident. When the cotton operatives of Oldham walked out in 1877 there was no man, woman nor child who did not know the meaning of "a penny a loom," nor was there any misunderstanding when the engineering trades in April, 1897, paraded through the streets with their "eight-hours a day" banners. The coal miners who suffered from the deflation of prices in 1891-1892 knew exactly what their leaders meant when they called them out to demand a "living wage."

In the present struggle, which is by far the greatest strike or lock-out the British industry has ever known, as well as the most potent for good or evil to her industrial life, the issue is complicated. There is talk of the Miners' Federation demanding "national wages" and "pooled profits" without any very clear understanding of the exact meaning of these terms.

Prior to the creation of the war-time control, miners' wages were governed by area conciliation boards — a Scottish Board, a Durham Board, a Midland Board and so on. There were sound reasons for this, and the Government believes that these reasons hold good to-day. The nature of the mining, the quality of the coal and the conditions under which the miners worked and lived varied considerably in the different districts. In one area steam coal was mined, while in another the product was household coal. In one district the peak of the load might come in the summer, in another employment might be steadiest and most free in demand in the heart of winter. On some mining properties the miners had free or cheap houses and coal, garden allotments and facilities for the raising of produce, while in other cases the workers lived in the poorer quarters of a large industrial city.

It is almost impossible to conceive the successful working of a wage scheme uder a National Board. Such unification is not in the interests of the working miners nor in the interest of peace. Yet the Government has so far given way to the demands of the miners that while it stands to the principle of district boards for the settlement of wages and disputes it declares that every "district adjustment is to be made on national principles, nationally determined,' and that in case of a dispute the District Board shall refer the mater to the final arbitrament of a National Board composed of owners and miners.

The miners have not concealed the fact that their real aim is nationalization of the coal mining trade as a first step in the general nationalization of British industry, and to-day they are trying to leave the door open for such a system of control, while disguising their claims. When the strike of the coal miners was settled last fall the advocates of unification, who are also the proponents of nationalization, seized upon the settlement as a definite step in the direction of their goal. In some districts there is no doubt that the men were advised that a National Wages Board was to be set up, and they were told of the advantapes of its establishment. Yet the leaders knew that no such promise was given. The last strike was settled by the concession of a certain fixed output known as a "datum line," and a promise of a bonus on increased production beyond that line.

Unfortunately it is now evident that the strike of last fall was far more damaging to British industry, especially to the export coal trade, than was at first supposed and the settlement came too late to stop the tobogganing of prices and the trade slump. Since that settlement the leaders have requested the formation of a National Wages Board, but the owners and the Government have with equal persistency opposed it. The miners have been misled in this matter either through design or through ignorance, with the result that taunts are being to-day freely levelled at the Government for breaking their pledges.

So far as the pooling of profits is concerned there also appears to be some confusion and misunderstanding. If the worst equipped and the worst managed collieries are to share permanently in the profits made by the best equipped and most efficient concerns, a premium will be put on slackness and incompetency, while econemy and capability of organization will be penalized. Under suh a system there would soon be a serious deterioration in the equipment of the mines and an almost complete stoppage of fresh developments and initiative in the industry. —Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If you realize the responsibility of being a citizen you will vote on Monday.

The polls are open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., so that theer is no excuse for failure to exercise the franchise.

The M.O.H. says that cellars are responisble for flies. And headaches, too, some of them.

There is not much chance of a revolution in the United States. There are too many people interested in the baseball games.

Jake Solomon's East Peterborough baseball league is one answer to the song inquiry, "How are you gonna to keep them down on the farm?"

A general strike in England would effect the whole world, which makes the brighter news from the Mother country a matter for universal rejoicing.

If government salaries must be cut, why not commence with the members' indemnities. That is the logical starting point for the introduction of methods of economy.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

About the only lost article you're sure to find again is a temper.

If silence is golden it explains the fact that there is never an admission fee to a political meeting.

Another funny thing is that these discontented people seem to be in no hurry to try their luck in the next world.

Most appropriate that Monday, the traditional wash day, should be chosen as the date on which the fate of "suds" is to be decided.

There's no royal road to knowledge. Or to reform. But if the number of salaried reformers increases much more there'll be a golden stairs.

Another thing that won't get you anywhere in this world is wondering when the League of Nations is going to accomplish something.

Police.

A young man managed to get into a conversation with a very pretty girl during a railway journey. He was very pleased with himself, and when the train reached the end of its run, asked the girl:

"I'm afraid, perhaps, you wouldn't have been so nice if you had known that I am a married man."

"Oh, as to that," replied the girl, "you have nothing on me. I'm an escaped lunatic."

How to Save.

Two men standing at a beach. One of the men was smoking a good cigar. The other asked:

"Do you always smoke 15-cent cigars?"

"Yes," was the reply, "or better ones."

"Have you always smoked?"

"Since I was fifteen."

"Do you realize that if you had saved the money you have spent for tobacco you might be the owner of that yacht over there?"

"I don't know. Do you smoke?"

"No."

"Did you ever smoke?"

"No."

"Do you own that yacht off there?"

"No."

"Well, I do."

THOSE NASTY LITTLE PIMPLES

THAT COME ON THE FACE ARE CAUSED BY BAD BLOOD.

Many an otherwise beautiful and attractive face is sadly marred by the unsightly pimples and various other skin troubles, caused wholly by bad blood.

Many a cheek and brow cast in the mould of a beauty, have been sadly defaced, their attractiveness lost, and the possessor of the "pimply face" rendered unhappy for years.

Their presence is a source of embarrassment to those afflicted as well as pain and regret to their friends.

There is an effectual remedy for these facial defects and that is Burdock Bitters, the old reliable medicine that has been on the market for over 40 years.

It drives out all impurities from the blood and leaves the complexion clear and healthy.

Mrs. James Williams, Waterford, Ont., writes: "My face was covered with pimples for nearly a year. I used different kinds of remedies to get rid of them and finally thought there was no relief. A friend dropped in one day and told me I should try Burdock Blood Bitters. I did so and used three bottles and found the pimples were all disappearing from my face and now I have a clear complexion again."

COPPER SHUT-DOWN INQUIRY REPORTED.

Wall Street Hears Department of Justice Plans Investigation of Recent Closings.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The Department of Justice is preparing to undertake an investigation of the closing down of the copper industry of the country, according to a report in well informed circles in the financial district yesterday. It was said that action along this line would comprise the contention that the action of the copper companies had been the restraint of trade and in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

Not all of the copper companies have been approached in the matter, but it is understood that a representative of the Department of Justice has called upon the heads of some organizations within the last few days. It could not be learned last night just how far the investigation has advanced. In several quarters associated with the copper industry it was said that there had been rumors of an impending investigation for several days, but the opinion was expressed that the copper companies had nothing to fear in any proceedings which might develop.

Should the investigation proceed on the contention that there had been simultaneous closing of the copper mines and that therefore there was a violation of the Sherman law, it was said the copper companies would be able to show that there had actually been no simultaneous shutdown or agreement among the producers to close the mines.

It is true that a number of the large producers have ceased their mining activities, but the records appear to show that the shutting down of plants was brought about without any degree of uniformity as to time. Curtailment of production had been the aim of the copper producers for a number of months, but there was a point beyond which curtailment could not go without disrupting organizations, and this the copper companies were loath to do. Here and there, however, mine owners determined to close their properties rather than continue to run at a loss, and once the movement to this end began it spread rapidly, not because of agreement, it is said, but because underlying conditions were such that continuation was made practically impossible.

A gold mine was recently struck in the heart of Denver, Col.

on the manager's desk replace thunderous accusations and counter-accusations in the council. Your complaint is attended to by 'phone before you leave.

The difference issues from one fact. In the old government the chief administrator was a political mayor who only gave the city part of his time, kept no office hours, never tried to learn the technical problems of a modern municipal government.

In the new government the chief administrator either is an expert or is learning to be one as fast as he can.

He is on the job full time, he is ambitious to show economies, for he is under a council (or commission) of important local people who come down to the city hall every week to hear his reports and explanations with power to fire him if he is not making good.

Such an atmosphere may not develop efficiency, but it is apt to do so, in most cases it has, and it is the only one that will.

For instance, last year when Watertown, N.Y., sent for C. A. Bingham, who had made a record as city manager of Waltham and Norwood, Mass., he found this state of things when he began to gather up the loose ends at the Watertown city hall: $75,000 of unpaid accounts, some of them five years old; 3,000,000 gallons of water being wasted daily, enough to supply the city; decentralized and questionable purchasing and bookkeeping; police department 50 per cent. undermanned; fire department costly.

Now that is getting down to brass tacks as only an experienced city manager can.

Norfolk, Va. (population 116,000), hired as city manager C. E. Ashburner, who had previously been manager of Springfield, O., and Staunton, Va., and with him in charge, reduced the inherited deficit by $2,000,000, added $1,500,000 of public improvements, established the first city hospital, opened 14 new playgrounds, established free clinics and visiting nurses and reduced radically the baby death rate.

Dubuque, Ia. (population 4,000), elected its first council under the manager charter in 1920, and the council hired O. E. Carr as manager. Mr. Carr began his career in this field as manager of the little town of Cadillac, Mich.

From there he was called to the managership of Niagara Falls, until Springfield, O., lost Manager Ashburner to Norfolk, and called Carr there, where he stayed until he won promotion to Dubuque, his fourth town and his sixth increase of salary. Within 10 days, he eliminated enough needless positions at Dubuque to permit raising the pay of the police and save $20,000 a year net besides.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me to say a few words in defence of Mr. J. J. O'Brien's speech which was attacked through voice of the people in Wednesday issue, by article signed J. F. Foley In the first place, he asks how many people in Ontario speak French, would like to remind him that English is the National language of this country, so it is not necessary to speak French. Also Mr. Foley I cannot see why text books which as you say idealize England or the British Empire of which Canada is a part are going to do any harm. Certainly anyone born and brought up within the British Empire should be proud of it and have nothing to feel ashamed of. I would also reply to other statements made by the same party but as I well know it would do little good

Thanking you in advance, Mr. Editor.

Yours truly,

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

LEONARD COMES.

Chapter 29

A train rushed by me on the platform, tugging at my wind blown skirts and at my waiting heart. It was an express and did not stop. Would Leonard's train ever come, I thought. Impatient with longing to see him, I had decided to meet him at the station. Waiting at the hotel would mean at least 15 minutes longer without him.

I smiled as I paced back and forth on the station platform. After all, could any man but my own husband wake these deep, fundamental emotions, so firmly planted and cultured by thousands of sensations of love? One might feel a passing infatuation for a short while—the touch of a compelling hand, the penetrating gaze of captivating eyes, or even the thrill of a strong personality. But this—this was the bedrock of entirety, the love of a perfect union.

The shrill whistle of a train broke in on my trend of thoughts and mixed them up in a happy confusion. The engine rushed by me, the wheels were slowing down. A white coated pullman porter swung himself to the platform before the train had hardly stopped.

I caught sight of Leonard. He was the first person off the train, barely giving the porter time to place the little box-step beneath his eager feet.

Our eyes met. They had instinctively found each other in that rushing throng. The wireless message of two souls had shot across the heads of the people. The glory of it surged up and warmed my whole being. Leonard was by my side in a moment

"Noreen!" His dear voice caressed the name beautifully, and his warm lips pressed mine. My hands clung to his shoulders.

"Dar boy—I was so afraid something might prevent you from coming," I said as we turned from the station.

"So was I, Dear," he echoed eagerly. "But it didn't, and I'm actually here beside you—you can pinch me to make sure," he laughed happily.

"You are too much a reality for need of that," I answered fondly, pressing the arm that was thrust through mine.

At the hotel Leonard was as delighted as a boy

"This is the way to do it, Noreen," he told me as he unpacked his bag and laid his things away. "I like to luxuriate," he said, with a wave of the hand, indicating the spacious well furnished room and bath beyond.

He snapped on the little yellowish iridescent electric lamp above the bachelor, and then turned it off again like a boy.

"Never could see any sense in going away and putting up with things that you wouldn't stand for at home," he went on.

"You have a champagne taste," I told him teasingly. I liked Leonard's appreciation of values and fineness of taste. It had been one thing that drew me to him.

"It's a mighty good thing to have It's a good danger signal very often," he answered. His tone was serious. I felt my heart beat a little rapidly. What Leonard said was true, wonderfully true, and I made a little silent prayer that both of us might always heed the warning. It was so much easier for perceptions less finely drawn to choose the mediocre, and I thanked God that Leonard was not that kind of a man. I knew fundamentally that his ideals were of the highest.

"But we couldn't do this very often, Dear," I told him. "I really felt guilty when I paid my bill for the week, and now you'll have still more to pay," I said with honest consideration.

Leonard threw himself into a big wicker rocking chair, and caught my wrist and pulled me down on his knees.

"It's worth it, peaches," he said warmly as his arms drew me closer to him. I felt his heart beating against my breast and wondered if he, too, could feel mine.

Tomorrow—Leonard Hears of His Wife's New Friend.

See, Mama, There is Your Medicine

"YES, dear, that is the medicine which made mama well and I am sure neither of us shall ever forget it."

"Are you going to buy some?"

"No, darling, I do not need any more. You know how well I sleep now, those terrible headaches do not bother me any more and we are able to take our nice long walks every day."

"You never used to walk, did you?"

"Not for a long time. My nerves were so bad that I could not do anything, and I am afraid I was often very cross and irritable with you and daddy, but, thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, that day has gone by and I know what it is to be well and happy."

"Why don't all the sick people use your medicine?"

"Far more of them would if they only knew of the good it would do them. I have told lots of my friends and they nearly all have been benefited just as I was."

Clear brain, splendid circulation, ruddy complexion, sound, restful sleep, good digestion, greater strength of mind and body and better health are the results of using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50c a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

THE CITY MANAGER

In the city hall of an old style government you will find a certain atmosphere which any business man will at once describe as political—silk hats, seedy frock coats and big cigars, ornamental tobacco-chewing attendants whose prime function seems to be to open a door for some city official who is usually out, full-grown men doing office-boy work, party organization, men laboring over clerical or stenographic work that nimble-fingered girls do everywhere else, passionate oratory in the council meeting, legal red tape, references to the corporation counsel, "influence" supreme over simple rights, officials who politely pass the buck.

The place simply does not "feel" like any business office that you ever got into!

When city-manager government comes it, it inherits the cumbersome architecture and soiled corridors of that same city hall, to be sure, but the spirit of the place alters. Office hours are longer and the city manager frequently works nights.

The council is no longer a debating society. Typewriters and comptometers are at full speed.

LARAMIE HOLDS THE RANGE

(By FRANK H. SPEARMAN)

If you like your fiction "straight" with plenty of plot, suspense, action, and realistic gun play, then you will like mighty well this new Blue Ribbon serial—a love story of the passing west by the author of "Whispering Smith," "Nan of Music Mountain," and a long list of other capital tales of romance and adventure.

Once make the acquaintance of Jim Laramie and start following his conflict with Kate's father, his narrow escapes from death at the hands of his enemies, and his love affair with Kate herself, and you will find it hard to wait for the final chapter. There are thrills aplenty in "Laramie," and not a dull moment to the end.

ALL day the heavy train of sleepers had been climbing the long rise from the river—a monotonous stretch of hot, treeless, short grass plains reaching from the Missouri to the mountains. And now the train stopped again, almost noiselessly.

Kate, with the impatience of girlish spirits tried by a long and tedious car journey, left her Pullman window and its continuous one tone picture and, walking forward, was glad to find the vestibule open. The porter, meditating alone, stood below at the car step looking ahead; Kate joined him.

The stop had been made at a lonely tank for water. No human habitation was anywhere in sight. The sun had set. For miles in every direction the seemingly level and open country spread around her. She looked back to the darkening east that she was leaving behind. It offered nothing of interest beyond the vanishing perspective of a long track tangent. Then to the north, whence blew a cool and gentle wind, but it offered nothing of interest to her eyes. Its receding horizon told no new story. And then she looked into the west.

They had told her she would not see the Rockies until morning. But the dying light in the west brought a moving surprise. In the dreamy afterglow of the evening sky there rose far beyond the dusty plain the faint but certain outline of distant peaks. Bathed in a soft, unearthly light, like the purple of another world, touched here and there by a fairy gold, silent as dreams, majestic as visions, overwhelming as reality itself, Kate gazed on them with beating heart.

When she was forced reluctantly back into the sleeper she announced joyfully to her berth neighbors that the Rocky Mountains were in sight. One regarded her stupidly, another coldly. Across the aisle the old lady playing solitaire did not even look up. Kate subsided, but dull apathy could not rob her of that first wonderful vision of the strange, far off region that was perhaps to be her home.

Next day, from the car window, it was all mountains—at least, everywhere on the horizon. But the train seemed to thread an illimitable desert—a poor exchange for the boundless plains, Kate thought.

The train was due at Sleepy Cat in the late afternoon. It met with delays, and night had fallen when Kate, after giving the porter too much money, left the car, and, suitcase in hand, struggled up the long dark platform toward the dimly lighted station. Men and women hastened here and there about her. The changing crews moved briskly to and from the train. There was abundance of activity, but none of it concerned Kate and her comfort. And there was, she feared, no one to meet her.

Reaching the station, she set down her suitcase without a tremor, and though she had never been more alone, she never felt less lonely. Then a fat man under an immense hat and wearing a very large ring on one hand walked with a dapper step out of the telegraph office. He checked his pace, coughed slightly, and changed his course, as if to hold himself open for inquiry. Kate without hesitation turned to him and explained she was for Doubleday's ranch. She asked whether he knew the men from there and if there was anyone down.

John Lefever knew the men, but had seen no one; could he do anything?

"I want very much to get out there tonight," said Kate.

"Jingo!" exclaimed Lefever. "Not tonight!"

"Tonight," returned Kate, looking out of dark eyes in pink and white appeal, "if I can possibly make it."

John Lefever caught up her suitcase and set it down beside the waiting-room door. "Stay right here a minute," was all he said.

He walked toward the baggage room and before he reached it stopped a second large, heavy man. He held him in confab. The second man meantime looked quite unabashed toward the distant Kate In the light streaming from the station windows her slender and slightly shrinking figure revealed all the inviting lines in young womanhood that arrest men, and these lines Henry Sawdy absorbed with relish. Kate, conscious of inspection, could only pretend not to see. And the sole impression she could snatch in the light and shadow of the redoubtable Sawdy was narrowed to a pair of sweeping mustaches and a stern looking hat. Lefever returned, his companion sauntering along after. Kate explained that she had telegraphed.

At that moment an odd looking man, with a rapid, rolling, right and left gait, ambled by and caught Kate's eye. Instead of the formidable Stetson hat mostly in evidence this man wore a baseball cap—of the sort usually given away with popular brands of flour—its peak cocked to its own apparent surprise over one ear. The man had sharp eyes and a long nose and proved it by halting within earshot of the confab carried on between Kate and the two men. He looked so queer Kate wanted to laugh, but she was too far from home to dare. He presently put his head conveniently in between Sawdy and Lefever and spoke:

"There's been a big electric storm in the up country, Sawdy; the telephones are on the bum."

"How's she going to get to Doubleday's tonight, McAlpin?" asked Sawdy abruptly of the newcomer. McAlpin never under any pressure answered a question directly. Hence everything had to be explained to him all over again, he looking meantime more or less furtively at Kate. But he found out, with his stupidity, a lot that it would have taken the big men hours to learn.

"If you don't want to take a rig and drive over," announced McAlpin, after all had been canvassed, "there's the stage for the fort; they had to wait for the mail. Bill Bradley is on tonight. I'm thinking he'll set y' over from the ford—it's only a matter o' two or three miles."

"Are there any other passengers?" asked Kate doubtfully.

"Belle Shockley for the Reservation," answered McAlpin promptly, "if—she ain't changed her mind, it bein' so late. Let's see."

He came back in a jiffy with the driver, Bradley. Tall, thin, bent, and grizzled though he was, Kate thought she saw under the broad but shabby hat and behind the curtain of scraggly beard and deep wrinkles dependable eyes, and she felt reassured. He would take her—but as to whether Belle was going—she was, if she hadn't changed her mind. Sawdy put a brusque end to that uncertainty: "She's down there at the Mountain House waitin' now—seen her myself not ten minutes ago."

"How far is it to the ranch?" asked Kate.

"How far is it to the ranch?" asked Kate.

"Long ways, the way you go, ain't it, Bill?" McAlpin turned to Bradley for confirmation.

"'Bout fourteen mile," volunteered Bradley, "to the ford."

"What time should I get there?" asked Kate again.

Bradley stood pat.

"What time'll she get there, Bill?" demanded Lefever.

"Twelve o'clock," hazarded Bradley, tersely. "Or," he added, "I'll stop when I pass the ranch 'n' tell 'em to send a rig down in the morning."

"That would take you out of your way," Kate objected.

"Not a great ways."

A man who would go to that trouble in the middle of the night for some one he had never seen before Kate deemed safe to trust. "No," she said, "I'll go with you, if I may."

The way in which she spoke, the sweetness and simplicity of her words, moved Sawdy and Lefever, the first a widower and the second a bachelor, and even stirred McAlpin, a married man. But they had no particular effect on Bradley. The blandishments of young womanhood were past his time of day.

With Lefever carrying the suitcase and nearly everybody talking at once, the party walked around to the rear of the baggage room door.

The stage had been backed up, a hostler in the driver's seat, and the mail and express were being loaded. Sawdy volunteered to save time by fetching Belle Shockley from the hotel, and while McAlpin and Lefever inspected and discussed the horses—for the condition of which McAlpin as foreman of Kitchen's barn was responsible—Kate stood, listener and onlooker. Everything was new and interesting. Four horses champed impatiently under the arc light swinging in the street, and looked quite fit. But the stage itself was a shock to her idea of a Western stage. Instead of the old fashioned swinging coach body, such as she had wondered at in circus spectacles, she saw a very substantial, shabby looking democratic wagon with a top and side curtains. The curtains were rolled up. But the oddest thing to Kate was that wherever a particle could lodge the whole stage was covered with a ghostly, grayish white dust. While the loading went on Sawdy arrived with the second passenger, Belle Shockley. She had, fortunately for Kate's apprehensions, not changed her mind.

Belle herself, who now appeared, was something of an added shock. She wore a long rubber coat, in which the rubber was not in the least disguised. Her hair was frizzed about her face, and a small, brimless hat perched high on her head. She was tall and angular, her features were large, and her eyes questioning. Had she had Bradley's beard she would have passed, with Kate, for the stage driver. She was formidable, but yet a woman; and she scrutinized the slender slip of a girl before her with feminine suspicion. Nor did she give Kate a chance to break the ice of acquaintance before starting.

Under Lefever's chaperonage and with his gallant help Kate took her seat where directed, just behind the driver, and her new companion presently got up beside her.

The mail bags disposed of, Bradley climbed into place, gathered his lines, the hostler let go the leads and, with everybody talking, the stage was off. The horses, restive after their long wait, dashed down the main street of the town, whirling Kate, all eyes and ears, past the glaring saloons and darkened stores to the extreme west end of Sleepy Cat. Then striking northward, the stage headed smartly for the divide.

The night was clear, with the stars burning in the sky. From the rigid silence of the driver and his two passengers, it might have been thought that no one of them ever spoke. To Kate, who as the eastern girl had never, it might be said, breathed pure air, the clear, high atmosphere of the mountain night was like sparkling wine. She felt neither tired nor sleepy. Her senses tingled with the strange stimulant.

To Belle there was no novelty in any of this, and the strain of silence was correspondingly greater. It was she who gave in first.

"You from Medicine Bend?" she asked, as the four horses walked up a long hill.

"Pittsburgh," answered Kate.

"Pittsburgh!" echoed Belle, startled. "Gee! some trip you've had."

"Where are you from?" asked Kate politely.

"O, I'm here. But I come from Iowa—Grinnell—where they had the cyclone," she said. Kate had never heard of the cyclone.

"They call this God's country," said Belle grimly. "I call Iowa God's country."

"What do you call the cyclones?" ventured Kate, laughing.

Belle confessed that a cyclone had given her her first start west. She had been blown two blocks in the big one and had her hair all pulled out of her head.

"They said I've have no chance to get married without any hair," she continued, "so I got a wig—never could find my own hair—and come west for a chance. And they're here; if you're looking for a husband you've come to the right place."

"I haven't the least idea of getting married," protested Kate.

"They'll be after you," declared Belle sententiously.

"Are you married?" Kate ventured again.

"Not yet. But they're coming. I'm in no hurry."

She talked freely about her own affairs. She had worked for Doubleday, for whose ranch Kate was bound. Doubleday had had a chain of eating houses on the line, as Belle termed the transcontinental railroad. They had all been taken over but the one where she worked—at Sleepy Cat Junction—and this would be taken soon, Belle thought.

"That's the trouble with Barb Doubleday," she went on. "He's got too many irons in the fire—head over heels in debt. There's no money nowadays in cattle, anyway. What are you going up to Doubleday's for?"

"He's my father."

"Your father? Well! I never open my mouth without I put my foot in it, anyway."

"I've never seen him," continued Kate.

Belle was all interest. She confided to Kate that she was now on her way, for a visit, to the Reservation where her cousin was teaching in an Indian school and divided her time for the next hour between getting all she could of Kate's story and telling all of her own.

They had travelled a long time, it seemed to her, and having climbed all the hills in the country were going down a moderate grade with the kind wheels sputtering unamiably at the brakes, when Belle broke a long silence. "Where are we, Bill?" she demanded, irreverently.

"The Crazy Woman," he answered briefly. Kate did not understand, but by this time she had learned in such circumstances to hold her tongue.

"He means the creek," Belle volunteered. "It's way down there ahead of us."

Strain her eyes as she would, Kate could see only the blackness of the darkness ahead.

"'N b' Jing!" muttered Bradley, as Kate peered into nothingness, "she's whinin' t'night f'r fair."

Again for an instant Kate did not comprehend. Then the leads were swung sharply by Bradley to the left. The stage rounded what Kate afterward frequently recognized as an overhanging shoulder of rock on the road down to the creek, and a vague, dull roar swept up from below. Bradley halted the horses, climbed down, and, taking the lantern, went forward on foot to investigate.

"Must have been a cloudburst in the mountains," remarked Belle, listening, and Kate was to learn that a cloudless sky gives no assurance whatever for the passage of a mountain stream.

The lantern disappeared, to come into sight again farther down the trail, and while both women talked the faint light swung at intervals in and out of their vision as Bradley reconnoitered. Kate was a little worried, but her companion sat quite unmoved, even when Bradley returned and reported the creek "roarin'."

"That bein' the case," he muttered, "I'm thinkin' the Double-draw bridge has took up its timbers and walked likewise."

The Double-draw bridge! How well Kate was to know that name; but that night, it seemed, like everything else, only queer.

"Bradley," protested Belle, now very much disturbed, "that can't be."

"We'll see," retorted Bradley, gathering his reins and releasing his brake as he spoke to the horses. "I don't guess myself there's much left o' that bridge." Only the expletive he placed before the last word revealed his own genuine annoyance and Kate prudently asked no further questions. Some instinct convinced her she was already a nuisance on the silent Bradley's hands. The ford—off the main road—was where he had purposed setting Kate over, as he expressed it, to the ranch. Double-draw bridge—on the road to the fort and Reservation—was two miles above.

The horses climbed the long hill again—twice as long going up as coming down—and they started again on the road for the bridge.

"If the bridge is out," said Belle resignedly, "I reckon we're trapped."

For the first time now they could hear the hoofs of the horses sinking into and pulling out of mud. It got progressively deeper as they descended the long grade toward the bridge. The pulling was harder; clouds obscured the light of the stars.

With the horses stumbling on, the women watched for something to meet either sight or hearing, but there was nothing until they again neared the creek Then the same vague roar rose on the night, and as they rimmed the bench above the creek a faint, ghastly light on the eastern horizon betokened a rising moon. Down the trail they stopped in darkness and Bradley again clambered down from his box with the lantern to investigate.

"'Z' fur 'z I c'n see," he reported when he came back, "th' bridge is all right, but mos'ly under water."

"Can we get across?" Belle Shockley asked querulously.

Bradley answered hesitatingly: "Why—yes——"

"O, good!"

"And no."

"What does that mean?" snapped Belle.

"We can't get across tonight—we might in the mo'nin'."

Kate kept silence, but Belle was persistent. "What are we going to do?" she demanded. "Go 'way back to Sleepy Cat?"

"Not in a milyun years," returned Bradley, calmly. "We're going to pull out t' one side 'n' camp right hire till daylight. Ef I didn't have you wmmin on my hands I might take a chanst with the mail," he went on, drawing his hor carefully around to where he meant to camp. "Me and the horses could make it, even if we lost the wagon. But I w'dn't like the job of huntin' for you folks in the Crazy Woman with a lantern—not tonight. She's surely a-rip-roarin'. Well, t'hell with her 'n' all the creeks like her, sav I," he wound up, chirruping kindly to his uncomplaining beasts.

"You don't like creeks," suggested Belle.

"Dry creeks—yes. I wouldn't care if I never seen another drop of water from now till kingdom come—whoa, Nellie!" he called to the off lead mare who was feeling the way for her companions back to a safe spot for a halt. "This is good, right here."

Belle showed her fellow traveler how to lie down with some comfort on the leather seat. The side curtains were let down and with a mail sack supplied by Bradley for a pillow, Kate, drawing her big coat around her, curled up to rest.

How long she slept this time Kate did not know, but she was awakened by men talking.

The night had grown very cold and death itself could not have been more silent. Yet at slow intervals Kate heard the low converse of two voices. They were not far away and both were men's.

One was Bradley's—of that she felt sure; the other deeper, more full, and with a curiously even carrying quality through the silent night, she knew she had never heard before; but the darkness, the solitude, the shock of strange surroundings, if nothing else, made it terrifying to her. Kate had never been reckoned a timid girl, but she listened dumb with fear. Bradley did most of the talking. He was recounting, with occasional profanity, the mishaps of his trip, beginning with the late train.

"Any passengers?" Kate heard the stranger ask.

"Two women—c'n y' beat it? One of 'em a girl for Doubleday's, at that."

"What can a girl be going to Doubleday's for?"

"D'no. Came off the train tonight."

"The Double-draw is out."

"Jing!" exclaimed Bradley, "it was there an hour ago."

"The ford is your only chance to get her over."

"Can I make it?"

"You've got good horses; you ought t to make it by daylight."

"Hear they got a new foreman over at Doubleday's," Bradley said.

There was no comment, unless the silence could be so construed.

"Tom Stone," added Bradley, as if bound to finish.

There was an instant and angry exclamation: "That——"

Kate heard a deadly western epithet. One new to her ears; but none the less ferocious because of the restrained feeling in its sudden utterance.

"Doubleday sets a good deal by what Van Horn says; I reckon he put him there," suggested Bradley.

There was a further silence. Then she heard the stranger dryly say, "I expect he did." It seemed as if behind everything he did say there was so much left unsaid.

"I never got rightly, Jim," Bradley went on, "how you 'n' Van Horn's related."

"I hope you never will," returned the man saluted as "Jim," in the same low, cold tone. "We're not related. He was my partner—once."

"Stone will change things at the ranch."

"He can't hurt them much."

"I guess they're full bad," said Bradley, and then, lowering his voice: "The gal's asleep there in the stage. How'd the land contest they made on y' at Medicine Bend come off?"

"The cattlemen own that land office. I'll beat the bunch at Washington."

"Doubleday wanted me to go down to swear. I wouldn't do it—wasn't even at the trial—"

"No honest man was, from Doubleday's."

"Was it Stone cut your wire, Jim?"

"You know as much about it as I do."

"Got it up again?"

"All I could find."

"Meaner 'n' hell over there, ain't they?"

There was no comment.

"How long you goin't to stand it, Jim?" persisted Bradley. And after the odd pause, the slow answer: "Till I get tired."

"That'll be about the time they tip it off again."

"About that time, Bill."

"Well," hazarded the old driver, meditatinvely, "the boys are waitin'. They say you're slow to start anything, Jim; but they look f'r hell t' pay when y' do."

To the stranger—it seemed to Kate—words must be worth their weight in gold, he parted with them so sparingly.

"What's this talk 'bout Farrell Kennedy makin' y' a depity marshal, Jim?"

"Mostly talk, Bill. Good-night."

"Farrell offered it to ye, didn't he?"

"So Lefever says."

"Where y' headin' f'r now?" persisted Bradley, as Kate heard the shuffle of a horse's feet.

"Home."

"Thev ain't burned your house?" Bradley asked with a half chuckle.

Kate just heard the man's reply. "Not yet."

The hoof beats drew away. Kate cautiously pushed back her curtain.

The late moon was shining in an old and ghostly light. Distant heights rose like black walls against the sky. At intervals a peak broke sharply above the battlements, or a rift in a closer sierra parted to show the stars.

Kate could hear, but could not for some time see the galloping horseman. Then of a sudden he reached the brow of a low hill and rode swiftly out into the spectral light. There he halted. Horse and rider stood for a moment silhouetted against the sky. The horse chafed at his bit. He stretched his head restively into the north, his rider sitting motionless, a somber flat hat crowning his spare figure. For barely a moment the man sat thus immovable. Then he turned slightly in the saddle and the horse struck off into the night.

Drowsiness had deserted the tired girl who watched him. While her companions slept she sat in the solitude waiting for day. Bradley, as good as an alarm clock, was stirring with the first streak and feeding his horses. He told his passengers that the bridges were all out and he was going back to the ford. Belle, incredulous when first told by Kate of a visitor in the night, had no scruples in asking questions:

"Who was here last night, Bill?"

"Wha' d' y' mean?" he countered, gathering up his lines.

"What man was it you were talking to?" she demanded.

"I guess if I was talkin' to any man," he grumbled, "I was talkin' in my sleep. You must 'a' been dreamin'."

"O, come now, 'fess up, Bill." Belle nodded toward Kate. "She was awake.'

Bradley started the horses, shifted on the box, and looked not too well pleased. "I wasn't talkin' to nobody last night—"

"Bill, what a whopper!"

"If you mean this mornin'—" he went on doggedly.

"Well, who was here?"

"Jim Laramie."

"Jim Laramie!" echoed Belle, catching her breath and poking Kate with her elbow. "Wonder he didn't hold us up."

Bradley scowled, but said nothing.

"Bradley doesn't like that," murmured Belle to Kate, as soon as the creaking of the wheels gave her a chance to speak without his hearing her. "He's a friend of Jim's."

"Who is 'Jim'?" Kate demanded of her companion in an undertone.

"Jim Laramie? He lives in the Falling Wall. I reckon this whole country is divided now into two camps and every man in one camp is for Jim Laramie and every man in the other is against him."

Belle looked toward Bradley, who was attending strictly to his horses, before she added: "You'll hear enough of him before you've been here long."

When they got back to the ford it was daylight and the Crazy Woman was hurrying on as peacefully as if a frown had never ruffled its repose. Gnarled trees springing out of gashes along its tortuous channel showed in the debris lodged against their flood-bared roots and mud-swept branches, the fury of the night, and the creek banks, scoured by many floods, revealed new and savage gaps in the morning sun; but Bradley negotiated his crossing with the stage almost as uneventfully as if a cloudburst had never ruffled the mountains.

Kate was eager to meet her father, eager to see what might be her new home. The moment the horses got up out of the bottom Bradley pointed with his whip to the ranch house. Kate saw ahead of her a long, one story log house crowning with its group of outbuildings, a level bench that stretched toward the foothills. The landscape was bare of trees and to Kate, brown and barren looking, save for a patch of green near the creek where an alfalfa field lay vividly pretty in the sun. The ranch house, built of substantial logs, was ample in its proportions and not uninviting, even to her eastern eyes.

Bradley with a flourish, swept past the stable, around the corral, and drew up before the door with a clatter. In front of the bunk house on the right a cowboy, rolling a cigaret, was watching the arrival, and just as Bradley plumped Kate to the ground her father, Barb Doubleday, himself, opened the ranch house door.

Kate had never seen her father. And until Bradley spoke she had not the slightest idea that this could be he. She saw only a rough looking man of great stature, slightly stooped, and with large features burnt to a deep reddish brown.

"Hello, Barb," said Bradley, without much enthusiasm.

His salutation met with as little: "What's up?" demanded Doubleday. Kate noticed the huskiness in the strong, cold tone.

"Brought y' a passenger."

From the talk of the night she recognized her father's nickname. It was a little shock to realize that this must, indeed, be he. And the unmoved expression of his face as he surveyed her without a smile or greeting was not reassuring.

But she hastened forward: "Father?" There was a pretty note of girlish appeal in her greeting: "I'm Kate—your daughter. You don't remember me, of course," she added with an effort to extort a welcome. "You got my letter, did you?"

He looked at her uncertainly for a moment and nodded slowly. "Was it all right," she asked, now almost panic-stricken, "to come to see you?"

Confused or preoccupied, he stumbled out some words of welcome, spoke to Belle on the stage, took Kates suitcase out of Bradley's hand, and took Kate into the house. In the large room she entered stood a table and a big fireplace opened at the back. On the left two bedrooms opened off it and on the right the kitchen.

The chill of the strange greeting embarrassed Kate the more because she felt Belle could hardly fail to notice it, and her own resentment of it did not easily wear off. But hoping for better things, she freshened up a little in her father's bedroom, and by that time a man cook was bringing breakfast into the big room, which served as living room and dining room. Bradley, Belle, Kate, and her father sat down—the men had already breakfasted.

Kate, her head in a whirl with novelty and excitement, was overcome with interest in everything, but especially in her father. Sitting at the head of the table—at one end of which fresh places had been set—he maintained her first impression of his stature. His spreading form was covered with loose corduroy clothes—which could hardly be said to fit—and his whole appearance conveyed the impression of unusual physical strength. It had been said of Barb Doubleday, as a railroad builder, that he could handle an iron rail alone. He had a powerful jaw and large mouth—with artificial teeth of proportionate size. His long nose, once smashed in a railroad fight, was not seriously scarred, and, originally well shaped, it was still the best feature of a terrifically weatherbeaten face that had evidently seen milder days. The good looks were gone, but not the strength. His mouth was almost shapeless, but unmistakably hard, and his grayish-blue eyes were cold—very cold. Try as she would, Kate could discern little love or sympathy in them. This was the man who, almost twenty years earlier, has deserted her mother and wee Kate, the baby, and disappeared from eastern view—until by accident the fact that he was alive and in the far west had become known to his wife and daughter. Kate thought she understood something of the tragedy in her mother's life when the first sight of her father's eyes struck a chill into her own heart.

But he was her father—and her mother had tried in spite of all to hide or condone his faults: and more than once before she died had made Kate promise to hunt him up and go to him. What the timid girl dreaded most was finding another woman installed in his household—in which case she meant to make her stay in the west very short. But every hour lessened this fear, and as her ather gradually thawed Kate took courage.

HARWOOD'S PALMY LUMBERING DAYS

(By F. H. Dobbin.)

Scattered over the eastern part of the province of Ontario, and to the height of land that gives towards the Ottawa, are found places and locations that were once upon a time thriving centres of life and activity. Such owed their inception and most of their progress to the availability of the limits from which to cull and cut the lumber that made up the export from the vicinity. The forests being gradually denuded, the mills were closed down and often dismantled and the population dwindled away, leaving only a few who could not go less they abandoned all they had on earth. Few businesses are so impermanent as a lumber mill, for from the very nature of its trade it consumes itself. Presently starvation and strangulation ensue. There is much of interest about the past of these struggling hamlets and the evidences of better days. The village of Harwood, on Rice Lake, is a case in point.

Harwood has a past. At one time its inhabitants spoke in a hopeful tense of the future. There was even a real estate boom, and promise of inflated values, for the activity warranted it. Today the village is spoken of in the past tense and those of the present generation living within its borders ponder on what might have been, had the supply of logs and timber held out. If one has read Goldsmith's "Deserted Village" appreciation may be felt about the scramble of houses hoisted up on the shore of Rice Lake on the border of the county of Northumberland.

In its palmy days, Harwood depended [illegible] lumber industry and the fifteen [illegible] Cobourg and Peterborough [illegible] access from the lake [illegible] When a combina- [illegible] switched away [illegible] of the thriving [illegible] Then followed [illegible] Many of the [illegible] were burned. On the rising land behind the [illegible] was a double row of boarding [illegible] built to house the employees, and a n[illegible] ber of scattered buildings occupied [illegible] men who had with them their families. Scarcely a trace can be found of the buildings. Nature dearly loves to heal a scar.

West of the hotel, and towards Gore's Landing, stands another scrawl of low-lying masonry, all that is left of the fine mill owned and operated by McDougall & Ludgate, names long associated with the early and later lumber history of the counties. Big drives of logs were floated down the Otonabee River, gathered from the lands adjacent to the lakes and streams tributary, and north of Peterborough. The south end of the somewhat emasculated Cobourg and Peterborough railway carried the lumber to the shore of Lake Ontario for shipment by schooner and barge to the other side of the lake.

Busy Boats Carrying Lumber Cargoes.

The village in its best days was the headquarters of a fleet of steamers that proclaimed its prosperity. Of these boats were the "Otonabee" and "Forest City," each as large as any that now plough the waters of the Trent Canal system. Another boat was the "Isaac Butts," named after a vigorous promoter, and the "Golden Eye," built by Harry Calcutt, of Peterborough. He had a penchant for naming his boats after Canadian wild fowl, and others of his fleet were the "Whistlewing" and "Sandpiper." These craft are remembered by many of the older residents of the city and the river shores. The boat routes extended in those days from Peterborough to Healy's Falls. For a number of years, after the breaking down of the Rice Lake bridge of the railway, lumber cut at Peterborough was transported on scows to Harwood and on by rail to Cobourg. The whole activity gave employment to hundreds of men in season.

When their usefulness was over several of the vessels were beached in the bay east of the old mill, and now one moving along the shore way, at low water, see the ribs of the craft sticking up from the bottom, veritable skeletons exposed. Parts of the boats, above water, were appropriated by the natives, and many a barn had its siding repaired from the flotsam and jetsam of the old river craft. Other small craft, owned by thrifty souls did a traffic and passenger business around the lake.

Apart from the general freight and passenger traffic a large quantity of iron ore was carried by boat and scow from a point on the Trent River to Harwood, [illegible] by rail to Cobourg, to be taken [illegible] the lake to the big smelter at [illegible]tte, N.Y. The ore, mined from [illegible]p pits at Blairton and Marmora, [illegible]xcellent quality and especially so [illegible]ed with the softer ores brought [illegible]burg smelters, making an iron [illegible] had values for the manu- [illegible]h metals. Fuel was not [illegible]the mines, except at ex- [illegible] the ore was shipped in [illegible] selection.

[illegible] on Wooden Piles.

[illegible] from the south shore can [illegible]e remains of what was one of [illegible] most pretentious and daring features of railroad building of its day, the bridging of Rice Lake. The distance to be bridged was about two miles. Out in the lake was one of the numerous islands and conveniently placed. A filled-in section was constructed, the material being delved from the hills on the south shore, the whole forming a substantial road bed. For the rest of the distance the crossing was built up piles. These were affected, indeed maltreated by the forces of a Canadian winter. Ice forming about the piles, lifted by the spring flood, raised the bridge and distorted it cruelly. In the end it had to be abandoned. The old road bed, viewed from a distance, appears like a mammoth hedge set out in the lake, being overgrown with trees and shrubbery.

One could hardly realize that once a station and freight sheds and a commodious dock existed. The station was sold to the Orange Lodge at Roseneath, moved there and put to use, and is still the meeting place of the fraternity. A man named Drope owned nearly all the land around Harwood, and had the first hotel and store. As business grew, a large general store was built and carried on by William and Robert Harstone. But when the beginning of the end was in sight, the Drope hotel caught fire, the general store building, followed, and one does not look long to find the remains of the foundations of these structures.

Sawmill Frames Went Into Barns.

It is fifty-seven years since the last train crossed the lake; twenty-five since the last train ran to Cobourg; twenty-on one years since the disappearance of the visible belongings of the sawmill industry. The Campbell mill was sold to a man named Elliott, of Peterborough, and taken away. It is said that the frame of the mill went into the large barns, conspicuous at what is known as "Halls," just above the first bridge out of Peterborough, (crossing of the Otonabee River). The boilers went to Toronto, and the machinery to Lakefield, to be used in a mill built by the Dickson Company.

The Ludgate & Macdougall mill, west side of Harwood, was sold to the Rathbun Company of Deseronto, and the plant moved to that place.

It may be inferred, as was the case, that in the palmy days Harwood had quite a population. There were section men and train men and officials of the railway, all the men employed in the lumber mills, and on and about the fleet of river and lake boats, and also a considerable transient population.

There stood in and about the village, Methodist, Anglican and Roman Catholic churches, built in the order named. There was the Presbyterian church at Bethesda, not far from Harwood, so the spiritual wants and needs of the villagers were well and faithfully served. But the old order changeth. Harwood's bloom was nipped when in flower by the inexorable march of events and the exigencies of an industry, that had to get much closer to the base of supply and to develop its own means of communication in the future. It is quite probable that nearly a million dollars were expended in the village and neighborhood. But now all is as Nineveh and Tyre. Canadian Lumberman.

THE MOTOR BRINGS FARMERS TOGETHER

"At a Woman's Institute meeting which I recently attended in my old home in Elgin county, there were about 200 in attendance. Probably 25 of these walked from nearby points, but all the rest, with the exception of those who came in one solitary horse-drawn vehicle, were carried there in cars.' This staement by Superintendent Putnam shows to what extent the car has supplanted the horse as a means of local travel by farmers.

"But," as Mr. Putnam added, "the car has done something more. It has made rural isolation a thing of [illegible] past. When I was a lad my acquain[illegible]ance and 'neighboring' was limite[illegible] to an area of about five miles each [illegible] way. To-day lads of the age I was [illegible] then have acquaintances extending over a whole county."

Bootleggers and Whiskey Smugglers are Disgracing Canada

On April 18 Abolish Importation by voting YES

Since January 1, 1920, thousands and thousands of gallons of whiskey, gin, brandy and high wines have been shipped into Ontario.

Express shipments alone for a long period averaged four to six cars per day, and have run as high as eight!

Four car loads a day means at least 19,200 quarts daily, or over 5,000,000 quarts per year.

And yet the people of Ontario voted to make prohibition the permanent law!

This imported "Booze" is the stuff which enables the "Bootlegger" to carry on his illegal trade, and allows "Rum Runners" and "Whiskey Smugglers" to disgrace Canada.

Officers of the law are set at defiance.

Importation Makes Law Enforcement Difficult

"After an experience in the administration of the Ontario Temperance Act covering the period from its first coming into force in September, 1916, I am in a position to state that importation is seriously hampering its effectiveness.

Since 1915, until the beginning of 1920, drunkenness had greatly decreased, there being 6,235 commitments to jail for that offence in 1915 and only 3,415 in 1919. In many places there were none.

Since the War Measures Act was repealed in January, 1920, and the Dominion Orders-in-Council under the Act were rescinded, the restriction upon importation of intoxicating liquor into prohibition provinces, imposed by the Dominion Government, has been lifted. The effect of this action has been marked.

Heavy shipments of liquor into the province began at once, running very much in excess of shipments prior to January 1st, when the Federal Order-in-Council lapsed. The number of cases of breach of the Ontario Temperance Act have increased in even greater proportion."—Statement by the Chairman of Board of License Commissioners for Ontario.

Have You A "Twenty Pay Life Policy?"

A true story of a Canada Life Policy issued over forty years ago.

At age 30 he secured his $5,000 Twenty Pay Life Policy.

At age 35 he received his first Dividend, which was added to the Policy.

At age 50 he received notice that his Policy, with 20 years' Dividends, was fully paid for.

At age 60 his Policy, still earning Dividends, helped him to finance the purchase of a new home.

At age 70 he withdrew the Cash Value for his own personal use. He received a Canada Life cheque for $6140 in return for his $2850 paid in premiums. For many years his home had been protected by insurance of $5,000 and Dividends.

A Policy on your life may do much that you intend to do—if you live. It may pay off the mortgage, supply food and clothing for your family, keep the children at school and prevent a forced sale of your other property.

It may be all that is left of your life work —to keep you in comfort in your old age.

But—your Policy must be large enough.

The Twenty Payment Life

Our new up-to-date policy provides—

1. That premiums will cease in 20 years.
2. That dividends will be paid during the 20 years, and afterwards.
3. That if you should be totally and permanently disabled before age 60, all premiums will be cancelled, and a monthly income paid to you.
4. That such monthly payments will not be deducted from the policy at your death.
5. That after 3 years you may take a Cash Value, or receive a paid-for policy or pledge the policy as security for a loan.
6. That the policy cannot lapse while a cash value exists; that the policy is indisputable after one year; that you may reside or travel in any part of the world or engage in any occupation without affecting your insurance.

(There are many other valuable privileges.)

An Immediate Estate

The great advantage over any other form of investment is that a small percentage paid yearly creates immediately an estate of $5,000, $10,000 or more.

These active, progressive years of life in which you are earning the most money are the years in which premiums can be more easily met.

Twenty years is a convenient period and premiums spread over that length of time are moderate and easy to handle.

Do not delay this important matter. Ask for particulars today.

ENGLEHART LEFT $2,000,000.

LONDON, Ont., April 15 (Canadian Press).—The estate of the late J. L. Englehart, former chairman of the T. and N. O. Railway, it is said, will exceed two million dollars, largely real estate and shares of the Imperial Oil Company.

Government control of the liquor traffic can best be secured by preventing the importation of intoxicating liquors into the province.

Peterboro Women Ever Ready To Help in Welfare Efforts

A visit to any of the works undertaken by different societies, whether philanthropic, educational, or strictly frivolous, impresses one with the abiding presence of women. Women are the "gods in the machine" everywhere. Even at a stag party, although a woman may not be present, her beneficent influence is felt when 'the eats," as the boys call them, come on, and don't they ha.. refreshments at Masonic initiations? And doesn't a woman or several women prepare them? At a dance, at lectures for the betterment of the minds and the uplifting of the morals of the rising generations, at bazaars, where women forsake their domestic duties and sit all day long behind a tiresome counter, or stew in a small space, cooking food for hungry dinner-seekers, or lurk behind the closed curtains of stuffy fish-ponds—and what man would do any of these things for any length of time?—at entertainments and amateur shows, where the most irritating things occur in connection with temperamental people, anywhere, everywhere, wherever people gather together to further some charitable cause, who is the power behind the throne? Who does most of the decorating and the managing and the detail work? The women, always. Take the Motor Show, for instance. They plan and work for weeks ahead. They give up time and money and attention. They collect numberless small articles for the greedy fish-pond which requires multitudinous objects for a successful career, they work up enthusiasm and spend hours telling and telephoning people about it, they decorate and bring things from their own homes which sometimes never return to them, they cook and sew and get up fashion parades and musical programmes, wait on tables, coax people to donate things for the different booths, go around and borrow whatever is needed, anything and everything to make the thing a success, with no possible thought of financial or any other sort of return for their time and trouble. And then, some men say we shouldn't have a vote.

Madam Olga Petrova has signed a long term contract with the Selwyns, and in September will appear in a new play by a new author.

'Marion Harland' (Mrs. Terhune), who has been writing books all her busy, helpful life, still wields the author's pen at ninety.

Spring Festival in Peterboro

A brief esplanation might be in order just now with regard to the Spring Festival to be held under the auspices of the Teachers' Guild in the Grand Opera House on April 29th.

The study of art, which is a regular and very interesting part of the curriculum of the public schools of the city, is rounded off annually by an exhibition of the year's work by the pupils, and some enquiries were made in recent years as to the reasons for not making some public exhibition of the equally interesting study of music, which is so popular a part of the educational programme. After thoughtful consideration by the Women Teachers' Guild, it was decided to hold an annual school concert, for which the spring of the year seemed to be the logical time, as the school music was then at its best after a year's study, so the first Spring Festival was given three years ago in the Collegiate Assembly Hall, where last year's production also took place. Seating accomodations proving entirely inadequate on both of these occasions, it was decided to secure the Grand Opera House for this year's concert, and Friday evening, April 29th, is the date set for this rather unique offering. The study of music has become so popular in the schools and the children take such a great interest in it, that they are enabled to put on a really surprising programme on these occasions, including one, two, three and four-part choruses, drills and dances by the little tots, exhibitions by Normal School pupils, and a number of solos of various kinds to give an interesting variety.

Axioms We Should Remember

1. Under any economic or industrial system, men and women must inevitably continue to work for wages.

2. Some workers must always be paid more wages than other workers, either owing to special ability or the class of work performed.

3. No worker can continuously be paid wages that he does not earn.

4. The values of the work must be controlled by the saleable value of the articles produced.

5. The cost of living is governed by the cost of production in regard to primary products and secondary manufactures.

6. The community cannot expect cheap bread, meat and other foods at the expense of the farmer and grazier.

7. Shorter hours of work must increase the cost of all articles, including food and clothing.

8. The maximum output in the hours worked, will result in cheapening the articles produced, as the cost of production inevitably governs the selling price.

9. Men and women in a free country cannot be prevented from saving money and acquiring property.

10. In order to promote industrial development and provide work, the nation must continue to depend upon its intellectual citizens.

11. The community or nation that develops most brain power, and inventive genius, will be the most prosperous, and brain must inevitably command more reward than mere manual labor.

12. Capitalism (or the accumulation of wealth) can never be abolished, for some men will always earn, "and save" more money than other men.

13. Without hope of profit there would be less industrial development, less employment, lower wages and higher cost of living.

14. Private enterprise involves not only the control of established businesses, but also the risking of capital and personal effort in the promotion and establishment of new industrial enterprises.

15. The only possible way for workers tosecure a substantial increase in wages without a corresponding increase in cost of living is by increasing output.

Canadian Club

The Women's Canadian Club, which has been giving such an interesting series of lectures throughout the winter, decided at a meeting held this week to secure Miss Violet Trench, the eminent English writer and educator, for a number of meetings to be held here on May 18th, 19th and 20th. This will be a distinct privilege for Peterborough as Miss Trench is a well-known English lecturer on moral and physical education for the young. She has been in Winnipeg, Vancouver and Montreal, and has been speaking in Toronto for a number of weeks. Meetings for mothers will be held in the afternoon and the evening will be devoted to the younger women.

Modern Woman

A feminine speaker in Toronto recently made the assertion that the woman of the future would be the business woman and that the society woman was a thing of the past. There is very little said in modern times about the home woman. The dame of olden times whose horizon was forever bounded by home, husband and children, who passed her days in the peaceful pursuit of recipes for preserves and rag rugs, and whose main dissipation was the weekly sewing circle, this species is rapidly becoming extinct. There are women's clubs for every object under the sun just now, and the woman who doesn't belong to some scciety for the advancement of the human race is a back number. However, this is as it should be, and the women who are interested in outside activities seem to make the best type of feminine citizens. Having a moderate amount of interest in the election of a political candidate or in the furtherance of schemes for the betterment of the human race isn't going to make any woman a poorer mother or housewife. Quite the contrary. And, anyway, what about men's clubs? How many women have spent evening after evening companioned by the mending basket or Johnny's arithmetic in the years gone by while the master of the house passed a chummy hour with a dozen cronies in a friendly little game?

Veiled Ankle

The veiled ankle is a new idea from London, with a great deal of the suggestion of the old-time pantalette. From Paris comes the striped heel to match milady's gown, and from New York a dainty innovation in perfume. A little French ivory case contains a number of tiny crushable glass vials, holding the correct amount of perfume for the occasion. Wedding rings hand-carved in tiny bells and orange blossoms are another fresh conceit, and whole pearl bracelets with rhinestones and jet are very beautiful.

Satin breakfast coats in all sorts of bright colours are new, and the latest Oxford for women is developed in soft brown suede with leather trimming to match.

Flood Lights

Excellent reflectors for flood lights with a soft, non-glaring radiance are declared to be common, ordinary tin dish-pans.

A device has been invented and placed on the market of a completely motorized manicure set, consisting of a small electric motor, flexible shaft, and the various cutters, files, probes and buffers. These last are in the form of circular bits, which fit into a chuck on the end of the shaft and do their work with a high speed rotary motion.

Toll of the Sea

John Millington Synge's one-act play, "The Shadow of the Glen," contains the following speech of Maurya, the old Irish mother whose last son is brought in drowned to her: "They're all gone now, and there isn't anything more the sea can do to me. I'll have no call now to be up crying and praying when the wind breaks from the south, and you can hear the surf is in the west, making a great stir with the two noises, and them breaking one on the other. I'll have no call now to be going down and getting holy water in the dark nights, after Samhain, and I won't care what way the sea is when the other women will be keening. It isn't that I haven't prayed for you, Bartley, to the Almighty God. It isn't that I haven't said prayers in the dark night 'till you wouldn't know what I'd be saying, but it's a great rest I'll have now, and it's time surely. It's a great rest I'll have now and great sleeping in the long nights after Samhain, if it's only a bit of wet flour we have to eat, and maybe a fish that would be stinking." The critic says: "There is nothing more poignant in the whole realm of our drama than Maurya's last word of resignation. 'No man at all can be living forever, and we must be satisfied.'"

A Girl's Room

According to The London Daily Mail, a bed sitting-room, where a girl can study quietly or invite her friends in to tea occasionally, is the ideal arrangement. A camp bed with a cretonne cover is recommended in place of a bed, an enclosed wash-hand stand such as used in offices, a towel-rail affixed to the back of a small bookcase so as to completely conceal the towels, a long mirror and small bamboo table to take the place of the "bedroomy" dressing-chest are other accessories, and a fixture cupboard for use as a wardrobe. Cretonne is used for coverings and valances, while a small tea-table with a wicker chair and extra deck-chair complete the furnishings.

On Dietetics

Miss Lucy Gates, the famour American coloratura soprano, who recently paid a visit to Massey Hall in Toronto, is an authority on dietetics. She has made a special study of this subject, and, while not repeating the old say of, "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach," recommends to the prospective bride the study of proper food values, and the planning of a man's meals "so that he will derive the greatest benefit from them without knowing it. He may feel extra well, but he'll never dream that you are responsible. Then, when he leaves you for a holiday and eats just 'any old thing" that he likes, he'll wonder what the trouble is. Soon he'll realize that his greatest trouble is that he misses you and that he can't get home fast enough."

During Miss Gates' travels around the world, she has made a study of foods eaten by different nations, with their combinations and manner of consuming them. She approves of the methods followed by the Chinese, Japanese and Hawaiians of eating only one or two kinds of food at a meal, with little dessert, and regards their freedom from rheumatism and diabetes as due to this habit.

"Never combine fruits with starches," she advises. "If you want to eat fruits, make a meal of them, preferably on an empty stomach, and then let them digest alone. If you eat bread and pastries, meat and eggs with them it is disastrous. For naturally the fruits digest more quickly than the other foods which are inclined to retard their progress. Milk is good to take with fruits, for it digests quickly and easily, and forms a good combination."

As opposed to this young lady's opinion, there is the pronouncement against the combination of strawberries, oranges and pineapple with cream or milk, which is considered a stomach-destroying habit by many authorities.

The Limit.

I know a man who makes me curse,

The Pearls that Turned to Tears

First John H. Spreckles, Jr., Paid $80,000 for Them, His Wife Wore Them and Alice Drexel's Husband Undertook to Have Them Insured.

And Now Distressing Complications Involving Deception, Divorce and Death Have Followed the Precious Gems Disappearance.

Mrs. Alice Barrett's Burden of Sorrow Now Has Been Increased by the Death of Her Only Son.

Mrs. Alice Drexel Barrett Whose Elopement with the Army Aviator Led, Indirectly, to the Loss of Mrs. Spreckles's Pearls.

By Helen Hoffman

THE opal is generally regarded as the "bad luck" stone. Diamonds have often figured in strange happenings attributed to their "evil" influence. It is seldom that pearls are spoken of as stones causing adversity. Yet the necklace of these precious gems that John D. Spreckles, Jr., son of the California sugar king, gave to his wife, the former Miss Syida Wirt of Kansas, according to the many friends of the couple, figures weirdly in an extraordinary series of misfortunes that involve her, her husband and Capt. William Barrett, American aviator, and his wife, who was Alice Drexel, daughter of John R. Drexel of Philadelphia, New York and Newport. Divorce, disgrace, even death have taken toll of those who came within the sphere of the influence of the beautiful necklace of pearls. Harmless enough seems the picture of the necklace published on this page. Yet, metaphorically speaking, Mrs. Spreckles's pearls turned to tears just as if they wanted to reassume their mythological form which, legend tells us, were maiden's tears shed over disappointed love.

The principals are beginning to give ear to those scientists who assert that there is a physical explanation of the hoodoo which sometimes pursues the owner of certain precious jewels. The scientific explanation has to do with vibrations. Those who delve deeply into such subjects assert that life itself is nothing but vibration and that the vibration of jewels, particularly pearls, have an effect on the vibrating life of the individual wearing them.

It is almost a conceded fact that pearls are living organisms, consisting of a colony of microscopic beings. They are formed by the oyster when it seeks to wash out a bit of foreign substance which has become imbedded under the bivalve's interior "skin." In the soft body of the oyster the pearl thrives and grows as the oyster makes vain attempts to dislodge the tiny interloper in its "midst." Taken from its oyster body the pearl, which seems to have parasitical proclivities, lives only as long as it is worn against human flesh. Kept locked in jewel cases or buried in tombs the pearl dies, which, incidentally, may explain what happened to the pearls of the Queen of Sheba and those in King Solomon's mines. It is because of this known fact that there is one woman in the country whose sole task in life—for which she is well paid—is to wear about her neck at regular intervals priceless strings of pearls that would otherwise die from non-use. When the word "die" is used it means, principally, the fading out of the lustre which is said to be caused by the life in the pearl.

Pearls of Happiness, Then—

The necklace which figures in this extraordinary case of Mrs. Spreckles's lost gems cost $80,000. It was a gift of which even the daughter-in-law of one of America's wealthiest men was justly proud. It contained pearls that for lustre surely were never surpassed, shapely, irideacent gems which enhanced well the striking beauty of their owner. The lovely women of Mrs. Spreckles's acquaintanceship envied them. Special articles were published concerning their value and beauty.

Good luck and happiness seemed to be the portion of Mrs. Spreckles as long as she possessed the pearls. It was not until she lost them that they turned to tears for her and others. It was some months after she had worn them that the untoward happened. She went to Norway with her husband, but, having business in England, soon left him at Christiania and journeyed to London, where, at the time, was Capt. William Barrett.

While dining in a restaurant one day the two met. Mrs. Spreckles was not well acquainted with Capt. Barrett personally, but she knew him to be the husband of her friend, the former Alice Drexel, and, Americans both and in a strange city, the meeting was all the more agreeable. They made an appointment. When they met again she was wearing the pearl necklace and other jewelry, valued altogether at $125,000. It was not many minutes before the conversation turned on the beauty of the pearl necklace.

"Alone, as you are, in this big city, I should think you would be afraid to wear those beautiful pearls in public," said Capt. Barrett. "But, of course, you have them insured?"

"No, I have not," replied Mrs. Spreckles. "I have been on the point of having that matter attended to, but always something turned up and sidetracked me. I really ought to have them insured, particularly in view of the great number of robberies and hold-ups that are almost daily occurring."

"You should neglect that no longer," said Capt. Barrett. Then, as if he had had a second thought, he added: "Why not let me have them? I'll take them and have them insured. It will save you the trouble and it will guard against possibility of substitution, because I can spend the whole day at the matter and see to it that when they are appraised there will be no underhand work."

Mrs. Spreckles showed no hesitancy about accepting the suggestion. The thought of any irregularity about it did not strike her. She trusted Capt. Barrett absolutely because of his wife, and she turned the pearls and other jewels over to him the following day to be insured without even getting a receipt for them. She was confident that all would be right. In fact, she never had even the remotest thought of distrusting Capt. Barrett.

Mrs. John H. Spreckles, Jr., Owner of the Missing $80,000 Pearl Necklace, and Her 4-Year-Old Son, Whose Permanent Custody She Demanded in Her Suit for Divorce.

But when she handed the jewels over to him that morning she little thought that she might be seeing them for the last time. Capt. Barrett took them and did not return to report whether or not the jewels had been insured. When he did not put in an appearance for a week, she investigated and then got into communication by cable with the police of this country, where she learned Capt. Barrett had come, asking them to detain him. He had taken a fast ship, however, the morning he received the jewels and was safe in this country before the police could post men on the docks.

Whether there was a discussion which led to a quarrel over the loss of the jewels is not publicly known, but it is a matter of record that shortly after the loss of the necklace the missing pearls were replaced by scalding tears when Mrs. Spreckles began suit for divorce. She was recently awarded a decree and the custody of their four-year-old son. In the San Francisco divorce court after she won her case she said:

"As for my future, there are no definite plans. I have studied in Paris and I may go back there. Possibly I shall go on the concert stage.

Capt. William Barrett, Whose Arrest Failed to Solve the Mystery of the Missing Pearls.

"You want to know what I think about divorce?

"Well, the world is living at a faster tempo than ever before. That is what is behind the unrest that any one can see. The home is no longer the sacred place it was in a more placid day. Men and women, too, have too much to do to give all their attention to the old idea. I think the old-fashioned home, with real love—the idyllic love in a cottage theme—is best of all, but I think, too, that it is a crime for a couple to stay together when they can no longer love one another.

"The distractions of the world today are many. Women are by no means entirely to blame—if you use the term blame—for the increase in divorces. Men live in a different manner. Woman in general has to please man and so she moves to the new level. And so it goes.

"The causes of all this are deep. Blue laws won't touch them. Such laws aren't corrective because people get a thrill out of breaking them. And it is thrill that seems to be sought now and not the quiet things that used to be the goal."

In the meantime the misfortune attached to the pearls had spread to Mrs. Barrett. She, too, suffered marital unhappiness. When her aviator husband returned to the United States followed by the accusation of Mrs. Spreckles, Mrs. Barrett made no effort to locate him and went to live with her parents in France. She never spoke of her husband to anyone and when his name was mentioned she kept silent. That she suffered greatly over the mystery was evident from her features, which showed signs of strain. But she never breathed a word of her sorrow even to her most intimate friends. She suffered in silence.

The Cup of Bitterness

But the cup of her sorrow still contained a bitter draught. Her ten-months-old baby, Gerald Edwin Barrett, was the greatest comfort she had during her solitude. It was his care that kept her mind occupied and apart from worries. She loved to wash and dress him, and to shower on him those thousand and one attentions that a mother bestows. Then, one day recently, the baby was stricken ill. Expert medical attention was unavailing. The child died after a brief illness.

And the man who seems to be blamed for all the trouble, who released the ill-luck as soon as the pearls were taken from their owner, what of him?

That is what society is asking. Disgrace and banishment were his fate, and somewhere on the face of the earth he began wandering, none knew where. Capt. Barrett was found shortly after he arrived here. The police of Los Angeles, Cal., apprehended him. But there was no evidence against him and he was released.

His marriage to the former Miss Drexel caused much comment in exclusive circles, not alone because it concerned the best of society folk, but because it was so romantic. They eloped. They were married in New Rochelle. It was some days after the ceremony that the friends of the couple became aware of what had happened. It was Capt. Barrett's second matrimonial venture. He had married and divorced Kathleen Baillie of Seattle.

To the former Miss Drexel the aviator captain was like a character from a book of fiction, the beau ideal of a young girl's dream. He was a good talker and carried himself particularly well. And he had a comparatively easy time of it impressing her, for she was then quite unsophisticated. She had been reared with the atmosphere of a cloistered life. She knew nothing of the world beyond the fashionable drawing room. Her awakening must have been bitter when her husband, lacking the funds that her own family did not supply, left her, went to England and then disappeared with Mrs. Spreckles's jewels.

The lost necklace may be somewhere in this country. Mrs. Barrett believes so. Part of the jewelry that disappeared with it has been returned. But not a pearl of the necklace has reappeared. Even if it should, her friends say, the chances are that Mrs. Spreckles would not want to keep it. She probably would dispose of it, her friends declare. For they say that she wants nothing more to do with the pearls that turned to tears.

Origin of Names of Food

FRICASSEE has usually been derived from the Latin word frigere to fry, through the French frier, but it is thought more probable now that it is derived from the French fracasser, meaning to break into pieces or the Latin fricare, to rub. In French the word is used to indicate any meat fried in a pan, but the English meaning is a dish made from cutting chickens, rabbits and other small animals into pieces and cooking them in a frying or other pan with a gravy.

Molasses comes through many mediums from the Latin mellaceus, meaning honey like, which is derived from mel, honey.

Mushrooms get their name from the same source as moss.

Custard was a corruption of a middle-English word meaning a pie or tart and was allied to the modern French word croustade of the same meaning. All these words came from the Latin crusta, meaning a crust.

Salad literally means salted and is a direct descendant of the Latin word sal, or salt. The use of salad to mean the greens from which or on which a salad mixture is placed is one of only recent origin. The Italian insalata and the Spanish salada, meaning salad in those languages, actually mean salted.

Tomato is a word of Mexican derivation from tomatl, the native name in that country for the vegetable. The original tomato was the "love apple."

SEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING ONTARIO PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY OPENS HERE ON APRIL 25TH

The seventh annual meeting of the Ontario Provincial Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church will be held in St. Paul's Church here on 25th, 26th, and 27th April, when between 400 and 500 delegates from all parts of the Province are expected to attend. The members of the Board of Management will arrive in the city for a conference to be held on Monday evening, 25th April, in St. Paul's Schoolroom. There will be a Board meeting on Tuesday morning, and the general sessions open on Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Not since amalgamation has Peterborough had the privilege of entertaining the Society. Since 1914, when the Foreign and Home workers united forces, the annual meetings have been held at Hamilton, London, Kingston, Toronto, Guelph and Stratford. The seventh annual meeting to be held here is to be distinctly a young women's meeting stressing young women speakers and thinkers, sessions and conferences being held particularly for young women.

Peterborough has always taken a great interest in the Women's Missionary Society. One of the finest and best equipped hospitals in the chain stretching across Northern Canada is situated in the town of Canora, Saskatchewan. It is known as "The Hugh Waddell," and was placed there because of the munificent gift of $25,000 from Mrs. Hugh Waddell, of Peterborough, and is named in memory of her husband.

Among the speakers at this convention will be Miss Florence Clerihill, of Kharna, Central India, and Miss Agnes Dickson, South China. Both of these speakers know and love the lands of their adoption, and can speak with authority on their work amongst the native people.

Officers of the Board coming to Peterborough for this meeting are: Hon. President Mrs. McZalsten (Hamilton); President, Mrs. Charles Robertson (Toronto); Vice-Presidents, Mrs. J. D. Walker (Toronto), Mrs. Frank Rae (Unionville), Mrs. R. Barbour (Meaford), Mrs. (Dr.) L. McCrae (London); Recorder, Mrs. Charles Begg (Toronto); Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. F. H. Ross (Toronto); Treasurer, Mrs. John G. Gauld (Hamilton); Secretaries of Departments—Young Women, Miss Ida Malcolmson (Hamilton); Mission Band, Miss Agnes Rennie (New Hamburg); Home Helpers, Mrs. J. TRENT RIVER HAPPENINGS

TRENT RIVER, April 16.—The Referendum meeting held in the Methodist Church last night, was well attended.

Mr. A. C. Denike of Havelock, acted as chairman and opened the proceedings with prayer. The hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung after which the following speakers delivered short addresses Rev. Jas. Skene, pastor of Knox Church, Havelock, Warden Griffith of Belmont, Reeves Vanvolkenburg and Rev. A. O. Seymour. Mr. Ernest Wilkinson favored the audience with a solo. Mr Denike spoke briefly on a few pointed facts and was pleased to see o many present, as it was one of the best crowds the speakers had met with during the week of meetings Tsis speaks well for Trent River.

Rev. Jas. Skene of Havelock called on some of his parishoners Thursday last.

Everything points to a busy summer with many visitors again coming to the local resort and the cottages are being secured early, in fact there are not enough cottages to supply the demand for the coming season. Both Pavillions will be kept open nightly.

BELLEVILLT, April 16. — The trial of the action by Alex. The suit was to recover damages for injuries sustained by plaintiff on the morning of November 1st last while seated in a Ford car which ran into a road roller of the Standard Paving Co. on Pinnacle street, near the police station. INTERNAL BATHS CHECK HARDENING OF ARTERIES Prolong Life by Overcoming Source of Poisons in System.

High blood pressure, meaning hardening of the arteries and heart disease, is a condition which frequently becomes dangerous after the age of forty. As is well known, the blood pressure is regulated by the state of the arteries. Hence it should be our aim to keep our arteries as young as possible.

The best means of reducing blood pressure, and preventing hardening of the arteries lies in taking sufficient outdoor exercise and in keeping the system well regulated. Constipation must not be permitted to exert its harmful effects. It is the cause of auto-intoxication (or self-poisoning) with many attendant ills—headaches, billiousness, lack of energy, sleeplessness and indigestion.

The one means of effectually reaching the seat of these ailments is the Internal Bath. Pure warm water, applied with the J. B. L. Cascade cleanses and purifies the intestinal tract and removes the poisonous waste which accumulates there. The use of medicines for constipation is harmful.

The "J. B. L. Cascade" will be shown and explained to you by the Warne Drug Co., Druggists, Peterborough, who will also give you free, on request, an interesting booklet by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell, "Why Man of To-day is Only 50% Efficient." Booklet or information also obtainable at Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College street, Toronto.

Building Better Bodies

The difference between the rugged, romping, athletic boy and the pale anaemic youngster is largely a matter of diet.

Good, pure, safe milk is nature's chosen food that builds strong, healthy children.

Mothers should give their children milk that is not only pure, rich and safe, but milk that they will enjoy.

Our pasteurized milk has the sweet unchanged taste that makes the children ask for more.

19,206 VOTES THIS RIDING

POLES WILL BE OPEN FROM 8 TO 6 O'CLOCK ON MONDAY AND ALL IS PREPARED FOR POLLING.

LIST OF DIVISIONS

On Monday the people of Ontario will bring in a verdict either for a "bone dry" Province or for the allowing of importation of alcoholic spirits into the Province.

Peterborough City is, of course, in the riding of West Peterborough, in which there are seven townships—Galway, Cavendish, Harvey, Ennismore, Smith, North Monaghan and South Monaghan. In this constituency there are 76 polls, counting the advance poll held Thursday, Friday and to-night in the Council Chambers. In this city there are about 13,206 votes, taking the lists as counted for the by-election and adding the names placed on the lists by Revising Officers Widdifield and Strickland. Of course, these won't all vote. Far from it. On February 7 only 7,475 persons turned out to mark a ballot, but The Examiner's figures are believed to be fairly accurate. In the by-election 5,446 votes were polled in the country.

6,000 Country Votes.

It is hardly true that everyone in the country voted, so there must be at a conservative estimate 6,000 country votes. This would make the total available vote in both urbon and rural parts 19,206. It is generally believed that indecision and apathy will keep many from the polls on Monday, and probably there will only be about half this number vote, and the total vote of 13,0003 in the February by-election will not, it is generally thought, be equalled.

Polling Places.

There follows a list of polling places where the vote will be recorded on Monday. There are 75 polls here, four more than were used on February 7th. Four polls—No. 33, Milburn's school-house, Smith; No. 34, Foresters' Hall, Bridgenorth; No. 38, Salvation Hall, Brownton, and No. 40, Manley's store, Braidwood avenue—have been split and four new polling places have resulted.

DAYLIGHT SAVING ADDS HOUR TO LIFE CONDEMNED CONVICT

Difference in Standard and Chicago Time Taken Advantage of.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Sentenced to be hanged for murder while Chicago was under standard time, Sam Cardinella yesterday objected to being executed under daylight saving time.

"When am I going to be hanged?" he asked Assistant Jailer Lorenz Moisterheim.

"To-morrow morning at 8 o'clock," said Mr. Moisterheim.

"Central standard or Chicago time?"

"Chicago time," replied Moisterheim. "It's in Chicago you're going to be hanged."

"Yes," said Cardinella, "but I was sentenced before the time was changed. This re-arrangement deprives me of an hour of life. That won't mean anything after I'm dead, but it will mean a lot Saturday morning. The Governor can change his mind in that time."

Jail officials changed the time to 9 o'clock Chicago time.

Rub Backache Away

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get blessed relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub on and out comes the pain. It is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.

BOYS' CLUB PREPARED THEIR OWN BANQUET

St. John's Junior Organization Enjoyed An Unusual Dinner.

The Boys' Club of St. John's church, of whom James McClennan is president, and Mr. A. Brett is mentor, held a very enjoyable supper last evening, commencing about six o'clock, with 12 boys of the class in attendance. This is the first attempt of the boys of anything of this nature, and they did a good deal of the work in preparing and serving their banquet, assisted by Mrs. Brett. A debate and a musical programme had been prepared for the occasion, which were postponed, however, owing to the desire of the boys to attend the Motor Show, but arrangements were discussed during the meal for the inauguration of a baseball team for the coming season.

DR. CREELMAN RECOVERING.

TORONTO, April 15.—(Canadian Press).—It is announced to-day that Dr. G. C. Creelman, who has been Agent-General for Ontario in the Old Country for the past year, is recovering in the Toronto Hospital from septic poisoning, from which he has suffered for some time. It is expected that within a week or two he will be able to assume the post of general manager of the Niagara Peninsular Fruit Growers' organization, to which he has been appointed.

The Trying Days

IT has been well said, a school teacher has more influence in shaping the lives of her scholars than their parents.

How necessary, then, is it that she should have a bright, clear brain, and be strong and vigorous in order that she may give them of her best.

The worry and the work, the strain and anxiety of a teacher's life are such as tell severely on the nervous system. Time and again teachers have had to give up good positions on account of a weak heart, run down health and shattered nerves.

To such Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills come as a boon and a blessing.

Their purpose is to make the weak heart strong and the shaky nerves firm, and thus build up the entire system to full strength and vitality.

Miss L. E. Hopkins, Kirkton, Ont., writes:—"I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for weak heart. I was so nervous I had to leave school for two years. After I had taken five boxes of the pills I was able to go back to my school again, feeling in good health."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by

Why Farmers Should Vote "No"

Under the Federal Order-in-Council prohibiting importation, illicit manufacture enormously increased in rural districts. The restoration of the right of importation mitigated this evil.

During the "Flu" epidemic, many a farmer lost a member of his family because he had not the best remedy in his home, and had to go many miles to secure a doctor's certificate and a bottle of whiskey.

The farmer suffers severely from industrial unrest in urban centres, for which total prohibition is partially responsible.

Abolition of the bar has produced good results in village communities, but total Prohibition drives the traffic underground and is a menace to young men. Government Control does away with this danger.

Quebec and British Columbia Have Government Control

Quebec tried a measure of Prohibition and found that it could not be enforced. Quebec, like British Columbia, now has Government Control.

Prohibition Brings "Moonshine" Stills

Since the advent of Prohibition the number of illicit stills has increased tremendously. In Alberta in 1917 no illicit stills were in operation, but in 1919 the police seized 210 stills. In Saskatchewan the number rose from 15 to 169, and in Manitoba from none to 187.

In Maine, the pioneer prohibition State, a factory has been discovered which sold 30,000 stills to private individuals.

Prohibition Has Failed!

Prohibition is inconsistent with Christianity, which depends not upon the creation of new crimes for punishment, but on the stronger force of love.

Prohibition cannot be enforced because it does not appeal to the conscience of the people. Enforcement has failed in every country.

Prohibition in the United States and Canada has produced perjury, hypocrisy, contempt of the law, illicit stills, social unrest, and the use of poisonous drugs and alcohols.

Prohibition prevents temperate people from obtaining good liquor and drives others to poisonous alcohol and drugs. Without prohibition the bootlegger cannot live.

Prohibition creates unrest. The creation of a prohibitory law which cannot be enforced, brings other laws into contempt and is a serious menace to the general observance of law and order.

3 WOMEN ON JURY SWING THE VERDICT

First to Serve in Such Capacity in Plainfield, N. J., Win Over Stubborn Man.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., April 16.—The novel experience of being the first women to sit on a jury in the District Court here was enjoyed this afternoon by Mrs. Florence Runyon, wife of State Senator William N. Runyon; Mrs. Florence Anthony, wife of Dr. William H. Anthony of this city, and Mrs. Eva G. Van Hoesen, who on May 1 becomes a Justice of the Peace in her home town of Canwood. They and nine men took the oath to return a just verdict. After an hour's deliberation they found the defendant not guilty. When the women had received the jury fee of 75 cents they hurriedly left for their homes to prepare the evening meal.

The case was one in which Ignacia Defynko, a real estate operator, had brought action against John Miklos and his wife of Rahway, and had to do with property he owned. The defendants had agreed to buy the property for $3,000 and pay $70 a month on the price after a deposit of $300 had been made, but did not keep up payment. Acting on a suggestion of the agent, they took possession before papers had been signed.

After the trial, the women expressed their pleasure in doing jury work, although Mrs. Anthony admitted she could have accomplished a great deal more if she had remained at home.

It was learned that one of the men on the jury was inclined to be stubborn an the women told that it had required a little coaxing to "win him over." Before the case proceeded far a photographer was permitted by Judge J. Henry Crane to take a picture of the jury, but this did not please the women, for they were plainly averse to any sensational element.

"What a wonderful dog!" remarked Brown without much enthusiasm

"Yes" continued Jones; "all I have to do is get out of bed and hit the dog. Then he barks and I know it's time to get up."

THE SATURDAY COLUMN

(By QUINTUS)

This column will contain an article each Saturday by Quintus of general interest and of educational value

It has been said that novel-reading is the recreation of the wise and the business of fools. Perhaps that is going too far but there can be no doubt that novel-reading for the mature is what picture-books are to children. Strength of intellect lies in originality and that depends upon research. Novel-writers do not pretend to write for other than entertainment and constant seeking of entertainment especially in novels is but one remove from gossiping. Novels especially English novels were invented by Richardson in order that English women might learn to read. The earliest novels were merely pictures of familiar life. The triumph of this form of pastime lies in its truth to nature. It is not merely descriptive and suggestive like painting. It becomes in the hands of writers like Scott, Goethe and Balzac somewhat poetic. That it teaches the untrained we have ample instance in Dickens. Up to the age of thirteen novels are a delight, a charm, a cultivator of literary taste and a view of life. Lesage lays so bare the very life of his hero and his times that there is no escape. Thackeray, himself a snob, knew how to depict them as few others did. But the wholesale production of novels such as we have them to-day is a sign of a luxurious and a lazy age. If people did not have plenty of time they could not spend either that or the money in what we see in every window and in every book stall to-dave Most of it is voted trash by novel-readers themselves but that does not prevent its being read and being the worst form of a diet for the human mind, speaking generally. There is the novel which is nothing more than Punch and Judy run riot in print the novel that gives an exaggerated and utterly silly idea of high life, the novel that depicts the vampire at her worst, the novel that like peanuts for pale people is likely to produce a morbid and anaemic type of womanhood. Men young and old do not as a rule read novels. Great men or near-great men have on occasion stated that they dearly liked a good novel occasionally. Mark you! Occasionally some men who live in the very midst of life's most stirring scenes will ease their jaded minds by a decided change. 'A little nonsense etc.," But who ever heard as in the case of public libraries, of ninety-five per cent of the books read being novels except where the public mind is too much taken up with the prosy work of dishwashing or is so hopeless and helpless as to be fit for nothing else The great and positively enchanting world of science is almost neglected by the general public. The laws that govern the movements of the heavenly bodies are not only but slightly understood. They are almost wholly ignored. The human mind likes to take its exercise in something easier and less sublime. If one half of the physical and mental energy of the people of Canada now wasted in too much cards too incessant a clatter of tongues and teacups and in trying to think of what to do next, were spent upon philosophy and the history of thought, upon science and the history of the mind and applied to the discovery of the secrets of nature, life which is now almost unendurable to the bored would become a charm and a new delight from day to day. There is nothing so delightful as the exercise of the intellect. To follow the minds of the great of the past and of the present is possible and without need of too great effort to the intellect. Of course there are minds that are merely apologies for the real article and I am not now speaking of those people who have to spend their lives and to spend them in the really noble and heroic work of bringing up little families in the way they should go. Some mothers and some fathers have but little time for serious reading. Of them I am not speaking. It is to those who pretend that they are doing wonders in reading novels morning, noon and night that reference is being made. Religion in all its phases ideal and practical will furnish all that the noblest type of being requires or should most rejoice in. The minds of most people are decidedly more human than divine but the least they can do is not to pretend that a showing of ninety-five per cent. of novels is a good showing for a sensible people. The intellect of such a reading public is a soil about one inch deep and incapable of bringing forth much that is worth the labour of harvesting.

There is something divine something spiritual about a building that is a work of art. Why people should object to the copy by art of the beauties of nature it is hard to say. Religion is not apparent to some people unless it is disagreeable just as some people will not take medicine unless it tastes "something fearful." The hermits, dwellers in the deserts and despisers of mankind generally and it is to be hoped of themselves in particular did not think like Christ that this world was worth coming to and worth redeeming. They wanted to get out of it as soon as possible and to shake the dust of it off their feet. But notwithstanding, the study of art in ecclesiastical architecture is a simple form of the cultivation of the best in humanity which might well appeal to people. But does it? Unlike music which requires a certain natural aptitude it is a branch of the history of the sublime and beautiful that is easily read by everybody and that can be appreciated by the humblest and lowliest. There are not ten buildings in Canada that would appeal to the artistic in any body. And yet it is God who gave us the sense of the beautiful. But what did the Puritans then or now care for that? The same may be said of the effect of libraries and of them and other things I will write later on. This age is given over to the introduction of Socialism, especially in America. The cultivation of the individual has been brushed aside. Will it be that of the mass? And yet how can it be? The mass is after all like all else made up of individual units and it is what they are that makes the mass what it must be. There is no way known to man of cultivating the mass and of showing it what it ought to be except through the unit. The result must be and is a general lowering of the public mind. The really good books the works that teach what nature, mind and God are, are left upon the shelves.

ATTEMPT AT THEFT IN LINDSAY FOILED

LINDSAY, April 15.—Another unsuccessful attempt to steal an automobile was frustrated Tuesday night, when some person or persons broke into the garage at the rear of Green Music Co's Store. Finding the key of the car had been detached they failed to gee away with the vehicle.

"VERBOTEN"

Is the German Equivalent for PROHIBITION

—Look at the Germans Now.

.....Verboten! Forbidden!! Prohibited!!!

Different words these, but all meaning the same thing.

Before the War everything was VERBOTEN in Germany The little group of Prussians, with the Kaiser at their head, who dominated the German Empire, had so regulated the lives of the people, Saxons, Bavarians, Wurtemburgers—you haven't forgotten those names—that they had no conception of the elements of LIBERTY.

So content, even happy, were they in their slavery that they submitted to the greatest military despotism the modern world has seen. They have paid the price of their docility with countless graves, but they have freed themselves from the Prussian tyranny.

VERBOTEN is not so common a sign nowadays throughout the German states, but they had to learn the fundamentals of freedom from the Allied nations —the British, the French, the Italians, the Americans, and the Canadians.

The spirit of PROHIBITION is essentially the spirit that lurked behind the German VERBOTEN.

It denies people personal responsibility. It seeks to fashion their lives, their habits, according to legislation.

Granted that the comparison is overdrawn, but it is essentially true.

PROHIBITION implies that the British are an intemperate people. The history of our race proves that an execrable lie. And we of Ontario are of British stock.

PROHIBITION assumes that the descendants of Britons in this country are not fit to live their lives according to the old British ideals that have endured a thousand years down to this very day.

PROHIBITION pretends to prevent the importation only of spirituous liquors, whereas it shuts out beer, wines, ale, porter, beverages that are classed as foods. Stephen Leacock asks the question, Can any man say that it is a sin or a crime to take a glass of ale?

PROHIBITION makes a mockery of morality; it subverts the principle of free will. It is designed as an improvement upon the divine scheme of the Creator. Its advocates seem to esteem it as a sort of royal road to salvation.

BISHOP FARTHING'S EXPERIENCE.

A few days ago the press despatches carried a brief synopsis of a letter written by Bishop Farthing of Montreal, formerly rector of New St. Paul's, Woodstock, to Hon. W. G. Mitchell, provincial treasurer of Quebec, declaring in favour of Government sale and control of the liquor traffic as the best system. The following is the full text of the letter:

"My Dear Mr. Mitchell,—Just a line to thank you for, and to congratulate you upon the liquor legislation of the present session. Sixteen years ago I made a thorough investigation into the working of the various systems of liquor administration, and became convinced that the best system was that of Government sale and control. During the War, I reluctantly joined the forces of Prohibition, as a war measure, and you will remember that I formed part of a deputation to urge upon the Government the strict enforcement of that law, as I was convinced that a law not enforced would be injurious and would soon bring all administration of law into contempt.

"Our experiences have fully realised our fears. I am indeed rejoiced to know that the Government has dealt with this problem in so strong and definite a manner. It will be one's pleasure to do everything possible to support the administration in the new law. I feel confident that if it is wholeheartedly carried out, this Act will not only give a revenue which will be of great value to the Province, but it will also have the effect of furthering the general morality of the people.

"There will always be evils connected with the use of intoxicants, and what we all desire is to minimise the evils. Opinions naturally differ as to the best method of doing this. You have been bold enough to make a new departure, which seems to me to be on the right lines and well worthy of experiment. I want to assure you of my earnest desire to give you every possible support in your great undertaking.

"I am, yours sincerely,

"JOHN, Montreal."

A GOOD piano is a fine thing to own; but a good Player Piano is better.

The Player stands ready at all times for hand playing or for reproducing, as desired.

It is interchangeable in a moment from one instrument to the other. The member of your family who cannot read a note of music (but who may be a very musical person nevertheless) can play the music of his choice. Another member who is skilled in music can come next and play just as if it were a piano. And, for the rising generation it makes easier the road to a successful musical education.

The Williams Player is a Canadian-made instrument, through and through—made by Canadian craftsmen who would refuse to do anything but their best.

SIGN YOUR BALLOTS "YES."

Prohibition's hosts are mustering,
Hark, hark, their battle cry,
Away, away, with booze and beer,
Ontario shall be dry.
Beneath the grinding chariot wheels, fast bound with galling chain
Of that relentless Juggernaut too long we've passive lain;
But now, King Alcohol must go,
with all his vicious train,
For we're resolved that over us, he shall no longer reign,
Canadians, worthy of the name can never basely choose
To lift the floodgate and let loose the deadly tide of booze.
Now, the way to put the demon down and his vile power suppress
Is, on Monday morning at the polls,
to mark our ballots, "Yes."

Intemperance on our escutcheon, has left as foul a stain,
Of just as deep a dye, as marked
the guilty brow of Cain;
Shame on the callous selfishness,
that see's on ruin's brink,
Neighbor or friend, and passes by,
unheeding, if they sink.
Shall we, whose sons faced hellish
Huns, on many a distant strand,
That never tyrant's foot should tread our glorious native land,
Forget, that 'twas for Freedom's sake some sleep in far-off graves,
And bow our neck to this vile yoke,
like abject, home born slaves?
Forbid it, Heaven, and kindly crown
our cause with full success
When, for the sake of all that's good we mark our ballots "Yes."

Oh, would in characters of flame,
that I might tell the sum,
Of youth's bright hopes and prospects fair, blighted by wretched ruin,
Untimely deaths, and drunkards'
graves, tears that in torrents fall,
Wrecked, ruined lives, sad broken hearts, life's sweetness turned to gall.
Who may recount the ills that rise from the free flowing bowl,
The wreck of manhood's ideals high
—degraded body, soul;
Homes blighted by rum's hellish spell, than Circes more malign,
That turns God's image to a fiend, worse than the beastly swine.
Then let us from the Monster's crimes all seek a swift redress,
And be sure on Monday, at the polls
to mark our ballots, "Yes."

Mothers and sisters, be it yours, I need not tell you why,
To strain every nerve, to banish
booze, and keep our country dry,
Ye to whom suffering most it dooms may well abhor and hate
The liquor traffic, which on you, brings ills of crushing weight.
It robs sweet childhood's years of joy, their's by undoubted claim,
And leaves them a dread heritage of poverty and shame;
But the dawn is brightly breaking,
of the glorious day to be,
When from that curse all Canada shall be forever free.
So let us pray that favoring Heaven will deign to aid and bless
The cause, for which stern duty bids us mark our ballots "Yes."

STRIKE TO KEEP JOBS IS FOUGHT IN COURT

Gas Iron Company Asks Injunction When Collectors Walk Out After Winning Two Strikes.

NEW YORK April 16.—Can employes, to save their jobs, compel a firm to remain in business? This question will be placed before Supreme Court Justice Edward Gavegan on Wednesday when the suit of the Consolidated Gas Iron Company of 32 Union Square against the "Salesmen and Collectors' Protective Association" comes up.

The "Salesmen and Collectors' Protective Association" was formed two months ago by twenty-seven employes of the company, which had been selling gas irons to housewives on the instalment plan. Arthur Flank and Joseph F. Bloom, partners, say they were doing a prosperous business until their collectors and salesmen organized.

The employes demanded a 15 per cent. collection fee instead of 10 per cent. The firm refused their demands and they struck. The employes won the strike in two weeks.

A few days later the company learned the wife of a collector was doing his work. He was discharged. The twenty-six others struck. The firm hired three or four strike-breakers. Then the firm learned the housewives had been instructed by the regular collectors to pay no one else. The housewives followed instructions. This cost the firm more than $5,000 each week in delinquent installments.

Aside from this, Mr. Handler, the company counsel, said, strikers paroled the streets in the collection districts and attacked the strike-breakers. The new employes, he said, were forced to go to Rand School, where the organization had a meeting room. Here they were compelled to listen to Socialist and even Bolshevist oratory and near-oratory, the lawyer said.

Again the firm gave in and the men returned to work.

Shortly after this, Blank and Bloom dropped the instalment business and sold to wholesalers. The employes realized, that, after all, the outstanding money had been collected—amounting to about $300,000—they would be out of work.

They struck again. And again, it was alleged, strike-breakers were intimidated.

Last week the firm filed suit to enjoin the employes from interfering with the firm's business and for $10,000 damages. The case was to have come up yesterday, but Samuel Orr, counsel for the collectors, was not in town.

OFFER TO DR. CODY CONSIDERED NOVEL

CHURCH TIMES, OF LONDON, REMARKS UPON IT AS UNUSUAL.

LONDON, April 16. (Canadian Press.) — Discussing the offer of the Archbishopric of Melbourne, Australia, made to Archdeacon Cody of Toronto, the Church Times, a High Chuch organ, professes itself confused concerning his career, and the reasons of his call from Australia to fill the important ecclestical position.

It quotes several prominent churchmen as saying that Dr. Cody has admirable qualities for such a post and expresses the opinion that Dr. Cody will accept the offer.

The Church Times remarks that it is very seldom now that an Anglican Churchman in one country receives offers of a high office in another country. The last similar case it recalls is the offer of the Bishopric of Montreal made to Dr. Lang, then Suffragan Bishop of Stepney, and now Archbish of York.

LABOUR DIFFICULTIES OVERSEAS AFFECT CANADA'S DAIRY INDUSTRY

MARKET FOR CHEESE AND BUTTER UNSETTLED, SAYS G. A. GILLESPIE—EARLY INDUSTRIAL PEACE MAY RELIEVE SITUATION SOMEWHAT BUT EXPORT IS UNCERTAIN.

Uncertainy shrouds the immediate future of the cheese and butter markets, Mr. G. A. Gillespie told the Examiner to-day in an interview on the prospects of the dairy industry and business this season. The home and foreign markets are jumpy and unsteady with a distinct downward tendency. Early spring promises and expectations of improved conditions are not materializing and have been given a severe set-back by the present strikes in England.

For Canadian dairy products the market was beginning to look good for cheese, Mr. Gillespie said, but late advices from London have been decidedly gloomy. Orders have to be accepted, limited as they have been, on a basis that makes it next to impossible to quote prices to the local milk producers. From his observations and the information he gained in his trip to the Old Country together with cabled intelligence, Mr. Gillespie has a thorough knowledge of the overseas situation and is patiently acquainting producers with the facts which will govern their prices and the amount of export that may develop.

Demoralizing the Market.

"This strike has upset the calculations of the optimists," said Mr. Gillespie. "It will have a demoralizing effect on export business even though it might be settled to-day. The consequence of such a disturbance are not overcome in a short time, and the results of this strike may be felt for some time. It is to be hoped that the transport workers do not involve the trouble worse than it is now. If they stand steady the market may be able to recover more quickly after a settlement is reached, but there is an inherent element of weakness that is reflected in the prices prevailing in Canaad and the United Sttaes."

Australian Competition.

Mr. Gillespie said he had no desire to survey the market darkly, and at best could offer only his own opinion, which he had formed from his experience and a close scanning of the present conditions. The British market was recently flooded with large supplies of Australian and New Zealand butter, unloaded by the government. This vast stock, sufficient for the needs of the United Kingdom for months, was bound to react sharply on the export demand, thereby affecting Canada's business. If the cabled advices from the Old Country were in the least encouraging Mr. Gillespie said he would be disposed to take a brighter view of the market, but the present information and the outlook were not conducive to optimism.

Mr. Gillespie supplemented his comment with the remark that when Canadians read of the miners' strike in the Old Country they take a more or less casual interest in its progress, little realizing that it will indirectly affect themselves. If the channels of export are blocked, even temporarily, there is a fling back all along the line right to the producer on the Canadian farms. Another factor in the present situation was the difference in prices which he said had prevalled during the war and since then in this country and Australia. The compraitvely short trans-atlantic carriage gave Canada an advantage that was marked by higher prices here. This element was now tending to work against Canadian shipments for the reason that the price level was lower in the Antipodes. As a result there was only a slight readjustment necessary in Australia and New Zealand and their exportable products were getting to the British markets while the Canadian prices were slowly moving downward to a corresponding basis.

MALE CHORUS PREPARES EOR BIGGER YEAR

Elated by the success of their first year's work, by their doubly harmonious associations, and by the kindly, helpful interest demonstrated by the people of the city at the recent concert, the Peterborough Male Voice Chorus last night enthusiastically decided to aim for bigger things next season. There was practically no question as to whether the Chorus should continue. That was taken for granted, and although the members refrained from building castles out of the stuff of passing inspiration they confidently believed that they could bring their strength up to seventy-five within the coming year.

Mr. Edgar Worth was elected Honorary President, and the other officers were re-elected by acclamation as follows:

President—C. B. Adair.
Vice-President—W. F. Skitch.
Secretary-Treasurer, C. S. Thompson.
Assistant Secretary—O. Steer.
Chairman of Music Committee—H. F. McKeown.
Chairman of Membership Committee—John Anderson.
Chairman of Social and Welfare Committee—E. Bush.
Chairman of Publicity—Fred. Sutcliffe.
Librarian—W. Northrope.
Musical Director—John H. Renwick.
Accompanist—Miss Ida Sanderson.

In recognition of his co-operation in the work of the choir, and of his highly valuable services as conductor, Mr. Renwick was given an honorarium of $100, and Mr. Thompson's faithful performance of the secretarial duties was rewarded with a grant of $25.

The chorus will go to Port Hope on May 3rd, where they will sing in the Methodist Church, at the request of whose Quarterly Board, Mrs. Renwick and Miss Mignon Telgmann, of Kingston, have been secured as assisting artists.

DREAMS OF ARREST AND IT COMES TRUE

BALTIMORE, Md., April 15.—Mrs Josephine Ragona, 21, a Sicilian, with one of her children, was in her apartment at 34 South Eden Street here to-day, when a knock was heard. Mrs. Ragona slipped the child from her lap, whispered to Mrs. Carmello Bruna, a friend, and said in Italian, "See, my dream has come true; they re here; I will not flee." Mrs. Ragona stepped to the hall and opened the door. A second later she was arrested by Headquarters Detective Cornelius Roche and T. W Quirk, charged with the murder of Frank Ecolano, 34, a locksmith, who was hot to death on Second Avenue, near 106th Street, in New York, Oct. 14 last.

Half an hour later Mrs. Ragona sat in the office of Detective Captain McGovern at Police Headquarters and told how she killed Ecolano. She said she had nothing to hide, that she slew Ecolanc with a pistol with which he is alleged to have threatened her life.

For more than five months she as been living here with her husband, John Ragona and her three children, but her friends protected her so well that an Italian detective sent from New York was unable to ascertain her whereabouts. Mrs. Ragona thought, he said, that the killing of Ecolano, like so many other New York murder mysteries, "would die out".

"Do you believe in dreams," asked Mrs. Ragona of her friend, Mrs. Bruno, just before the police arrived at her home here to-day.

"Not much; I don't remember many of my dreams," the friend replied.

"Well, I may not be much longer here, I dreamed last night that two policemen came here and one showed me a paper and said, 'Josephine, we will not hurt you, but you must come with us. You know why we have'come and I went.Mrs. Ragona accordi.ng to Roche and Quirk, was prepared for the street when they came.

"Did you, as the police say, kill Frank Ecolano, on Second Avenue, near 106th Street?" asked Detective Roche after her arrest

"Yes, I did .I shot him with his own pistol, Five times I shot him, and if I hadn't killed him—I knew his reputation—believe he would have killed me, because he told me that he would," exclaimed the woman.

Mrs. Ragona declared that Ecolano had come between her husband and herself and that her husband had left her in New York two years ago because, she said, he feared Ecolano. Mrs. Ragona declared that the man she slew was a member of a powerful Sicilian Society.

DOCTORS ARE SURPRISED AT THE WONDERFUL RESULTS OBTAINED BY TANATED CALOMEL.

Your complexion is not clear, you have pains between the shoulder blades, you are constipated, have no energy, no appetite, headaches, rheumatism, etc. These are all the well-known signs that your Liver is out of order, and is not excreting Bile into the Bowels, thereby causing all these pains and aches.

Doctors will tell you that 99% of the people who come to them for treatment have trouble due directly to the Liver. It is simple when you stop to think about it. When your Liver becomes inactive and fails to pour Bile into the intestines, your system is unable to excrete the waste, then the blood begins to distribute this waste throughout the whole system, striking at the weakest organ. Until this Liver trouble is overcome, you cannot expect to have perfect health, and life to you will be a drudgery.

Doctors recommend that you take one Tanated Calomel about fifteen minutes before each meal, or you may take two at bedtime, and you will wake up the next morning feeling tip-top. No seidlitz, salts, or castor oil are necessary to eliminate the Calomel, as it is self-eliminating.

Tanated Calomel is quickly assimilated by the system, and begins to act soon after taking. It has no bad after-effects, as nausea, sick headaches, griping, etc., but acts very mild and smoothly causing a natural elimination of the waste, relieving your system of all this waste poison, making you look and feel bright, alert, vigorous, and vivacious again.

Tanated Calomel is sold by F. C. Weber, Druggist, Peterborough.

NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED A TONIC

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS ENRICH THE BLOOD THUS INCREASING YOUR NERVOUS ENERGY.

Nervous people who have not yet developed a disease that can be recognized and treated by the medical profession, often have great trouble in finding relief. Irritation, headache, sleeplessness, nervous indigestion. All these discomforts make life miserable, but are endured rather than run a doctor's bill.

Such sufferers should know the danger of such a condition, which, if allowed to persist, may result in a nervous breakdown. In this condition what is needed is rich, red blood. As a tonic for the blood and nerves, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been used with much success. They have a direct action on the blood, and through it carry to the nerves the elements needed to restore their normal function, at the same time improving the general health. The benefits that follow the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is shown by the case of Mrs. Norman Seifried, West Montrose, Ont., who says: "It would be hard for me to overstate the benefit I have derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before I began taking the Pills I was very nervous, weak and run down. I could hardly do my housework, and as there is a great deal of work to do about a home on a farm, I felt very much discouraged. One day while reading a newspaper I saw an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to give them a trial. I could notice beneficial effects after taking a box of the Pills, and by the time I had taken a few boxes, I could again do my work with ease, was no longer weak or nervous, slept well at night, and awoke in the morning feeling well and strong. I am happy to say that the Pills so greatly benefitted me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or will be sent by mail on receipt of 50 cents a box or $2.50 for six boxes by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CRITICISM AND REMINISCENCE

(By PATERFAMILIAS)

THE MOTOR CAR, LOCOMOTIVE AND THE COO.

It's a long way from September 27th, 1825, to the Motor Show in the Armouries, which closes tonight, and yet the powerful, graceful-bodied, speedy motive vehicles there exhibited invite comparison between the first horseless carriages demonstrated by George Stephenson on the above date and those we have the privilege of enjoying today—both on rail and road. More especially, perhaps, is this reminiscence timely from the fact that, almost coincidentally with Stephenson's then drive-inspiring invention, Furaday discovered that benzine was a constituent of petroleum, a discovery destined to affect the modern construction of automobiles toward the end of the nineteenth century, and make possible that competitive transportation with modern steam-propelled cars found in nineteen twenty-one's autos and motor trucks.

The first public railway for steam locomotives was opened between Stockton and Darlington, England, by Edward Reese and George Stevenson—an innovation which caused considerable public excitement. On this opening day, September 21st, 1825, an immense concourse of people assembled along the line to see the train go by, and nearly all prophesied that the "iron horse" would prove a failure. The train weighed about ninety tons and consisted of six wagons loaded with coal and flour, then a covered couch carrying directors and proprietors, with twenty-one coal wagons fitted up for 600 invited passengers. Stephenson's engine, named the "Locomotion," had a ten-foot boiler and weighed not quite 1,500 pounds. The speed was limited to six miles an hour, so fearful were the public of possible disaster, and it was arranged that a man on horse-back should go ahead of the engine, carrying a flag. After some difficulty this embryo train was started, and the people all cheered. Many thought to keep apace with it by running, and some gentlemen enthusiasts on horse-back galloped across the fields, whether the farmers would let them or no, to accompany the train. However, Stephenson, with that reckless disregard for the proscribed speed limit reflected these days in some few car drivers on Peterborough's streets—when the cop is not looking—shouted to the horseman with the flag to get out of the way, for he was going to "let her go." He then ordered the fireman to "keep her hot, lad," opened the throttle valve and raised the going to first twelve and then fifteen miles an hour.

And so, with cross-beams and side rods trembling with violent motion, the red-hot chimney emitting clouds of black smoke, and to the cheers of delighted sight-seers and the astonishment of the joy riders, George Stephenson brought his train safely into Darlington.

On the return journey, according to the 'Newcastle Courant" of October 1, 1825, the train arrived at Stockton from Darlington in three hours and seven minutes, including stops—a distance of nearly twelve miles.

This test was considered so successful that a bill was introduced in Parliament for the construction of a railroad, after Stephenson's plan, from Liverpool to Manchester. The measure found many obstructionists, like Lords Lefton and Derby, who declared that Stephenson's locomotive would poison the air, kill the birds of the air, destroy the preservation of pheasants, burn up farms and homes near the railway, that oats would become unsaleable because horses would soon be extinct, travelling on the highways would become impossible, country inns would be ruined, boilers would burst and kill hundreds of passengers—in fact, exactly the same pessimism as to the success or desirability of the innovation arose as the inventors of motor cars and airplanes had to face in later years.

Examined by a Parliamentary committee, one of the members put this question, with which most of you are familiar: "Suppose, now, one of these engines to be going along a railroad at a rate of nine or ten miles an hour, and that a cow were to stray upon the line and get in the way of the engine, would not that, think you, be a very awkward circumstance?" "Yaw," replied Stephenson in his broad Northumberland dialect, "ay, awkward—for the coo." But, perhaps, many do not know that it was owing to this broad vernacular of Stephenson's that he was denounced as a "foreigner," and the bill thrown out of the committee by a vote of 37 against 36. However, after a second Parliamentary debate, the measure passed through both Commons and the House of Lords by a majority of forty-seven votes. The passage of this act cost the country £27,000—$135,000.

The advent of the steam railway and its growth down to the present day, has indeed been very awkward for many a coo, as Stephenson foretold, aye, and for many a human life besides. But, for all that, we would not forego its manifold advantages and comforts and science has invented and is inventing from decade to decade safety devices for reducing accidents to an appreciable minimum.

Then, the automobile, in turn, has made it very awkward for pedestrians, so much so that an appalling number of lives have been cut suddenly short of their alloted span. However, time will mark the desired change in this respect, too. More care on the part of both foot passengers and drivers, vigorous punishment of careless motorists who defy speed limits and rules of the road, and especially those car operators who apparently do not mind making it "awkward" for man, woman or child who happen to cross their path—these factors in present highway travel having now found their place in public safety planning and educating, we may entertain a lively hope for a steady and growing reduction in the number of auto accidents.

TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT AND PROHIBITION.

With the close of Monday night the people of this Province will know the result of the referendum, about which there is so much divergence of opinion. And, mind you, it is not a question of whether there is any good whatever in liquor, but the whole matter resolves itself into a struggle between two factions of society—one who would "coerce" the other into accepting legislation to make it a penal offence to import liquor, even for the most temperate use; and another class who simply wish to exercise what is termed their inherent individual British freedom in regard to what they shall drink. It is not necessary to here refer to the abuse of strong drink, nor to the implied object of prohibitionists to "save their brother's soul from perdition and his family from the poor-house; but coercion of individual ethics, not in the real sense of the ward criminal, may be rather a dangerous undertaking. In religion, many say it led to the stake and the inquisition; in drink, it has converted hitherto law-abiding districts into law-defying territories, in one of which an inspector-parson sent a living soul to meet his maker—quite unprepared for all he knew—on a minute's notice, so to speak.

But the main question is, 'Will prohibition stop one faction of society from getting drink at will of another?" An old axiom has it that "forbidden fruit is sweet," and going back to the beginning of this dear old world, we find that the love of forbidden fruit is inherited by man, and woman, too, from non-resisting Adam and shameless Eve. Die or not, they ate of the only fruit of all their surrounding abundance forbidden them; and unless man's whole nature suddenly changes, prohibition or not, he's probably going to get liquor if he wants it. It's really too easy to make, from so many different products, to stamp it out by coercion. In Ireland, for instance, under a license law, in spite of an army of revenue men, illicit "mountain due"—sweeter, they say, than the legalized stuff has always been obtainable; and if the Lord of Hosts' command of obedience laid upon our first parents as to what they should "eat" and what they should not "eat," did not prove effectively prohibitive, it does seem hopeless to expect a universal compliance with the the commands of prohibitionists.

Temperance—most desirable in all things—has led to the prohibition movement. The origin of the temperance agitation dates back from the beginning of the nineteenth century, and the merit of the first steps in this direction belongs to the United States, where in the month of April, 1808, a temperance society was established a Mareau, Saratoga, in the State of New York. In February, 1826, the American Temperance Society found its origin at Boston; the New York State Temperance Society was formed in 1829. The movement next spread to the old world, starting at Ross, County Wexford, Ireland; thence to Belfast, North Ireland, and before 12 months had passed 60 societies had been constituted with a membership of 8,500—Catholics and Protestants. We next find it gaining ground in Scotland, and gradually invading the whole of Great Britain, until in 1830 there were 30 temperance societies in England, with 10,000 members, and 130 societies in Scotland numbering 25,478 members. In June, 1831, the great British and Foreign Temperance Society was organized in London. But these societies only made a crusade against gin and liquor, until gradually beer was included in their activities, which enlarged movement took shape at Lancashire in September, 1831. However, it was not until 1836 that teetotalism found solid footing in London. Good templorism orginated in New York in 1857, and rapidly spread throughout the United States. In 1868 the order established itself in England, in 1869 in Scotland, and in 1870 in Ireland, since which time its progress has been singularly rapid. In 1846 the liquor traffic was suppressed in the State of Maine, but in 1856 the laws were repealed as not satisfactory, and it became lawful to distil and sell spirits, and to have spirits in one's possession, although drinking houses were still prohibited.

And so we see that the temperance movement made steady progress in curbing the evils of strong drink, for which it is to be commended, without any general coercion of those who will not or need not look through the other fellow's spectacles. And in many minds today the question arises, would it not be better that temperance people confine themselves to those lines which have been productive of much good, without forcibly attempting to hitch an unwilling "individual freedom" horse to their "prohibition" cart, in which event the horse may kick over the traces and spill the fruit already garnered.

NERVOUS TROUBLE

Nervous troubles are, without a doubt, the most discouraging form of sickness to the sufferer. You are tired and ill but cannot say what is wrong, no pain except frequent headaches, you are fretful cross and irritable without a cause; no ambition or desire to continue your daily routine, you feel a picking or itching of the limbs or body and feel that some terrible calamity is about to overcome you; you cannot enter into your former pleasures, and prefer solitude to the company of your friends. In such cases the whole nervous system is deranged and requires the most careful attention. Take one of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets every night or every second night and if there is any tendency to stomach trouble take one Special Stomach Tablet three times a day before meals.

WINNIPEG POINTING TO PRO. GAME TIRED OF AMATEUR MASQUERADE

PLAYERS OUT TO GRAB COIN ARE TIRED OF FETTERS—STANLEY CUP MAY YET FIND ITS WAY TO PRAIRIES.

(By W. J. Finlay.)

WINNIPEG, April 15.—With all this chat about the tourist hockeyists and how the game is going to be cleaned up in Canada before another winter, there is a strong feeling in western provinces at least that professional hockey will be the outcome of it all. Even in Winnipeg, where amateur hockey has reigned supreme for so many years, there is a feeling that a professional league will be doing business next winter. Winnipeg players have shown by their actions in the past two years that they want some of the big earnings that have passed through the wickets. Some thirty players from here imigrated to other cities, where the inducements were better, either with jobs or cash offers. Only one player, Frank Frederickson, turned out and out pro., and proclaimed to the world that he wanted to turn his ability as a hockeyist to the very best advantage. Many of those players who flitted westward have been banned from Manitoba hockey at least. Others have been professionalized in other provinces, so that their chances of ever being allowed to participate in amateur ranks again are mighty slim. Several of these boys are back at their homes in Winnipeg now, and no doubt would jump at the opportunity of playing before their home folks again. But it is very doubtful if they would be allowed to perform as amateurs.

This all leads up to the question of a professional league operating in Winnipeg next winter. Suggestions have been thrown out and some action taken that Winnipeg join in a league with Saskatoon, Regina and Moose Jaw next winter. Brandon is also named, so as to break the railway journey between the two provinces, and two teams would likely represent Winnipeg, making a six-club loop. Alberta would have the "Big Four" league, and the winners could play off for the prairie provinces championship, while affiliation would probably be made with the Patricks, so as to have the proper organization throughout the west. This is all very much talk just now, but it is known that Billy Holmes, of the Ampitheatre, would welcome such a circuit. The Winnipeg teams would be formed from many of the stars who jumped west. There is hardly a player who left the city to earn honors in other places who wouldn't rather perform here for much less inducements. Their homes, families and real friends are here, and as long as they were assured of a reasonable income would no doubt line up under such conditions.

Even the amateurs of the past season have shown that they are looking for just a little more than the game and honor. The Winnipegs and Falcons enjoyed the most profitable season on record, and very properly rewarded the boys the benefit of it with a trip to the States, the Pegs going as far as Boston. The players were shown a good time on this trip, in fact, the Falcon hockey club, which started the season somewhat in the hole, is having a hard time breaking even with its finances, despite the fact that nearly 8,000 was turned over to the club during the season. This only goes to show that it takes just about as much money to run an amateur club these days as it would a professional. Of course, the long railway jumps between Manitoba and Saskatchewan would entail heavy expense, but this would no doubt be overcome by the increased interest owing to the inter-provincial rivalry.

The Winnipeg public has always been partial to amateur hockey, but have shown that the grade of hockey must be of the very best, and the competition of the keenest, before they would give it any great amount of support. Winnipeg has managed to provide a fast brand of hockey, and will most likely continue to do so judging by the rapid strides the youngsters have made during the last winter. But the public is not so fickle to pass up good hockey just because it is professional. They want the best, and if Winnipeg teams were composed of home talent, there is no doubt but the returns at the gate would be substantial enough to make it worth while both for the players and the management and who knows but the Stanley Cup may come back to Winnipeg again.

A Woman puts on Spectacles

(This was written by a woman in answer to our inquiry: "Do you read newspaper advertisements?")

Newspaper advertisements have an irresistible fascination for me. Sometimes I know I shouldn't take the time to read them—but I always do. Of course, I don't mean that I always read them ALL, but I certainly read some every day. I even read the men's ads. There is a certain satisfaction in surprising one's husband with up-to-date information on things only men are supposed to be interested in.

I used to have a prejudice against Life Insurance until I read the advertisements. I thought the premiums were too much for my husband to pay, but an advertisement I read changed my opinion about that at once. And I got my husband to make a will and appoint a Trust Company as his executor because of an advertisement I read about it, which set me thinking.

But, of course, the advertisements that interest me most are those of domestic things. Whenever I order groceries, for instance, I find myself asking for the things whose names are familiar to me through reading the advertisements in the newspapers. They may not be better than others, but as I don't know the names of others how can I tell? Goods that are attractively and regularly advertised always strike me as prosperous, and prosperous things must be good, otherwise they wouldn't be prosperous, would they?

And when I am buying things for my toilet I always buy the well-known things, although salesgirls try to sell me others sometimes. I never let them, though. Why buy the unknown when you can be sure of the quality of the known?

And I find my friends like to talk about the well-known things that they eat or use or wear—like foods, canned soups, cheese, washing machines, corsets, gloves and things like that. So there must be something in a name after all. The way I feel about it is that no business man would spend a lot of money to advertise a poor article; therefore, those things that are advertised must have superior qualities about them. And I have found that advertised articles, far from costing more than unadvertised goods, can very often be bought for less. At least you know what you should pay for them—the makers tell you generally in their advertisements.

As for the advertisements of the stores, some of them are not as attractive as many of the more general advertisements, but I just couldn't shop without them. You see, I am like many other women. I have a young family, and I cannot get out too often during the day. But I read the store advertisements regularly, and by doing so know just what is being sold, and I can always telephone my order if I can't go out conveniently that day. That, I think, is the great value of advertisements to women in the home. They do keep one well informed. Don't you think so?

WOMEN GIVE BOXING SHOW.

And Are Endorsed By Clergymen.

SEWICKLEY, Pa., April 15.—Society women of Sewickley, aided by the Rev. A. C. Howell, rector of the Sewickley Protestant Episcopal Church, and the Rev. William Curran, pastor of the St. James Catholic church, "pulled off" their big boxing show here recently for the benefit of the local post of the American Legion, despite the protest of two prominent ministers of the town that it "gave encouragement to professional pugilism."

Few, if any, of the exclusive balls given by Pittsburg and Sewickley social leaders could boast of a more brilliant assemblage than that at the "boxing exhibition," in which appeared such fistic specialists as Johnny Ray, Jack McAuliffe, Mike Moran, Patsy Young, Irish Chick Rodgers, Young Ritchie, Val Grunan, Willie Scott, Buck Crouse and Con Barth.

Colonel Churchill B. Mehard, who refereed the bouts, several times warned the boxers to fight and "cut out the stallings," as the boxers were inclined to let up when the rounds became rough, fearing, as Irish Chick Rodgers said, that "the ladies present might make a holler." The referee had announced that the "boxers were there to box," and that the exhibition was "to be no pink tea."

The boxers were entertained at supper after the "exhibition" in the parish house of the St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal church.

JACK DARRAGH OF THE OTTAWAS RETIRES FOR GOOD

Hockey Heroes Step Aside For Baseball.

OTTAWA, April 15. — Hockey heroes here have stepped aside and baseball awaits the call of the fans. As the champion Ottawas fade out of the picture they bring to a close the career of Jack Darragh. The right wing player is sincere in his determination to retire this time. Ottawas have lines out for a good man to replace him, though Benedict is billed for his old position back on the wing.

There are some good inside stories going the rounds regarding the Ottawas' trip. Ottawas had a grand time, there is no doubt of that.

SPORT COMMENT

Frankie Lapp has made good with Toledo and it looks as though Morrisette had also shown to gain a place on Bresnahan's pitching staff. While the pair will be missed by Hamilton, the $3,000 received for them will look good to the local club, which finished last season with a slight deficit. Lapp also goes like a house afire early in the season, but during the two years he was with Hamilton, he seemed to go stale toward the close of the season. But he will not have to catch all the games at Toledo as he did in Hamilton.

"Play on the level."

This is the message from Judge Landis, the one-man commission, that ball players carried in their minds when the season opened up the other day.

The dictator of the sport gave it on the eve of the opening games at the homecoming of the Chicago Cubs.

"I am a rookie in the game as far as baseball is concerned," said Landis.

"Never before in any field of activity in America has anything been scrutinized as will our activity be scrutinized this season. We know why this is going to be without going over a painful subject.

"If a player is caught napping at first, if he muffs a ball, there will be winks of the eye in the stands and whisperings, 'I told you so.'

"We will tolerate that only for a short time and the characteristic spirit of fair play will kill that attitude."

There has been a golden age of literature and a golden age of art.

Sport lovers to-day are living in the Golden Age of Sport.

Crowds have never been so great—interest in many sports has never been as keen.

And within the last twelve months we have had a Babe Ruth, a Man o' War and a Charley Paddock!

There isn't any argument about supremacy here. The records tell the story unadorned.

It may be this Golden Age will bring a broad jumper who can clear twenty-five feet, a high jumper who can reach seven feet, and it may be that Paddock will at last give us a 100-yard mark as low as 9 2-5.

There has never been a time in all history when as many, young and old, were taking an active interest in so many outdoor competitions. And this wave of enthusiasm is no brief flare. It is here to last indefinitely, for few who ever come upon the lure are willing to quit.

And these record-breakers of sport who set the far boundaries are big assets to the game and therefore to the race.

They help to stir up interest—they bring out old enthusiasm and add on new ones.

They are the pacemakers of the big age.

—Grantland Rice.

Every sport now has its wonder, male or female. The ring has Dempsey, with a Carpentier as challenger.

Miss Stirling, Miss Leitch, Mlle. Langlen, Tilden, Johnston, Chick Evans, Paddock, Ruth—wherever you turn there is preponderant class.

No wonder the populace is stirred up as the palpitating multitudes were never stirred before.

Lew Tendler, Philadelphia lightweight, is the first mitt-pusher to call on the science of surgery to help him in his ring work. With two frail hands that would not stand the punching power Tendler puts behind them, the "Newsboy Champ" has been obliged to cancel many bouts when the small bones in one or the other of his paws cracked under the punching strain. Last week Tendler underwent an operation in Philadelphia for the purpose of having some of the small bones removed.

The operation has been pronounced a success, inasmuch as the incisions have healed, but it will not be known to what extent the "cure" has gone until the boxer resumes work and uses his paws in a few bouts. The thumb on Tendler's left hand has been particularly troublesome, one bone breaking on three different occasions.

The only other lightweight who suffered constant pain and inconvenience from his dinner grapnels, was Battling Nelson, former lightweight king. Nelson has broken both of his hands no less than four times, while even to-day they give him considerable pain when he takes a tight grip or strikes even a punching bag. Nelson has been in retirement for several years, too, but the bruised hands have apparently never completely healed.

Tendler underwent the operation on his own accord. Disgusted with the manner in which his digits acted after each bout, the battler hunted up a surgeon and inquired about a plan to do away with those bones which were most troublesome. The surgeon advised the boxer that the bones could be removed, but did not guarantee the advisability of the operation for Tendler's particular line of work. Tendler lost completely the first joint of his third left finger, this being necessary, according to the surgeon, because of the condition of the bone which had been bruised badly a half dozen times. The result of the operation will be watched with interest by the entire fistic fraternity.

MANY VETERANS NOT ESTABLISHED

C. G. MACNEIL TELLS PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE THEY NUMBER 250,000.

OTTAWA, April 15.—(Canadian Press.)—That a quarter of a million ex-service men were not re-established and that fifty per cent. of these were in desperate circumstances and forced to makeshift measures in order to live, was stated by C. G. MacNeil, G.W.V.A. Dominion Secretary, before the Special Parliamentary committee this morning.

Large employing organizations throughout the country, including the government, were reducing staffs and that a majority of these were soldiers was one of the supporting assertions made by Mr. MacNeil. Unemployment situation would become exceptionally severe during the next winter. Of twenty-nine thousand soldiers taken into the Civil Service only eight thousand had permanent positions. Greater flexibility in government departments handling soldiers' affairs was urged. The secretary submitted a series of resolutions looking toward betterment in socia and employment conditions among soldiers.

Peterborough, April 16, 1921.
To the Editor of the Examiner:

How does G. N. Gordon, M.P., reconcile his vote on the Fielding amendment when the House of Commons divided on the 13th of April on the Reciprocity Pact of 1911?

Mr. Gordon's pledge to the electors was that he was in favour of Protection of our industries, and particularly of the employees of these industries.

Mr. Fielding's amendment to the Prime Minister's motion that the House resolve itself again in Committee of Supply, was as follows:

"That in the opinion of the House the Government should bring in a measure to approve, ratify and confirm the agreement respecting reciprocal trade between the United States and Canada signed at Washington on the 21st day of January, 1911, by the Hon. P. C. Knox, on the part of the United States, and by Hon. W. S. Fielding, and the late Hon. William Paterson, on the part of Canada, which agreement remains on the statute book of the United States."

This amendment was supported by Mr. Gordon and had it carried, ninety per cent. of the employees of the manufacturing industries of this city would be permanently out of employment within a few months.

Is this the way Mr. Gordon respects his pledges to the electors of this constituency?

Surely an explanation from Mr. Gordon is in order.

Yours truly,
ROLAND DENNE.

WHY I WILL VOTE "YES" ON MONDAY.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Alcohol is the spirit of intoxicating liquor. It is not a "creature of God," for it is a product of decay. It is a poison and not a food. Alcohol is not assimilated, but enters the blood as poison. It paralyses the higher faculties of the mind and lets loose those that govern the lower passions. This is why we have the saying, 'When whisky's in, wit's out." It lessens the power of the will, and increases the thirst for itself instead of quenching thirst as water does.

I will vote "yes" because it is what the people have asked for during a hundred years. They said, "While whisky is brought into the country it will be consumed. Stop the making and importation, and I will vote Prohibition." Now, a "yes" vote on Monday will accomplish all this. "Bill 26" and the "Sandy Bill."

I will vote "yes" because of British fair play. I voted for "Banish the Bar," and I'll vote for "Banish the bar in the cellar." If my vote helped to take away the poor man's bottle, I will see that it helps to take away or keep away the rich man's barrel.

I will vote "yes" because of my personal liberty. A gentleman with more booze than brains drove his car right into the wheels of the buggy in which I was driving and seriously interfered with my personal liberty. The great railway corporations of the world refuse to allow a man who drinks liquor to operate a million dollar mogul engine, with a thousand human beings on board a train valued at $500,000. Why interfere with this man's personal liberty? What about the personal liberty of a thousand people?

I will vote "yes" and keep out the drink, because of those whom drink will injure. The traffic is a huge parasite sapping the spiritual, moral, social, financial, commercial, and the economic vitals of the nation. Hundreds of thousands of people have suffered because of this monster.

I will vote "yes" because the spiritual, intellectual, moral, and social, commercial and political leaders of this Province will vote "yes," and the greatest minds of the world are against strong drink, and for Prohibition.

"I will vote "yes" because of the coming generation of boys and girls, who will meet the biting serpent at every corner unless we keep him out. I have no longer a boy, but my neighbour has, and I will vote "yes" to save him.

I will vote "yes" because Jesus Christ was a Prohibitionist. He never made intoxicating wine at the marriage feast in Cana. The Church of God is the greatest temperance society in the world. As a preacher and a Christian, I dare not vote "no." Vote "yes," and make the hearts of tens of thousands rejoice, and this Province blossom as the rose.

Rev. G. E. Ross.

To the Editor, Examiner

I was solicited the other day to attend a meeting to show up the sins, that Probishion had done. I said to the gentleman, I thought the other party could show 100 rongs that whiskey had done for men to every one that Probishion had done. I did Not go. I get all they have to say, through the examiner and can Judge for myself. Now My opinion, is this the temperance people want to help, men to be better men, surely, we cant find any Good whiskey has ever done any one of us who Have tried it Now we all Now, the great Harm it has done, it has made men Kill, there wives? and children, ruined there Homes, cost them there farms, and Homes, throueh drink and the best Bisness men in this country has fallen to drink the best, profnell men Have fallen, to drink, the best doctors Have went under with it and its use the race. Has suffered, from it, we dont hafto. Go fur to see it, once it gets a hold of a man. Want, Poverty, Disgrace, are all the fruits, of whiskey. Brothers Have disgraced there iter and Mother and fathers, through drink, some will sy for medison, well I think, for every one, it ever curedit has Killed 100, and we Might better save the 99, and let the one, die Now I think the good thinking, people will Vote, YES, Bisness men bosess, and all people wro employ labor, will vote for sober men, Give us sober men, we dont want drunkerds, to do our work, we dont want, to deal with men when, they are drunk, do we, the day for men to be, realing on the streets is past, or driving, In rigs of any Kind we dont want, whiskey at the wheel, Fathers even though they have done rong, themselves and Boys, will Go on the 18, and Vote the stuff out of existance By marking it Yes, and Im sure the Mothers and sisters will Vote the disegrace as far as they can, from there Door, and mark there Ballet YES, Now who is Gonto Vote for whiskey, very Fuew and they will be ashamed of themselves on 10th when they see, How great a Majority was roled up in Ontario, for right, and a Better, and sober race, I trust every One who Votes On 18th will Mark His or her Ballet, as they would Mark itif standing in the future World, before there God and they will have no regret.

Thanking You, I am
Yours truly,
GEORGE STEVENS.

SUNDAY BASEBALL LEGAL IN MARYLAND

BALTIMORE, Md., April 15.—The Maryland blue laws, so far as they apply to Sunday baseball, received a solar plexus punch which left them "hors-de-combat" when a jury in the Criminal Court rendered a verdict acquiring Jack Dunn manager of the Baltimore International League team, who was tried under an indictment based upon the fact that Sunday games have been played at Oriole Park. The case was given to the jury at 2.40 p.m and the verdict was returned thirty-five minutes later.

When the foreman of the jury announced "not guilty" as the verdict the large crowd in the court room started a demonstration which was quickly silenced by Judge Duffy.

A crowd surrounded Dunn and his counsel and showered them with congratulations. As the jurors left the room after being discharged they received good-natured slaps on the back and exclamations of "good man", "atta boy" and other compliments followed them until they reached the door to the corridor.

The same law under which Dunn was indicted provided for the death penalty for those convicted of "blasphemy," according to Joseph N. Ulman of counsel for Dunn, in his closing address to the jury. That same law, said Ulman was written into the statute books of this state at a time when they branded, burned men for slight offenses and hung some people because they thought they were imbued with supernatural powers.

ROWING CLUB THE NEWEST LOCAL SPORT ORGANIZATION

MEETING WILL BE CALLED EARLY NEXT WEEK TO TAKE STEPS TO PUT PETERBORO ON THE MAP IN THE ROWING GAME.

If the plans of a number of local enthusiasts materialize, and there is no reason why they should not, a Peterborough Rowing Club may shortly be added to the list of the city's sporting organizations. A meeting will be called for early next week, to which all who are interested will be invited, and it is hoped that the formation of a Rowing Club will result. The promoters believe that Peterborough, with its splendid river, affording every facility for practice, should have no difficulty in organizing a club that would give a good account of itself. Several men who know the rowing game thoroughly have promised to act as coaches, and it is anticipated that there will be no lack of aspirants. While the plans of those who are interesting themselves in the idea are not yet complete, it may be stated that they count on organizing several fours, and possibly a number of pairs as well, and before long the Peterborough colors may be found in the big sculling events of the year.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 16.—(Canadian Press).—Stocks were active and strong at the opening of the week-end session, short covering giving momentum to further advances. Oils, Steels and Motors were the dominant features, Rails making only nominal gains. Within the first half-hour, advances of 1 to 2½ points accompanied purchases of Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt, Crucible and Vanadium Steels, Inspiration Copper and United Fruit. Other firm to strong shares included American Woollen, Sears Roebuck and Studebaker and Chandler Motors.

TORONTO, April 16. (Canadian Press.) There were 43 failures in Canada during the week ending yesterday, according to Dunn's Review, as compared with 18 in the corresponding week of 1920.

Of last week's failures 15 were in Ontario and 15 in Quebec. Other provinces were represented as follows: Manitoba 4, Alberta 1, Sask., 3; British Columbia 2 and Nova Scotia 3.

KINGSTON, April 14.—Relations between Mayor Nickle of this city and Auditor Mickler of the Hydro-electric Commission are still strained over statements made here some time ago by Mickler in reference to power. The Mayor declares that he would prove Auditor Mickler a liar by the Hydro Commission's own letter, which stated that the Provincial commission had never figured a rate for Kingston street lighting. While in Kingston, Mickler declared to the Mayor that the Kingston street lighting rate was computed by the Provincial commission engineers.

AT THE GRAND.

"Way Down East" was repeated at the Grand yesterday before enthusiastic audiences. Anyone who fails to see this picture will be missing something the like of which will probably never be produced again, for "Way Down East" is one of those pictures that it would be impossible to surpass. It is a thrilling, gripping, heart-searching presentation of "a simple story of plain people," and every detail, from the blossoms on the apple-tree in the foreground of one scene to the rushing mighty fall of water in the last, is perfect. Smiles and tears, sobs and laughter, thrill through the watching house, and the sorrows of Anna Moore, "who might be anyone, from anywhere," are more real than any spoken play, with its artificial atmosphere, could possibly make them. The comedy note running through this picture is as real as the more sombre tones, and laughter shakes the audience when the mild-eyed Professor essays to make love, and the village loungers snore beside the stove. It has a happy ending, this throbbing little story, but it has some big scenes before the final close-up of the delectable little bride with her sweet face and dainty dress. As several of those who have sat for two hours and watched this super-production of the super-producer unfold to a thrilling climax have remarked, "It is worth twice the money. I wouldn't have missed it for worlds."

"THE SILVER KING."

"The Silver King" and "East Lynne" are the two bills chosen from the extensive repertoire of the Trans-Canada English Players to be presented here when the company play their initial engagement at the Grand Opera House next week.

No two better selections could have been made with a view to pleasing the majority of theatre-goers of this city. "The Silver King" has long been recognized as the foremost domestic drama of the English stage, and it has not been given a proper presentation in this country since the days of Wilson Barrett, who created the role of Wilferd Denver and played it throughout the English-speaking world for a period of fifteen years. "East Lynne" should prove equally as acceptable here, although it has been presented many times by inferior companies. This grand old play in the hands of such sterling actors as Trans-Canada Theatres Limited has brought out here direct from the Lyceum Theatre, London, England, has assumed a new dignity by their interpretation.

ALLEN THEATRE,
April 16th, 1921.

To the Public:

You no doubt have read many of James Oliver Curwood's stories of the men and women and animals of the North. Perhaps you have read "Kazan," admitted to be the greatest the famous author has ever written. It is an enchanting and powerful picture of the part a great dog played in a love story of the North. As a book it gripped, amazed and delighted; and now that it has been brought to the screen its charm and thrill are intensified even beyond the strength of the written word. "Kazan," half-wolf, half-dog, becomes a real character, almost human in translation to the screen. Joan, the girl, brought from civilization into the land of the forgotten; Thorpe, the avenger, who turned lover; McCready, the brute; Humpy Joe, whose music charmed even the fighting instinct of the "killer-dogs"—all live before you as vividly as they lived in the authors mind.

The presentation of "Kazan" at the Allen Theatre on Monday, will afford you an opportunity of seeing and enjoying a masterpiece of fiction for the photo-dramatizaton of which a million readers have clamoured.

Sincerely yours,
ALLEN THEATRE

"THE GENTLEMAN RIDER" — ENGLISH RACING STORY.

By way of a pleasing variety comes "A Gentleman Rider" the big British Mastercraft Production, scheduled to be shown at the Regent Theatre on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week.

Who does not love a horse race? In England, patronised by Royalty, it is the beloved of sports, and from England comes this big feature of the turf. The picture excellently filmed is delightful in that minute attention to detail one naturally expects in a racing picture filmed in a racing country.

"A Gentleman Rider" comes highly recommended as being one of the really big successes in its line this year. There is not a dull moment, and yet at no time is the action exaggerated.

The heroine of the plot played by Miss Violet Hopson is a characteristic British girl whom you will love at first sight. Stewart Rome in the title role charms one by his dignity and realism, and lastly there is Jupiter who, in winning the race, opens the door to happiness to two very lovable human young people—yes, you are bound to love Jupiter, too.

The picture "gets" you from the first to the final denouement, and as the little racing town of Epsom was set agog with excitement, so you will feel yourself carried away. Do not fail to see it!

WOULD YOU CALL IT "THE CITY OF MASKS'??

Robert Warwick, New Yorker, Agrees with Author.

Though he is at present making pictures in California, Robert Warwick, the photoplay star, is a dyed-in-the-wool New Yorker. The scenes in his new picture, "The City of Masks," coming to the Regent Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, were laid in New York and Mr. Warwick declares that the "sets" were so realistic that they actually made him homesick.

"I've lived most of my life in New York," said the star recently, "and from personal observation, George Barr McCutcheon was right when he called the metropolis 'the city of masks.' You never know your neighbors there. Why, I recall a little up town restaurant there I used to dine nearly every evening, chiefly because a certain elderly waiter was such a kindly and considerate soul. Then one evening I missed him and discovered that the police had called around for him just that afternoon. He was a noted French criminal whom the police of two continents had been seeking for two years."

It's the romantic side of camouflaged New York that is brought out in "The City of Masks." Loi Wilson is the leading woman and the picture, which is a Paramount Artcraft, was directed by Thomas Heffron.

BIG YACHT BLOWN UP FOR O'BRIEN PICTURE "BROADWAY AND HOME."

Director Crosland Has Nervous Four Minutes With Time Fuse.

One of the biggest night scenes that has ever been made for a motion picture occurs in the forthcoming Selznick picture, "Broadway and Home," starring Eugene O'Brien.

Over two thousand persons from Boston, Salem, Lynn, Beverly and Gloucester, Mass., crowded the sea wall in Gloucester to witness the staging of this scene when the picture was in course of production.

The scene shows the blowing up of a yacht after it had crashed on the rocks after a terrific storm. In order to create the desire effect, a new double generating set, the largest owned by any motion picture company, and the entire fire department of Gloucester were used.

The powerful generator furnished the required current for the 100,000 candle power arc lamps used for the necessary illumination, and the fire department was necessary to continually pump water in front of two huge aeroplane propellers in order to provide the necessary rain and windstorm effect.

To blow up the yacht a fuse, timed for six minutes, was placed, but the film in the camera was only enough to last a four-minute grind. A few turns were made every few seconds, but at the end of six minutes the explosion did not come. It came four minutes later, however, and the three cameras focussed on the yacht had just enough negative left in their magazines to get the picture.

Alan Crosland, who directed the picture, says that the last four minutes were the longest in his entire existence.

"Broadway and Home" will be the feature photoplay attraction at the Empire Theatre for three days next week, beginning Monday.

A FRENCH FARCE

Still another well fumigated French farce was presented to New York this week. "Toto," by Maurice Hennequin and Felix Duquesnel, was adapted to the modest disposition of the American audience and produced at the Bijou Theatre. It serves to give the many admirers of Leo Ditrichstein an opportunity of admiring him in a light and amusing role, but the process of making this comedy of Parisian life eminently respectable has evidently dulled a great deal of its wit. Toto is supposed to be a roue of the deepest dye, and only for the sake of seeing his daughter happily married, does he repent—or rather promise repentance. The difficulty which he encounters in keeping that promise furnish the fun of the piece. In the original French version there is probably plenty of fun, but the American version appears to go flat. Evidently a great deal of essential spice has been left out of the concoction. It is as though a gin rickey were being served minus the gin.

Good Comedy.

"The Ghost Between," a new offering at the Thirty-Ninth Street Theatre, has an ingenius plot. It is the story of a doctor who falls in love with the wife of a patient who dies in spite of his best efforts to save him. The young widow has difficulty in supporting herself, but she will not consider the doctor's proposal of marriage because of the love which she has for the memory of her husband. However, the doctor at length gains her consent by the promise that the marriage shall be nothing more than a form by which he shall gain the privilege of supporting her. This arrangement does not work out very well. The wife begins to surrender to the blandishments of one of the doctor's bachelor friends. That does not dismay the husband, but, on the other hand, serves to open his eyes to the fact that he no longer has to contend with a ghostly rival, but merely one of flesh and blood. The obstacle of his wife's too-fond memory having disappeared, he cheerfully sets about the task of winning her for a real wife, and in the end everybody is happy, save perhaps the bachelor friend.

Although it opens tearfully, with a death scene, there is a great deal of good comedy in "The Ghost Between," and it is played by an excellent company, headed by Arthur Bryron as the doctor.

RETAILERS WARNED AGAINST "JOKER"

PRINTERS INK COMMENTS ON FIGHT TO CURB FRAUDULENE ADVERTISING.

Editorially and under the caption "Canada's Fraudlent Advertising Law," Printers Ink warns Canadian merchants to avoid the mistake made by their brethren in the United States.

The article in full reads: "The Retail Merchants' Association of Canada is wrestling with the problem of fraudulent advertising, and its efforts will be watched with much sympathetic interest on this side of the border. The Fraudlent Advertising Act which was passed by the Dominion Government in 1914 has been found practically barren of results, due to the inclusion of the word 'knowingly' and the lack of any organization specifically entrusted with its enforcement. Now the association is endeavoring to amend the law, and has asked the Government to appoint an inspector to pass on violations and conduct prosecutions.

"If our Canadian friends will be guided by ten years of experience in the enforcement of similar laws on this side of the border they will abandon their present attempt to modify and limit the effect of the word 'knowingly' and make a determined effort to secure its elimination from the law altogether. For experience has aply demonstrated that this seemingly innocent word, no matter how it may be qualified, by additional veriage, is ever the chosen refuge of scoundrels. It renders it necessary to prove or disprove what was in somebody's mind at an indefinite moment in the past. And when it is limited or modified by additoinal clauses, it simply places upon the courts the additional task of deciding what was in the minds of the legislative body which passed the law.

"If there is any good reason why the author of statements concerning his own merchandize should not be required to have knowledge of their truth or fasity, it has never been brought to our attention. According to William Findlay, Business Manager of the Toronto Globe, Canada is a fertile field for the promoters of get-rich-quick enterprises and fraudlent stock swindling schemes. The money which is sunk in these enterprises is naturally lost to the legitimate trade of the Dominion, and the only way to stop this loss effectually is to place the responsibility for the false statements squarely where it belongs. Attempts to qualify or to shift the burden of proof will hardly scotch the snake, let alone kill it."

BOARD OF TRADE GENERAL MEETING TUESDAY.

Clean-Up Week—April 24th to 30th.

The business alacrity, with which the Board of Trade's activities will be carried on during the third year of re-organization, can be judged by the statement from Mr. J. J. Duffus, the President, when he remarked that the Executive Council have held seven meetings since the annual meeting, which will now be followed by the regular monthly meeting to be held on Tuesday evening next, April 19th, at 8 p.m.

At the last meeting of the Executive it was decided to again draw the attenion of the citizens to the necessity of a general spring clean-up, by securing the co-operation of interested individuals and organizations working for healthy and attractive environmenets. It is recommended that the week of April 24th to April 30th should be set aside for this "clean-up week," so that by May 1st, the city should put on an appearance of mirror-like cleanliness.

Mr. Duffus is expecting a particularly large gathering of members and interested citizens at the general meeting on Tuesday next, as business of particular importance to the community welfare will be considered.

The President wishes to particularly emphasize the fact that the Board is a citizens' organization, impartial in every degree in its activities, and that it is for the enthusiastic citizens to make of it what they will. The general meeting is open to all, where any citizen may offer suggestions of any kind which will be of benefit to the city as a whole.

The majority of cloth frocks have a softening relief at the neckline and that in the majority of cases this detail will take a lingerie form.

FINISHING TOUCHES TO HUNTER STREET BRIDGE WILL RUN WORK INTO SUMMER

APPLYING TERRA COTTA AND POURING HANDRAIL FORMS WILL REQUIRE TWO MONTHS—CLIPPING OF CONCRETE SURFACE NOT YET DONE.

That the concluding part of the work on the Ashburnham Bridge will be completed in two months, and that the final chapter of the building of Peterborough's half-million dollar span can be written in, is the opinion of Fred Christie, Engineer Barber's inspector.

Leaning on the temporary wooden handrail this morning, Mr. Christie said that he thought the grand finale would take place some time in June. Later the paving of the roadway will be done, and the chipping of the cement to bring out th granite finish can be finished later, providing the funds hold out.

Six Lamps to be Installed.

The setting of the terra-cotta handrail is progressing very well, Mr. Christie said. It extends across the main arch between the high lamp stands on both sides of the river arch. The south portion is nearly complete. Within a month, Mr. Christie said, the terra-cotta on both sides should be set and the cement handrail on the approaches poured. Then the four cement lamp standards, which will each have six 50 candle-power bulbs, shedding a total illumination of 3,000 candle-power, have to be poured, the sidewalk laid, and the Quakes Oats platform constructed.

The forms for th lamp standards are started, and this morning a gang of carpenters were busy putting up the scaffolding for the platform which will be rushed to completion.

The Colour Scheme.

The terra-cotta colour scheme has been remarked upon both favourably and unfavourably. The architect on the bridge who suggested the colours is an authority, in fact, makes a specialty of designing decorative work of this kind, and what his reputaton s can be judged from his being special architect to the Vanderbilts, to Eastman, of kodak fame, and many other prominent Amerians. The warm colours were chosen to set off the dullness of the other portions of the structure.

OPPOSES CLERGY ENTERING TRADE.

BOSTON, April 16.—Bishop William Lawrence, in his annual address today ot the Massachusetts Diocesan Convention of the Episcopal Church, deplored the number of clergymen who were mixing business with Holy Orders to eke out a living. Their number was startling he said, and the condition was one which he regarded as symptomatic of a let down in standards of high devotion, industry, self-sacrificing and efficiency.

"The figure may be no greater than in other calling from which many men drop out," said the bishop, "but the priest of the church is consecrated to life service, and if for good reasons he must take up another life work, should he not ask to be released from all officio relations with the ministry? I believe that we should assume life consecration in active service.

Bishop Lawrence said there was increasing danger of a commercialized ministry, due in part to small salaries. A clergyman finding it impossible to live upon his salary might be justified in retiring from the ministry and earning his living in some secular pursuit, he said, but when such a man worked six days a week in a secular pursuit and used his Sundays to make more wage in the ministry, he was "claiming the privileges both of the business man and of the clergyman."

"Consistency would, it seems to me, move such a man to make his choice between one or the other," said the bishop. "The number of clergymen holding this double relation is on the increase throughout the church, and I believe that unless there is a bracing up of public sentiment, respect for Holy Orders will decline both in the Church and business world."

CUT-UPS AT ORONO.

We had a chapter of accidents recently. Two young fellows nearly came to blows at night near the hotel; two young men got racing going home and smashed up their buggies, leaving the wreck lie all next day in the north end of the town, and the ——gang hastened on a wedding and to cover up the true condition of affairs they left on the early morning train at 5.25 for the city, after trying to get one of four local ministers to perform the task at 4 a.m., contrary to law, which the man of the cloth told them. This was pretty good for one day.—Orono News.

THE NEW CAPITOL THEATRE

The new Capitol Theatre, which opens on Monday evening, is just about the last word in luxurious amusement houses, and certainly will be a revelation to Peterborough picture-lovers. Variations of cream and gold and blue are the colour notes for this gorgeous "movie" palace, tints which are carried out in every conceivable detail, from the decorations on the ceiling to the elaborate enamelling on the candelabra in the corridors.

Beautiful Detail Work.

A cream canopy, electrically lighted, surmounts the outer entrance, and double, many-paned swinging doors in burnt mahogany finish lead through a tiled vestibule to the inner lobby, where brown and cream stairways ascend on either hand to the balcony above. A Dutch window effect, draped in blue and white, confronts one directly on entering, between the two entrances to the main floor.

Elaborate Accomodations.

Upstairs, separated from the balcony by a corridor, and facing on the street, are the rest-rooms for men and women and the manager's office. The ladies' room, equipped with separate cloak closet, is a perfect bower of daintiness, with its blue wicker furniture and blue-toned carpet, its cream and white walls, its fire-place of white and grey and graceful lighting effects in crystal and silver. The men's rest-room is upholstered in leather with blue hangings, and between these two, with an arched balcony opening directly on the street, is a cosy corner, with blue upholstered furniture and amber lights to intensify the cheerful golden glow of the surroundings. Here and in the corridor are Louis XIV. chairs upholstered in blue velous, window draperies of white lace and the same cerulean shade reproduced in heavy plush hangings, gilt standing-lamps with blue silk shades, and from blue wicker stands flowers bloom and canary birds break into soft thrills. The furnishings of the house, which is carpeted throughout, and the pictures, pastel-tinted reproductions of old prints in pretty frames, are supplied by the Murray-Kay Company of Toronto, who do the furnishing for all Paramount theatres in Canada, from Vancouver to the Maritime Provinces.

Splendid Equipment.

The mezzanine or front section of the balcony, separated from the rear section by a heavy brass railing, contains 150 individual wicker chairs in gilt and blue, and at the back is the projection booth, which is just as decorative-looking as the rest of the equipment. It is one of the largest in Ontario, and has a battery of two Simplex machines and a spotlight for singing and vaudeville use. Charles Dentelbeck, the company's electrical expert, is installing the machinery here.

There are exits on either side of the balcony corridor directly to the street, obviating the necessity of the entire upper-floor audience descending by the main stairways.

Wonderful Ornamentation.

The fresco work on the walls and ceilings of this building is simply exquisite, and was done by one of the largest firms of theatrical decorators in America, the Eckhardt Studios in New York. The color note is cream with the designs on the panels, medallions and notifs worked out elaborately in gold leaf. The front of the balcony is decorated with an ivory cameo effect in fleur-de-lis, and the immense simulated dome surmounting a central pendant fixture bearing dozens of frosted globes, has an exquisite prismatic appearance with its petal-like effects in gold and silver leaf. Three-piece delicate electric candelabra stud the walls, and the gilt-encrusted grills in the walls and ceilings, while they seem to be a part of the general decorative effect, are really heating and ventilating devices. Immense glass-paned panels, draped in white and gold-encrusted blue velours, which are electrically lighted from the rear, surmount the two exits at the front of the house, the exit on the right, where it was impossible to procure access directly to the street leading around through a corridor behind the stage to the left exit gallery. There is provision made at one side of the house for the installation of a pipe-organ later on.

The house has ample heating accomodations, and a cooling system with suction fans in the ceiling, which provide for the expulsion of all foul air and keep the air pure and cool on the warmest days.

Fine Stage.

The stage itself, with its screen of the latest model and a thirty-foot opening, has a gold-ornamented border and wonderful blue plush curtains, which entirely conceal the screen from view when not in use. It is equipped with dressing-rooms on the level and below stairs, where is also a comfortable music-room, leading directly to the orchestra pit. Here, surrounded by brass rails and plush ropes, the eight-piece orchestra will be installed.

The house, with an excellent slope which provides a good viewpoint for the screen from every possible angle, has a seating capacity of over 1,100, and the seats are exceptionally comfortable. Installed by the Interior Hardwood Company of Kitchener, which has a reputation for theatre seats second to none in the world, of veneered birch with ornamented grey standards, they have luxurious blue leather upholstery, and backs which provide an admirably comfortable curve—in fact, the maximum of comfort, with the greatest possible maximum of beauty and luxury in fittings and surroundings, seem to be the outstanding features of the new theatre, all at a minimum of expense.

Low Prices.

One may sit in these comfortable seats or in the lovely blue front-balcony chairs, in the midst of gorgeous surroundings and see the productions of the Paramount, the Robertson-Cole, the Metro and the Regal studios and numberless comedy films to the accompaniment of excellent music, for the small sum of thirty-five cents, or patronize the rear balcony for a quarter. Children in the evening accompanied by parents call for an expenditure of a quarter also, but they may see the show at a matinee for a dime, and all the prices include the amusement tax. There will be one performance in the evening and matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and from time to time, singers and musical offerings, in accordance with the Paramount programme of high-class shows, will be introduced.

First Performance.

Sir Gilbert Parker's "Behold My Wife" will be the initial production in the new house, and "Humouresque" the second "movie" triumphs which have been withheld from Peterborough for months for this occasion.

The resident manager, Mr. Edward Abbey, who was for years associated with the Butterfield-Kunsky circuit in Michigan, has managed the Adams Theatre in Detroit and other theatres in the United States, and has a large and varied experience in theatrical work. Mr. John C. Green, who has had a longer experience in moving pictures than any other man in Canada, and who is district manager for Ontario for the Paramount Theatres, will open the new house on Monday evening. A door-man and five ushers comprise the front house staff, the latter in the uniforms installed recently in the new Capitol Theatre in Montreal, and are a neat effect in brown, gold and red.

I. O. F. CONCERT.

The concert which was held at the W.O.W. Hall on Thursday evening, although not largely attended, owing perhaps to the wet weather and clashing with the Motor Show, was an absolute success. The artistes who gave their services for this occasion were each received with loud applause, and had to respond to encores.

The concert was under the auspices of Court Chemong, No. 530, and was organised by Mr. Ted Markham, who ably officiated as the stage manager, and much credit is due him for the splendid talent provided and the way he handled the concert, to the entire satisfaction of all present. The artistes who assisted were as follow: Miss Ruby Quartermaine, Mrs. B. Singleton, Mrs. Scholey, Mr. George Clark, saxophone, Mr. W. Ford cornet Mr. W. Hutchinson, Mr. Frank Pratt, Mr. Harry Carte, Mr. Willie McKinley, Mr. T. Chapman, Mr. Ted Markham. Miss E. Northcott made a very efficient accompanist.

The chair was taken by Bro. J. Eagleston, High Chief Ranger, from Ottawa, who gave a very interesting account of the objects of the Order, and said how pleased he was to come to the Court Chemong to hear such a delightful concert. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the artistes, which was received with acclamation. After a few brief remarks by Mr. J. Buyers, the company joined in the National Anthem, which brought a delightful evening to a close.

The Ladies' Literary Section of St. Peter's Holy Name Society held a meeting last evening, at which a very enjoyable programme was presented. Dr. M. C. Goodwin gave an interesting talk on "Chiropractic Methods, enlarging on the benefits to be derived from this system of treatment, which were most enlightening to those present. Miss Mamie McCarthy read an excellent paper on "Art," and a pleasing musical programme was rendered by a duet from the Misses Nolan and an instrumental solo from Miss Kennedy, accompanied by Miss Margaret McCabe. Mrs. James O'Brien occupied the chair.

Mr. Harry Carver, of Charlotte Street, returned last night after spending a three weeks' visit with his cousins, Mrs. Will Heitsman and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dixon, of Rochester, N.Y.

He now intends to return to Peterborough, and a few of the friends whom he made while in Montreal recently gathered together and gave him a farewell party on the occasion of his departure. Mr. Sturmer has evidently made some warm friends during his sojourn in Quebec.

$2,600 REO ROADSTER FOR FIRE CHIEF CHOICE OF COMMITTEE

SIX AUTOMOBILE AGENTS QUOTED PRICES, ALL BUT ONE OFFERING TO PAY FREIGHT TO PETERBORO—ALD. CROWE COUNSELED ECONOMY—TWO EX-FIREMEN CLAIM WAGES.

WILL BUY SHIRTS

The Fire, Water and Light Committee recommended to the City Council last night the purchase of a Reo roadster at $2,600 for the use of Fire Chief Grange. Six automobile agencies answered the call for tenders sent forth by the committee, and accompanied by descriptive matter, the following tenders were received:

White & Ackford, agents for the Essex roadster—Equipped with fabric tires, $2,425. or with cord tires, $2,511.

A. Brown & Company, agents for the McLaughlin-Buick roadster—Equipped with cord tires, $2,570.

H. Moore, agent for the Reo—Either roadster or touring, F.O.B. Toronto with choice of three types of tires and an unconditional guarantee till September, 1921, $2,600.

Eastwood & Stock, agents for the Studebaker—Either roadster or touring Special Six, painted in any desired colour and equipped with cord tires, $2,600.

Gillespies' Garage, agents for the Chalmers- roadster—6 cylinder, 50 horse-power, equipped with cord tires, $2,300.

C. R. Banks, agent for the Mitchell—Roadster or touring six, painted vermilion red and equipped with cord tires, $2,495.

Suggested Economy.

All of the tenders except that of the Reo specified F.O.B. Peterborough.

Ald. Joseph Crowe was in favour of leaving the matter in abeyance when the tenders were first read over by Ald. Morrison. Ald. Crowe pointed out that economy was needed now with so many men out of work and business at the ebb. Moreover, they were going to have to pay the firemen for the seven days, as the Crockett Bill was passed in the Provincial House. He saw the city faced with expense on every side and was not in favour of any expenditure that could be avoided.

Ald. Whitehouse said that the money was already provided for in the estimates.

"I think we ought to decide on some car and report to the Council," said Ald. Jones.

"This thing's been dragging on quite a while. I think we ought to decide to-night," added Ald. Whitehouse. He asked the Chairman what car the Chief fancied and Ald. Morrison replied that the Reo had always been his favourite. There was no further discussion about the car.

Ald. Jones moved that the committee recommend a Reo, Ald. Whitehouse seconded it, and the recommendation was adopted, Ald. Crowe voting for it, solacing himself with the fact that the Council can throw out the recommendation if it so desires and the purchase may be hashed over by the Council.

Haberdashery Prices.

The committee did not receive such attention from the men's furnishing stores of the city as it did from the automobile agencies. Tenders for working shirts for the firemen were advertised for and but one store tendered, Hickey's. Their quotations were: Blue cambric shirts, each, $1.75; khaki drill shirts, $2.15; striped blue negligee shirts, $2.55.

"It seems like a big price," was Ald. Crowe's remark.

"Well, it is a big price," admitted the Chairman.

The blue cambric and the khaki drill were more favourably commented on than the one described as "negligee." It appeared to be more of a "Sunday" or "dress" affair than was required for rough and ready use.

Ald. Jones wanted to leave the selection of the men's shirts to the Chairman and the Chief. He pointed out that only three samples were submitted and the prices and materials were worthy of serious consideration and the Chief would be in a position to advise the kind required. He moved the purchasing of shirts be left as suggested.

"I think you ought to deal with the one tenderer. What's the use of calling for tenders and then not deal with them," said Ald. Whitehouse.

"I'm agreeable to that," said Ald. Jones, and embodied this appendage to his motion, which was promptly adopted.

Men Claim Wages Due.

The claims of Harry Walker and Alexander Miller, two firemen taken on the force on January 1 and released on March 15, for $33.30 each, alleged to be owing them by the city, made through their solicitor, Mr. R. R. Hall, diverted to the committee from the Council, were discussed last night, "no action" being finally taken.

It appears that these men were engaged on January 1 when the "Holiday" Bill for firemen became law. The men, when they were taken on, thought they were getting paid for the holiday, only to find out later that they were not. On every pay envelope they were short $6.66. On five pays they were short $33.30, and this they say the city owes them. On March 15 they were dismissed, and at the last Council meeting, through Mr. Hall, submitted their claim.

Ald. Jones and Ald. Whitehouse, without questioning the legality of the claim, objected to the route the men took to secure redress. If they had first consulted the committee he would have taken a more favourable view of it, said Ald. Jones, and Ald. Whitehouse spoke in the same vein. Ald. Crowe contended that instead of taking no action, as suggested by Ald. Jones, the City Solicitor should report on the legality of the claim. Ald. Jones moved that no action be taken and his motion stood.

"AT HOME" INVADED IN LIQUOR ARRESTS

NEW YORK POLICE TAKE 600 PERSONS IN FIRST WEEK OF CLEAN-UP.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The invasion of private apartments began yesterday when a new burst of activity on the part of the police brought the total of prisoners taken since the enforcing of the new State liquor laws began a week ago to nearly 600.

The captured material includes 300 barrels of whiskey, 20,000 bottles of liquor, about 500 jugs and demijohns and four taxicabs and two touring cars.

The sweeping attack of the police left legal processes far behind. Only sixteen persons have been so far indicted in New York County, or about 2 per cent. of the prisoners taken. Twenty more will be indicted. One or more Extraordinary Grand Juries will probably be created within a few days.

Although chemical analysis is not now required in many of the liquor cases in the Magistrates' Courts, samples of seized liquor are being submitted for such analysis in preparation for jury trials. Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and structure, announced that he would ask the Board of Estimate for an appropriation to pay the salaries of twenty more chemists and provide additional apparatus for the Central Testing Laboratories of the city, where the samples are being analyzed.

Complaints from a whole neighborhood led to the first police raid on an apartment house distillery. Pungent fumes made breathing difficult on the whole block bounded by 110th and 111th Streets, Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue, opposite the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Detectives Carlin and Gilbert, of the West 123rd Street Station, were put on the scent. They traced it to the cellar of an apartment house at 528 West 111th Street, where they found three barrels of sour mash, a large still, fifty quart bottles and ten gallon jugs containing liquor. They arrested Charles Hofman, superintendent of the building, and locked him up in the West 123rd Street Station.

Woman's Home Entered.

A party of policemen intruded on the "At Home" of Mrs. Jennie Merass, 37 years old, of 470 East 119th Street. They entered the place without invitation or warrant, and placed the hostess under arrest, alleging that they had found a barrel of pure alcohol and seventy-two bottles of variegated concoctions in a closet.

"Jealous neighbors have done this," Mrs. Merass exclaimed as she was arrested. This was the first case of a person arrested in a home under the new laws. The law prescribes the manner of obtaining a warrant, but does not require the police to use a warrant, if a door is open to admit them in response to their ring or knock.

PROOF.

Through bondage I have earned the right to be
My master and my keeper—ever free:
My doubts begat a power to believe:
By giving I am worthy to receive.
Truth came to me through error's darkened ways:
The blackest nights precede the golden days,
And happy smiles are born of tears and pain:
By losing only can I know of gain.

What further proof, then, need life try to give
That, dying, I shall find the way to live?

JUST THINK FOR A MINUTE

Some time during the coming year you are planning upon taking a hard-earned, "honest to goodness" vacation trip. You are going to use the car, and for months ahead you will be making extensive preparations; everything will have to be in perfect running order. There must be no chance of any engine or tire trouble; or if there is, precautions must be taken to reduce these troubles to a minimum. There must be a general adjustmen and overhauling by a mechanic, a man who knows his business. All well and good.

HOW ABOUT YOUR HUMAN MACHINE?

You scratch your head and say: "Oh, I hadn't thought about that. I guess I'll get along all right—never been sick in my life, yet."

JUST THINK FOR A MINUTE

Those people who claim "they never have been sick" are generally the ones who get hit the hardest. Are you going to be fool enough to let your Human Machine run on in the same old way, year after year, without paying any attention to it? Or, are you going to call in your HUMAN MACHINIST and have the necessary adjustments made?

Your Spine must be kept in NORMAL CONDITION if you wish your Human Machine to run smoothly.

TRAINS ARE CURTAILED

LONDON, April 18. (Canadian Press.) The Consultative Committee of the Trades Union movement, at a meeting to-day agreed that the point of view of the striking miners should be pressed pending the solution of the difficulties by the government ,to persuade the miners of the necessity of accepting a temporary adjustment looking to a permanent settlement.

It is oficially announced that 75,000 persons have been recruited for the government defence force. The coal mine owners will meet tomorrow.

LONDON, April 18.— (Canadian Press.)—Government officials were anxious to-day to re-open negotiations between the miners and colliery owners throughout the United Kingdom with the hope of bringing about a permanent settlement of the wage question which caused the strike of the miners on April 1. There seemed little probability, however, that members of the Miners' Federation would commence any negoiations before next Friday when the miners' representatives will confer here.

In the meantime Great Britain is facing a serious shortage of coal and every effort is being made to eke out the present stock until some adjustment of the situation can be made. To-day train services were curtailed and steps taken to make people realize that the shortage was really serious. In view of the importation of coal the union of coal porters have refused to tran-ship imported coal. Racing has been abandoned by government order until further notice.

MINERS' STAND EXPLAINED BY LABOR LEADER

J. R. CLYNES SAYS THEY WILL CONTINUE THE FIGHT, IN SPITE OF SPLIT IN TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

WANT POOL OF PROFITS

(By J. R. Clynes, Chairman of the British Labor Party, Written for the United Press and Copyrighted.)

LONDON, April 18.—The factor which caused the threatened strike of transport workers to break down is the same which caused the miners to stop work—the human factor.

The personalities lying behind such bald terms as the "Big Three" and "Triple Alliance" are every bit as human as the wives of the men they lead, and in industrial as in other warfare, great human consideration determine movements and shape results.

The human factor forced its way through all stages of this dispute and finally shook the resolve of the men who only an hour before were cemented in what seemed to be an unbreakable bond of union.

And so while the coal miners, stranded and fighting the issue alone, stand amazed at the suddenness of the debate, Britain basks after the perils of a nightmare have passed.

The miners' conference next Friday will be dominated by human considerations. The men constituting the confeernce will come from areas where masses of men are saying "we might as well starve and play as starve and work."

Neither the government or the public should mistake the failure to extend the strike as a sign of an early settlement.

The miners' leaders have a well deserved reputation for fighting through battles The miners' working conditions entitle him to better pay than the pre-war wages.

No person of responsibility has yet defended the proposed reductions which are intolerable.

The country would suffer more if it insisted upon these reductions than by accepting peacefully the miners' leaders' plans which would bear some relation to the diminishing cost of living. The plan involves the principle of a pool which would make only a slight call on the public purse. It is mostly a makeshift.

Permanent state subsides are unsound and, in the end, most harmful. The miners are not the country's enemies.

UNEMPLOYMENT CRISIS AGAIN IN NEXT YEAR

SO C. G. MACNEIL PREDICTS AND SAYS $10,000,000 WILL BE NEEDED FOR RELIEF.

OTTAWA, April 18 (Canadian Press).—That unless a remarkable revival in business was shown, a minimum of $10,000,000 and a maximum of $20,000,000 would be necessary to provide relief for soldiers in Canada during next winter, was stated before the Parliamentary Committee on Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment this morning by Dominion Secretary McNeil, of the G.W.V.A.

A crisis in the unemployment situation was at hand, he reiterated, and would reach the peak during the winter months.

Last winter soldiers believed to have been in comfortable circumstances were found on the verge of starvation.

The secretary advocated a comprehensive scheme for loans for houses, education, and industrial enterprises immediately productive.

The Hon. Hume Cronyn, committee chairman, recognised the importance of this, and said the details would have to be considered by the committee.

LIVERPOOL CITY OPPOSES EMBARGO

TORONTO, April 18 (Canadian Press). — Hon. Manning Doherty has received a communication from the Liverpool Town Clerk advising that the Markets Committee of the City Council passed a resolution, stating that in its opinion the removal of the present embargo on Canadian cattle would be a great benefit to the community.

Copies of the resolution were sent to the Premier and members of Parliament for the City of Liverpool, and to the Minister of Agriculture.

"UNDERGROUND RAILWAY" SMUGGLES TRAVELLERS MINUS PASSPORTS AND MAIL FROM IRELAND INTO THE U.S.

By Carl Victor Little, United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, April 18.—Two Irish colleens from Cork today revealed to the United Press the existence of the underground railroad "between the United States and Ireland. The colleens, Anna and Susan Walsh, compared the Sinn Fein route with the famous 'underground railroad" between the north and the south before and during the Civil War. Sons and daughters of Erin suddenly bob up in the United States, having made the trip without passports and by the "Sinn Fein Route."

Later they appear in Ireland after slipping out of the United States without passports.

Leaders of the Sinn Fein movement in the United States received with amazing regularity letters delivered from Ireland to New York by messengers of the "underground railroad."

The letters are delivered by messengers in New York, then mailed out over the country to the person they are addressed to.

"We hear regularly from our friends in Cork," said Anna. "We get our letters by mail—from New York."

De Valera slipped out of the United States without passports, and suddenly appeared in Ireland. He went the Route of Mystery in the Presidential yacht, the girls said.

Harry J. Bolland, secretary of De Valera, "Presiden-Pretender of the Irish Republic," has made three trips to the United States via the Sinn Fein Route, the girls said.

Referendum Vote Is Likely To Be Heavy Throughout Province

COUNTRY ROADS IN SOUTHERN DISTRICTS SLOPPY BUT IT IS EXPECTED THAT THE MIILDER WEATHER WILL BRING OUT A BIG VOTE.

TORONTO, April 18 (Canadian Press).—From almost every point in Ontario came the report of "fair and mild" weather to-day for the Referendum voting.

In country districts in southern parts of the Province the roads are sloppy. It is rather "hard sledding" for the motors of modest farmers.

However, on the whole, the weather throughout the Province, in town, city, and country, is one that should bring out a big vote of Old Man Ontario and his wife and sisters, and the wife and sisters are expected to be a big factor in today's results.

The vote is definitely and entirely on the question of the importation of liquor into the Province. If the majority vote is "yes," a Dominion Act forbidding importation will become operative on the proclamation of the Governor-General, and a Provincial measure known as Sandy Bill, preventing the delivery within the Province of liquor manufactured in the Province will also become law.

The sale of intoxicant liquor within the Province is already illegal. So that the effect of to-day's balloting will be for a "bone-dry Ontario" or for the conditions of importation as they are at present.

Early reports from the various points indicated quite large polling of the early morning vote.

At the last plebiscite on Prohibition about 1,300,000 votes were polled on the subject, but at that time there was also a Provincial general election on.

The opinion is that about one million votes will be polled in to-day's balloting.

The unofficial and belated interpretation that workmen are allowed by law two hours in which to register their votes is expected to bring out an exceptionally lorge vote of working men from factories and other classes of work on specified hours of working time.

Local Vote Varies

Eight votes were cast in the advanced poll of the referendum by commercial travelers and others for whom it was arranged F. J. A. Hall, the returning officer, described this as a light vote, but it seems to have been on a par with the first reports from other cities of this size.

News from the polling places this afternoon indicated fairly keen interest in the referendum, although the count up to one o'clock was exceptionally light at some of the booths. Oscar Matchett stated that there were only sixzty ballots turned in at the Chamberlain street sub-division up to one o'clock and most of these came during the noon hour. West ward returns were brisker, and were said to have been fairly steady all morning. Other sections of the city showed varying activitiy, but th e total poll was expected to be well up to the average.

Similar reports were received from the southern suburbs At J. D. Manley's store the balloting had been light up to two o'clock, but at the Salvation Army hall in Byersville the voting had been quite heavy. From the town hall at Bridgenorth it was stated that there had been liveliness all morning, many farmers having exercised their franchise.

In the business section of the city, there were scarcely any evidences of interest in the referendum. Several citizens remarked that they had forgotten all about voting until reminded of their duty by friends at noon.

It was told of one business man that he was seen carrying two bottles down street, and explained that he was taking them to dump at the incinerator as he expected to have no further use for them after the votes were counted this evening. There was a color of double meaning to this statement that might have connoted either hope or despair

POLICE COURT CASE DISMISSED

"I dismiss this case, as I find the usage which has been going on for many years has resulted in such loose exercise of the rights of the milk men that the right of private ownership has been largely ignored, and under such circumstances I do not feel justified in making a conviction against Waller. I warn all parties to take into possession no bottles but their own hereafter. The charge is dismissed."

This was Magistrate Dumble's ruling in a case in the Police Court this morning in which one milkman charged another with the theft of nine milk bottles worth $1.00.

The complainant said that the accused took nine of his bottles out of an empty crate on Sunday, 10th April, and put in nine Peterborough Milk Product bottles.

Gordon Puffer, acting police constable, swore to seeing the exchange of bottles, but Mafgistrate Dumble adjudged that this case would not be prosecuted severely, although issuing an ominous warning to all other offenders in this regard.

COMPLETE RESULTS OF THE REFERENDUM BULLETINED TO-NIGHT

To-night The Examiner will bulletin the complete results of the referendum vote on the importation of liquor. The outcome of the voting throughout the province will be supplied rapidly by the Canadian Press. Returning officers in this district are asked to make a special effort to telephone the vote at their polls to The Examiner as soon as the count is complete in order that the local results may be tabulated as early as possible.

Telephone calls to 1600 will be answered promptly from 7 until 10 o'clock.

The full results of the referendum will be published in tomorrow's noon edition with a 3,000 word story on the polling in all parts of Ontario.

THREE INCHES OF SNOW FELL OVER WEEK-END

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE IN THIS DISTRICT BY MID-APRIL BLIZZARD OF SATURDAY AND SUNDAY.

TELEPHONE POLES DOWN

TORONTO, April 18.—(Canadian Press.)—When citizens rose yesterday morning they found that a fairly thick mantle of snow lay on the ground and that the flakes were continuing to come down in a business-like way. It was not until about 2 p.m. that it definitely ceased, and by that time more than) 1-2 inches of snow by official computation, had been piled up.

The mid-April blizzard, to which all Southern Ontario was treated, was the result of a disturbance which started in South-eastern Illinois on Saturday morning and spread rapidly to the north-east. Last night Observatory experts reported a disturbance off the Atlantic coast and moderating in view. The province of Quebec received a snowy invitation but the fall was not equal to that in Ontario.

Local Effects.

As a result of Saturday's sleet storm over 200 poles on the Bell Telephone Company's Toronto-Montreal long distance lead are reported down east of Napanee and the service is still out between these points.

In the Peterborough district the company are more fortunate. The Toronto lines all went out Saturday evening owing to about half a mile of pole lead being either broken or blown down at Burketon Junction and a similar amount at Pontypool. However, the repair gang from Peterborough had these lines working temporarily by noon Sunday, which work will be made permanent today.

There were four poles down across the Chemong road, which threatened to keep the automobile public from attending church. However, the telephone men had these cleared away before ten o'clock, thus spoiling a perfectly good excuse to stay at home.

Hard on Birds.

The birds had a bad time on Saturday. When the icy sleet drove most of them to inadequate leafless refuges, they did like the ostrich, got their heads under cover and neglected their tail feathers, with the result that a number of them were hopping around in the evening with ice-covered wings and tails, unable to fly. One robin was picked up in this absolutely helpless condition and taken home to an empty cage, where he gradually thawed out and recovered his usual perkiness. On being released to the doorstep this morning, he seemed quite loth to start out once more in a world whose atmospheric conditions had upset his spring anticipations so strangely.

THE MOTOR SHOW CLOSED SATURDAY

SHOW WAS A SUCCESS — DISAGREEABLE WEATHER

Saturday's extremely unpleasant, cold weather had a considerable effect on the attendance at the Motor Show, but still there was quite a large number of people who braved the elements and the icy pavements to make a last contribution to the Peterborough Health Association. The hall looked very attractive coming in from the bleak outside, and if the ladies didn't feel very comfortable in their light dresses, they said nothing about it, but looked just as cheerful as if summer breezes were blowing without, and the officials who have done such splendid work throughout the three days were just as bright as ever at their posts.

The crowd circulated amongst the different exhibits, and the auction was well patronized. The orchestra played valiantly all evening, and the minstrels reeled off their jokes with as much vim as if they were brand new that minute, and took in quite a good sum.

The same spirit that has animated the workers throughout the three days, which must be quite tiring to those who work so hard to make the affair a success, animated them up to the last minute, and the 1921 Motor Show, even with inconstant atmospheric conditions, was a huge success from every point of view.

STORM STOPPED "BIG BEN" HERE

The town clock, after three days' inactivity, resumed its never-ending task at noon to-day. The guardians of the ancient timepiece informed the Examiner that water and snow which found its way into the machinery during Saturday's rain and sleet storm stopped the clock at 2.45 p.m. and Sunday's snow storm completed the impairment. The internals of the clock swelled to such an extent that it became inoperative and it took this morning's sun to dry the works out sufficiently for running.

Each storm, it is asserted, a considerable amount of water finds its way into the clock works, sometimes through the lid on the clock being inadvertently left open, and without exception, when this happens, the clock stops.

"MYSTERY MAN" IS NOT SMALL

SO MANAGER OF KINGSTON OPERA HOUSE, INTIMATE OF SMALL'S, AND THE MAN HIMSELF DECLARE.

IS A SCOTSMAN, SAYS

KINGSTON April 18 (Canadian Press).—"That man is not A. J. Small," said D. P. Branigan, local manager of the Grand Opera House, when he was taken to Verona on Saturday afternoon to try to identify the man held there on suspicion of being the missing Toronto theatrical magnate.

Mr. Branigan was intimate with Mr. Small for 10 years. He stated that the man bore a striking side resemblance to Mr. Small.

The stranger, who is still being held on a nominal charge of vagrancy, although he has money on his person,, says he is George Cox,, a native of Aberdeenshire Scotland, that he came to Canada some years ago, and left Winnipeg six weeks ago to look up a man named Freeman living near Hartington. Not being able to find Freeman, he has been engaged in prospecting.

KINGSTON, April 18. (Canadian Press.) — "The man of mystery" taken into custody near Gull Lake, and believed to be Ambrose Small, has not yet been identified.

He is still being held at Verona.

To-day the Kingston police received a telegram from Chicago, making inquiries about the man, as a person by the name of George Cox is missing from Chicago, and it is stated that some special marks of identification have been proved concerning the Chicago man, who claimed his name is George Cox.

REGULAR MEETING WOMEN'S LEAGUE

The regular meeting of the Catholic Womens' League took place yesterday afternoon in St. Alphonsus Lyceum, with a very good attendance. After the reading of the several reports of the vice-presidents and secretary, a very interesting address was given by Rev. J. M. Fraser, a missionary from China. This was a comparison of the educational methods of the Eastern and Western hemispheres, and on account of the numerous Chinese customs ,which proved most enlightening to the audience.

A hearty vote of thanks was presented to the speaker by the president, Mrs. Jas. V. Gallivan, on its conclusion.

PLEASANT SOCIAL EVENING AT OTONABEE SCHOOL

A good programme was arraigned, consisting of songs, recitations, drills, etc. Among those from the city who assisted, were Miss Cuffe Mrs Howard Quinn Mr Ketcheson, Mr Loescher, and Mr Bruce Quinn About ten o'clock, Mr. Harry Wheeler auctioned off the boxes which brought in a nice sum that will be utilized for the purchase of sporting equipment for the boys and girls.

The thanks of those who attended are due the teacher, Miss Lottie Hamilton and the trustees, Messrs Wheeler, Bell and Brav who spared no effort to make the affair a success Mr. C. S. Cummer of the Merchants Bank acted as chairman

SO LLOYD GEORGE TELLS BRITISH COMMONS IN ANSWER TO QUESTIONS ON REPARATIONS.

HUNS STILL DEFAULTING

LONDON, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—The German Government, said Lloyd George in the Commons to-day, is still in default with regard to reparations, the trial of persons accused of war crimes, and dis-

The Germans, continued the Premier, have not thus far shown any inclination to advance practical proposals for carrying out the Versailles Treaty in these respects. Therefore it was imperative for the Allies to confer with regard to further steps which might be necessary to enforce compliance with the Treaty.

The Prime Minister's statement was in answer to questions.

DRY GOODS MEN TO VISIT ENGLAND.

British Drapers' Chamber of Trade Will Entertain Delegation.

MONTREAL, April 18. — A small group of drygoods men left Montreal to-day (Monday) to join in New York, about 150 American dry goods men in a return visit to the British Draper's Chamber of Trade, of which a big delegation visited this country last fall. It is the first delegation of the kind, of drygoods men, to the other side and the Montreal representatives say that their entertainment on the other side appears to have been planned on the unique scale of hospitality .

A tour of the United Kingdom has been arranged to take six weeks and to include places of pleasure as well as of business interest. The party will be entertained by a number of prominent people, Lord Burnham, the chairman of last year's Imperial Press Conference in Canada, the Lord Mayor of London, the Wholesale Textile Association at Grocers' Hall, the Drapers' Company at Drapers' Hall and the Goldsmiths' Company at Goldmith's Hall. Probably a reception will also be given by Lady Astor

The Canadian delegates will be J. C. Chesney, of Almy's Limited, chairman; Theodore Morgan of Henry Morgan and Sons, Limited; A. J. Dugal, general manager, and Armand Dupuis, secretary-treasurer of Dupuis Freres, Limited. Mrs J. C. Chesney will also be in the party Mr. and Mrs Chesney, at the end of the six weeks' tour of the delegation, will spend five or six weeks in a tour of the Continent. Mr. Morgan plans to return to Montreal about the middle of June, when the conference ends.

The delegates consider this will be a very instructive and enjoyable trip giving many opportunities to study British conditions As the Canadian delegates are scheduled to give addresses at practically every lunch and dinner of the tour, they will also have opportunities of doing considerable missionary work on behalf of Canada.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatisms, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

FARM WOMEN HELD MEETING SATURDAY

On Saturday afternoon, the United Farm Women of Ontario held a meeting in their newly opened rest room on Simcoe street, which, considering the very inclement weather was very well attended. Miss M R. Heeley, the Provincial Health nurse who is at present making a tour of inspection throughout Ontario, was present, and gave a most interesting talk to the ladies on the public health and welfare work in which she is engaged, and also a description of methods of feeding and food preparation for infants. Much interest was aroused by this talk, as evidenced in the queries from the ladies on different points.

CAMPBELLFORD PROPEPTY OWNERS CONTEST CLAIMS

MEETING OF THE COURT OF REVISION—DEATHS RECORDED OVER THE WEEK-END---PERSONAL MENTION.

CAMPBELLFORD April 18.—A special meeting of the Council was held in the Public Library on Friday night, 15th April, as the Court of Revision. All the members of the Council were present. Mayor A. J. Meyers was in the chair.

The meeting was called to order, and the clerk was instructed to read the petition which had been presented at the Court of Revision on 11th April. An opportunity was then given anyone present who wished to address the Council concerning the matter.

Mr. G. A. Payne responded, saying he was there to represent the property owners of Rear and Front Streets. He did not question the legality of the procedure under which the work was done, but he thought the Council should reduce the cost per foot frontage seeing that the signers were misled as to how the cost of the water main was to be paid.

Several others took part in the discussion.

Moved by Councillor Palliser, seconded by Deputy-Reeve Stone, that the petition be received, but no action taken.

Moved in amendment by Councillor Southworth, seconded by Councillor Wiggins, that By-law No. 675 be rescinded and a new by-law prepared, setting the rate at $1.50 per foot frontage for the construction of a sewer and water main on Rear and Front Streets.

Vote taken on the amendment—Nays, Deputy-Reeve Stone, Councillor Palliser, Reeve Davidson, Councillor Meiklejohn, Mayor Meyers. The following voted Yea—Councillors Wiggins, Baker, and Southworth.

Amendment lost.

The vote on the resolution was then taken, the following voting Yea—Deputy-Reeve Stone, Councillors Palliser and Meiklejohn, Mayor Meyers, and Reeve Davidson; Nay—Councillors Wiggins, Baker, and Southworth.

Motion was declared carried.

Moved by Deputy-Reeve Stone, seconded by Councillor Baker, that the Council adjourn, and the Court of Revision now open.—Carried.

The Court of Revision was now open to adjust some matters that came up for further consideration.

The matter of Mr. Ezekiel Hubble's lot, which had been brought to the attention of the Court as abutting on the sewer, was investigated, and it was found that what was called Lot 4 was really part of Lot 3, and did abut in part on said works.

Moved by Reeve Davidson, seconded by Councillor Palliser, that the motion passed at the Court of Revision on 11th April relating to E. Hubble and others, have that part of the resolution cancelling the frontage tax on E. Hubble's property called Lot 4, but really part of Lot 3, be rescinded, as this parcel does not abut on the said sewer.—Carried.

Mr. A. J. Jenkins addressed the Court on behalf of Mrs. Bogart, giving reasons why he considered the frontage tax should not be charged on Rear Street against Mrs. Bogart.

Moved by Councillor Palliser, seconded by Reeve Davidson, that the motion referring to Mrs. Bogart's frontage on Rear Street, which was fixed at 54 feet, be changed to 30 feet.

Mr. Victor Hay stated that his deed did not show frontage, but by measurement it was 43 feet 6 inches, but he was willing to pay 45 feet.

Moved by Councillor Southworth, seconded by Reeve Davidson, that V. Hay's frontage be set at 45 feet.—Carried.

Mr. James Blute addressed the Court, and said that part of Lot 2, on the west side of Rear Street, was in reality a public highway, and therefore was not assessed; hence no frontage tax should be paid by them.

Moved by Reeve Davidson, seconded by Councillor Southworth, that the 12 foot alley, part of Lot 2, be not assessed.—Carried.

Moved by Reeve Davidson, seconded by Councillor Palliser, that the Court adjourn.

Mrs. William Henson.

There passed peacefully away in Leicester, England, on 1st April, Mrs. William Henson, aged 72 years. She leaves to mourn her loss eight children, two daughters and one son in England, two daughters in Rochester, New York State, one daughter in Montreal, and two sons, Walter and Edwin, of town.

The late Mrs. Henson, who had planned returning to Canada this summer, was well and favourably known in Campbellford when on different occasions she has visited her sons, who have the sympathy of the town in their bereavement.

Alfred Pirie.

After a ten days' illness, of pneumonia and pleurisy, there passed away in Toronto on Friday, 15th April, Alfred Pirie, son of Mr. John Pirie, Sebastopol Street.

The deceased, who is the last remaining member of the family, had been on active service in France, and since his return has been employed in Toronto. The late Mr. Pirie, who was born on the old homestead, 9th Concession, of Seymour Township, was in his twenty-seventh year, and was a general favourite with all his young associates.

The oral tributes were most numerous and beautiful. The funeral will be held at the home to-day at 2.30 p.m., conducted by the Rev. C. E. McIntosh, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, after which the remains will be interred in Zion Cemetery, Seymour East. Mr. and Mrs. Pirie have the sympathy of the town and community in their bereavement.

A. L. McNaughton.

After a lingering illness of some months, there passed away at his home on Front Street, on Sunday morning, Mr. A. L. McNaughton. The deceased, who was a general favourite with all, is survived by his wife and four daughters, Miss Lila at home, Mrs. John Ballantyne of Oshawa, Mrs. Dick and Mrs. A. Dick of Toronto.

The deceased was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Church, and the funeral which will be announced later, will be conducted at the home by the pastor, Rev. C. F. McIntosh, interment being made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery. All sympathise with Mrs. McNaughton and family in their bereavement.

Entertainment.

An excellent entertainment will be held in the school room of St. Andrew's Church on Tuesday evening, 19th April. There will be an interesting programme of musical selections and a humorous playlet, provided by the choir, and the last, but not the least, part, "the refreshments" will be in charge of the Ladies' Aid. All will be welcome, and those in charge are anxious that there should be a good crowd, as this is probably the last entertainment given by the choir before Mr. Henning leaves.

Methodist Church Tea.

The ladies of the Methodist Church, with surnames beginning with N O P Q R S T U V W X Y Z, are holding a tea in the basement of the church on Tuesday evening. There will be lots to eat, and a fine programme. All invited, with a special invitation to men.

Personal Mention.

Mr. S. J. Moore, Superintendent of the Trent Valley Woollen Mill, was on a business trip to Montreal last week.

Mrs. Clarence Bullock, of Toronto, is visiting her friend, Mrs. W. E. Carnahan.

Mr. Cyril Lech, of Peterborough, spent Sunday in town.

Mr. Charles Payne, of Belleville, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Payne, Frank Street.

Mrs. Bessie Bates of Manchester, England, who is sailing on the s.s. Melita for Canada, is expected in Campbellford on Friday to visit her son, Mr. Edward Bates, Front Street.

Mr. B. A. Maclean, B.A.Sc., spent the week-end in Trenton.

Yesterday Nature looked as if King Winter had not been totally dethroned, the white mantle giving quite a wintry appearance. The farmers are quite pleased, however, as the moisture will be of great value to them.

Miss V. Smith, of Frankford, is visiting Mrs. Malhiot

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Long spent the week-end in Peterborough.

As far as can be determined, the crops have suffered little harm from the recent cold spell. The clover and hay have been killed out to a certain extent, but what remains will not be greatly harmed.

Mr. R. J. Reynolds, of Peterboro, is spending a few days in town.

Miss K Locke and Miss L. Weston went this morning to Toronto, to enter a hospital, as nurses in training.

The voting this morning is progressing very nicely. There are a large number turning out.

MURDER WOMAN IRISH STRIFE

FIRST KNOWN ACT OF THE KIND COMMITTED BY SINN FEIN

DUBLIN, April 18. — (Canadian Press.) — The first execution of a woman in the strife in Ireland is announced. She was taken from her home in the Scotstown district of Monaghan yesterday, and then shot and killed on the bank of the river. The woman, whose name was Kitty Maccarrow, belonged to the farming class, and lived with her parents, octogenarians, in a wild and moutainous part of the country.

About midnight a knock was heard at the door and a party of masked men entered and informed the victim that they had come for her. She struggled in vain. The assassins fastened her hands behind her back, and led her, pleading piteously, down a lane, about a mile to the main road ,by the side of which the body was afterwards found with a bullet hole through the cheek, which is the customary sign of Sinn Fein executions. A card on the body was inscribed — "Spies and informers beware — Tried, Convicted and Executed by the Irish Republican Army."

The City Manager

One outstanding particular in which 150 city-manager cities have prepared for service is in having provided a place in the machinery for a competent experienced executive.

When this city-manager plan is discussed in a new town one of the first observations of the Missourians is:

"The idea is fine, but where would we get a city manager who would be an expert in all branches of city government?"

To begin with, nobody living is an expert in all branches of municpal science and practice. And does not need to be, any more than a college president needs to be a scholar in a hundred or more different fields of learning.

The best answer, however, is to tell what cities have actually done in selecting their manager.

With some necessary exceptions, they have started out by ridding their minds of any thought that any particular person had a claim on the job — which, by the way, is a revolutionary step in itself.

Once this decision has been made, the field of selection is broadened a thousandfold.

Then it often becomes clear, very clear, that the big problems of the town or city are such as to command the attention of a man with engineering training.

As a matter of fact, so far, the engineering profession has had the edge in supplying new men for the city managerships. Dayton first offered the position to Colonel Goethals. Failing to secure him, the Commission went to Cincinnati and secured Henry M. Waite, who had served as city engineer there.

Springfield secured another engineer at Staunton, Va., Charles E. Ashburner, Cadillac, Mich., Grand Rapids and a large proportion of the later cities adopting the plan followed their example.

San Jose selected a professor of political science who had drafted the city charter. Kalamazoo selected the secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce.

The Akron Commission chose a capable ex-Mayor.

Seven years ago, there were no experienced city managers. Now there are many.

What was needful in the first instance was the opportunity for men to enter this field with a knowledge that their future did not depend on the whims of any particular group of men in a single locality, but that they might look forward to steady advancement somewhere in a steadily widening field of opportunity.

Some of the earlier city managers did not make good and have fallen by the wayside. But others have gone on and on. Thus Ashburner, now at Norfolk, Va., with a salary of $16,000, the highest in the list come up from his small beginnings at Staunton, Va., hence he was promoted to Springfield, O., with a much more substantial remuneration.

City managing is coming to be a profession. The city managers have organised themselves into an association which has met annually for seven years and discusses municipal problems and publishes its proceedings, just like such professionally recognised bodies.

The managers are of all ages. There are several ambitious boys in their twenties slaving in villages for the experience, and there is one shrewd old fellow near 70.

The National School for Public Service attached to the New York Bureau of Municipal Research is training young men for managership and gives them, after graduation, apprenticeship as assistant managers to leading city manager.

THE WEATHER

The freezing rain of Saturday afternoon and night, and the snow fall of Sunday, were somewhat out of season, but not unknown. On April 24 and 25 of 1910 we had a somewhat similar experience, and several other years have furnished snowstorms at a still later date. One of the heaviest snowfalls at a late date that has occurred was that of May 4th, 1907, when a good six inches fell. The trees were out in leaf at that time, but no evil results followed. Another heavy fall was that of May 6th, 1885 (the year of the Northwest Rebellion) when about six inches fell. While late snowfalls do no particular harm, a freezing rain (such as Saturday) and heavy frosts are to be viewed with suspicion.—W. P.

FURTHER DECLINE IN COST OF FOOD

OTTAWA, April 18.—(Canadian Press.)—A further decline in the cost of foodstuffs during the month of March is received in the current issue of the Labor Gazette, which states that the cost of the weekly family budget of staple foods averaged $13.23 at the beginning of March as compared with $14.08 in February, $15.98 in March, 1920, $15.77 in March 1919, and $7.86 in March 1914.

TARIFF REDUCTION NOT PLANNED, THE PREMIER STATES

TORONTO CONSERVATIVES WELCOME RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

TORONTO, April 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Toronto Conservatives accorded the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier of Canada, a rousing welcome when he addressed the members of the Conservtaive Clubs Saturday night. The Premier delivered a forceful address and dealt with the transportation, marine and fisheries question.

He intimated there would be no tariff reductions, as the proportion of industries was vital to the national life of the country.

The government intended to take over the Grand Trunk system without further delay as publicly owned lines must be consolidated and operated for the benefit of the people in order that the best economical results could be obtained. The operation of the railways by private corporations, he pointed out, had broken down and the government was obliged to undertake their operation. It had to be remembered that miles of railway had been built prematurely and the problem of government was to operate the lines in such manner that the best possible results would be obtained. This it intended to do, but had to get possession of the whole Grand Trunk system so that the eastern railways would contribute their quota to the western lines.

FUNERAL TRAIN LEAVES MAARN

REMAINS OF EX-EMPRESS OF GERMANY FORWARDED TO POTSDAM FOR BURIAL.

DOORNE, April 18.—(Canadian Press.)—At the small historical station at Maarn (about five miles from Doorne), the remains of ex-Kaiserin Augusta Victoria were placed on the funeral train after a moving farewell of the ex-Kaiser and Hohenzollern family.

The exKaiser wore the uniform of a general in the Brandenburg infantry. He was accompanied by the ex-Crown Prince and his other sons. The funeral service was held at 8 o'clock in the large room of the ex-Kaiser's residence which was decorated entirely with evergreens and palms and conducted by ex-Court Chaplain Dryander. Dr. Dryander also officiated at the church service yesterday morning when special prayers were offered for the ex-Kaiserin. The ex-Kaiser wept bitterly standing beside his daughter, his sons and their wives.

The ex-Kaiser and ex-Crown Prince returned to Doorne, although the latter greatly insisted that the Dutch government allow him to go to Hobdem. He was informed he could not return to Holland if he passed the frontier. Other German guests proceeded to Hobdem with the train, which is composed of a funeral car and two sleepers, but they spent the night on the train which left Maarn this morning.

Makes the ideal washing machine soap

Princess Soap Flakes were perfected for fancy washing, such as blouses, lingerie, frocks and frills of crepe and silk and satin. This means they are the finest soap, the purest soap and whole soap, flaked into snowy wafers—thin, crisp and curly.

But—such pure, fine whole soap proves the most efficient of all washing machine soaps.

Princess Flakes wash more thoroughly than laundry soap and are more economical because, being all soap, they go so much farther.

Saves wear on clothes

Don't blame it on poor material, broken threads and thin spots which shorten the wear of clothes. They are not due to faulty fabric, but instead charge them up to injurious laundry soap ingredients.

Use pure soap, free from corrosive ingredients, and your clothes and household linens will give the wear they should. Such pure soap, in the ideal form, is yours in Princess Soap Flakes.

Keeps woolens soft

Whether you are squeezing out a sweater or a pair of leggings or mittens or having a grand blanket washing, use Princess Soap Flakes.

No shrinking, no danger of drying harsh and stiff. Instead, everything soft, warm and wooly, just like new.

Package or bulk

Princess Flakes come in convenient packages or economical bulk, as you prefer.

Once you learn the value of Princess Flakes you will order by the 25 pound carton, which allows a big saving. You will use them for every laundry purpose and for general household needs.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

A GRATIFYING SUCCESS.

It is a pleasure to be able to state that in spite of the weather conditions, that were far from favourable, the motor show was a splendid success and the result will be a sizable surplus devoted to the work of the Peterborough Health Association. Thanks are due to the members of the Red Cross Society who planned the affair, to the automobile dealers and other firms who by their exhibits made the event possible, to the various organizations whose services were freely given, and to the public for the splendid patronage accorded the show. It was a real community effort, made on behalf of a most worthy cause, and there is every reason for gratification at the result. Every citizen who helped will watch with new interest the work of the Health Association, feeling a personal pride in its activities. The spirit shown in connection with the show demonstrates once more that Peterborough's heart is in the right place and that the citizens generally are quick in their response to a worth while appeal. The members of the Health Association may look upon the success of the motor show as the city's benediction upon their work and as an order to persevere in their plans for a healthier Peterborough.

A BONUS FOR WHAT?

Last year when members of the Ontario Legislature signed a round robin asking for an increase in sessional indemnities, Premier Drury emphatically refused to grant their request, and his firm stand not only stopped the "salary grab," but earned the applause of the people of the province, the majority of whom were utterly opposed to the increase. There is no reason to think that there is any difference in public opinion on that point this year, but nevertheless the members are going to receive a nice little bonus of $600 each, the amount being slipped through quietly. If an increase was refused last year, what possible justification is there for a bonus now, when the cost of many of the necessities of life is less than it was twelve months ago, and when a further drop in prices may confidently be expected? Most of the newspapers in Ontario condemned last year's greedy attempt to raid the treasury and they will not be inclined to regard with any more favourable eyes the quiet little plan of bonusing the members now. Why has Premier Drury, who showed moral courage in blocking the salary grab of 1920 weakened now? The same reasons for refusing the increase that were logical last year are equally potent to-day.

IN THE LEGISLATURE.

The Ontario Legislature did not sit to-day, an adjournment having been made until Tuesday in order that the members of the House might have an opportunity of voting on the referendum. So many days have been wasted already this session that one does not make much difference. As a matter of fact the session should be over by this time if any real effort had been made to speed up the business of the House. All parties must take their share of the blame for the slow progress they have made. Members of the opposition groups have shown an unusual tendency to make long speeches on every possible occasion, while the Government has not displayed the alertness in bringing down its legislation that might be expected of an administration that has had the experience of one session to guide it. The House has been in session many weeks, and there is still a large amount of important business for consideration, with the almost inevitable result that some legislation of vital importance is liable to be rushed through in the dying stages of the session, with scant opportunity for discussion or analysis. All Governments, whether Provincial or Federal, seem to have this fault, but it has been developed to a most unusual degree by the present rulers of Queen's Park.

A WELCOME SIGN.

The announcement of the possible formation of a Peterborough Rowing Club was no doubt received with a great deal of interest. To many visitors to Peterborough who have admired our beautiful river, it has been a surprise to find that this city had no aquatic organization of any kind. With the facilities for paddling, rowing and swimming so convenient, they naturally expect to find a flourishing club in existence, and are amazed when they discover that the home of the famous Peterborough canoe, known the world over, has no organized body for the control and encouragement of aquatic sports. The launching of a Rowing Club is welcome as an indication of a reviving interest that may lead to splendid development along this line. Possibly those who are interested in the project might be willing to include paddling and swimming in their plans and organize an aquatic club in which all three sports might be fostered. There is no logical reason why Peterborough should not be prominent in every branch of aquatics, for few cities are more favored with opportunities for practice. It is to be hoped that the effort to organize a club will be crowned with success.

A BIG UNDERTAKING.

One of the most interesting sidelights in connection with the discovery of oil in the far north is the effort being made to solve the transportation problem. Upon this depends to a large extent the feasibility of the oil fields as a commercial possibility. It is costing one firm $90,000 in transportation charges alone to send three oil rigs into the new territory. How much it will cost to get the oil out and manufactured is not know at the present time.

The Mackenzie River is practically the only means of transportation, and the few boats operated upon the stream, owned by the Hudson Bay Company, will only suffice for the company's requirements and such outside freight and passenger traffic as they have previously been in the habit of carrying. Some adventurers are talking of trying to reach the Fort Norman country by aeroplane, but there are certain risks attendant upon this method of transportation, owing to the vast stretch of unsettled country that has to be traversed.

Plans are proposed by the Alberta Government for the construction of a road from the end of the Peace River town to some of the rivers which flow into the Great Slave Lake, while other arrangements are under way for the deepening of the channels in the Athabasca River and the cutting of canals around the "portgages," which would provide unrestricted steamer navigation from the end of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway at McMurray to the Arctic Ocean. Despite these plans, which at the best would be only temporary, it is felt that the logical means of communication is by railway, the construction of which to the oil fields offers no great obstacle, as the country is entirely a plain between Edmonton and the Arctic, the only hindrance being the large swamps and muskegs through which a grade would of necessity have to be constructed. In this connection it is interesting to note that a London, England, firm, has offered to move "oil or ore across the prairies, without laying railway irons, at 10 cents per ton, starting transportation three months from date of contract." Pesumably caterpillar tractors would be used in this undertaking; a machine widely used in the west, and one adapted to the needs of the country.

Fort Norman is within easy reach of the Arctic Ocean, as the Mackenzie River is both wide and deep and suitable for navigation from the port. These facts taken in conjunction, have given rise to a theory that it will be feasible to ship the oil out via the Arctic Ocean and the Bering Straits, which is, however, nullified owing to the short open season and the shallowness of the straits. Another scheme broached is that the oil should be piped from Fort Norman to the Pacific Coast, but the pumping necessary to force the oil over the elevation of the Rocky Mountains is felt to be an insperable obstacle, while there is but little prospect of a railway retaching the field from the direction of the Hudson Bay, the country through which it would pass be ng entirely what is known as the Barren Lands, so that the railway would of necessity have to depend on oil haulage for fuel.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The success of the motor show means a great deal to the Health Association, and consequently a great deal to those whom the Association is endeavoring to help back to health.

Saturday's weather was welcomed by the "wets" as a good omen, while the "drys' consoled themselves with the thought that to-day would start Ontario on a long dry spell.

Now that the drink-more-milk campaign has been put over, why not a pay-less-for-bread campaign and a cheaper-meat drive? Both are very badly needed.

Will somebody page the bakers and call their attention to the price of wheat. They seem to have overlooked it altogether.

What is a crisis or two in the life of Lloyd George? The little Welshman thrives on them.

Many a married man found his conception of personal liberty altering this morning when he tried to explain to his wife that he intended to vote "no."

To-day's vote may not shake the foundations of society, but it is liable to hit hard at the cellars nevertheless.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

"The worst thing about some of this liberty," says the young lady next door, "is that it is too personal."

Visitor—Are you eagerly waiting for your term to expire?
Convict—No, sir, I'm in for life.

Viscount Astor has resigned the secretaryship of the Ministry of Health because of illness, which would seem to be an irrefutable argument for the abolition of the department.

The Germans have issued a book entitled "The Great Lie." In reviewing it, it is sufficient to say that it certainly lives up to its name.

Another reason why we are optimistic: A scientist claims that the world is racing to destruction at the rate of 600,000 miles a day and that it may come to an end in any one of eight ways before it finishes its death-bound journey.

We don't recollect the eight ways in which this little planet on which we are joy-riding might be eliminated from the solar system, but we imagine that the following would at letst be contributory factors to its premature destruction:

1. Russia.
2. Politicians.
3. Long-haired "geniuses."
4. Parlor philosophers.
5. Problem novels.
6. Armchair critics.
7. Litrachoor.
8. The Great God Gloom.

Now just as the trout are getting ready to bite and the flies are buzzing on the warm side of the house, along comes a distinguished New New York professor to knock the props from underneath the take-it-easy-and-live-long theory, declaring that the pace that kills is the snail's pace and that hard work is invigorating. Granted that the professor is right why not wait until the lazy days of summer are past to propound such unpleasantness?

A man who recently came back to his home town after along absence declares that many of the subjects of his youthful dreams now weigh about two hundred pounds.

Another man we are going to shoot on sight is the one who coined the word "kiddie."

MUSKOKA LAKES.

The Muskoka region of the Highlands of Ontario, was for centuries the chosen hunting ground of the Hurons. It was the red man who gave the musical name Muskoka (signifying "clear sky") to this land which held supremacy over all others in his affections, and he christened the islands, promontories, the massive rocks, lakes and rivers in a manner that showed his appreciation of the beauties of his forest home. No happier appellation than "clear sky' could have been adopted, as the altitude of the region — one thousand feet above sea level — gives splendid atmospheric conditions. Muskoka spreads its manifold charms to blue skies flecked with soft white clouds. It is a delectable land, brilliant with rich coloring, its air pungent with the fragrance of the pines, its waters cool and clear; moreover a land of many pleasures, offering a wide variety of health-giving, open air sports and pastimes suited to all ages. The Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways have just issued a handsome illustrated booklet telling you all about it with map and list of hotels. Write any agent of either company, or apply to C. E. Horning, D.P.A., Toronto, Ont.

CANADIAN PACIFIC AGENTS IN LINDSAY

LINDSAY, April 16.— Fifty-two C.P.R. agents representing the Ontario Division, met here yesterday in the town hall, and discussed questions relative to more efficient service for both the company and public in the matter of freight and other activities. Among those present was W. S. Dodd, of Peterborough.

SHOWER BANK GIRLS WITH CONGRATULATIONS.

LONDON, April 16.—Numerous telegrams of congratulations from the different branches of the Home Bank throughout Ontario have been received by Manager McCandless, Miss Aggie Campbell, and Miss Ida Wright, for their heroic work in assisting in the capture of the bandts at Melbourne.

It was intimated that Miss Campbell will be rewarded by the head office of the Home Bank.

Miss Campbell turned the combination of the safe, although a revolver was held at her breast. Both Miss Campbell and Miss Wright are in a nervous state and will not return to duty at the bank till next Monday. A teller and ledger keeper from London are taking their places.

Mr. McCandless is still suffering from the wounds on his head when he was hit with the butt of the revolver.

By KATHERINE MOORE

Leonard Hears of His Wife's New Friend.

Chapter 30

"You are glad to be here with me, Leonard, aren't you?" I queried coaxingly as I walked along by his side on the crowded Board Walk, at Atlantic City.

"Why, you know I am, Noreen," he answered, looking down at me with just the faintest shadow of surprise on his dear face.

"Yes, Dear," I said quickly, squeezing his arm, "—but—well—I just like to hear you say it," I laughed.

Leonard laughed a little too.

"That's funny! I never could quite get that feminine point of reasoning. Now take a man," he went on musingly, "a man asks a woman if she loves him. If she says yes, and says it forcibly enough, he believes her and lets it go at that and marries her. He wouldn't marry her if he wasn't reasonably sure she loved him, but when he gets to the point of being sure he doesn't keep on asking her if she has changed her mind every five minutes.'

"Wait a minute," I said: "That's just the danger. A man takes a woman's love too much for granted. He makes her his wife, and thinks that's the end of it. He goes out into the business world, has expansive interests and diversions and takes it as a matter of course that his wife's affections and interests are all centered in him." My voice wavered a little. We are getting on dangerous ground, and I had not intended to go too deeply into such serious reflections.

We walked on for a minute in silence.

"Or if she does have any outside interests," I went on, "he is very apt to disapprove.'

Leonard looked puzzled.

"Feminine viewpoints are so complex," he said. "A man might just as well give up trying to understand them. When a woman marries it is usually because she wants to, and because the man she married and the home he makes for her are her big interests. Isn't that so?"

"Yes, Dear, it is so, and you are my biggest interest, so let's stop talking so foolishly," I pleaded.

Leonard looked down on me with such a whimsical expression of bewilderment that I wanted to laugh. There was no use. I felt men never would entirely understand us.

If it hadn't been for my all controlling love for Leonard I think that right that minute I could have gone out on the stump and talked eloquently for the cause of feminism. But I only pressed closer to his side and love him more deeply.

"I've met such a funny nice boy since I've been here, Leonard," I told him. "We've become quite good pals, and I want you to meet him."

I felt that Leonard did not meet this information with much sysmpathy, but I went on to tell him about Thierry Brunswick. I could not help thinking of Leonard's remark about a man not demanding to be told every five minutes that his wife loved him, but I knew that he did demand that she live up to every degree of that love every single minute of her life.

"I have not seen him since you came, but you'll be glad to meet him I know," I went on. "You remember Brunswick of the big Marmaduke Case that you used to tell me about? Well, this is his only child—quite a remarkable boy, too."

Leonard's interest heightened a little.

"That so? Is his father with him?" he asked, plainly showing that even Rowland Brunswick's son would not interest him specially.

"No, he is alone," I answered, and then watched Leonard's expression out of the corner of my eye, but he still seemed disinterested—or perhaps he was trying to appear so.

"He is only a boy," I said, partly to relieve his feelings and partly to continue the subject. If Leonard was foolish enough to be jealous of a child, I was tempted to probe his jealousy a little. "But I've grown quite fond of him," I ventured.

Your old methods of teeth cleaning

See what this new way does. Watch your teeth whiten—note how clean they feel. Millions have learned in this way how much film removal means. It is something that you should know.

You must fight film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. It clings to the teeth unless you combat it, gets between the teeth and stays.

It forms a dingy coat which dims the luster of the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. And, despite the daily brushing, very few escape them. The old brushing methods do not effectively fight film.

New ways to combat it

Dental science has now found ways to combat film. The methods are embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. It has proved so effective that leading dentists everywhere are now advising it. And millions of people have already adopted it.

Pepsodent, with every use, brings five desired effects. It attacks the film in two efficient ways. It keeps teeth highly polished. It stimulates the salivary flow—Nature's great tooth-protecting agent.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That to digest the starch deposits which cling to teeth and often form acid. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Modern authorities regard these effects as essential aids to Nature, in view of the average diet. To bring those effects twice daily means such protection as you have not known before.

See and feel them

The results can be seen and felt. They are delightful, and this 10-day test will bring them 20 times.

Send the coupon for it. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects, and the book we send you will tell you what they mean.

Do this now in justice to yourself. Learn how much this new-day method means to you and yours.

TO-DAY'S VOTE LIGHT APSLEY

MANY NORTHERN RESIDENTS DO NOT KNOW THAT THERE IS A REFERENDUM.

APSLEY, April 18.—No interest at all is being shown in the Referendum in this neighborhood; indeed nothing seems to be known about it. Several who have been spoken to did not know that a vote is to be taken to-day. There has been no advertising, no campaign on either side, no instructions to the public, no information published with regard to polling stations, consequently a very light vote will be recorded.

Reception to Reeve Robert Scott.

The Reeve of Chandos, Mr. Robert Scott and his bride, was tendered a reception and shower at the parish room, Apsley, on Thursday evening, April 14th, by the ladies of the two Anglican churches of St. George's, Apsley, and St. Stephen's, Chandos.

In spite of the inclement weather about fifty guests assembled in honour of the occasion and a very enjoyable evening was spent in dancing, three sets going simutaneously.

After refreshments had been served, the Rev. C. A. G. Spence, on behalf of the company present (which included several returned men who, like the Reeve, had seen considerable service overseas), extended to Mr. and Mrs. Scott their hearty wishes for much joy and happiness in their wedded life and begged them to accept the accompanying gifts as small tokens of the esteem and high regard in which they were held. Mr. John Coones and Mr. Jim Downing, veterans of the Great War, then made the presentations. Mr. Scott in a brief, but neat speech expressed the thanks of himself and Mrs. Scott for the great kindness shown them on this pleasurable occasion which was entirely unexpected, and hoped that he would always deserve their respect and confidence.

Executive of Triple Alliance Explains Why General Strike Order Was Cancelled.

LONDON, April 16.—The executive council of the triple alliance this afternoon issued the following statement, explaining cancellation of the general strike order: "No reasonable hope remained of securing spontaneous, united action so essential to give the miners the assistance sought. A partial, hopelessly inadequate sympathetic strike would have weakened the three organizations' power. We regret there was no other course open to us."

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 18. (Canadian Press.) — On the Stock Exchange the week opened with irregular price changes, although the gains predominated. Oils led the firmer issues, notably Mexican and California Petroleums, and General Asphalt, Hendee Manufacturing, Coco Cola, Famous Players, Baldwin Locomotiv, American Smelting and Columbia Gas, also were invariably higher.

Rails were disposed to ease moderately with equipments, Pullman falling 1 1-4points to a par low of years. Food specialties also reacted fractionally.

Noting the absence of buying orders over the week-end, shorts confidently extended their operations during the morning. No part of the list captivated their attention, but Rails, Steels, Equipments and Oils were under especial pressure. Canadian Pacific fell 2¼, duplicating its recent low price. Delaware and Hudson lost 3 and Pullman extended its decline 3¼ points on adverse dividend rumours. Oils forfeited early gains, and Tobaccos, Textiles, Rubbers and Sugars were included among the heavy specialties with such miscellaneous issues as Sears-Roebuck. The bond market, especially Rails, also was heavy. Call money opened at the recent fixed rate of 7 per cent.

The set-back was checked for a brief period during the noon hour, but made further headway later when Rails, Steels and Equipments displayed increased heaviness. Remington, Great Northern, General Electric, Republic Steel, Utah Copper, Central Leather and Industrial Alcohol were especially reactionary.

Rallies of one to two points in last hour resulted from moderate demand for cheaper oils at gains of one to three points. The closing was irregular.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 18.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange steady; demand, 3.92¼. Canadian dollar, 11 7-16 per cent. discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Fear that damage to the new crop had been done by the low temperature led to upturns to-day in wheat prices. Buying, however, lacked volume, and with warmer weather in prospect, an increase of selling pressure soon took place. Sellers contended that crop damage would prove to be of only a minor source. Opening prices, which ranged from ½ to 2 higher, were followed by a material set-back and then something of a rally.

Continued importation of Canadian wheat and a break in prices at Winnipeg led subsequently to a sharp decline here. The close was heavy, with May 124 to 124¼, and July 105 to 105¼.

Corn hardened with wheat, but the latter was inclined to sag. After opening 3-8 to 7-8 higher, the market reacted to slightly below Saturday's finish. Oats paralleled the action of corn, starting unchanged to 5-8 higher, and later easing down. Higher quotations on hogs gave some firmness to provisions.

Later, in sympathy with wheat, the market declined further, but liberal exports helped to check the break. Prices closed unsettled, with July 60 3-8 to 60½ to 60½ to 60 3-4.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—The demand for high-class mining stocks is increasing on the Toronto Stock Exchange, and this morning trading in Dome and Hollinger led to a big advance in the former and a somewhat smaller gain in Hollinger. Opening strongly at 22, Dome moved up in spirited bidding to 22 3-4 before the close, this figure representing a gain of $1.75 over the Saturday close. Hollinger was extremely active, over two thousand shares changing hands with the prices advancing five cents a share to $7.05. C.P.R. dropped back again to 124½, a loss of two points, while Riordon sagged to 96¼, 2 3-4 points lower than Saturday's quotation.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts heavy; trade good. Quotations: Heavy beef steers $9.50 to $10.25; butcher steers choice, $8.50 to $9.50; butcher cows medium, $5 to $7; calves, $11 to $13; lambs, $12 to $13.50; hogs, selects, $12.75 to $13.

Years ago the overseas live cattle trade to Manchester was of considerable proportions.

COLLECTION FOR CHINA MISSIONS

REV. FATHER FRASER SPOKE AT CHURCH OF THE SACRED HEART ON SUNDAY.

A special collection in aid of the proposed Catholic College at Almonte for the education of missionaries for China was taken up at the Church of the Sacred Heart yesterday morning. Rev. Father Fraser, who spent fifteen years among the Chinese, gave an interesting review of his work and the extent to which it had developed. Converts had become so numerous that they could no longer be cared for by the few missionaries who had been delegated to that field. It had become necessary to increase their number, and to that end a residence had been bought at Almonte, where twenty-two students were now preparing to devote themselves to the evangelization of the Chinese. The accommodation of this building was already overtaxed, and it had become necessary to erect a college, for which funds were now collecting. Father Fraser appealed to the people, not only for their financial support, but also for their prayers, and for volunteers. The life of a missionary in China had many consolations. Father Fraser said he had quickly adapted himself to the ways of the people, and in the churches built and souls won for Christ, where previously Christianity had been unknown, the missionary found a reward beyond expression. The diocese in which he had labored was now so organized and supplied with churches that the future harvest of souls for God would be gathered quickly as soon as an adequate number of missionaries could be sent forward.

NEW RECTOR HELD INITIAL SERVICE

REV. G. J. BOUSFIELD AT ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

Rev. George J. Bousfield, B.A., the new pastor of St. Lukes Church, East City, held his initial services yesterday, at 8 and 11 a.m., Sunday School and Bible Class at 3 p.m., and evening service at 7 o'clock. Notwithstanding the inclement weather, there was a good turnout at all the services.

Mr. Bousfield's morning sermon was taken from the third chapter of Colossians, part of the 17th verse. "Whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus," and was an amplification of the difference between devotion to religious ethics and personal devotion to Christ.

The pastor emphasised the point that things would not be right in the world until people were more ready to accept Christian principles, and, what is unique in Christianity, to accept and be devoted to the person of Christ, a spirit which the pastor hoped would prevail in the church and in the work of the congregation as a whole.

The evening sermon as on the example of faith given us in the story of the woman of Tyre and Sidon whose daughter was grievously ill. Her faith in the efficacy of Christs helping powers was so great that Christ said to her, "O woman, great is thy faith. Be it done unto thee even as thou wilt," and her daughter was healed in the self-same hour. It was the virtue of faith that Jesus insisted upon in every relation that He had with the people, and it was even recorded of Him in one instance that He could not accomplish His mighty works because of their unbelief. The miracle of faith is manifested in every condition of our daily lives, and in the accomplishments of our ancestors who persevered in the face of discouragement and innumerable obstacles because of the faith that was in them.

Mr. Bousfield, who was born in Ottawa, and was educated in Trinity Trinity College School, Port Hope, has been for the past two and a half years stationed in Albion, New York.

MASS MEETING IN LAKEFIELD

CLOSING ADDRESS ON THE RE-REFERENDUM—LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, April 18.—A mass meeting was held in the Methodist church on Sunday evening after the regular evening service in the interests of the Referendum. Mr. J. F. Lillicrap was in charge.

Mr. Lillicrap called on Mr. Cowan of Peterborough as the first speaker after a brief introduction. Mr. Cowan began by referring to the advance made in the past few years in campaigning; there used to be so many temperance meetings and now there were few, but the individual voter was better informed on the issues. It was customary a few years ago for a minister to take a couple of drinks before going into the pulpit on Sunday, but that is not done now. A few years ago there were between 50 and 60 drinking places in the city of Peterborough and between Warsaw and Peterborough, a distance of 14 miles, there were 14 saloons. These conditions no longer prevail.

The speaker remembering his mother as a W.C.T.U. worker when the name carried with it a reproach, and when it required great courage to wear the white ribbon.

The Scott Act and Duncan Act, which were primary messages, were repealed and brought a good deal of discredit to the cause. When the railways and business firms refused employment to drinking men this was a step on the right road. Later still the local option law came in and the temperance worker was threatened on every side— business men were boycotted and farmers had their barns burned if they dared to make a public stand for temperance. Mr. Flavelle, who was at one time in business, was driven forth because of his expressed views on the subject.

It used to be common for grocers to sell liquor and this lent rather an aspect of respectability to its sale but boys and girls would go staggering home intoxicated. The law forbidding the sale to minors and the restrictions in regard to Indians and the license laws gradually curbed the traffic along certain lines. Prohibition on Sundays and certain holidays and during certain hours all were steps towards total prohibition.

Government control (so-called) has been proved in Saskatchewan to be unsuccessful and no government can hope to make it a success.

Mr. Cunningham accompanied the speaker to hear Mr. Windle of Chicago in the War Veterans' hall, and his arguments were not convincing, being mainly concerned with personal liberty being menaced. He made the statement that no one wants the open bar, which is rather a contradiction to the statements made a few years ago in the local option campaign. He claims that prohibition is despotism and that the cost of prohibition would mean financial ruin for the country owing to the number of men who would be employed to enforce it. For two years in war time we had prohibition and it did not bankrupt the country. The liquor traffic is responsible for every crime and we must remember that we are all our brother's keepers.

Mr. Cowan referred to the decrease in crime during war time prohibition in various centres. Mr. Cowan had not the exact figures in Peterborough, but Magistrate Dumble made the statement that he handled all classes of crime and that there was a large decrease during prohibition. It would be a great day and many of those who have passed away would have enjoyed seeing it and perhaps they did see as so many believe.

Rev. T. L. White sang as a solo "Pass It On."

The next speaker was Mr. Cunningham of Peterborough, who expressed his pleasure at being present and his conviction that in the present assembly it was not necessary to solicit votes. When the speaker was 4 or 5 years of age he remembered the abuse and stigma that fell to the lot of the temperance workers; they were in peril of having their buildings destroyed by fire, but times have changed and with them the arguments of those on the other side. They now state that no one wants to see the open bar back again, whereas a few years ago they made piteous appeals for the open bar as the poor man's club. Now in their plea for importation they are appealing for the rich man's cellar. There are some who in all sincerity ask the question, "why this vote, we voted a couple of year ago on prohibition and why do we vote again?"

The Onario Temperance Act was a war-time measure and the referndum a couple of years ago made it unlawful to buy or sell liquor in Ontario, but the Provincial government has no authority to prohibit its importation so the Federal government is giving Ontario this opportunity to say whether or not liquor shall be imported. At the last session the U.F.O. government passed the Sandy bill which makes it illegal for any railway or express company to carry liquor or for it to be possible for a man to convey it in his motor car from one point to another. This makes the carrying of liquor in any way a criminal offence, whether it is intended for personal use or for sale. This will be the nearest thing to being bone dry we have yet achieved. Boot-legging and rum-running will soon be over and it is well worth the years of effort. A woman in Peterborough reported to the speaker that her 14 year old daughter and her young son in High school cannot attend parties among their young friends without being in danger from liquor as boys and girls are drinking freely. The serpent in the cellar is a menace to all. A young woman in Peterborough was recently brought home drunk from a meeting of a society of which she was a member. It is a hundred years this month since the first petition to curtail the sale of liquor was presented to the Canadian legislature. Let us do our best and come out and vote and induce our neighbors to do so also.

Mr. Lillicrap made a strong appeal for a prohibition vote on Monday.

Rev. P. L. Jull concluded the evening with an appeal to avoid apathy on this great question but to vote "yes."

The regular monthly meeting of the King Edward Home and School Association was held on Friday afternoon last, with a very good attendance of members. Mrs S. T. QUICK ACTION IN THEFT OF LIQUOR

STOLEN FROM EXPRESS WAGON —RECOVERED BY POLICE—W. DEFOE FINED $50.

When William Defoe, of Tweed, neatly switched a case of whisky from a Dominion Express waggon about nine o'clock on Friday morning, he evidently thought of the old adage, "he who hesitates is lost," and another which dictates "finder, keeper."

The wicked Defoe saw the waggon drive up, saw Bruce Chambers, the driver, deliver a shipment of goods, saw him go across the street to make change, and then promptly confiscated the case, and took it into a building and hid it.

He did not reckon, however, with the vigilant eye of Bruce Chambers. The loss was detected, the police were notified, the detectives got busy, and in the same afternoon Defoe's cache was discovered.

On Saturday morning the summons was issued, and before Magistrate Dumble the young man found himself charged by the manager of the Dominion Express Company, J. H. Seels, with the theft of one case of liquor worth $25.00.

Defoe pleaded guilty, and was give the choice of paying $40.00, and $10.00 costs, or spending one month in jail.

He paid the fine.

FRED. PEACOCK MET DEATH BY DROWNING

ORILLIA, April 16.—When fishing in the lake, four little lads from the Moffat farm saw the body of a man floating in the water at the foot of Colborne street. Subsequently the body was identified as that of Fred Peacock, who had been missing since Tuesday.

PILES

ARE GENERALLY CAUSED BY CONSTIPATION

There are few, if any, complaints more common than hemorrhoids, or piles, as they are commonly called, and scarcely any which cause more trouble, annoyance and misery.

Ninety per cent. are troubled with them at some time or other, owing to allowing the bowels to become in a constipated condition.

Piles are classed under three headings, i.e., itching, bleeding and protruding, and the excruciating pains which accompany them cause misery wrich is beyond description.

Ointments and suppositories may help and relieve for a while, but to get rid of them, it is necessary to have a free, easy and natural motion of the bowels, at least once or twice a day, and by doing this the cause will be quickly removed.

Milburn's Lava-Liver Pills regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the liver and bowels, thus removing the constipation and all of its allied troubles.

They contain no calomel or drastic mineral ingredients, being purely vegetable. They are small and easy to take and do not gripe, weaken or sicken.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A PRESENTATION

LAKEFIELD, April 18.—A number of neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Condon on Monday evening last. Mr. and Mrs. Condon were the recipients of two handsome leather chairs and the following address was read by Mr. Martin Coughlin:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Condon.— At the time draws near for your removal to your new home, your many friends wish to express their regret at your departure from their midst. As this neighborhood has always been 'home' to both of you, we have pleasant recollections of your childhood days. In a rural community such as ours, we are of necessity dependent more or less upon our neighbors for many little deeds of helpfulness and in this respect you took your full share.

We feel we could not let this opportunity pass without expressing our feelings of your good friendship. As a slight token of our esteem, we, a few of your friends, ask you to accept this litle gift and with it our best wishes for your every success in your new home, in the pleasantly situated village of Lakefield.

Signed on behalf of your friends,
Edward Allen.
William Hayes.
John B. Condon.

Mr. Condon thanked his friends for their handsome gift and wished them all years of prosperity on their farms.

SURPRISED IN PARK SHARING $4,600 LOOT

Three Men Are Arrested an Hour After Hold-Up in Williamsburg Home.

NEW YORK, April 16. — Within an hour after three men had assaulted Alfred Kiepsek, 16 years old, in his home at 133 North Eighth Street, Williamsburgh, last evening, and had escaped with $4000 in cash and $600 worth of jewelry, which they found in a trunk in his mother's room, Detectives Miller and Thornton of the Bedford avenue station arested three men in McCarren Park, in the Greenpoint district, as they were dividing part of the jewelry obtained by the robbers.

According to the story told to the detectives say the victim of the hold up he was seized in the parlour of his home awaiting the return of his mother, a widow, when three men burst into the room with drawn pistols and ordered him to throw up his hands. He attempted to run to the window to call the police, he said, when one of the men struck him on the head with his pistol, felling him.

"The fellows seemed to know that my mother kept her savings in the trunk in her room," he explained, "because two of them ran into the room, while the other fellow covered me with his pistol. I heard the two fellows in the room smash open the trunk and about five minutes later they came out of the room stuffing my mother's money and the jewelry into their pockets.

"When they ran out of my apartment I followed them without their knowing it. I had hurried after them for half a dozen blocks in the direction of McCarren park when I lost them.

Keepsek said that he was about to return to his home to tell his mother about the hold up, when he met the two detectives. He described the hold up men, and the detectives commandeered an automobile and hurried with the boy to McCarren Park, as the latter had told them he had overheard one of the robbers say "Let's beat it to McCarren Park," as they ran out of the house.

The detectives saw three men seated on a bench in the park and approached them from behind a clump of bushes. The boy immediately identified them as the hold up men. Then the detectives sprang in front of the men with drawn pistols, and two of them, who described themselves as John Gorney, 23 years old, of 59 South Second St., and Joseph Ewasnik, 25 years old, of 123 Tenth Avenue, both of Williamsburgh, attempted to pull pistols from their coat pockets. The detectives said that they felled the men and then grabbed the third fellow, who described himself as Felix Ezanaka, 30 years old, of 41 North First street, Williamsurg.

After Gorney and Kwasnik had been disarmed by the detectives the trio was searched, and according to the police about $400 worth of jewelry was found on them which Mrs. Klepsek later identified as part of the loot taken from her trunk. The detectives did not recover any of the money that was taken from the trunk and the men refused to reveal what had become of it. They were locked up at the Bedford ave. station on charges of assault and robbery, and will be arraigned in the Bridge Plaza Court.

STRAWBERRY PATCH

Experimental Farm Notes.

Whatever else is neglected, one should not fail to start a strawberry plantation during the spring. Any fairly dry area will grow strawberries. The ground should be one on which water will not stand during the winter to form ice.

Manure at the rate of ten to fifteen tons per acre may be applied and plowed under, or ever more may be used to advantage if no other fertilizers are to be used. It is usually considered wise to apply five hundred pounds of a 4-8-4 fertilizer per acre. That is one containing 4 per cent. of nitgrogen, 8 per cent. of phosphoric acid and 4 per cgent of potash However, if the soil is in god fertility chis is not necessary and manure alone may be all that is necessary. All fertilizers should be scattered broadcast and harrowed in.

Thorough preparation of the soil by plowing and working deeply is advisable. The land is finally levelled ew with a smoothing harrow and the plants set in riws three and a half feet apart and fourteen inches apart in the row. Closer planting is unnecessary and does not permit of easy cultivation between the rows and opportunity of picking without tramping on the vines.

The planting is done by pushing a spade into the soil, pressing it to one side and dropping a plant with roots spread fan shape into the opening, holding the crown of the plant to the top of the level soil and pressing the earth firmly around the plant with the heel or some other way and finally levelling with loose earth around the crown of the plant. This is quickly done The importance of pressing the soil firmly around the plant is very great and the plant should be sufficiently firm, so that if the plant is pulled bp a leaf the leaf will break before the plant will pull out. Only young plants should be set; that is, plants of the previous season's growth. The planting should be done early, in fact, the earlier the better. Much of the failure with strawberries is due to late planting. This is a job that can be done in the early spring, the sooner the plant becomes established the earlier the formation of runner plants, and the earlier these runner plants form, the larger and better developed are the crowns without which strong stalks of well formed fruit are impossible.

The summer cultivation should be shallow to kill weeds and form a loose surface in which the plant can root without difficulty. As the runners develop the cultivator should be narrowed, so that the runners are no disturbed after they commence to form plants and great care is necessary to avoid disturbing the plants at this time Some of the hunners may be shifed to give a more even distribution of plants along the row, and some hand hoeing will be necessary to prevent weeds from growing later.

It is wise to plan for a new plantation every year, as it is difficult to keep weeds under control the secon dyear without much hand hoeing.

It will be found that the Senator Dunlap is in one of the best varieties to plant. Blossoms are likely to develop on the spring set plants and these should be removed to throw all energy into the development of runners as early as possible.

DYSPEPSIA IS ENEMY OF

DISTRESSING MALADY IS MOST PREVALENT OF ALL PRESENT DAY DISEASES — THOUSANDS ARE RELIEVED BY TANLAC

Of all the conditions that afflict humanity, chronic dyspepsia, or what is more commonly known as indigestion, is probably the most prevalent.

This most universal malady has baffled the medical profession for years, and the most skilled specialists have been unable to cope with it successfully.

Hours might be consumed in describing the sufferings, mental and physical, of the sufferers from chronic dyspepsia and their failure heretofore to get relief. A morbid, unreal, whimsical and melancholy condition of the mind, aside from the nervousness and physical suffering, is the usual condition of the average dyspeptic.

Dyspepsia, or indigeston, as the case may be, is usually caused by the eating of too much or unsuitable food, and the mucous membrance of the stomach becomes irritated, and there is set up an acute or sub-acute gastric catarrhal condition which prevents the proper digestion of the food. This food is apt to ferment and decompose, and as a result the familiar distressing symptoms of dyspepsia may arise. In mild cases there is nothing more than an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach, with a certain amount of depression, headache, loss of appetite, perhaps belching of gas and occasional vomiting. There may be also accompanying intestinal symptoms, such as constipation, pains in the back, colic, etc. There may be only the familiar heartburn due to the inflammation of the stomach from excessive gases of fermentation or putrefaction. In the most severe cases—those that last over a day or two—the symptoms enumerated may be much more intense. The distress may be marked and the general constitutional symptoms more evident.

GERMANS MAKE NEW PROPOSAL

OFFER TO REBUILD FRANCE---TRANSMITTED TO U.S. THROUGH VATICAN CHANNELS.

TORONTO, April 18. (Canadian Press.) A special cable to the Mail and Empire this morning from Berlin, says:

"With but 14 days separating her from Frances's mailed fist, Germany's new reparation proposals, upon which the government has been working so feverishly, will be submitted to Washington Monday forenoon, if they did not reach there in time to be received yesterday.

"Contrary to all expectations and reports, the neutrla messenger is neither Argentine, Holland or Switzerland, but is through Vatican channels.

"According to information from United States sources that have been in closest touch with the government here and which there is every reason to assume are reliable, representatives of the Vatican will deliver to the Secretary of State, for President Harding, German's newest proposals to mother the reparation obligation. It is believed possible that the proposals reached the State Department on Saturday.

"A number of striking features are in the new proposals. The most important is probably that Germany is said to offer to make reparations to every individual in northern France for loss or destruction suffered. It will offer to rebuild every house, building or factory destroyed; to clean up and make possible for cultivation each farm or plot of gound ruined by trenches or shell holes. All this to be done with German labour and material under France's own supervision."

The University of Chicago plans an expenditure of $15,000,000 in the next five years for new buildings.

PATRICK THISTLES WIN SCOTTISH CUP FINAL FROM RANGERS BY 1-0

BIG CROWD OF 30,000 AT CELTIC PARK, GLASGOW--BISHOP AUCKLAND CAPTURE AMATEUR CUP —RESULTS OF SATURDAY'S GAMES.

LONDON, April 17. — Despite the coal strike in the old country all the soccer games in the leagues were played, and the Scottish Cup final between Partick Thistle and Rangers at Celtic Park, Glasgow, drew a crowd of 30,000. The Thistles surprised their doughty opponents by putting over a 1 to 0 victory. This is the first time that Partick Thistles have captured the trophy, and the most optimistic soccer fan would hardly have predicted this result especially as the winners were without the services of Hamilton and McMullen, two of thieir best players. Reports show that Rangers had most of the play in the first half. Cunningham and Morton leading the attack spiritedly but were unluckly at the goal. After 20 minutes Blair scored for Thistles from close range. The Rangers from then on till the finish were always attacking but the ball time after time went past the posts. The Thistle backs played a great game, but on the day Rangers should have won easily.

Another Cup Tie.

The Amateur Association Cup was captured by Bishop Auckland, who defeated Swindon Victorias by four goals to two in the finals to-day.

Burnley Lose Point.

There were also a few surprises in the league games and 14 of the games played resulted in the points being divided. Burnley, the leaders of the first division, had to share the points with West Bromwich Albion, who held them to a one-goal draw at Turf Moor. The famous old Trafford enclosure was the scene of another upset. The home team were downed by Middlesboro by an odd goal. The "Geordies" took the "Wanderers" into camp, and downed them 1 to 0 in the St. James Park enclosure. This dropped Bolton into third place in the table, and Liverpool, by tying with Derby County, take second place.

Tie in Second.

The fight for the leadership of the second division is getting keener each week and Birmingham and Cardiff City are now tied with an equal number of points for the first place. The former could only tie with the "Forest" at Nottingham, while the latter trimmed South Shields by 1 to 0 at Horsey Hill Road. Blackpool dropped a couple of valuable points to the "Wolves," while Bristol City jumped over them by downing Coventry City. Stockport County are fighting hard to get out of the cellar position, and today they defeated Notts County by an odd goal.

Palace Still Leads.

Crystal Palace still maintains a good lead in the third division but they could only get one point away from Watford to-day. The following and the results and tables up to date.

RAIN SPOILED LOCAL FOOTBALL GAMES SATURDAY

ALL THE FOOTBALL PLAYERS WERE PRESENT WHEN THE GAMES WERE CALLED OFF—FOOTBALL MEETING TO-NIGHT.

On Saturday afternoon two important local league games were scheduled to be played, but were postponed to another date that will be agreed upon by the respective teams, owing to the very unfavorable weather and icy condition of the ploying fields.

At the Exhibition grounds the Caledonians and Vets teams were out in full force with every playing member present. The captains of the two teams agreed that the game be postponed and the referee, Mr. Howarth, agreed to the decision. After this decision the small attendance of spectators who braved the elements dispersed.

The other game at Nicholls Oval was declared off by Referee Hensly, who notified the teams after examiging the grounds and finding the ground unplayable. Every member of the Woollens and DeLaval teams were present to start the game.

If arrangements can be made with the Woollens and DeLaval executives the games will in all probability be arranged for Tuesday evening at Nicholls Oval, starting at 6 p.m. prompt, with the same referee handling the game. The press has not been officially notified, but in all likelihood the game will be played Tuesday.

No Football Games in Toronto

Rain Saturday afternoon spoiled the football games in Toronto and throughout the province At Broadview field, Toronto, 500 hardy fans braved the elements, but the grounds were under water, making it impossible to play the games. They were called off and will be played later in the season.

U. S. Football Title on Tuesday

On Tuesday, April 19, the Robins Dry Dock eleven of Brooklyn and the Scullen Steel Company team of St. Louis, will meet to decide the national soccer title and possession of the national challenge trophy of the United States Football Association. The Brooklyn team is the winner of western semi-finals, who are considered the favourites, although St. Louis have a strong following. The date of the game is Lexington Day and generally observed as a holiday and record attendance is expected.

Regular Football Meeting To-Night

The regular meeting of the Peterborough Football Association will be held tonight in G.W.V.A. rooms at 7.30 p.m. All club representatives are requested to be on time.

CROWN FORCES MISTAKE EACH OTHER.

LIMERICK, April 18.—(Canadian Press.) — Two members of the Crown forces were killed and one was wounded in a hotel in Castle Connell, County Limerick, last night, when soldiers arriving at the hotel in lorries are reported to have mistaken some of their comrades in civilian clothes already at the hostelry for Seinn Feiners and began firing. Dennis O'Donovan, proprietor of the hotel, also was shot and killed.

The use of block printing instead of embroidery has come to the fore on some of the later spring coats and will be pushed for the coming [illegible]

After the "Flu"
Four Children Had
Whooping Cough

Whooping cough, although specially a disease of childhood, is by no means confined to that period, but may occur at any time of life. It is one of the most dangerous diseases of infancy, and yearly causes more deaths than scarlet fever, typhoid or diphtheria, and is more common in female than male children.

Whooping cough starts with sneezing, watering of the eyes, irritation of the throat, feverishness and cough.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is highly recommended by mothers everywhere for the relief of this trouble as it helps to clear the clogged-up air passages of the mucous and phlegm that has collected, and in this way bring on the "whoop," which brings the so-much-sought for relief and heals and soothes the lungs.

Mrs. J. M. Rouse, Imperial, Sask., writes:—"After the 'flu,' last fall, my four children took whooping cought and one of them developed bronchitis. After using two or three botles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup they were greatly relieved of their nasty coughs. It is an especially good remedy for children, and is so nice they take it readily, and ask for more."

OPEN LETTER TO MR. ROLAND DENNE.

April 18th, 1921.

Mr. Roland Denne, City:

Dear Sir,—The letter appearing in Saturday's Examiner to which you appended your name, has been drawn to my attention.

I do not purpose allowing you to misrepresent my position as did Gratton O'Leary and other election performers who came here to help you, a couple of months ago, when you launched a "win the world campaign."

If you will look at the Examiner reporting the Fielding meeting in my campaign you will see what I said in my speech regarding taxing the people's food to keep in existence a moribund Government.

You, as a middle man dealing in the people's food, no doubt want the market glutted with no market for farm products, as then your profits would be higher, but my interest is to obtain a market for 240,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat, the Canadian farmers' produce, so they can buy Peterborough manufactured goods, such as cream separators, textiles, machinery, etc. If the great American market is shut off from the Canadian farmer he will have less money to buy the goods which keep our factories running.

Do you know, Mr. Denne, we export from this district hundreds of thousands of dollars worth each month to the United States, which will be nearly all cut off when the Fordney Bill passes? Your idea apparently would be to cut this export business off and shut down the mills exporting flour, etc., to theStates.

No nation ever existed that did not show increased prosperity when taxes were taken off the people's food and I would recommend for your close study that period of English history immediately before and after the abolition of the Corn Laws.

I have not here the speech of the Minister of Finance, but I will have it in a day or so, and I will quote him later in the Examiner to prove that you are altogether unacquainted with a subject in which you have got tangled up.

As you have asked me questions, let me ask you a few.

Do you approve Prime Minister Meighen's course on Thursday of cutting twenty-five per cent. off the postmen's bonus and within an hour after moving the second reading of a bill to give the Chief Justice of Canada $5,000.00 a year as administrator on top of his $10,000 a year salary as a judge?

Do you approve the Prime Minister's course of then moving that the Chief Justice with his $15,000 a year should not pay income tax on $10,000 of it, thus making the country lose $400.00 a year?

Are you with your Leader in his idea of helping the big salaried men while he cuts off twenty-five per cent. from the postmen's wages and from other low paid civil servants?

I will answer your letter in day or two when I can quote the statements of the Minister of Finance, but in the meantime I would like to know where you stand on this waste of the people's money.

Do you agree with me that I was right when I opposed cutting down the postmen's bonus and when I voted against $5,000.00 extra plus immunity against income tax assessment for the Chief Justice?

I would esteem it a favor if you would let me know if my action in this is satisfactory, to you as you seem to have appointed yourself an arbiter of my conduct in public affairs.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

SPORT COMMENT

Clubs interested in the City Baseball League should not neglect to send representatives to to-night's meeting at the Board of Trade Rooms. Those interested in teams for the Juvenile series of the O. B. A. A. should also be present.

Bad weather kept the East Peterborough League moguls at home on Saturday, and an Executive meeting could not be held. The clubs will be notified to send representatives to a meeting here next Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

With the Central League team away from home on May 24th, there is a good chance for the local leaguers to arrange a baseball entertainment for the holiday.

The Mercantile League will hold forth at the Y.M.C.A. Tuesday evening at 7.30 to draft a constitution and discuss other important matters.

SIX TEAMS NOW IN CENTRAL LEAGUE RACE

PETERBOROUGH OPENS THE SEASON AT COBOURG ON MAY 24TH ---DOUBLE SCHEDULE TO BE PLAYED--WINNERS OF FIRST HALF TO PLAY OFF WITH WINNERS OF SECOND.

The Central Ontario Baseball League circuit will consist of the same six teams as last year—Belleville, Oshawa, Port Hope, Cobourg, Lindsay, and Peterborough and a double schedule will be played, the winner of the first half of the schedule to meet the winner of the second half in the finals, provided, of course, the same outfit does not win both sections. This was decided at a meeting of the League Executive at Cobourg on Saturday afternoon, at which the Peterborough club was represented by Messrs Jake Solomon and T. E. Curvin.

The schedule to be drawn up will run into the first week in September —so the winners will not have so long to wait for the O.B.A.A. playoff.

The following fixtures were arranged for 24th May:

Peterborough at Cobourg.
Belleville at Oshawa.
Port Hope at Lindsay.

Peterborough, Port Hope, and Belleville will have home games on 1st July.

Games will be played on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Wednesday is a half-holiday in most of the towns.

The games scheduled in Peterborough on Wednesday will be played at 5.30 o'clock.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

"DAMAGED GOODS."

"DAMAGED GOODS," the great drama from the pen of a gifted French playwright, Eugene Brieux, now comes to the people of Peterborough after having been withheld for nearly six years.

Controversy which centred first around the stage play and caused its suspension in many parts of Canada, descended with greater intensity upon the more pretenious presentation in the seven-reel photoplay which was written from the play and the book. Ontario and Quebec did not permit the showing of the picture until quite recently when they acted almost in unison to permit the tremendous moral drama to reach the people.

Released to Aid Humanity.

Wholly on the ground of the good work the picture will do to enlighten all those who need enlightenment and to lead the untaught away from terrible social dangers, was the decision of release given in the two foremost provinces of the Dominion.

The Canadian company owning the rights of "DAMAGED GOODS" immediately made arrangements for the showing of the picture in the leading theatres of the country, believing that its theme and acknowledged leadership as a drama, removed it from the class of all those plays which have sought to "cash in" on the original creation of the famous French dramatist.

Richard Bennett, in the part of George Dupont, leads the same cast that made the stage play such a remarkable success, in a picture that works its way to a climax in a thrilling series of episodes. Mr. Bennett stands acclaimed as the greatest actor of his time in the drama of realism.

Attracts Strong Support.

Peterborough is one of the first cities in which the photoplay appears. It comes to this city with the active support and co-operation of every organization which is seeking to build a protective barrier around the quick-sands of sex ignorance.

Everywhere the play has appeared, audiences have demonstrated their abundant thankfulness that they have been permitted to see the play. One friend tells another; millions of minds will be awakened after the Ontario and Quebec tour of the picture and as one of the leading authority stated "hundreds of lives will be saved; thousands of homes made secure against the invasion of a terrible scourge." The great sex-ignorance drama opens at the Grand on Thursday for 3 days only.

"THE SILVER KING"

Lovers of real drama will find in Trans-Canada's English Players an organiztion of such sterling worth, the like of which has never been seen here before.

This briliant organization which comes here for the first time next week, has already played two weeks at His Majesty's theatre in Montreal and five weeks at the Grand in Toronto to phenominal success. The bills chosen for presentation here are Wilson Barrett's greatest success, "The Silver King" and that ever-popular play, "East Lynne," both standard dramas of the heart interest and human element type.

Interpreted by such a high class company as has been brought here to Canada under the direction of Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, Mr. Percy Hutchison and Mr Walter Howard, these two grand old plays have assumed a new and becoming dignity, which even the oftentimes inferior small repertoire companies have not been able to rob from them.

As a man remarked to Mr. Norman B. Cancon, the director of the company, the other day: "I've seen them both a dozen times, always going again in the hope of seeing them properly presented, and now that wish has been fulfilled after years of patient hope."

AT THE ALLEN.

CREATURES OF WILDS SET EXAMPLE FOR MAN, PHOTOPLAY INDICATES

"Kazan," one of the most popular of James Oliver Curwood's delightful stories of the Canadian Northwest, is coming to the screen at the Allen Theatre, opening an engagement to-day. This production was adapted and directed by Bertram Bracken. In the leading role is Jane Novak, and she is supported by Ben Deeley. Other members of the cast are William Ryno, Ben Haggerty, Edwin Wallock. The part of "Kazan" is taken by one of the most intelligent "huskies" of the Canadian Northwest. The picture, it is said, abounds in wonderful photography of the great snow country and makes use of many varieties of wild animals in their native haunts. It is a gripping story of treachery, love and adventure, with a lesson taught and an example set by the savage but faithful dog "Kazan."

MATRIMONIAL COMEDY BRINGS EPIDEMIC OF STUDIO WEDDINGS

Out in Hollywood where the two reel Christie Comedies are made, they are wondering whether the pictures are having influences on the people working at the studio. This results from the fact that the production of "Shuffle the Queens," the latest of the Christies which comes to the Allen Theatre to-day, was marked by no less than three weddings. First, Ezna Letrich, one of the most beautiful of the Follies Girls, announced that she had become a bride and barely had this news come over the phone than the head telephone girl herself, Nellie Merrill, let it be known, too, that she has taken a husband.

But that was not all. Barely had the picture been finished when Eddie Barry, who has the feature role, disappeared and the first new of him came with the announcement that Miss Gladys Patterson, who is with another film company having offices just a block away and who had also disappeared and the first news of him become Mrs. Barry.

Barry, who is only 24, is cast as an uncle in "Shuffle the Queens." He generally draws these older roles because of his unusual character ability. Vera Steadman, Charlotte Merriam, Neal Burns, Early Rodney and Lydia Yeamans Titus also appear in "Shuffle the Queens."

AT THE EMPIRE.

The song of the wind and the rumble of the subway. Oilskins and dinner coats. Lighthouses and houses of light. Impetuous youth and diplomatic old age. These are but a few of the contrasts to be observed in Eugene O'Brien's latest Selznick Picture, "Broadway and Home," which will be seen at the Empire Theatre for three days, starting to-day.

As Michael Strange, Mr. O'Brien has a role that offers great opportunities for real dramatic acting. The character is that of a youth who expresses a desire to live life to the utmost. He is transplanted from a quiet sea coast town in Maine to the gayest set of New York. While there he experiences practically every emotion that a man can experience, from the greatest happiness to the grimmest despair.

There is action aplenty and a sufficient number of lighter moments to afford a comedy relief from the heavy dramatic scenes.

Some remarkably novel photographic feats are promised in "Broadway and Home," not the least of which is a scene showing a storm at sea, this being photographed at night.

The Selznick studios have given Mr. O'Brien's picture a lavish production from a scene standpoint, and the star has been surrounded with an excellent supporting cast which includes Elinor Fair, Eileen Cassidy, Frank Losee and Warren Cook.

Alan Crosland directed the story, which is an original by John Lynch, adapted to the screen by the R. Cecil Smiths.

AT THE CAPITOL.

The interest being taken by the citizens of this city in the opening of their new and beautiful play house the Capitol, was demonstrated on Saturday when hundreds of people came to the box office and purchased tickets for the opening night. Mr. John C Green, the district manager and Charles Dentlebeck, the electric projection expert for the company and Manager Edward Abbey have been going night and day since they reached the city last Wednesday and the result is in evidence everywhere in the building. A wonderful color scheme of lights, beautiful floral decorations, pictures and wonderful mirrors everywhere are seen and the new gold fibre Gardiner screen, which is the newest and best in this line will make the public wonder at the remarkaby clear and sharply defined pictures that are always the wonder of the public in every city, where Paramount operate theatres, Peterboro will at last see the really big things in the way of Motion Picture Productions as Broadway has seen them for the past several years. One big performnce each evening will be given commencing at 8 o'clock and a special matinee on Wednesday and Saturday at 2.30, when the full 7-piece orchestra will be in attendance same as in the evening. Manager Green states that many big pictures will follow in rapid succession into the Capitol all on par with remarkble picture to be seen to-night, "Behold my Wife" taken from Sir Gilbert Parkers won derful novel, "The Savage", this production has been a sensation where it has been shown and has the extra novelty of being a Canadian and British story. The snow scenes are remarkably beautiful; the acting of the all star cast superb. The balance of the big program will comprise comedies, scenic, pictures cartoon comedies and film novelties of the very highest class and from the many complimentary remarks heard in this city, the Capitol, Peterboro's newest play house looks like a winner. Mr. N. L. Nathanson the President and General Manager of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation and Parmount Theatres Ltd., is expected in the city to-night for the opening.

GENERAL INTEREST PROPOSED CHANGE

General interest is centering around the proposed change of the name of the Board of Trade to the Chamber of Commerce.

The President, Mr. Joseph J. Duffus, stated that the more modern civic organisations with activities similar to those of the Board have adopted the name of Chamber of Commerce, and are looked upon as the central civic organisations representing the municipalities.

There is a mistaken idea amongst the citizens generally, which possibly originated with the old Boards of Trade, that it is an organisation representing business men only. With the change in the Boards of Trade Act, in July, 1920, the activities have now been enlarged to read, "For the purpose of promoting and improving trade and commerce, and the economic, civic, and social welfare of such district."

The Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce is the only organisation in any municipality incorporated by Act of Parliament which is authorised to deal with all subjects pertaining to community welfare.

The change of name will be considered at the general meeting of the Board to be held to-morrow (Tuesday) evening at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Duffus expects to see a large attendance at this meeting, as various subjects of importance will be considered, and a programme of activities for the year commenced.

FENCE WIRE HELP

When the spring hanger of a canti lever spring breaks, the car is difficult to steer; in fact, it will not keep the road at all. When this happens on the road, an emergency repair is possible. Place the lifting jack under the forward part of the spring and raise the part so that it can be wired against the frame. This will hold if the car is driven slowly. The wire may even be purloined from any nearby fence.

MORE UNEMPLOYMENT, SAYS LABOR GAZETTE.

Is More Marked in March Than in the Previous Month.

OTTAWA, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—The April number of The Labor Gazetter states that unemployment among trade unions in Canada at the beginning of March was 16.12 per cent. of the total membership, as compared with 13.07 at the beginning of February and 4.33 at the beginning of March, 1920.

Reports from 5,000 firms showed a continuance in the decline in employment, the decline being more marked than in the previous month.

The time loss due to industrial disputes was greater during March than during February, and also greater than during March, 1920. There were in existence during the month 26 strikes, involving about 3,252 workpeople, and resulting in a time loss of 52,928 working days. At the end of the month there were on record 16 strikes, involving about 1,735 workpeople.

Society

Dr. and Mrs. Yelland returned on Saturday evening from a month's visit at Miami, Florida.

Mr. W J. Young, Water street, has returned from Montreal, after an extended visit with friends there

Miss Hilda Lane, 243 Hunter Street, is visiting her sister Helen, of St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester.

Miss Gillespie and Miss La France of Robert Fair and Co., are in Toronto to-day.

The last meeting for this season of the Women's Art Association took place at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday afternoon. Owing to the very inclement weather, there was not as large an attendance as usual. The Association, which has given a fine series of Saturday afternoon musicales during the winter, finished their season with a most enjoyale programme, under the direction of Mrs. Percy Hooper. Miss Edwina Palmer gave several beautiful violin selections in her usual finished manner; Miss Given, who has a very attractive soprano voice, sang twice, and Mr. Hartshorn delighted his audience with three groups of songs. The tea hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. E. V. Frederick and Mrs. R. G. Kingan.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Lush, 599 Aylmer street, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding yesterday. All their children and grandchildren were present for a quiet celebration with the exception of two sons residing in Wiseton, Sask. Many congratulations were received from friends who called during the day. Mr. and Mrs. Lush were born in Shaftesbury, Dorsetshire, England, and came to this country shortly after their marriage. Mr. Lush, who conducted a bakery here for 47 yeas, is now living retired.

GOOD CONCERT AT THE GRAND

The Grand Opera House was crowded last evening for another of the series of Sunday evening concerts. All chairs on the lower floor and in the balcony, even the boxes, were filled. White and dark heads, young faces and old, men and women, little children, they all seemed to be enjoying a quiet hour of good music. If interest in music continues to thrive, as it seems to be doing with regard to these concerts, the time may come when we will cease to be regarded as a merely "commercial" town.

The opening number by the band was followed by a vocal solo by Miss Corbett, whose rich, sweet voice was heard to good advantage in the encore of "Nearer, my God, to Thee." Another band number, excellently executed, with a good deal of flute-work, was given, and then Miss Minnie Allen sang, "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" and "The Rosary," her pretty voice lingering on the minor notes.

A bright little band number with a martial swing and a gay refrain was followed by Miss Griffin's song, "The Lord is my Shepherd," and a dainty little bird-like encore, delivered with fine technique and strong pure tones, and a collection of gliding waltzes by the band, with a bell accompaniment and a humming refrain, preceded Mr. Ted Bartley's solos, with his deep, powerful voice ringing out in fine style, to enthusiastic applause.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Saturday's Examiner has an interesting letter from Mr. R. Denne the candidate on Feb. 7 of the National Liberal and Conservative party and government at Ottawa, Canada. He asks Mr. Gordon, M.P., to explain his vote on the reciprocity resolution of Mr Fielding a few days ago in parliament. Mr. Denne supported a government on Feb. 7 that contains Liberals as well as Conservative members and yet those are the Liberals who appeal to the country and to all the people of Canada on the ground that they are still Liberals and not Conservatives. In fact they refuse to call themselves Conservatives and keep saying that they are just as good Liberals as ever they were, etc. How does Mr. Denne explain his support of such characters as that if he is a protectionist, Mr Burnham supported the N. P. and the Conservative party that brought it in and which supported it through all the years while Calder & Co. were trying to knife it. What better is Mr. Denne than Mr Gordon on that point when it comes down to the fine thing? Mr. Gordon was no pussyfooter and Mr. Denne, if he understood politics ought to know that reciprocity is a reciprocity of tariffs not free trade. Reciprocity was defeated because it endangered Canada's part in the British empire and made her look as if she preferred to do business with the U.S. That was why it was defeated We didn't want to get tied up. And if Mr Denne wants to attack Mr. Gordon that is his opportunity, but not the one he has chosen, when Hon. Jim Calder, himself a minister, still keeps on saying that he is no protectionist and he isn't. He's anything for Jim Calder. It's a nice mess things are in at Ottawa, but as between a hermaphrodite party and one sex or the other, give me the straight goods, not a lot of pussyfooters with their boots off. Conservative papers, like the Kingston Standard, which have been supporting the Meighen aggregation all along see it is hopeless and are now calling out for a straight Conservative party as of old and that's the way it will be all over Canada before long and don't you forget it. What will Mr. Denne and those who eft the good old party at last election, Feb. 7, do then Will they repent and try to get back, or will they keep on belonging to a party that calls itself both Liberal and Conservative, which as anybody with the head of a hen knows is an impossibility. Those wo have tried to break up the Conservative party of the N. P. founded by Sir John MacDonald himself and enough for all these years and for many more will have a nice time explaining themselves some of these days. Will they go to the Conservative convention to be called by the Conservative party here in June, too? and will they attend the Grit convention, too? They are both Liberal and Conservative, you know, and tried to get a Liberal candidate at the bye-election and after trying four or five who laughed at them found Mr. Denne ready and willing Doesn't Mr Denne know that his supporters asked Mr. Gordon to be their candidate? Come boys, let us have not all things to try and catch a fish, but straight goods. Has it worked anyhow? Nit.

SPARK PLUGS FOUL.

When spark plugs habitually become fouled with oil and soot, it is a good plan to investigate and see whether they may not be projecting to far into the combustion chamber, particularly when they are located in either one or the other of the valve pockets. If they are screwed into the valve port caps, the removal of the caps with the plugs in them will be the best way to determine the condition. The points of the outer end of the shell should extend very little beyond the inner faces of the valve caps. Anyway, the adjustments to the carburetor or lubricating system should be made to prevent excessive gas or oil feed.

BRASS TABLET IN MEMORY OF DR. HALLIDAY

MEMORIAL UNVEILED AT NICHOLLS HOSPITAL THIS MORNING TO LATE LOCAL PHYSICIAN

SIMPLE CEREMONIES

A very impressive little ceremony took place this morning at Nicholls Hospital, when a handsome brass tablet, given by Mrs. Halliday in memory of the late Dr. Halliday, was unveiled.

This tablet, which is placed in the main hall of the hospital, bears the following inscription:

In Memory of
James Thomas Inness Halliday, M.D.
Born 1844. Died 1920
This Tablet is Erected to Commemorate his 35 Years' Work on the Staff of this Hospital.

"Semper fidelis; semper paratus."

In the presence of the medical staff of the hospital and members of the Board, Messrs. Richard Hall, V. Eastwood, J. B .Fowler, Wm. Madill, J. W. Worth, and His Honour the Mayor, Mr. John Crane read a letter from Mrs. Halliday, proffering the tablet, which was accepted by the following resolution, moved by Mr. E. B. Fowler, seconded by Mr. William Madill:

"This Board accepts with much appreciation the tablet to the memory of the late Dr. Halliday, and esteems it an honour to Nicholls Hospital that it should find a permanent place in the building, where it will serve to perpetuate the memory of a truly great man. Dr. Halliday was to the Hospital a staunch and loyal friend and a wise counsellor and jealous of its good name. In its service his great ability was at all times freely given. In the death of the late Dr. Halliday this Board is deeply conscious of a great loss to the Hospital."

Mr. Richard Hall spoke briefly on the work of the late Dr. Halliday, and called on Dr. Greer, who made a moving little speech of eulogy and appreciation of Mrs. Halliday's gift.

"No physician or citizen of this community," said Dr. Greer, "was held in higher esteem than Dr. Halliday. He was well and favourably known throughout the community for his work and his life. Everyone who knew him looked upon him with great respect and admiration of his unselfish and constant devotion to his life work. He was dear to the hearts of his patients, and he won from his confreres, who regarded him as a leader, their unalloyed gratitude and affection. His cheery and wise counsel often proved a great help to them when discouraged. Not only was he a wise counsellor, but a skilful surgeon and successful physician. He was a citizen of the highest order, a man of honour, integrity, and spotless character, and at all times a gentle counsellor and kind friend. He was a Christian gentleman with the most admirable qualities, which we all recognised and loved, and his influence for good was boundless. His memory will not fail."

Dr. W. D. Scott followed with a few well expressed sentiments, reiterating the general appreciation of Dr. Halliday's life and work as a physician and gentleman, finishing with a wish to emulate his high ideals.

LLOYD GEORGE DEFENDS POLICY OF THE GOVERNMENT IN IRELAND AND DRAWS AS A PARALLEL THE CIVIL WAR IN STATES

LONDON, April 19 (Canadian Press)—Premier Lloyd-George defended the Government's policy in Ireland, and cited the United States Civil War as providing an exact parallel for the situation there, quoting the fundamental issue of union or secession, in his reply to-day to the recent memorial sent him by the heads of the Anglican and Non-Conformist Churches of Great Britain.

The memorial endorsed the protests against reprisals in Ireland, and pleaded for a truce.

Next Dry Objective The Prohibition of Liquor Manufacture

WITH SALE OF LIQUOR IN ONTARIO MADE ILLEGAL BY REFERENDUM, DRYS WILL TAKE FURTHER STEPS.

SEE A BONE-DRY CANADA

TORONTO, April 19.—(Canadian Press.)— To press immediately for a Federal measure prohibiting the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in Canada will now be the objective of the Ontario Referendum Committee, according to a statement this morning of Rev. Dr. A. S. Grant, secretary.

Dr. Grant declared that Ontario, having voted yesterday by a majority of two hundred thousand, which is the estimate of the prohibition forces, to prevent the importation of liquor into the province and have already made the sale within the province illegal, could not legally or morally contine the manufacture for export to other provinces or to the United States. In the opinion of Dr. Grant and other prohibition leaders all Canada will be dry, with manufacture, sale or importation prohibited, within the next five years.

LIBERTY LEAGUE VIEW.

TORONTO, April 19.—(Canadian Press).— In a statement given out to-day, C. D. Boyce, Secretary of the Provincial Committee of the Citizen's Liberty League, states that the League officials are pleased with the referendum result. He declares that the sentiment of the people has changed and for several reasons Among the reasons ennumerated in the statement are, the people of Ontario realize that prohibition has been foisted upon them by the Methodist church and they have said in no uncertain way by the ballot that they deplore the sacrilege of the public by preaching on political question. The "people of Ontario are much afraid that the Methodist Church, who are the back bone of the Presbyterian will endeavor to prohibit the growth and manufacture and sale of tobacco in Ontario."

ANARCHY REIGN IN PART ITALY

CONSIDERABLE LOSS OF LIFE IN CLASHES BETWEEN NATIONALISTS AND RADICALS.

OUTGROWTH OF ELECTION

ROME, April 19. — (Canadian Press.)—Conditions approaching anarchy seem to prevail in Northern Central Italy where parties of extreme Nationalists have been in armed conflict with Socialists and Communists almost every day for the past week.

The disorders, which are the outgrowth of partisan feeling, aroused by the electoral campaign now in progress, appear to centre about Florence and other Tuscan cities. Reports received here do not indicate whether the authorities are able to cope with any degree of success with the strife between the Nationalists and radical elements.

About a score of persons were killed Sunday. General strikes have been called in a number of cities.

MR. JOS. WEARING TALKS ON PEACE AND HAPPINESS

DELIVERS STIRRING ADDRESS AT COMBINED MEETING OF SOCIETIES IN WOODSTOCK.

WOODSTOCK, April 19. — At a combined meeting of all the Young People's Societies of the city, Mr. Joseph Wearing, M.A., of Peterborough, spoke in Chalmers' Presbyterian Church on the subject, "Watchman! What of the Morning?" Mr. Wearing announced himself at the outset as somewhat of a pessimist, as he considered the results of our vaunted civilization. In vivid language he depicted many of the conditions existing, and stated that future generations would probably not get their ideas of hell from the writings of Milton or Dante, but from true reports of conditions which have existed in our time: "From France pathetic suffering from Belgium barbarous cruelty, from Serbia incredible misery, from Armenia unspeakable horror, from Russia black despair." The speaker then went on to show that false ideals had been set up before people in every land—wealth, progress, invention, power—ideals which were material in every respect, and which had led to class struggles and warfare of every kind. In conclusion, the speaker held up the ideals of Truth, Beauty and Goodness as the only ideals to make people happy, and lead the world to peace, and he made a stirring appeal for the young people of to-day to lead the way towards these higher ideals.

During the meeting reports came in showing the results of the Referendum, and great enthusiasm was shown during the announcements of dry majorities.

EXPLOITATION BY EMPLOYERS OF DISABILITY

CHARGE MADE BEFORE RE-ESTABLISHMENT COMMITTEE THAT AMPUTATION CASES ARE BEING EXPLOITED.

IS PARTLY QUALIFIED

OTTAWA, April 19.— (Canadian Press).—That some employers were exploiting, amputation cases was stated before the special parliamentary Committee on Soldiers Civil Re-establishment this morning by R Meyers, a member of the amputations Association.

He afterwards qualified the statement by saying that many employers were fair in their treatment of mained soldiers.)

Mr. Myers advocated a total disability pension of twelve hundred per annum, a fifty per cent. minimum award, extra disability allowance and an award percentage of pension to pensioner's dependents. The delegation made further requests for special training of amputation cases for all government departments. The attitude of the labor unions towards amputation cases was criticized

She Now Gets $50 Out of Estate of From $2,000 to $3,000.

COBOURG, April 19.—According to the will of the late Chas. A. Neill, the widow was to receive only fifty cents. Milton F. Ames and Thomas Timlin, executors, applied to have the will admitted to probate. The case came up for trial at Cobourg before Judge Roger, formerly of Peterborough. Elizabeth Neill, the widow, attacked the will on the ground of mental incapacity and undue influence. At the trial a settlement was arrived at, whereby Elizabeth Neill and the three children received $50 each, amounting altogether to $200. The balance of the estate is to be disposed of as the will provides. The will is to stand and to be admitted to probate. Elizabeth Neill is to pay her own costs and the costs of the executors are to be paid out of the estate. The value of the estate was between $2,500 and $3,000, and goes to his relations.

TRINITY CHURCH HELD CONCERT

The orchestra, which has made great strides in the past few months under the direction of Mr. Rupert Glidon, gave several excellent numbers, and Mr. Harry Wagner with his group of Hawaiian players, contributed some much-applauded selections. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss L. Corbett, Miss Allen, and recitations were given by Miss Breckenbridge and Miss Urquhart. Mr. J. Sutton's cornet solo and the 7-year old Donald Greene on violin were much enjoyed. Mr. R. J. Kidd was the chairman of the evening.

MORE FIGURES ON COAL COST ARE PRODUCED

GRAND TRUNK HAULS COAL FROM OHIO MINES TO MONTREAL FOR LESS THAN NOVA SCOTIA PRICE.

INCLUDES EXCHANGE

OTTAWA, April 19.—(Canadian Press).—Further evidence given before the Parliamentary Fuel Committee to-day showed that Grand Trunk Railway was able to take coal from its own mines in Ohio, carry it by rail to Lake Erie ports, then to Montreal by boat, paying all charges, duty and exchange and allowing for a profit at $7.94 per ton. The price charged by Nova Scotia mines here per ton delivered in Montreal is $8.15.

PRISONERS ARE MENTAL DEFICIENTS

Catch Criminal When Going to School.

LONDON, Ont., April 19.—Dr. James D. Wilson, jail physician, asserts that every prisoner proven guilty of an indictable offence, and confined in the county jail, has been found mentally deficient in some respect.

"The time to get a criminal," he said, "is when he is going to school at the age of about seven years. At this time the mentally deficient should be weeded out and given special attention. As they grow older they should be locked up if their case warrants it.

"Those men in the jail, convicted of indictable offences, lack judgment, and will be back at their old game again if given another chance. They can't help it. Those Garfields who were here lacked judgment and will be back at their old game again if given another chance. They can't help it. Those Garfields who were here lacked judgment. I never saw people with such weak faces in my whole life. Denton did not have the judgment of a seven-year-old child. One of those Murrell brothers who were arrested Monday was in the jail on one occasion because he had pounded his mother. I became quite friendly with him and one day said to him:

"'What was your object in pounding your mother, after she had worked hard while you were young to help put clothes on your back and keep a roof over your head?'

"He looked at me for a moment and then said: 'None of your business.'"

A PROMISING LAD.

PORT HOPE, April 19.—A young lad under fourteen years of age has been arrested for stealing a schoolboy's bicycle from the yard of the public school. He removed both wheels and sold them locally for one dollar; the frame and other parts he carefully concealed.

Ontario Can Not Be Bone Dry Until the First of Next July

OFFICIALS OF STATE DEPARTMENT SAY ORDER-IN-COUNCIL NOT LIKELY BEFORE THEN.

YESTERDAY'S VOTE APPROXIMATED THAT OF THE BYE-ELECTION

There is a somewhat remarkable similarity between the vote polled yesterday in this city on the referendum issue and the vote of February 7, when a representative was sent to Ottawa.

There was 57 fewer persons voted in the city yesterday than on February 7. The votes were: February 7, 7,532; April 18, 7,475.

ADDITIONAL RETURNS

TORONTO, April 19.—(Canadian Press.)—According to I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., President of the local branch of the Citizens' Liberty League, legal action may be taken to contest the validity of the vote registered yesterday. Mr. Hellmuth contends that under the British North American Act nothing can prevent importation from one province to another, unless all provinces are so prohibited.

OTTAWA, April 19.— (Canadian Press.) — That unless exceptional speed was shown by the Ontario returning officers in forwarding the official returns, it would be nearly two months before the order-in-council, giving effect to the bone-dry vote of yesterday, could be passed, was the opinion, expressed this morning by Department of State officials. In any event Ontario cannot be actually "bone-dry" before July first at the earliest.

For full referendum returns see front page of Noon Mail Edition, which forms page 3 of this edition.)

TORONTO, April 19.— (Canadian Press.)— Returns received by the Dominion Alliance up to midday showed a sweeping "dry" victory. Almost every county in the province has given a "yes' majority, and thirteen of the twenty-four cities of the province have voted to prohibit the importation of liquor. The aggregate majority so far compiled is about 140,000 and according to Rev. Ben H. Spence, secretary of the Alliance, will reach or exceed 200,000 when the full returns are in.

In complete returns for Toronto show a "wet" majority of approximately 5,000.

The vote yesterday was not as large as that polled in 1919 when the general election helped to bring voters out, but considering the circumstances, and weather conditions there will be proportionately, according to Mr. Spence, a larger majority for "bone dry" conditions than was polled in 1919 for a form of government control. Interviewed by the Canadian Press this morning Mr. Spence, while naturally jubilant, intimated that "the war is still on," and that "more important than shaking hands with ourselves is the making of wise, strong plans for the future."

Latest returns from Toronto show a wet majority of 6,387.

ULTIMATUM TO HUNS IS FIRM

ALLIES DEMAND GOLD HOLDINGS OF REICHS BANK BE TRANSFERRED.

GIVEN TILL APRIL 22

PARIS, April 19.—(Canadian Press).—The Allied Preparation Commission announced to-day that it had given Germany until April 22 to transfer the gold holdings of the Reichstag Imperial Bank to the Coblenz and Cologne branches of the bank. If Germany refuses to comply with the ultimatum, the Commission, it states, will require the immediate delivery of the gold to the Commission itself.

In the event of the transfer of the gold to the branches named the sum can continue to figure as a part of the balance of the Reichsbank, the Commission explains. But the German government would have no right to dispose of it without obtaining previous authority from the Commission to do so

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 19.—(Canadian Press).—Oils were again the outstanding features at the opening of to-day's stock market. Gains of one to two and half points were registered by General Asphalt, Houston, Shell transport, Royal Dutch and Standard Oil of New Jersey in the first few transactions. California Packing, International Paper, Famous Players and Hendee Manufacturing also improved with several of the rails Crucible steel was heavy, despite the prospects of new finances. Bethelhem Steel, Baldwin Locomotive, United Fruit, Central Leather and Industrial Alcohol receeded fractionally.

The oil division, including January issues, extended it gains during the morning. Mex. and Pan. American Petroleums showing marked strength. Motors and Coppers also hardened under the lead of Studebaker, Utah and Anaconda.

Textiles and food shares were heavy, sugars losing 1 to 2 points on the announcement of the price reductions for the refined products.

American Woollen and associated Drygoods Common and Preferred, also reacted 1 to 2 points. Steels and equipments became moderately reactionary before noon. Rails were apathetic.

Call money's decline to six per cent. later exerted no preceptable influence. Steels and equipments continued to decline and some of the oils forfeited part of their gains. The closing was irregular

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 19. — Apprehension regarding the financing and the condition of the Riordan Pulp and Paper Company, and the possibility of the directorate passsig the next dividend, were given as the reasons for the break in the prices of shares on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Traders seemingly became panicky in one night, the stock opening at 70 1-2, or 22 7-8 points below yesterday's close. At this figure it steadied and finished the morning at 71 1-2, a net loss of 21 7-8.

Other paper stocks were affected by the break, Abitibi losing 1 1-4 points at 35 1-4 while Brompton sold at 32. Canada Steamships Lost 1 1-2 at 21 3-4, while preferred declined 2 1-4 to 48. Dome was slightly weaker.

C. P. R. improved, selling 1-6 point higher, at 125.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, April 19. (Canadian Press.) Sterling exchange was quite steady. Demand $3.92 3-8; Canadian dollars 11 7-8 per cent discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 19. — (Canadian Press.) — Wheat declined to-day to the lowest point yet which July delivery has touched this season. Big receipts from the Northwest and improved weather conditions were the chief apparent reasons. The market showed little power to rally. The opening quotations which ranged from 3-4 to 2 1-4 lower were followed by moderate further losses.

Corn sympathized with the weakness of wheat. After opening 1-8 to 3-4 lower, the market continued to sag.

Oats were depressed by the action of other cereals, starting 1-4 to 1-2 down and then dropping still more.

Provisions averaged about steady. Hogs were steady.

Late the market hardened as a result of export business the earn close was unsettled, with July 59 5-9 to 59 3-4.

Subsequently, export sales estimated at two million bushels helped to check weakness in wheat. Prices closed unsettled with hay 1.21 3-4 to $1.22 and July $1.02 3-4 to $1.03

VIDOCQU, THIEF, BECOMES VIDOCQU, THE POLICE CHIEF.

Truth of Old Proverb, "Set a Thief to Catch a Thief," Graphically Demonstrated — Great Exploits.

"Set a thief to catch a thief," is one of the oldest proverbs in the language, but it is one which seldom works out in actual practice. Except as "stool pigeons" or informants of various kinds, the criminal usually makes a very poor addition to a police force. But then, there is the famous example of Eugene Francois Vidocqu—forger, convict, highwayman, and finally chief of police of Paris.

Of all the exploits of the prototype of Arsene Lupin, that of the capture of the notorious burglar, Constantine, and his associates, is one of the most startling.

At the time at which Constantine and his men were terrorizing Paris, making midnight raids in all sections of the city and escaping apparently under the very eyes of the police force, his appointment had caused a flood of letters to be sent to M. Henri, prefect of police, but the prefect set about to prove his contention that Vidocqu would be a valuable asset by assigning the former galley-slave to the work of capturing Constantine and his men.

After going over all the reports in the case, Vidocqu came to the conclusion that the matter was one which would require every ounce of ingenuity which he possessed. Constantine was a power among the thugs and lesser criminals. His word was law. His orders were obeyed to the letter. Moreover, none of the other police who had worked on the case had been able to obtain the slightest trace of this master criminal, though several of them had been found in the Seine, with their throats cut.

For ten days, therefore, Vidocqu remained in his lodgings, merging his personality in that of Alphonse Poiret, a criminal whom he had known during his days as a galley-slave, and whom he was certain was out of the country at the time. Finally, with more than a week's growth of beard on his face, with a prison pallor induced by the use of white walnut stain, and black hair, which was the result of other dyes, with the marks of the fetters cleverly simulated about his ankles and clothes, which might have been borrowed from a scarecrow in the fields, Vidocqu sallied forth at night to seek the dives which Constantine and his men were reported to haunt.

Night after night he frequented the Faubourg St. Germain, boasting of his prowess in escaping from the galleys, and at last he was rewarded by the sight of a man whom he knew must be the redoubtable Constantine. Arrest in such a place was, of course, out of the question. Besides, Vidocqu wished to stage the round-up in a manner fitting to his essentially dramatic temperament. It was for this reason that he made a point of meeting Constantine, and, little by little, worming his way into the confidence of the king of burglars, and actually gained admittance to the band.

On the morning of the day before Christmas, Constantine announced that he had arranged for a master coup that night. The objective of the raid was the residence of a wealthy banker. The house would be practically empty, owing to the absence of the family at a holiday celebration some distance away, and Constantine had secured a key to the gate in the wall which surrounded the mansion.

Shortly before noon, M. Henri received the first word from Vidocqu since the detective had been assigned in the case. It merely stated that Constantine and his gang would make an attempt to burglarize a certain house that evening and that a heavy cordon of police should be thrown about the place to catch the thieves red-handed.

Constantine's part in the plot went off like clockwork. Only a few minutes were consumed in looting the place, but as the men emerged from the grounds, they wwere met by an overwhelming force of gendarmes, and subdued after a short but sharp struggle.

A week later there was another meeting in M. Henri's office, a conference at which even the prefect was forced to admit that he could not understand what had become of Vidocqu.

"There was no name signed to the note which warned me of the intended raid on Christmas eve," stated the prefect, "but I am certain that it came from Vidocqu. Since then I have heard nothing. I am afraid that he has met with foul play—that someone has penetrated his disguise."

At that moment the door opened, and Constantine, manacled to his five men, was thrust into the room. Snarling, defiant, the master criminal faced the prefect of police.

"Had it not been for the work of one of your informants," he snarled, "you would never have had brains enough to catch us!"

"Hardly that, Constantine," came a voice at which everyone in the room wheeled in amazement, for it was the voice of Vidocqu, but it came from one of the men who was manacled to Constantine.

"My disguise must be perfection itself, M. Henru, if it passes your sharp eyes as well as those of Constantine," continued the supposed burglar. "Permit me to offer the compliments of the season, and to tender as a New Year's gift the completion of a task to which I was assigned some two months ago!"

And Vidocqu only smiled as Constantine struggled to loose himself from the grasp of the two guards, who prevented him from attacking the detective whose perfect disguise had withstood weeks o suspicion and constant scrutiny.

DRY MAJORITY ROLLED UP AT THE POLLS

PETERBOROUGH VOTED DRY AT MONDAY POLLS

ONE OF THE FEW ONTARIO CITIES TO PLACE ITSELF IN DRY COLUMN DEFINITELY FROM FIRST RETURN.

VOTE WAS NOT HEAVY

Peterboro gave one of the largest dry majorities in proportion to its total vote of any city in the Province. Complete returns this morning made the dry margin 1103.

The first poll to report was No. 8, Taylor's store, Hunter street. Returning Officer T. Q. Quartermaine, which gave a dry majority of 19, the vote being 77 for to 58 against.

From then on the dry column swelled as the country returns came in. In the city the wet managed to run dangerously near the prohibitionists at several polls, but the country vote spoke overwhelming in opposition to the present order of things as regards the liquor traffic.

At 6.45 a flash from the Referendum Committee's headquarters in the Y.M.C.A. announced that with results in from 31 polls the dry majority was 994.

Additional city returns undermined the dry majority. With 42 polls heard from the dry margin was reduced to 684.

With but 3 polls to hear from, which could not be reached last night, the city vote was 3,767 "yes," 3,174 "no," giving a dry majority of 593.

KITCHEN SHOWER FOR MISS INGRAM OF LAKEFIELD

FIFTY LADY FRIENDS TAKE A BRIDE OF THIS WEEK COMPLETELY BY SURPRISE.

LAKEFIELD, April 19. — Fifty lady friends of Miss Hazel Ingram gathered at the home of Mrs. S. Spence on Wednesday evening of last week, when Miss Ingram was made the happy recipient of a kitchen shower in recognition of her approaching marriage.

The early part of the evening was taken up with an informal programme in charge of Mrs. D. H. McMillan, and nearly every lady present contributed either a vocal solo or recitation. After this programme, little Miss Edith Spence wheeled in a prettily decorated waggon, on which rode a clothes basket filled to overflowing with all sorts of useful articles for the kitchen. Miss Ingram, although taken completely by surprise, made a very happy response to the gifts from her friends. After the parcels had been opened dainty refreshments were served, and a very pleasant evening indeed brought to a close.

Miss Ingram is a bride of this week.

HOUSE SPENDS QUIET MONDAY

ACADEMIC DISCUSSION OF BRIDGE EXPENDITURE AND HANSARDS IN POST OFFICES.

RESOLUTIONS WITHDRAWN

OTTAWA, April 19.—(Canadian Press).—The house spent a lethargic Monday for the most part in an academic discussion of better control of pubilc expenditure of the bridge across the St Lawrence between Montreal and the south shore and of the French and English Hansards kept in all post Offices throughout Dominion.

Contract of expenditure gave rise to considerable debate. Hon. Rodolph Lemiux who brought it up, and proposed that before the estimates are tabled this should be scrutinized by the special committee of House.

Sir Henry Drayton agreed on the necessity for economy but held that it was difficult to arrive at a definite conclusions regarding the British Committee since that committee had ceased to function and Sir George Foster pressed point that for such a committee, as one proposed really for study of the estimates. It would be necessary for it to sit before the session It was doubtful if this was practicable. Mr. Lemiux withdrew his resolution. Resolutions for the new bridge over the St Lawrence river at Montreal and the placing of hansards in post offices were also withdrawn after discussion.

The Voters of Ontario Register Disapproval of O.T.A. and Vote For Banning Liquor Importation

LARGE CITIES IN MOST INSTANCES WENT INTO THE WET COLUMN BUT THE COUNTRY AND SMALL TOWN VOTE OFFSET AND DEFEATED THE WET GAINS IN THE CITIES.

VOTE WAS LIGHTER THAN EXPECTED

TORONTO, April 19 (Canadian Press).—With the Referendum figures far from complete at midnight, sufficient returns had been received from points all over the Province to enable the Referendum Committee to announce that they were confident at that hour of a "dry" majority of 125,000, and Rev. A. S. Grant, who had charge of the campaign, made the confident declaration that by noon the majority will have been increased to 200,000.

While this majority falls much short of the 400,000 victory which the temperance forces scored during the Referendum of 1919, part of the falling off would appear to be due to the fact that the vote was much smaller than during the Provincial election campaign, but at the same time it is sufficiently strong to let Ontario know that the popular opinion of the citizens is against the importation of liquor from other provinces.

An analysis of the latest available figures given out by the Referendum Committee and the Dominion Alliance shows that it was a safe bet that the larger cities would go wet, and that much of the balance of the Province would vote dry. That is practically what occurred, as there were twelve of the larger cities which declared in favour of continued importation, while the smaller cities and the bulk of the towns, villages, and rural municipalities gave overhelming votes in favour of strict Prohibition.

It began to look like a dry Ontario when the first flash from St. Thomas at 6.30 announced a dry majority of 261 at the first four polls to report in that city. Hamilton, following St. Thomas, however, threw cold water on the dry hopes, there the first 36 divisions giving the wets 1,755 to the drys' 1,570. Kitchener coming next swelled the wet column with 636 "no's" to 401 "yes's" at the first 8 polls. Brantford swung to the drys with 31 polls, giving 2,521 "yes" votes to 1,871 "no's."

For a time it looked as though Brantford would have to hold the dry fort alone. The wet majority in Hamilton mounted further when 68 divisions gave the wets 3,963 and the drys 2,778. The Twin Cities bolted to the wets, and at 7 o'clock the drys conceded that Port Arthur was definitely in the wet column by a majority of about 500. Woodstock came to the support of Brantford with about a 400 dry majority.

From then on the returns developed into a see-saw. Early reports from Ottawa showed a big wet majority. This gain for the antis was offset by returns from the towns and villages, practically all of which swung definitely to the dry column. Lindsay, Milverton and Lanark went dry, but this gain was neutralized by Windsor returns, which gave a wet majority of 1,875 in 44 sub-divisions. Guelph followed with a prohibition majority of 1,124, and Oshawa added 842 to this. Kitchener raised its wet margin to 1,193 and Waterloo Township added 899.

At this point the Toronto Referendum Committee announced that

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

TUESDAY, APRIL 19TH, 1921.

THE LOCAL RESULT.

West Peterborough did its share in piling up a majority for a dry Ontario yesterday, both city and rural sections placing themselves in the "yes" column. In spite of good weather conditions the vote was not as large as in the recent Federal by-election, the apathy of many of the electors being perhaps explained by the fact that they regarded the result as a foregone conclusion. People who would have voted "yes" if they had gone to the polls, felt that the dry cause was safe without their votes, while on the other hand, many whose cross would have been placed in the "no" column, thought it would be a mere waste of time to exercise the franchise when a wet majority seemed inevitable.

The city, unlike Brockville, Hamilton, Kitchener, Ottawa, Windsor and other centres, lined up against importation, the majority of the urban sub-divisions returning a dry majority. The townships showed an even more pronounced tendency, and the riding, when the total votes are all in, will contribute a "yes" majority of over 2,000 votes. East Peterborough also declared against importation, and the county as a whole stood solidly in the dry column.

TO-MORROW'S MEETING.

In response to the request of the gathering of sportsmen who attended the complimentary banquet at the championship Y.M.C.A. basketball team last week, Mayor McIntyre has called a public meeting to be held in the City Council Chamber tomorrow night to discuss the Amateur Athletic Association question. The feeling that the time has arrived for a re-organization of the city's sporting activities with a view to establishing athletics on a proper basis in Peterborough and for the fostering and encouragement of all kinds of manly sport, seems to be general. Other cities have adopted the plan of bringing the various branches of athletics under the control of one central body and there seems no reason why such a movement could not be successfully effected in this city. It is to be hoped that every sporting organization in Peterborough will be represented at to-morrow's meeting and that citizens generally who may not be connected with any particular club, but who are interested in the welfare of the city and in the development of athletics, will lend their support to the effort and show their interest by being present. A large and representative attendance will give a splendid impetus to the organization, which can be made of magnificent service to Peterborough if the proper spirit is shown.

THE REFERENDUM.

Ontario's answer to the question submitted to her people yesterday was decisive. The province has declared for bone dry prohibition; a huge majority of the electors has decreed that the importation of liquor into Ontario for beverage purposes must cease. The verdict should not cause much surprise, for in matters of this kind the intelligence of the people can usually be trusted, and Ontario voted with the experience of both sides of the question to guide her. The electors, in spite of attempts to distract their attention from the only issue and to make them believe that prohibition was responsible for evils that were really attributable to the flooding of the province by liquor importation, decided that the cellar would not continue to take the place of the bar. They had seen Ontario under comparatively bone dry conditions in 1918 and they were satisfied that the benefits completely overshadowed any defects there might be brought about by the re-establishment of such conditions; while the increase in bootlegging, the more numerous convictions for breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act and the outbreak of rum-running along the border that followed the lifting of the Dominion regulations against importation, combined to convince them that the shutting off of the deluge from outside the province was the only possible course.

While the vote as a whole fell much below the total reached in 1919 when a Provincial campaign helped to swell the figures, it is evident that in many sections of the province there was keen interest in the result. The most outstanding feature of yesterday's vote was the unanimity with which the rural sections of the province supported the dry cause. Some of the cities placed themselves in the wet column, but the towns and villages and the townships unhesitatingly expressed their desire that the importation of liquor should cease. The voice of rural Ontario spoke in tones that could not be mistaken; the liquor traffic has no friends along the concession lines of the province.

NAVAL POLICY.

Some alarm—needless, we think—has been expressed in the House of Commons at Ottawa on account of cablegrams from England respecting the purposes of the coming Imperial Conference. Mr. Lloyd-George was reported to have said that the Conference would be called on to make provision for naval defence under a scheme in which the Dominion would be expected to make contributions. It is not wise to rely on the cable reports of this kind. Mr. Lloyd-George doubtless desired to indicate the importance of the Conference, and in this way he paid a compliment to the Dominions. But Mr Lloyd-George is too shrewd a politician to make the emphatic statement attributed to him. That the naval question will be considered at the Conference is more than probable, and there will be a very proper desire that in whatever may be done there shall be co-operation between the Imperial and Dominion authorities. But there is no probability that any effort will be made by the Imperial authorities to press the Dominions to take any course at variance with what, in Canada at least, are the well understood wishes of the people. The idea, which at one time was in the minds of some of our people, that there should be one central navy controlled by the Imperial Government to which Canada should make a contribution, is no longer entertained. Lord Jellicoe's report fully recognised that the Dominion could not be expected to co-operate in such a scheme. The Government at Ottawa have recognised that Canada's co-operation, so far as anything can be done at this tme shall take the form of a Canadian naval force under the control of the Canadian Government, and operating in harmony with the Imperial naval authorities. There is practical unanimity in Canada on that point. This, too, is the policy of the Imperial Government so far as it is known. In a memorandum on the coming Conference by Lord Lee, the First Lord of the Admiralty makes the following statement:

"The lines on which it is proposed to proceed are towards the development of Dominion navies, under the administrative and executive command of their own officers, each separate navy being the responsibility of its own Government, and imbued with the particular characteristic and spirit of its own people, but all working in close co-operation and under the guidance of a common doctrine. If war was declared, in which the Empire as a whole took part, the various component navies would work in harmony with the general strategical policy."

There is certainly nothing alarming in ths statement of the policy of the British Government. It is entirely in harmony with Canadian public opinion.—Journal of Commerce.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Ontario started its spring cleaning properly by beginning with the cellars.

Many electors dodged the issue and refused to vote yesterday. They can hardly be called good citizens.

Pussyfoot Johnston needn't claim the credit. Yesterday's dry victory would have been won if the eloquent gentleman had never set foot in Ontario.

Premier Drury asked for a "yes" majority so that he could have a law that could be enforced. Ontario has taken him at his word and will expect him to make good his promise.

The voice of rural Ontario spoke with no uncertain sound, decreeing that the wet cellar must follow the bar.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Most of the theories designed to save the world grow out of the assumption that all would be well if the little fellows could boss the big ones.

Evidently, concluding from the first part of the column's cognomen that we know something about everything, a correspondent inquires whether Jack Dempsey is able to knock out Georges Carpentier.

Before attempting to answer that question we might also ask a question: Is Tex Rickard ever going to bring Dempsey and Carpentier together, in Montreal, Jersey City, or any other place he has considered using as a location? We don't know and no one else seems to.

But if he does manage to stage the much-talked-of bout any attempts to dope out the result beforehand will be vain. The two are products of widely different sporting worlds. Dempsey's sport sphere is this side of the Big Pond, where sport ranges from hockey to baseball and golf to poker, while Carpentier is a European product, grown where pastimes vary from playing with sticks of dynamite and T.N.T. in Russia to organizing sucide clubs to fight the Allies in Germany, and from playing at Sinn Fein and general strikes in Britain and Ireland to making faces at the new German Ambassador in France.

If the correspondent is considering any Yiddish grand opera on the fight, we would suggest that he dope the result out and then bet the other way.

"'Ooo, were you in France? Tell me all about it. Did you kill many Germans?"

"I was in the Quartermaster Corps. We sorted pants in a warehouse at St. Nazaire."

"Go on, you're joking. All you doughboys are so bashful. Tell me all about the fighting."

"The only fight I had was with a Corporal, who said that I picked out a pair of pants that didn't fit him on purpose."

"Aren't you funny. You can't fool me. The war was a great experience. My brother says it left him slightly embittered. He came back much older."

"So did I. I was away for twenty-one months."

"I had so many friends in France. One awfully nice boy sent me a piece of stone he chipped off the tomb of Napoleon. Isn't that romantic? Maybe you knew him. His name was Robinson and he was a Corporal."

"I met a Robinson who was in a stevedore company. He wore size five pants."

"Some day you must tell me about your experience; just open up your heart. There goes a fox-trot. Come on."

The funeral will be held from her late residence on Tuesday afternoon. Interment at Emily cemetery.

There was no service in the Methodist church on Sunday morning as the pastor is a relative of the late Miss English. Many Methodists attended service in the Presbyterian church.

In the evening a union service was held in the Methodist church, when the Presbyterian pastor, the Rev. Mr. Scott, had charge of the service and delivered a splendid sermon along temperance lines. So excellent was his address that he has been complimented many times from several who heard him.

Stop Any Corn

any minute, in this simple way

You can end any corn when you will. You can stop it any minute by a touch.

Apply Blue-jay—the liquid or the plaster. The pain will cease. In a few days the whole corn will loosen and come out.

This happens to at least 20 million corns a year. It will happen to yours when you say.

The way is modern, gentle, scientific. It is not like the old harsh treatments.

©B&B 1921

It ends corns—removes them—while paring only keeps them.

It is made by a surgical dressing house which every physician knows.

You do yourself injustice if you let corns spoil one hour. Millions have learned to avoid them. Prove out their way tonight.

By KATHERINE MOORE

LEONARD MEETS THIE

Chapter 31

"Thie!" I called, the next morning, as I saw Thierry Brunswick trying to slip unnoticed around a corner of the hotel corridor. He stopped and came back to me with cheeks afire. "Leonard, this is Mr. Brun wick's son of whom I have been telling you. Thierry, this is my husband, Mr. Allen," I said, introducing them. I realized that Thie had been trying his best to avoid Leonard, and his youthful jealousy amused me.

Oh, these foolish men and boys who lay such claim to their indifference and yet are so vulnerable with their feelings. At least Leonard could see now that Thierry was just a child, and beyond any call for jealousy on his part.

I knew Thie liked Leonard, as I watched his firm young hand grip the older man's with boyish commendation. Leonard's eyes took in the straight-forward, youthful countenance at a glance, and met the grasp with answering approval. I felt better. Love is such a trying game sometimes.

They stood talking together for some minutes. I slipped into a chair near them and watched them happily. They had quite forgotten the object of their mutual embarrassment. So I sat and dreamed and wondered if some day I might have a son as tall and manly as Thierry. I hoped he would turn out as well as that boy had done—and then I thought of Thierry.

Would some woman more perniciously clever than his Mrs. Gregg be the undoing of him? No, I did not believe it. The boy had had a terrible but valuable lesson. I did not know then how close that lesson would come into my own life and home, and how strangely Thierry Brunswick would be involved in my own future.

At last they turned toward me.

"Young Brunswick tells me he is going to follow his father's calling," Leonard said. They had gotten far in a few minutes. "He is studying at Princeton, so we have a lot in common," Leonard went on kindly.

"Why Thie, you didn't tell me you were going to be a lawyer," I ejaculated in a surprised tone of coice.

"Then what have you been finding to talk of all these days?" Leonard said laughingly, but I detected quite a little seriousness in his manner.

"About you—and Dad," Thierry put in quickly. Perhaps he felt the undercurrent in Leonard's remark. He surprised me often with his ready apprehensions.

When Sunday nigh came I was actually sorry to leave. Leonard and I were having a honeymoon of happiness. Then, too, I did not like to say goodbye to Thierry. The boy's winning personality had laid claim to some of my deepest f elings. I knew that my attention to him was founded somewhat on his inherent longing for a mother, and it woke a maternal reponse in my own breast.

I had to laugh when I found how the boy had schemed so that he might bid me goodbye alone. Leonard and I had been out on the Board Walk and I had not seen Thierry since morning. We arrived back at the hotel about an hour before train time and while Leonard stopped at the office to pay our bill, I hurried up to the room to pack the suit cases.

Just as I entered the elevator Thierry suddenly shot out of an unseen corner and into the elevator beside me. He looked a bit sheepish I thought. When we reached the floor that my room was on he got off with me.

"I've been hanging around for ages for a chance to see you a minute," he said honestly. "May I walk to your door with you?"

"I hate saying goodbye to you, Thie," I told him. "You'll come to see me some time, won't you?"

He stood fingering his coat lapel for a second.

"If I didn't like Mr. Allen awfully I'd go in that room with you and say goodbye the way I'd like to," he said tragically. Then he grasped my hand roughly and held it to his lips a minute, and turned and strode down the hall.

"Purify the Blood"

THIS is the doctor's advice to most people whose blood he analyzes at this season of the year.

Overeating of artificial foods, combined with too little outdoor exercise, leaves the human system clogged with poisonous impurities.

The liver is torpid, the bowels constipated and the kidneys so overworked that they become ineffective as filters of the blood.

The most rational treatment is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills because of their combined action in arousing these filtering and excretory organs to healthful activity.

Mrs. Albert Brunet, R.R. No. 1, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the past two months, having been afflicted with kidney trouble. I used two doctors' medicine previous to this, without any good results. A friend told me to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and the second box made me feel a good deal better. I have now used about six or eight boxes, and am completely relieved. I shall always praise Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and tell my friends about the benefit they have been to me."

TO BE DYSPEPTIC IS TO BE MISERABLE

The poor dyspeptic suffers untold agony after every meal, and any one who has dyspepsia knows what joy it would give to eat three square meals a day and not be punished for it after. Nearly everything that enters the weak stomach acts as an irritant, and even the little that is eaen causes such torture and is digested so imperfectly that it does little good.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pick and choose your food, you must put your stomach into such a condition that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

For over forty years Burdock Blood Bitters has been toning up and restoring weak stomachs to a normal healthy condition so that the food no longer causes distress, but is thoroughly digested and assimilated, and enables one to partake of all the wholesome food required without fear of any unpleasant after effects.

Mrs. Alice Becknorth, Fesserton, Ont., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from indigestion and dyspepsia for several years. I could not eat anything without almost dying from the pain in the pit of my stomach. Seeing Burdock Blood Bitters highly recommended I tried a bottle, and can gladly say it relieved me. I can eat anything now, and am in perfect health."

N. B. SHIPPING WAS PROFITABLE.

Owners Satisfied With Season's Results.

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 19. — Shipping interests which have been bringing their vessels to St. John this winter are fairly well satisfied with the result of the season. Although freight cargoes have not been as heavy as in former years, there has been a great quantity of grain offering and with the general package freight of the country available most of the big boats have made profitable trips. The passenger traffic is said to have been excellent. Tramp freighters have not been as successful as the regular Canadian liners, and some of them have been forced to lay up here for some time before they were able to secure cargoes.

The port has been singularly free from accidents during the past few months. The small craft in the bay escaped the storms of winter without mishap and with the exception of one or two strandings of small schooners and the wreck of the City of Colombo on the Nova Scotia shore, the season passed without untoward incident.

NEW DRUG WORTH MILLIONS

Makes You Feel 100 Per Cent. Better in One Night

The wonderful results obtained from the marvellous drug, Tanated Calomel, is due to the fact that it is the only drug known that acts unon the Liver. Doctors will tell you that 99 per cent. of the ailments, such as headaches, indigestion, constipation, rheumatism, kidney pains, etc., are due to the inactivity of the Liver. You no doubt have taken all sorts of medicines for your aches and pain with only temporary results, and sometimes no results at all. The reason for this is because all these medicines have no action upon the Liver and just force the bowels to function unnaturally. When you take Tanated Calomel it is immediately absorbed by the system and acts directly upon the Liver, causing it to excret bile into the intestines. You then notice a quick disappearance of aches and pain and removal of foul deposits from the intestinal tract. Start to-day by taking one Tanated Calomel about 15 minutes before meals and you will be surprised at the new lease of life that you will have once again. Tanated Calomel is sold by one druggist in each city. F. C. Webber, Charlotte street, is Agent for Peterborough.

Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Your editorial of April 16, headed "Get Together" is very timely and appropriate with reference to the fish hatchery for the Karwartha Lakes. I took this question up with the Deputy Minister of Game and Fishery, Mr. McDonald, and I showed him, upon the map, the suitability of Peterborough district for a hatchery. This district is just the centre for a distributing station the other hatcheries are not within hundreds of miles of Peterborough. Mr McDonald, agreed with me and agreed to look over the field after the session. I happened to be having a casual conversation with the Minister of Mines, under whose jurisdiction the game and fisheries department come, when he asked me about Bobcaygeon. What is taking you to Bobcaygeon? He told me that Mr. Sandy had made strong representation for the hatchery to be placed there. I told him that he had better look in at Peterborough before taking definite action. I think this matter should certainly receive the immediate attention of those interested; and get together so as not to cause disagreement, and between the rivalry of the districts, we loose all. Please suggest definitely really the best situation for the hatchery and why.

OUR NATIONAL RAILWAYS

"THE CONSOLIDATED NATIONAL RAILWAY SYSTEM"

The public is anxious naturally to know what effect the acquisition by the Government of the Grand Trunk Railway system in Eastern Canada and the United States will have on the operating results of Canadian National Railways. From the financial point of view much of course depends on the rates, and on a general proper relationship of expenses to earnings being re-established. This may be brought about through wage reductions in the United States that would likely become effective in Canada. The general level of freight and passenger rates in the United States will probably not be reduced until the United States railroads begin to earn their full 6 per cent. on the value of their properties devoted to transportation. These problems are, however, not peculiar to the Canadian National Railways, but affect all lines on this continent.

Tonnage Question.

There has been no great change in so far as tonnage is concerned between the year ended 30th June, 1919, and the twelve months ended 31st December, 1920, although the matter period will no doubt show a greater volume. The latest available statistics for all Canadian railways, however, are those contained in the Government's Blue Book for the year ended 30th June, 1919, and these will be satisfactory for the purpose of this article, which is to draw attention to the possible improvement in the National Railways freight traffic situation through consolidation as affecting the important factor of long haul traffic. The lines of the Grand Trunk Railway system serve practically all of the industrial and commercial centres in Ontario and Quebec, and the company enjoys excellent traffic arrangements with United States railways. Naturally, a great deal of this industrial tonnage has to be moved considerable distances in Canada. The merging of the lines of the G.T.R. with those of the present C.N.R. will make possible the extension of the average haul on the entire system.

Measure of Freight.

The measure of a railway's freight density is the number of tons of freight it handles in a year per mile of line. Every shipment handled is worked out in ton miles. For example: If a carload of grain weighing 33 tons is moved 1,000 miles, that movement produces 33,000 ton miles, and similarly if 100 carloads or 33,00 tons are moved 10 miles, that movement produces 33,000 ton miles. It is obvious that the terminal expense factor and many other items make the long haul traffic the more desirable. The tons moved one mile in 1919 for what will comprise the consolidated National system numbered 12,559,339,062, which total divided by the mileage operated (lines in Canada only) 20,080.67 miles, means that in 1919 the freight density was 625,000 ton miles per mile of line. The Canadian Pacific Railway's freight density (from the 1919 Blue Book) was 844,569; so that it is seen that in this respect the National system has quite a lead to overcome. This superiority of the C.P.R. in freight density, however, is not the result of that system originating on its lines a greater number of tons of freight either actually or on a per mile basis; it is caused by the greater haul which the C.P.R. gets out of its tonnage, and it is in this particular that the consolidation of the Grand Trunk and the present National lines should make possible a great improvement in the results of operation of the Government-owned system. The C.P.R.'s average haul is 443 miles, as against the Canadian Northern Railway system's average of 326 miles, the Canadian Government Railway's average of 260 miles, and the Grand Trunk's 197 miles. Under co-ordinated management the average distance haul of the National system should be greatly increased, which would, of course, cause a corresponding advance in its freight density position.

Comparative Figures.

As far as original tonnage is concerned more than half the tonnage of all Canadian railways originated on the National system when the Grand Trunk lines are included. In fact, on a mileage basis, 1,600 tons originate per mile of line on the consolidated National system as against 1,200 tons per mile of line originating on the C.P.R. The effect of a 10 per cent. increase in average distance hauled—which is not too much to expect—would be to, in five years, increase the ton miles per mile of road by more than 50 per cent. Assuming the National system will move 12,375,000,000 ton miles in the first year of co-operated management, with an average haul of 275 miles, which would produce, for 20,100 miles, a freight density of 615,670 ton miles per mile of line, the density could be increased in five years to 987,313 ton miles per mile of line by merely increasing the average distance hauled by 10 per cent. per annum. This would put the National system on much more of an equality basis with the C.P.R., which system had a similar density in 1913, and exceeded it in 1916, 1917, 1918, and 1920, when its density averaged just over a million tons per mile of line. In producing the increase for the National lines there has been no allowance made for an increase in originating tonnage nor for an increase in tonnage received from connections, but merely for an increase in the length of haul received from each ton now available. If, during the five year period, tonnage originating o nthe consolidated National system and received from connections also increased, it would be easier actually to effect the increase in density and in view of this, and the results that have been obtained elsewhere, the assumption of a 10 per cent. increase from all sources should be possible of attainment with anything like pre-war development.

The advantage that the C.P.R. has over the present Canadian National Railways in the matter of tonnage received from connections will be appreciated when the following comparison is noted.

Summary of Traffic Moved for Year Ended 30th June, 1919.

	Traffic Received
	Tonnage Originating on Line.	From other Canadian Railways.	From Uni. States Railways.	Total Freight Tonnage.
Canadian Pacific	16,420,946	7,188,329	2,285,466	25,894,741
Canadian National	19,696,085	4,643,785	407,300	24,748,070

(The superiority of the C.P.R. in tonnage received from United States railways is particularly noticeable.)

Grand Trunk	13,201,608	3,458,603	9,908,588	26,569,799

It is seen that the addition of the Grand Trunk's freight traffic would certainly more than counterbalance any advantage which the C.P.R. had previously over the Government-owned lines, although allowance has to be made for traffic interchanged between the Canadian National and the Grand Trunk which should not, of course, be counted twice. Making ample allowance for this feature might reduce the total tonnage from 51,317,869 tons to a total for the consolidated system of 50,000,000 as compared with the Canadian Pacific's total of 25,894,741 tons.

The Problem.

The problem before the management of Canadian National Railways—when consolidation is accomplished—therefore is to convert the tonnage into the greatest number of ton miles possible, by increasing the National system's haul to the full extent that the exchange of commodities and business conditions through the country permit. This is where the shippers and consignees, too, have an opportunity to co-operate in improving the situation by giving instructions to route some of their long haul business by the National lines. The advance that has been outlined here is one that can reasonably be expected. It will not, however, take place immediately on consolidation being effected, but should be a steady progression spread over a period of years.

FRANCE IS CAUTIOUS IN HONOURING FOCH.

Experience Has Taught Her Danger of Encouraging Ambition.

PARIS, April 19.—On 5th May, with France's celebration of the hundredth aniversary of the death of Napoleon, Marshal Foch will be given a little foretaste of the nice things that France will do in his honour when he is safely dead as Napoleon.

There is nothing that France likes to do better or that she does more nicely than pulling off honours on behalf of her great military heroes. Generally speaking, France would just as soon honour a live military chief as a dead one, only experience has taught her that it is much safer to stick to the latter.

Experience has taught France that her celebrations in honour of live military chiefs are so intoxicating that they are liable to go to the head of said military chief, and to cause him to want to take over the whole show.

So Marshal Foch will participate in the big celebration of 5th May with the quiet and sure consciousness that as soon as he has been dead as long as Napoleon, France won't fail to overlook any little occasion like his birthday or the anniversary of his death.

Geniuses in the United States, it is estimated, now number about as many as the feeble-minded. There are about 2 per cent., or 2,160,000 of each.

Approximately $36.60 was expended last year on the education of each child in public schools of this country. There were 20,853,600 pupils enrolled.

The University of California has a record for the largest enrollment of any educational institution in the world. Students number slightly more than 10,000.

A TALK ABOUT AUTO SPRINGS.

When Neglected Your Car Rides Like a Farm Waggon — Too Soft at Times.

Automobiles generally are divided into two kinds, those with springs that are too stiff and those with springs that are too soft. Either can be very uncomfortable. Here and there, of course, there is a car with springs that really spring without springing the occupants of the car against the top.

Automobile instruction books, car experts and all the wiseacres of the fraternity advise you to lubricate the spring thoroughly. If the springs need it, that is very good advice, but it sometimes happens that the lubrication is the very last thing that the springs need. If you could work a little rust or gummed oil between the spring leaves and thus retard the spring action it might be endurable. Of course, this is when the springs are too soft and spring too much. Indiscriminate advice as to the care of springs may be theoretically correct, but when it comes to practical usage no two sets of springs require the same medicine. Therefore, before following any one's advice to lubricate the springs it were well to discover whether they need it.

Soft Springs.

Soft springs, so flexible that they yield easily to road unevennesses, are inclined to compress too readily when they drop into a hole or hit a bump. Very good, so far, but that is not all. They fly back into normal position, sag down again and after a while cease vibrating. Meanwhile, you are bouncing around like a rubber ball. Now to oil such a spring merely intensifies all this. You do not need the exercise acquired by the oiling process. You will get all you need riding in the car without it. Such a spring needs friction between the leaves rather than lubrication. Friction slows the motion of the spring and steadies the car.

Now, almost every one will tell you that friction between the leaves makes the car ride hard. Probably the first time you heard any one say this and thought your car was not particularly easy you oiled the springs and went from the frying-pan into the fire.

However, this complaint is not as general as that where the springs, utterly neglected and rusted together, have lost a large part of their resiliency, so that the car rides like a farm wagon. In such a case lubricating the spring leaves is the greatest little first aid to comfort. A quarter's worth of graphite grease and a liberal quantity of elbow grease works wonders for a stiff spring. Usually that ends the uncomfortable riding, although if the car be a heavy one and is much underloaded the springs do not get full action and the car will ride hard. Overloading, of course, will produce a similar result by making the springs too lively, so that the passengers get a good jouncing.

Clean and Lubricate.

Springs really do need a great deal of attention, if it be intelligent attention. They should be taken apart at least twice a year and cleaned and lubricated well. There may be obtained lubrication inserts to go between the leaves of the springs, which usually last for the life of the car. If the springs have been well-designed they will not need extra attachments to make the car ride easily, but a seven-passenger car will not ride as easily with two persons as with its normal load. The point where the springs are attached to the body and the suspension point on the axle or frame need frequent inspection and lubrication regularly at the points indicated in the car instruction book. Spring shackels will wear quickly unless lubricated, rendering a breakdown much more likely.

Spring clips should be tightened every little while, and where there are rebound clips these should be watched, for almost invariably they become loose and produce a rattle.

Therefore, it is strictly proper to say that it is always spring time with the automobile. If the car rides too hard it may be tyat the springs are too hard and need lubrication, or too soft and need assistance. Your particular case must be studied on its merits and its ills be diagnosed before any remedy can be had, and the problem for the most part is an individual one.

A NEW USE FOR OLD TUBES

A tube that has outlived its usefulness as an air container can be reincarnated as a tool case in which to carry all small tool equipment, such as wrenches, screw-drivers, pliers, files, etc. From an old tube a piece is cut of sufficient length to serve the purpose, and, after being split lengthwise, is slit along the centre to make loops for holding the tools.

The sides of the rubber case will curl up over the tools and the whole can be rolled into a neat bundle, which can be held securely by the wide rubber bands cut from sections of the tube.

What is a "Station-to-Station" Long Distance Call?

WHEN you ask the Long Distance operator to get a certain telephone number in a distant city and, when connected, you speak to anyone at that number, you have made what is described as a Station-to-Station call.

That is, on a Station-to-Station call you do not specify a particular person to be reached, but give only the number of the telephone or the name or address under which that telephone is listed.

A Station-to-Station call costs less than a call for a particular person because less operating labor and less circuit time are required than if a particular person has to be located and brought to the telephone.

The evening rate on Station-to-Station calls made between 8.30 and 12.00 midnight is approximately one-half the day rate. Between 12.00 midnight and 4.30 a.m. the rate on Station-to-Station calls is approximately one-fourth the day rate.

If there is anything about our rates and practices you do not understand, please call our Manager and he will be glad to explain.

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station.

SAD STATE OF THE BLACKS IN AUSTRALIA.

Badly Used By Early Settlers, Are Near Extinction.

Perhaps no race has ever existed upon this planet whose progress toward extinction has been so rapid as that of the blacks of Australia; and probably no race was ever known of so low a standard of mentality, customs and morals as the aboriginal inhabitants of this vast island continent. Their decimation, however, is not altogether attributable to natural causes, though these vastly predominate, and account mainly for the reduction of the native population; but unfortunately other reasons can be adduced which are most discreditable to the early periods of colonization in Australia.

There is this to be said in connection with the early settlement of Australia—that the pioneers of that movement had no such difficulties to contend with as those brave and adventurous spirits who went forth to reclaim the wilderness of North America and South Africa. The Australian pioneers set out upon their long voyage to the other end of the earth with the knowledge that when they got there no hostile native population was to be encountered.

The Australian pioneers were allowed to land without the slightest molestation, and they might, if they had so chosen, have remained in unbroken friendly relations and intercourse with the aboriginal inhabitants of the country, and secured absolute possession of the whole of it without the sacrifice of a single life. But, finding the natives so little disposed to dispute, the encroachments of the white man, advantage was taken of their complacent attitude, and the whites were no slow to show them that they were their masters in every way. The lack of intelligence displayed by the Australian blacks and their incapacity to appreciate the civilizing methods of the newcomes, impressed the latter with the uselessness of attempting any of those assimilating processes which had been brought to bear upon dark races in other lands. They soon grew to despise the Australian natives, and to treat them more like dogs than human beings. As settlement extended, the cruelties increased, and the black man's life was esteemed at no higher value than that of a kangaroo or possum. Indeed, in Australia, and afterward in Van Dieman's land, the gun was used indiscriminately upon blacks and kangaroos, and a day's sport frequently consisted of a mixed destruction of man and animal. Some monsters even went further in this inhuman and devilish process of extermination, for it has been established beyond the possibility of successful contradiction that one of the practices often resorted to at the end of the eighteenth and far into the nineteenth century was to lay poisoned food in places where the natives were certain to find it.

What are the evidences of this process of unnatural extinction presented to-day? All that are left of the native race in the state of Victoria are gathered into two or three compounds of limited extent. In New South Wales a very marked decrease has taken place, and almost the same thing can be said of South Australia and of extensive areas in Queensland. They are to be found in greater numbers in Western Australia and the Northern Territory, where, as in the case of Northern and Western Queensland, climatic reasons have saved them from the rapid encroachments of white population.

In the adjoining island state of Tasmania (or Van Dieman's Land, as it was called in old convict days) where the aboriginal inhabitants were known to be pretty numerous at the beginning of the last century, neither man, woman nor child has been left. There the last survivor of his race has been dead for nearly half a century, and the black man's "coo-ee" no longer resounds through forests where thousands of aborigines roamed in undisturbed possession little more than a century ago. Just think of it! It took, from the period of earliest white colonization in Van Diemen's Land until the death of the last survivor, only three-quarters of a century, to wipe a whole race out of existence! The record tells its own tale.

In Van Diemen's Land, as in Australia, the natives were remorselessly hunted down, the men murdered, and their women carried off; and the shameful record cannot be challenged that in 1830 an extraordinary attempt was made by Governor Arthur to catch and pen up in Tasman's Peninsula, with the ostensible object of transporting to Flinder's Island, the whole of the then aboriginal population of Van Diemen's Land. Upward of 3,500 whites, including 30 British soldiers, turned out for the exciting operation of clearing Van Diemen's Land of their presence by means of a cordon across the island. The brutal attempt proved a total failure. Only two natives were captured, and the cost of the expedition amounted to no less a sum than £35,000.

No reliable estimate has ever been made at the number of aborigines who inhabited Australia and Van Diemen's Land when the whites first took up their abode in these countries. The number in the whole of Australia has been set down at 3,000,000, and Governor Phillip estimated that in his time New South Wales contained 1,000,000.—Dearborn Independent.

AUSTRALIA HAS EXCESS IMPORTS.

Reduces Credit in Old London.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(Canadian Press).—According to a report received by the U. S. Trade Commissioner at Melbourne, Australia's excess imports over exports for the last six months of 1920 amounted to 28,229,380 pounds sterling, as compared to an excess of exports over imports of 42,971,155 pounds sterling for the corresponding period of 1919. This flood of imports, which is generally considered to be due to the unexpected execution of orders placed with the idea born of war-time experience, that they would arrive at long intervals, has proved an extremely severe strain on Australian commercial concerns and on the banks. The excess of imports over exports has, of course, reduced the credits in London, against which the local banks sell remittances, and curtailment of importers' credits has been to a certain extent automatic. But even banks which have ample funds in London have been compelled by the local situation to exercise discretion in disposing of those funds.

DOWNY BEDS OF MUCH EASE.

Reminiscences of Feather Mattress Days.

Sleeping in a feather bed used to be easy for me. I did it very fluently.

I used to be able to sleep with one under me and one over me.

That was in the upper and unfinished half-story of our country house that was fitted with a better air-cooled system than any air-cooled car you ever rode in. The only heat in the house was in a big fireplace 40 feet away or so from where some of us slept in the coldest weather.

The tin cup of water sometimes set in the window in case a feller got dry in the night would freeze solid and have a frappe white wart in the centre, come morning.

And all over the part of the upper feather bed was a fine skating rink. A little sloping, it is true, but with ice thick enough to hold.

These ticks were filled with greese-whiskers that mother and I had extracted from the epidermises of reluctant honkers, a bunch at a time, through the spring and summer and early fall months.

Some times when an inexperienced goose-barber would jerk out some of the meat along with the basement of the feathers, the result was an unsavory condition in the tick, which nothing would eradicate except a long pendulous time over the pallings.

The air would get in its work in that way, and the sleeper on or under said bed would not have so many dreams about roosting in a glue factory.

A few years ago when I had become mattress broke, I was parked in a small room at a country hotel and sicked onto a large embonpoint feather bed. I looked at it a long time before taking the plunge. Finally I jumped in and at once went beyond my death.

I sent up downy bubbles, trod feathers, swam little-dog fashion, used the breast stroke and the Australian crawl, and finally, just as I was about to go down for the last time, I was guided to the surface by the smell of the seven-skunk-power oil stove, whereupon I took a deep and much-needed breath, grabbed a bedpost for safety and got out.

Then I tied two pillows to me for life preservers and re-emarked with an old pair of candle-bolds I found in the closet as a breathing tube and periscope combined.

That was years ago, and even yet I sneeze feathers every once in awhile.—Farm Life.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

THE VOTERS OF ONTARIO REGISTER DISAPPROVAL OF O. T. A.

totals from 18 Ontario centres gave the drys a majority or 1,982.

Toronto set out its first reports then, a wet majority of 1,944 at 116 polls. Ottawa's anti margin went up to 4,780 at the same time. But the smaller towns continued to pour in their dry majorities, each small in itself but sufficient when totalled up to offset the wet gains in the larger centres. At 7.55 the Referendum Committee announced that 28 centres gave 29,046 "yes" votes to 22,856 "no's."

At 8 o'clock the Dominion Alliance claimed the Provincial totals were 47,393 "yes," 36,523 "no." Half an hour later the Canadian National Telegraph's Provincial computation was: "Yes" 100,157, "no" 80,217. At the same time Toronto's wet majority grew to over 2,000 and Kingston joined the wets with a final wet majority of 1,198. An hour later Toronto bolted to the drys with a majority of 589 in 524 divisions.

Both the Dominion Alliance and the Ontario Referendum Committee at 9.30 declared that victory for the drys was assured. Officers of the Citizens' Liberty League gave the opinion that there was still plenty of time to roll up a wet majority. At this time figures from both prohibition organizations and the Canadian National Telegraph indicated that the dry majority was increasing. Ottawa gave a wet majority of 6,937.

At 9.45 there appeared to be no doubt that Ontario had gone bone dry. At that time the dry majority was about 50,000 out of a total vote of 250,000. Toronto appeared to be breaking even.

At 10.15 the Referendum Committee announced a dry majority of 69,868—"yes" 301,815, "no" 231,9b7.

At 10.30 the Provincial headquarters of the Citizens' Liberty League conceded that the Province had gone bone dry by a majority of at least 20,000.

League Meeting.

The Social and Literary Department of the Epworth League, in charge of the third vice-president, Miss Ruth Taylor, held a most successful meeting last evening, when the Girl Guides attended in a body. After the devotional exercises were conducted by the president, Mr. C. A. Wilson, the following excellent programme was rendered: Mouth organ selection, 'Wonderful Words of Life' by Mr. Walter Lowe, which was heartily encored. Mrs. Edward Bates, in her usual pleasing manner, rendered "That You'll Remember Me.' A humorous reading by Miss Dorothy Heath followed. The Misses Taylor sang very sweetly, "Sweet Bunch of Daisies," which was followed by a chorus from the Sunday school choir. Miss Grace Payne then read the Pathfinders' Guide. Then followed an excellent paper by Miss Redden, "Campbellford Fifty Years Ago," by which one could very readily picture Campbellford in its early days. Mr. S. J. Abernethy followed with an interesting address on the town in his boyhood days, noting especially the decrease in the liquor traffic in the later years.

Mrs. C. W. Turner and Mrs. C. A. Wilson sang very sweetly, "Anchored in Jesus at Last," after which Mr. S. A. Maguire gave a very humorous reading entitled "The Cook of the Period," which was heartily encored and responded by "Calling a Boy in the Morning." The meeting was brought to a close by the League benediction.

WINDSOR, April 19.—Owing to more efficiency in the Police Department under Chief Daniel Thompson, formerly of Peterborough, a high percentage of stolen goods has been recovered since Jan. 1, according to a detailed report just made by the Chief.

Property recovered this year is valued at $115,413. Total property reported stolen in the same period is valued at $134,177, taken from 44 different houses. Of these 23 cases have been cleared up and the guilty parties brought to court. This is considered a remarkably good record in Windsor. Twelve of the houses were entered for liquor which was supposed to be stored in the cellars.

The City Manager

What American cities have needed as much as anything else was to put themselves in the way of thinking ahead. So long as the city remained under political influence, its guardians thought forward just so far as the next election, and no further! There was little hope that a policy well begun to-day might not be torn down to-morrow.

Reform waves were good while they lasted, as in New York, under Mitchel; but, just as sure as night follows day, along would come Tammany, or something like it, and bring back the politicians.

The city-manager plan, on the other hand, has been giving continuous policy and administration through elections after elections, primarily because the executive is in a position to think municipality rather than politically. His future lies in the general municipal field and if one town does not like him, he can move on.

Councils may change with the recurring elections—though they usually don't—but the new administration finds that it can best meet its own great responsibilities by retaining the executive who is on the job and knows the ropes.

That is why there has been much thinking ahead in these 150 manager cities.

They think ahead in terms of public works. For example, the city of Jackson, Mich., has planned a sewer and a water system which takes in the probable needs of the city for the next 50 years.

Dayton is another city that knows how much sewage it will probably have to dispose of in 1950 and its trunk sewers are planned accordingly.

Its paving extensions follow not the piecemeal importunities of quarrelsome abutting property owners, but a broad plan that looks far ahead to a vastly increased population.

Zoning is a subject that interests the city managers because it enables them to see ahead. At Niagara Falls, for example, the zoning ordinance indicates certain blocks as those in which heavy manufacturing is permitted, other areas are open to business, others reserved to residential use.

Hitherto, rich men have often protected their handsome residential streets by mutual covenants and restrictions against use of the land for factories, garages, or shops, but the poorer citizen who put his savings into a little bungalow could never be sure that the next lot might not be used for a malodorous stable, a noisy public garage or an ugly billboarded store damaging his investment.

Zoning prevents all that and gives the city manager the basis for planning. He runs big water pipes, big sewers for factory waste and heavy-hauling pavements into the heavy-manufacturing areas and does not cut the land into small blocks.

He builds light-traffic pavements and ornamental street lamps in the residential areas, while the business and shopping streets receive still another treatment appropriate to the needs.

Wichita has stopped procrastinating about flood prevention and Dayton is no longer in terror of the Miami River.

When the war began inflating costs, the Dayton management foresaw the rise in steel, and knowing that certain bridges would have to be built sooner or later, bought the steel at $27 a ton. When the bridges were built, the market had gone up to 60.

This piece of foresight saved $35,000 to the municipality. Similar things were done with 58,000 barrels of cement and 6,000 tons of water pipe.

PINS ARE PRESENTED MEMBERS OF NAVY LEAGUE, LAKEFIELD

Junior Enthusiasts Raised $25 in Few Days' Notice —Thanks the Girl Members—Personal Mention

A meeting was held on Saturday of the Junior Navy League, at which Mr. Casement, President of the Lakefield branch of the Navy League, presented the members of the junior branch with pins as a token of appreciation for their splendid service in raising $25 for the League in a few days' notice last November.

The inclement weather kept some of the girls from being present, but quite a number turned out.

Mr. Casement made a short speech explaining the object of the Navy League, which has been formed to aid the dependents of merchant sailors who have lost their lives in the war and in establishing homes for the merchant sailors in the large centres.

No Promises.

The Government makes no promises for the merchant marine, and the Navy League has undertaken to look after their welfare. Mr. Casement, on behalf of the parent branch, thanked the girls for their efforts, and gave them his best wishes for their further endeavors.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Robert Knox was in Apsley last week visiting his father, Mr. R. H. Knox, Sr., who recently suffered a serious accident.

Mr. Wm. Nixon, who spent the winter at his home in the village, left last week for the Soo.

Mr. A. Isbister of Toronto was in the village last week.

Mrs. Parsons of Peterborough was in the village on Saturday.

Mr. Wm. Simpson, who has been in Sudbury for the past few months, is in the village with his family.

Mr. Abel Hendren is building a new brick house on the site of his former home on Ermitinger street, which was destroyed by fire two years ago.

QUEER DOINGS

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The manufacture of chocolate, one of the leading industries in Switzerland, is at the present time being faced with the most serious conditions that have confronted the industry since it's establishment, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from the Berne consular district. The domestic market is glutted, not only with the finished product, but also with the raw materials—cocoa beans and condensed milk.

Too Generous.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Chicago restaurateurs have agreed to charge for good not more than double the cost of the commodities to themselves and to pay all overhead expenses out of the 100 per cent. gross profit.

A Frozen Myth.

CLEVELAND, O., April 19. — The school geography is the most widely read bit of fiction in the United States, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer, declared in a recent address here, in whch he referred to the "frozen north" as largely a myth.

Finland Not Kind.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Finland bought only $211 worth of goods from Canada in January, 1921, according to Finnish trade statistics, which have been received by the U. S. Department of Commerce. Finland sold nothing to the Dominion during that period.

EXPECT LONGER HOURS AND LOWER WAGES.

Labor in New Brunswick Apprenensive—Accepting Change.

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 19.—(By Canadian Press). Labor circles in New Brunswick are apprehensive of a general lengthening of hours of work and lower wages Particularly is this true in the lumbering industry where conditions are so unsettled. Mild winter weather presented an opportunity for a large cut during the past season, but the market has been so that many firms cut only a part of their usual stock. Labor is plentiful and work much in demand, and olready rates of pay have been reduced and longer hours made the rule with several of the bigger companies. Altered conditions have been accepted without protest in some cases, but in others minor clashes have occurred. As a result of a longer working day inaugurated by the Snowball Company of Chatham on April 1, the men in the plant numbering twenty-five (a reduced staff) dropped their tools and quit the job.

There has been no serious trouble between "capital and labor" in the Province up the present time although, as in other sections of the country the line of cleavage is distinctly marked. Employers claim that there must be reductions in wages and greater production to reduce the cost of living, while the workers declare the employers must make the first sacrifice.

BOYS SENTENCED TO STAY AWAY FROM MOVIES.

NEW WESTMINSTER, April 19. Cecil Hodgins and Laurence Meagher of Langley cannot visit the movies for six months. Judge Howay told them so in the county court recently when they were up for sentence on a charge of breaking into a store at Langley Prairie, where they loaded themselves up with arms and cooking utensils, preparatory to taking to the woods, where they intended to emulate the feats of Tarzan of the Apes, recently shown in the local picture houses. The youths were bound over for six months on a bond of $600.00.

When the case first came up Judge Howay was in favour of sending them to Oakhalla prison farm to receive two lashes, but finally he decided to leave this matter to the fathers of the two boys.

COAL MINES TO RUN FULL TIME.

Is Hope of Nova Scotian Miners.

INVERNESS, N. S., April 19.—(Canadian Press).—The situation at Inverness, which some weeks ago, on account of the closing down of the mines of the Inverness Railway and Coal Company, was about as bad as it could possibly be, has considerably improved since the pits have been partially re-opened. Secretary J. B. MacLachlan of the United Mine Workers is hopeful that improved conditions in the trade will shortly see the mines working on full time.

Although the miners are working only half time at present the output of the mines is almost double that of normal times, according to Mr. MacLachlan, who attributes the increase in production to the adoption of a suggestion of the miners themselves.

LOSS IN LOBSTERS BY OIL IN HARBOR.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 19.— (By Canadian Press).—Neville's Lobster Canneries here very narrowly averted a loss of upwards of ten thousand dollars a few days ago by incontinently scooping one hundred and fifty crates of lobsters which were floating off their wharf, out of the oil-covered waters of the Harbor and carrying them outside to Sambro where they were put overboard again and washed off The loss was small but lobster fishers here are apprehensive of a recurrence of the oil difficulty and are considerably exercised over the matter.

Mr. John Neville of the Neville Canneries says that owing to the smallness of the penalty imposed for dumping oil into Halifax Harbour, this practice is much worse in Halifax than in any other port on the continent. It is, he says a serious menace to certain lines of Harbor trade. Representations have been repeatedly made by the Halifax Board of Trade to the Dominion Government in an attempt to have matters remedied.

The fine for dumping oil into Halifax Harbor is fifty dollars while in New York it is said to be five thousand

RAISE BRIDGE AT ST. JOHN, N.B.

To Allow Modern Schooners to Pass.

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 19. (Canadian Press.) Attention of the shipping men here is again being centred on the desirability of having the new C. P. R. bridge over the reversing falls raised five or six feet to enable modern schooners, with masts somewhat longer than those built some years ago, to pass beneath the structure. At present vessels with longer masts have to unload their cargoes in the port and have them transported farther inland by smaller vessels. A three-master here at present is to load lumber from up the river but she is unable to go to the mill to load lumber directly. It must be brought to the city on barges and then loaded on the sea going vessel. The added cost owing to this complication is one of the big issues of the day in shipping circles here

Dr. Harrigan's Advice to Thin, Nervous People

It's worth your while to read what a New York specialist has to say about the nerve and brain cell builder that McDermid & Jury and other leading druggists sell so much of these days. He writes:

"Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anaemic or run-down, take natural unadulterated substances such as Bitro-Phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy and strength of body and mind."

Bitro-Phosphate is a pure organic phosphate such as good physicians prescribe to increase weight and create abundant nerve force.

CAUTION: Although Bitro-Phosphate is an excellent aid in relieving weak, nervous conditions, its use is not advised unless increased weight is desired.

EMPIRE EMIGRATION POLICY ISMOOTED

LONDON, April 19.—It was stated in the House of Commons yesterday that the proposed meeting of Ministers of the Dominions to be held here in June would discuss a comprehensive policy of empire land settlement and directed emigration. All governments are co-operating in such a policy which would doubtless provide for assisted passage.

CHURCH SERVICES AT MARK STREET

The congregations at the Mark Street church were large, both morning and evening, on Sunday, considering the almost impassable state of the roads and streets. The music was good and in keeping with the spiritual character of the services. "Your opinion of Christ," was the subject of the morning sermon and was founded on Matt. 22: 42: "What think ye of Christ?" The following is a synopsis of the sermon by Rev. G. E. Ross:

Christ the Central Point of Prophecy.

As the rays of light in a burning glass converge in a common point of illumination, so the rays of prophecy, piercing the gloom of the centuries concentrate in one centre of living light and warmth and eternal love; and that common point of effulgence is Jesus. Christ is the greatest fact of history. His claim to be divine is supported by His morals and His ministry. The verdict of the most searching criticism, all through the centuries is, and has been, and ever will be, "No flaw," "No failure," "No mistake."

He does not ask His disciples their opinion of God or the Bible or the Church, or the moral growth of men, for He claimed to be the revelation of God, the Head of the Church, the Word made Flesh, and the Revelator of man's moral value. Divinity lies in His ministry of transformation and healing, and light. His words have outlasted the centuries, and wield a softening influence on the hard and stern outlines of human life: falling on the soul with the tenderness of the sunshine and the dew. The prophets all saw this, and infinitely more. He is to the vision of Isiah, the wonderful Coucellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace.

The Disciples' Opinion of Christ.

"Thou art the Christ the Son of the living God," said Peter, and on this faith and testimony the church of God is planted. "My Lord and My God," was the burning declaration of the once doubting Thomas. "Rabboni," said the weeping Magdalene, as she stood by the door of the empty sepulchre. She has been transformed by the power of this wondrous Christ from a pantheon of demons to a flaming evangel. No wonder that she called Him Master. How strangely sweet was His voice that morning. Weary of sin His words had told her of forgiveness; when sick and tired of the sordidness of life they had healed and soothed. And now she stands before Him an eternal monument of His transforming power. He is the same Jesus still. Looking into the faces of the suffering, the sorrowing and the sinning, he bids them come to Him for the satisfaction of their needs. Listen as He speaks to the weary, aged, afflicted and the burdened of to-day: "Are you hungry? I will feed you. Are you thirsty? I will give you drink? Are you in darkness I will give you light. Are you weary? Come unto Me and I will give you rest." No other teacher—Buddha, Zoraster, Confucius, Moses—ever claimed to be divine. But to Jesus it seems the most reasonable thing to do.

The Testimony of Peter and Paul.

Jesus accepts Peter's confession of faith in His divinity. Six months later he is put to death, having publicly made this claim. But His disciples say that He arose from the dead. They tell us they saw Him, and this was a surprise to them. They refused to believe that He was alive until positive proof was furnished. The testimony of Paul is now added to theirs. He, too, saw Jesus. Breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the early church he is on his way to Damascus to make arrests, when suddenly a light from heaven shines around him. He falls to the ground, is smitten with blindness, hears the voice of Jesus calling him to a new life, obeys the divine call, is transformed by the power of the Risen Christ, and becomes a chosen vessel to bear the glorious Gospel to the Gentile world. And Paul gives us his opinion of the Man of Galilee, and says "He is the power of God unto Salvation to everyone that believeth." Do not forget that Jesus is more than a messenger, He is a message.

The Opinion of the Critics is very Amusing.

The critics tell us that Pauls changed life was due to a sunstroke, mental wanderings, poetry, rhetoric, legend or myth. But we know that character cannot be changed by a sunstroke nor a troubled conscience healed by a delusion. Poetry and rhetoric never fortify men to endure scars, scourgings, imprisonment and death. Had Christianity grown on mythical soil it would long since have been withered under the scorching sun of criticism. But the fact remans that Paul's lie was changed, and he says Jesus did it.; ye, we blieve He did, for He did such for you and me. And to the testimony of the disciples we may add that of millions from the first century down to the twentieth, who have tested the keeping and the saving power of Christ.

Jesus Justifies the Loftiest Conception of the Mind.

"What the sun is that flower," said Tennyson, "Christ is to my soul," and Jesus justifies this claim. Wonderful are His works. There are none like them. He changes character, transforms life, sweetens the feelings, elevates the thoughts, purifies the affections, clarifies the vision, widens the moral and spiritual horizon, changes selfishness into self-sacrifice, and fills life with noble purpose. "The greatest discovery of my life," said Lord Kelvin, "is Christ as a Saviour." "I have seen to many conversions," said Henry Drummond, "ever to doubt their reality."

Gladstone, Faraday, Browning and a host of intellectual giants add their testimony.

What Think ye of Christ as a Preacher and Teacher

In the mild, pure splendor of His teaching Christ gives voice to the inward needs and aspirations of our poor nature. He appeals to the contrite heart, and brings men back to God. Jesus is the Source and back to God, the Origin of Truth. He touches the conscience, the intelligence, the morals, the literature and the art of the ages. If we contemplate the sweetness, patience, love, gentleness and purity of Jesus, we must become better men. A potter took a piece of clay and held it on the wheel, so the legend says. "What makes you so fragrant when other things of clay are odorless?" questioned the potter. "I lay at the foot of a fragrant rose and its sweetness became mine," was the pretty reply. Let us dwell more with Jesus and His sweetness will become ours.

PARK ST. & BARGAIN ARCADE

MANY FAVOR SELLING KING EDWARD PARK

WOULD PROVIDE FUNDS FOR BUYING PLAYGROUNDS IN OTHER WARDS—FAST BUILDING UP.

Why not parcel King Edward Park into four or five equal parts and distribute them throughout the city, one to each ward, where they could be used as playgrounds? This proposal has been seriously, although informally, discussed by some of the members of the City Council and by other citizens to whom it has been mentioned. Without exception, they have all expressed their approval of it.

Early last year there was a suggestion that King Edward Park be broken into building lots and sold in connection with the housing scheme that was then under consideration. Mr. F. H. Dobbin, who was chairman of the Housing Commission, presented a plan to the Council, showing that the sale of the Park should realize from $20,000 to $25,000. Assuming that a satisfactory sum could be obtained by selling the Park, the Council would receive approximately $25,000, which could be used to buy a playground in each ward. Some persons have pointed out that this money would go a long way toward financing the Riverside Park scheme, so keenly desired by Ashburnham residents. That is a separate idea worthy of attention, but there is a strong opinion among those who have considered the sale of King Edward Park that the receipts should be allotted generally among the five wards.

With the Exhibition Park close by and the spacious grounds of King Edward School in that neighbourhood, it is felt that sufficient open space has been provided for that part of the city. Other wards are building up so rapidly that no room has been left, or will be left in a short time, for children's play. Many of them now have to lay out their baseball diamonds on the streets, subject to the frequent and dangerous interruptions of motor traffic. Given a community plot, broad enough for their games, the element of danger would be removed, the parents would feel more secure and would doubtless take a deep interest in these ward centres. Many other reasons could be adduced in support of the proposal that King Edward Park should be sold, and it is believed that with a little encouragement the Council might be inclined to carry out this scheme, which has the attractive feature of financing itself.

SOLVING CAR PROBLEMS

The progress of the automobile has proved a march forward contrary to all precedents therefore predictions as to what the car of twenty years hence will be like may be made to appear foolish by actual realizations.

Twenty years ago, one manufacturer building a single-cylinder car advertised against the six-cylinder model because it meant six times as much trouble as one cylinder. That same manufacturer today is building a twelve-cylinder engine.

Of course, the motor car is more nearly standardized then it was a decade or two ago. At least we think it is. Inventive genius is apt to run along more established lines. And yet there are some prophets who declare that even the present gasoline engine as we know it will be superseded by an internal combustion engine of the turbine type.

Other engineers are working along the lines of improving various featfires of the car as we know it today.

One of the most important demands on the talent of automotive engineers is due to the changing character of the fuel supplied.

Old and New Fuels.

Instead of the high-grade gasoline which was being sold by garages ten years ago, the product which is being supplied today is more like a mixture of this high-grade fuel with kerosene. In addition to some highly volatile constitutents, it contains other elements which must be raised to a temperature of nearly 500 deg. F. to vaporize them. The reason for this change in the grade of fuel is the enormous increase in consumption, with which production has been able to keep up only by letting down the bars on quality.

Right here are two possible lines of activity for the inventor—and neither of them is being neglected. The first consists in inventing and developing engines which will burn in without difficulty the lowest grades of fuel which are now being supplied, as well as carburetors which will convert these fuels into a gas and mix them with air in such a way that they can be turned satisfactorily in an ordinary engine. The best results so far have been obtained with improved carburetors and manifolds, and many have been the novelties in these lines during the past few years. What makes the problem of burning heavy fuels in an automobile engines particularly difficult is the fact that such an engine must run smoothly and reliably, throughout a wide range of speeds and loads. Motorists have become accustomed to well night perfect performance in this respect during the last few years of high-grade fuel, and they will be very critical if the standard of performance is lowered.

The other solution consists in the discovery of new fuels. The field is being searched diligently, and several special fuels are now available.

The Headlight.

Another problem that has received much attention from inventors is that of prevention of headlight glare. This also involves numerous difficulties. An intense light is needed for safety in night driving. When the light falls on the road and properly illuminates the path of the car it serves its purpose, but if it shines into the eyes of drivers or pedestrians proceeding in an opposite direction it blinds them.

Glare is no special characteristic of light but merely intense lighting in the wrong place. The simplest solution of the problem is to turn the rays of the headlamps downward, by reflection, etc., so they cannot rise to the level of a pedestrian's or driver's eye. This works very well except in approaching the crest of a hill, when the direction of the rays changes with respect to the plane of the road. Innumerable devices for preventing annoying glare have been invented and, while none is entirely satisfactory there is certainly much less complaint regarding glare now than there was some years ago.

Steel Disk Wheels.

Another field of invention recently opened and offering considerable promise is that of the disk wheel. Wood wheels have long been successfully used, but they are open to certain objections and, besides, the kind of hickory wood necessary to make a light and strong wheel is getting exceedingly scarce. Steel disk wheels possess the advantage that they are easily kept clean. These wheels were used extensively in the war and apparently gave satisfactory service. As they are seen here mainly on high-grade imported cars, they are likely to become popular with the motoring public. While it is easy enough to construct a disk wheel, considerable experimentation will probably be required to determine the best design from the points of view of low weight, minimum cost and reliability in service. This is still a practically virgin field for the inventor which no doubt will be cultivated assiduously during the next few years.

HER LITTLE GIRL'S TROUBLE VANISHED

SHE USED DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS FOR BED WETTING.

Mrs. W. W. Abbott is Recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills to Mothers whose Children Suffer from Weak Kidneys.

INGEBRIGHT, Sask., April 18th.—(Special) — "I can highly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to mothers who have children that are troubled with bedwetting."

So says Mrs. W. W. Abbott, a well known and highly respected resident here. And Mrs. Abbott gives her reasons for making this statement: "My little girl was troubled with weak kidneys and bedwetting and I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills for the trouble. After she had taken one box I could see a change, and when she had finished the second box there was no more trouble."

Weak kidneys are not confined to grown people. They are too often found in children, sowing the seeds of future ills unless the kidneys are strengthened and put in condition to do their full work.

Ask neighbors of Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the remedy that weak or sick kidneys are crying for.

CLEAN-UP IN LOCAL SCHOOLS

Hundreds of pamphlets are to be distributed in Peterborough schools by the Ontario Fire Prevention League to enlist the aid of the children in cleaning up attics, cellars, yards, etc.

Ontario is noted for its extravagance through unnecessary fire waste, according to officials of the league. Last year fire destroyed 5,644 dwellings in this province, statistics of the league show.

More than 250,000 pamphlets will be distributed throughout Ontario and Mr. George Lewis, provincial deputy fire marshal, president of the league, is asking for the assistance of boards of trade, city and town councils and other responsible bodies.

HO! FOR THE FIRST CIRCUS

COMINC THURSDAY AND FRIDAY TO THE Y.M.C.A. GYMNASIUM

Spring is here and the thoughts readily turn to the great tents and the funny antics of the painted clowns. Then—Ho! for the first circus to reach Peterborough, this year. It is coming on Thursday and Friday of this week to the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium with all the glory that is attendant upon a mighty show. The clowns, white painted and agile will perform as clowns have performed through all the ages. The acrobats are in splendid trim after a winter of training and the circus band is just as discordant as any that ever visited the city.

Unlike Barnum and Bailey, or the Ringling Bros.' circus, this Y.M.C.A. circus did not have to go far afield to secure material for the great show. The management were quick to realize that Peterborough has within her boundaries performers of unique skill and proven ability and the result has amply proved gratifying.

Come Thursday if you can and if you are crowded out then come Friday. There will positively be no return engagements of the great Y.M.C.A. circus, so the public are advised to secure tickets early as the reserved seat plan opened at the Y.M.C.A. office this morning. Reserved seats are selling at 50c. and the general admission will be available to a limited number on Thursday and Friday nights at 35c.

WELCOME ON THE MAT FOR FRANK L. WALTER

BOWMANVILLE, April 18.—On Monday evening, April 11th, a "Welcome Home" party in honor of Mr. Frank L. Walter, who spent the winter in Peterborough, was given by a large number of his friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gay. Mr. Geo. F. Annis made a few suitable remarks on the esteem rendered Mr. Walter by his Courtice friends, and Mr. Clarence Penfound presented the guest of the evening with a handsome club bag as a token of appreciation of his services in choir and Sunday School. A suitable acknowledgment was made by the surprised recipient, and the rest of the evening was spent in the enjoyment of music, games, and the dainty refreshments provided by the hostess.

EXPECT STEEL DROP STABILIZE MARKET

Pittsburgh Not Surprised at Price Reduction, Though Greater Cut Was Looked For.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 19. — The general sentiment in iron and steel circles of this city to-day shows that last night's announcement of a reduction in steel prices by the United States Steel Corporation caused no surprise, except in that they did not go as far in general character as had been forecast. However, it is believed that the new figures will equalise market conditions that will remain stable for some time.

It was the common supposition here that the Steel Corporation intended to make one set of general reductions in steel commodities that would establish prices more definitely than had been the case for several months and which would be lasting for at least a year or more. However, the situation took a new turn last Friday when the Republic Iron and Steel Company put up its prices on bars, shapes, and plates by $3.00 a ton, followed on the first two days of this week by other independents who also advanced their prices on those products. Independent wire and sheet mills followed suit, and this afforded a basis for the Steel Corporation to reduce prices to those announced by the independents and thus bring about the equalisation that had not existed in the past.

It is not believed here that the independents will attempt further reductions from the Steel Corporation prices, and it is likely that the latter will make no further changes for several months or perhaps a year.

AN UNFAILING WAY TO BANISH HAIRS

(Beauty Notes.)

Ugly hair growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix in a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin for about 2 minutes, then removed and the skin then washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you get real delatone.

A LOCAL FIRM HAD CAPITOL CONTRACT

Considerable favorable comment has been expressed on the artistic lighting effects in the new Capitol Theatre, and it is gratifying to learn that Peterborough had a hand in their construction. These fixtures, which are exceptionally decorative, were designed and manufactured by Messrs. Knight & Grant of Toronto, in which firm Grant & Thorpe of this city are partners. This company during the past few years have made installations of electrical features in most of the principal theatre buildings in Canada, from Vancouver to Montreal.

IS BELIEVER IN AIR-COOLED MOTOR

"There is no question that the motor car has come to stay, and the only point open to doubt is about which car will survive out of the many makes and patterns now on the market, and my opinion is that the car of the future is not the cheapest to buy, but the most economical to operate, as the purchase price of a car is only an initial expense when compared to the cost of operation and maintenance", says Arthur Holmes, one of the leading authorities on air-cooled motors and scientific light-weight cars, who is now in Montreal.

Discussing that point of future motoring, Mr. Holmes is a great believed in the air-coolled motor, which he claims is the car of the future. "The reason," he contends "is that the aircooled system in a motor makes it more efficient, makes it free from all inconveniences caused by extremely high and low temperatures, and keeps down all costs due to freezing or overheating It is the car for Canadian climate especially, susceptible to weather extremes, and will respond to the call provided you start the current."

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally That Nobody Can Tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Watch Your Gums—Bleeding a Sign of Trouble

Medical science knows how serious is the sign of bleeding gums. For it knows that tender and bleeding gums are the forerunners of Pyorrhea, that dread disease which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

If the disease is unchecked, the gum-line recedes, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the Pyorrhea poisons which seep into the system and wreck the health. These poisons often cause rheumatism, nervous disorders, anaemia, and other ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums. Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult your dentist immediately for special treatment.

Try it for 30 days—to prove

This is what thousands do at the direction of experts to win back the healthful rose tint to pale cheeks—as told by the editor of a famous magazine which is read by half a million women.

They take regular exercise, sleep regular hours, and then start breakfast with stewed raisins. The raisins are plump, delicious fruit-meats stewed so the juice forms a luscious sauce. Note recipe printed on this page. A more alluring fruit dish never has been served in any home—nor any other food that's more effective in this way.

Read opposite what Dr. J. H. Kellogg, an authority who has made a life-time's study of foods, thinks of the raisin. You'll serve stewed raisins every morning when you know the good they do.

Luscious nuggets of food-iron

Raisins are nuggets of food-iron—and food-iron is an essential to good blood.

Get what you need of it each day, and an incomparable, natural rose tint on the cheeks is the reward—nature's irresistible attraction—the good looks of good health.

No need to imitate with rouge when nature thus provides.

Youthfulness is the real beauty, as every woman knows. And good blood is the first consideration. Women of fifty often look but thirty if that natural rose tint is still there.

Stewed raisins are mildly laxative also. Those who eat them regularly are apt to have the clear, white skin that sets the color off—unmarred by blemishes or sallowness.

Great sanitariums serve stewed raisins to rheumatic patients when other fruits might disagree.

So this simple but effective food is one of the most important that any woman ever used. Try daily for a month and see. Begin tomorrow morning. Look in your pantry now.

Let every member of the family have stewed raisins.

Be sure to mail coupon below for "100 Raisin Recipes," a valuable free book that every woman ought to have.

Stewed Raisins

Cover Sun-Maid Raisins with cold water and add a slice of lemon or orange to each half pound. Place on fire; bring to a boil and allow to simmer for one hour. Sugar may be added but is not necessary as Sun-Maid Seeded Raisins contain 75% natural fruit sugar.

What Dr. J. H. Kellogg says:

(Dr. Kellogg is head of the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium.)

"Raisins are served on the Battle Creek Sanitarium Table every day. A pound of Raisins has twice the food value, an equal amount of iron and seven times as much food lime as a pound of choicest lean steak. The sugar of Raisins is much more wholesome than cane sugar, requiring no digestion and being absorbed in one-fourth the time required for ordinary sugar. If the American people would eat more Raisins and less meat the results would be better digestion, less rheumatism, less Bright's disease, less heart disease, greater efficiency and longer life."

TRAILS IN CANADIAN ROCKIES FOR HIKERS AND RIDERS

A Banff-Assiniboine tours camp

Where appetites anticipate the dinner gong

Tennis, golf and swimming in the Canadian Pacific Rockies are being supplemented now by "Weekly Walking and Riding Tours." Among the thousands who visit the Canadian mountain resorts every summer are many who express a desire to get back of the surrounding peaks and off the beaten tracks.

Mt. Assiniboine, knows as the "Matterhorn of the Rockies," is a three days' pony trip from Banff. This Banff-Assiniboine trip has been selected for the weekly tours. A large comfortable camp, located on an admirable site, will be maintained at Banff Middle Springs. Accommodations may be had at this camp without taking the tour. Other camps are located at convenient distances along the main tour route which goes by way of Spray Lakes.

Schedules will be elastic. Should the scenery or trout fishing—which is very fine—of a certain camp appeal to one, there is nothing to prevent a sojourn there as long as desire prompts, then joining another party for the balance of the tour.

Special side trips may be arranged to Kananaskis Lakes and Pass, Palliser Pass, Mt. Redskin, Mt. Whiteman, Marvel Lake, Lake Gloria and other points of interest. The return trip may be made by way of The Valley of the Rocks, Golden Valley, Citadel Pass, Healy Creek and Bow River.

Home for a Hot Dinner

TOM JACKSON used to complain about losing his "pep" about the middle of the afternoon. The cold noon-lunch in his tin can didn't stand by him through the long afternoon. And he certainly got good and sick of carrying his cold lunch with him every day. His wife also got tired of putting up lunches.

Tom Feels Fine Now

He bought a C. C. M. bicycle and goes home for a hot dinner.

He says there's nothing like a noon spin to freshen one up, and nothing like a good hot dinner to stand by you through the afternoon's work.

Tom says if he were an Efficiency Expert he'd order bicycles and hot dinners at home for all the "lunch-pail sufferers" in the place.

He would go even further than that. He would have them get bikes with the

C.C.M. Triplex Hanger

Tom is a "Triplex" booster.

He says, "It's the hanger that gives the most speed—and pep—and power." Every bit of weight you put on the pedals counts for speed. And there are none of those mean "tight and loose" spots often developed by other crank hangers.

Tom also admires the accuracy of the C. C. M. workmanship. Being a master mechanic himself, he can appreciate the value of a bicycle many of the parts of which are made to even closer limits than were the time fuses on shells.

He also knows that the sparkling C. C. M. nickelling will keep bright and not rust, because it is done over copper. And he says he never saw smoother, niftier, or tougher enamelling than that on his new C. C. M. bicycle.

Hercules Coasts Farther

The other day when he was riding with a friend, Tom found he could coast farther with his Hercules Brake — "the Little Fellow with the Giant Grip" — than his friend could with another make. That tickled Tom, but didn't please the other fellow, who now wishes he'd chosen a C. C. M.

Fewer Repairs Lasts Years Longer

C. C. M. Bicycles have many features that make them worth more than ordinary bicycles. The extra satisfaction you get more than pays the difference in price between a cheap bike and a C. C. M. And there are always fewer repairs required on a good bicycle, not to mention the extra years of service it gives. Many C. C. M. Bicycles are giving good service after ten to fifteen years' riding over all kinds of roads.

A C. C. M. may be had to-day for fewer days' wages than before the war.

Tom says his C. C. M. isn't costing him a cent. He will soon have it paid for with the money he's saved on car fare and shoe leather.

And he never felt so well in years.

THERE are over 1,000 C. C. M. Service Stations in Canada carrying genuine C.C.M. parts and giving C. C. M. service. Look for the above sign.

FARMERS ARE BUSY WITH SPRING WORK

LAND MAKES A QUICK RECOVERY FROM WEEK-END SNOWSTORM

The warm sunny weather following the cold and snow of Saturday and Sunday has been welcomed by the farmers and the work on the land will not be held up as long as seemed probable on Sunday. The fields were well soaked, but to-morrow will likely find most of the farmers resuming their ploughing and seeding. There was, from reports, very little injury suffered by the fall wheat and clover in the sudden cold spell, and fears that the sleet and snow would cause great damage have evidently been unfounded.

Yesterday's sunshine did much to dry up the land, and the warm breeze to-day will greatly help. Many fruit growers are congratulating themselves that the cold snap came when it did and not a week or two hence.

Buds Out.

The buds on the cherry and apple trees are swelling and the trees will be in full bloom shortly and a frost would have caused irretrievable injury.

Very little gardening has been done either in the country or city beyond some ploughing and digging. There will not be many gardens in till next week, for several over-enthusiastic gardeners had some of their gardens nipped on Sunday. The gardening fever begins to assert itself at this season, and if tremulous souls linger in putting in the seeds they can find much joy in digging and fussing over the ground and in the buying of seeds and implements of husbandry.

THE HOME CIRCLE

THE WORLD IS TOO MUCH WITH US.

The world is too much with us; late and soon,
Getting and spending we lay waste our powers;
Little we see in Nature that is ours;
We have given our hearts away,
The sea that bares her bosom to the moon;
The winds that will be howling at all hours,
And are up-gathered now like sleeping flowers;
For this, for everything, we are out of tune;
It moves us not—Great God!
I'd rather be
A Pagan suckled in a creed utworn;
So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea;
Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.

This is the time of the year when every human being—man, woman, and child—should get out into the open air and wash cobwebs out of his brain. There is nothing as good as fresh air to strengthen frayed out nerves, and there is nothing as good as exercise to build up worn out tissues. About ninety per cent of the population pays doctor in the spring to give them a tonic to do away with that "tired feeling." If they would only be convinced there is no tonic in the world as good as them as God's fresh air, and it is absolutely free. The trouble may be that they have the American's way of thinking that unless a thing costs money it isn't any good.

Don't get the foolish notion into your head that to get fresh air you have to have an automobile that will take you whizzing about the country all huddled up, with your eyes straight ahead holding on until the next stop. That doesn't require any deep breathing. Better sit at home in such a case. It's much easier on your nerves, and incidentally, your pocket-book. Get a pair of shoes that you can walk in and then go for a good hike every day. Walk until you get so tired that the only thing you can think about is the next step, and how you are going to take it. You'll find that you won't find yourself lying awake until the wee hours if you follow this program for a few days. You won't need any tonic from the doctor, though you may need an increased income to take care of a rapidly growing appetite. And things will taste so good that you won't recognize your old friends, bacon and eggs, bread and butter, and the rest of their kith and kin. They'll taste the way they did when you were a boy. An appetite like that is something the doctor can't give you. You've got to get it yourself.

It is not highly amusing, if not provoative of wrath, to hear a man complain of his home being cheerless when he adds nothing to its happiness? A man is greatly responsible for the ozone of his home. The day to his wife may have been one of the unusual care and hard work, but if the husband comes in cheerful from the field or his work, outside, the weariness and care-worn look will disappear from his wife's face. A few sharp words we can always excuse for we alway attribute them to the overtaxed nerves, but we can find no plausible excuse for sullenness on the part of the husband.

When an institution fails to earn sufficient cash
For folks to try to keep the thing from going plumb to smash,
Then it's customary—just to keep it still alive—
For somebody with a badge or two to institute a drive.

There's two kinds of discontent in this world—the discontent that works and the discontent that wrings its hands. The first gets what it wants, and the second loses what it has. There's no cure for the first but success; and there's no cure at all for the second.—Gorgon Graham.

"A man's reach should exceed his grasp, else what's a Heaven for." When he wrote those lines Browning knew the emptiness and dissatisfaction of a life that has achieved its goal too early.

Did you ever see a thoroughly ignorant man who admitted his ignorance? And haven't you seen plenty of wise men who will admit theirs.

A good article, a good advertisement, and plenty of stick-to-it-tiveness are a combination that always has won and always will win.

The basis of business is confidence and the basis of confidence is understanding.

MISSIONARIES' WIVES ENDURE HARDSHIP

Missionaries' wives at isolated posts often endure hardships. One of them, when she first went to the mission, had to put an umbrella over the baby when it rained, the roof was so leaky. But she was lucky, as she had a woman neighbor, the factor's wife. This factor's wife had been at the post three years without even seeing another white woman until Mrs. Missionary arrived.

It is not always easy going for the wife of the mounted or provincial constable in the north. Mrs. Rose, wife of Constable Percy Rose, at Mile 214, on the Hudson Bay railway, has two little children. Cheerful though she is, she often longs for a stretch of sidwalk on which she could take them for an outing in winter. The snowdrifts pile up at her very door. The only woman with whom she can talk is a native, whose English is limited. Mrs. Rose expects to be alone for several weeks this spring while her husband goes to North Indian Lake to bring down the body of a trapper who died there.

In winter she dresses her elder son in deerskin suit and moccasins. Dogs are his playfellows, but horses are strange to him and automobiles still unknown. Most northern lads learn to mush a dog or two and fish before they are six years old.

Mrs. Thompson, wife of Sergt. E. H. L. Thompson, R.C.M.P., at Port Nelson, is a western girl who enjoys outdoor life. She can turn her hand to fox trapping, mushing the dogs or almost anything that offers.

Difficult to Haul Furniture.

It is so difficult to haul furniture by dog or horse team that most northern homes, except those on the railway or main waterways, are furnished with home-made articles. Usually some fur rugs, guns stacked by the fireplace and a bit of bead work here and there give a touch of "local color."

It is the real northern women who know how to cook wild meat. They can cook muskrat so that it could not be distinguished from duck unless labeled. As a food, muskrat calls for tactful treatment. It must be taught at the right season, and at the right age, and if the guests have a prejudice against its name, it must be boned beyond recognition. Bear steaks and caribou roasts are among the meats that northerners enjoy, with no butcher bills to spoil the flavor. Milk made from powder is common on northern tables, although some establishments have a cow or two. The flies in summer, however, drive the cattle nearly wild sometimes, and, of course, the procuring of local marsh hay for winter feeding entails much work. In most regions the hardier vegetables may be grown, and in some districts, such as Herb Lake and Moose Lake, most of the fancier varieties flourish. Blue berries, raspberries and cranberries inabundance may be picked in season. Hardly a housewife but does down dozens of quarts for winter

Among the women who are helping to build civilization in the north are Mrs. J. T. Blackford, of Norway House, who is moving out with her family this spri g after ten year by Lake Winnipeg. Mr. Blackford was chief fire ranger for the district .There is Mrs. Dion, a dainty girlish little person, who is at Flin Flon camp with her husband and baby, and is the only white woman there this winter. There is Mrs. Quincy, of Nelson House, with her family of little children, and Mrs. Chalmers, a cultured Scottish woman, the first white woman to go to Pukatawagan, 200 miles north of The Pas.

DENTISTRY AND HEALTH.

Relationship of Dental Work to Health Discussed at Convention.

Dr. J. E. Middleton has returned from attending the Michigan State Dental Convention at Detroit. The convention was held in the ball room of the Statler hotel and as it was not convenient to hold a number of the clinics in this room a movie film of the operation had been taken previously. By this means a fuller discussion could take place as the picture was shown.

That the dentist has come to realize his position as a guardian of the health of his patient was well demonstrated, by the amount of detail that was shown to be necessary to make a complete diagnosis of the mouth. The X-ray film has become indispensable, and every other means that will enable the dentist to locate in the mouth, anything that is undermining the health of the patient, should be used.

Some of the leaders of the profession from New York and Chicago who contributed papers at this convention had one message in common, namely that we must guard the patient's health first and secondly save for him every tooth that can possibly be saved.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE TEAMS LIKELY OPEN SEASON MAY 14TH

MEETING HELD LAST EVENING —JUVENILE SERIES

They're off in the City Basketball League. Four teams, Canadian Packing Co., Thistles, Wm. Hamilton A. A. and Canadian Generals, will make up the circuit.

Last night in the Board of Trade rooms, re-organization plans were practically completed, and judging from the interest displayed by the representatives of the clubs, the league race this season will meet with the approval of the fans.

It was suggested that the opening games be played on Saturday, May 14th. When the Central League schedule is finally adopted, the City League games will be arranged for, so that the two leagues will not be in conflict as to dates. The League will enter the intermediate series of the O.B.A.A.

Juvenile Series.

Reports were made that South Central school, Lakeviews, St. Peter's school and Bankers were prepared to enter teams in a league that would affiliate with the O.B.A.A. and enter the juvenile series. It is hoped that more teams will be heard from. Applications may be made to Lew. LeBarr, vice-president of the City League, who will give prospective teams all information desired. The teams in this series will open the season, probably on Saturday, May 7th.

FIRST HAND STORY GRAND NATIONAL RACE IN ENGLAND

The King Was Guest of Earl of Derby at Liverpool — One False Start and Field Was Away.

TORONTO, April -- (Canadian Press).—London exchanges just arriving fill out the remarkable story of this year's Grand National, as contained in the brief cable accounts carried at the time. The King was the guest of the Earl of Derby at Liverpool for the occasion, and the crowd beat all records.

Shaun Spadah, the ten-year-old gelding owned by the contractor, T. McAlpine, won very easily, being indeed the only runner out of the 35 starters who did not fall. He was admirably ridden by F. B. Rees, who only this season has joined the ranks of professional riders. Rees ran away from home as a boy, and got a job with a well-known trainer, Fallon, and it was only hen he fell ill that his identity as discovered. Since then he has been riding as an amateur, and there is no better man over fences or hurdles in Britain.

The winner was trained by Poole of Lewes, who in the three weeks he had him improved him out of all knowledge. Shaun Spadah is not a great steeplechaser to look at, but he is a wonderfully clever jumper and a genuine stayer. The Bore was second, the last to fall of those who did fall, and he stood up till two fences from the finish. At that moment, unless he fell, Shaun Spadah had won the race.

The following account of the race is taken from The Times:

"There was one false start, and then the great field was away. The various colours in the bright sunshine formed a scene that those of us who were present will not soon forget. Rapidly the numerous colours diminished as the various fences were jumped. Loose horses and men running after them increased in numbers rapidly. As soon as any order could be made out Turkey Buzzard was seen to be in front, galloping strongly and jumping well. All White was next to him. Five fences from the start Eamon Beag fell, among others, far out in the country. The survivors, still led by Turkey Buzzard, came past the famous Canal turn, along the canal, and so back to the dense crowds on the stand.

"Of the 35 whom we had watched start out gay and hopeful, only seven came back to us to jump the water in front of the stands. At the water one of the seven, Loch Allen, fell. Shaun Spadah was also almost down, the great horsemanship of Rees alone holding him up. The six who went out into the country for the last time were in the order of their going: All White, Turkey Buzzard, The Bore, Shaun Spadah, Forewarned, and Glencorrig. Glencorrig was the first of these to vanish, then Forewarned, and then All White dropped down and out. Coming at Becher's Brook, there were only three left, and here Turkey Buzzard, already weary, fell over. The ten little nigger boys was a mild tragedy compared to this almost wholesale slaughter. The Bore and Shaun Spadah went on neck and neck, jumping fence after fence perfectly, side by side. Three fences from home Shaun Spadah took a slight lead; he was certainly going the better of the two. Then came the fall of The Bore, rather a weary horse, and the sedate and unhurried finish of Rees on Shaun Spadah, who passed the post not in any way distressed after his wonderful performance. His win was received with a great hurricane of cheers, showing the great popularity of horse and rider.

"In the meantime other horses were being remounted. Mr. Brown, although he had broken a collarbone, remounted The Bore, but could not get his reins over his horse's head, so he rode him with one hand and both reins on one side, and got over the last fence and finished second, as plucky a performance as has ever been seen on any racecourse. All White was also remounted, and Captain Bennet was also up on Turkey Buzzard. After many adventures these two came to the last fence together, but Turkey Buzzard does not stay, and All White beat him. No other horse finished the course—four out of thirty-five."

STANLEY CUP TRIP COSTS $8,000.00

OTTAWA, April 19.—Stanley Cup chasing, according to officers of the Ottawa Hockey Club, comes high particularly when the silverware has to be defended three thousand miles from home.

For the recent series at Vancouver the National League champions were guaranteed $4,000, which was barely sufficient to defray expenses of eight players and a manager. The Ottawa Club, however, decided to take along all its players as well as its trainer and coach, the owners undertaking to bear the additional expense. It was thought that a week's stay beyond the Rockies would enable Ottawa to complete the series, but instead the games were stretched out and they were there for sixteen days, being away from Ottawa four weeks.

The trip, including railway transportation, Pullman reservation, hotels and all other incidents, cost the Ottawa Club about $8,000. Ottawa shares, however, in the revenue of the fourth and fifth games and broke about even on the 6,000-mile journey. The players' pool, of course, came out of the first three matches only.

TORONTO READY FOR CHAMPIONS

BOEHLING OR SNYDER TO PITCH IN OPENING GAME TO-MORROW

NORFOLK, Va., April 19.—The Leafs were cheated out of a game yesterday by the inclement weather, but despite the frigidity of the atmosphere Manager Doyle had his players at the park in the afternoon and they put in a lively practice of over an hour's duration, with Boehling and Synder serving them up to the batters. Either the southpaw or the right-hander will work the opening game at Baltimore, and both are fit. Boehling is likely to be the choice, as the Birds are not at all partial to crooked-arm slants, and this fellow has a varied assortment of breaks, benders and curves.

"That's the boy to send in against the Birds," remarked "Eddie" Onslow after he had looked over Boehling's stuff. "He'll stand 'em on their heads, or I am a bad guesser." And that is the opinion that was voiced by the other members of the clan with much emphasis. Boehling according to Doyle, gets as much on the ball as any other left-hander he ever saw, and the veteran, who, by the way, admitted the other night that he would be thirty-five on his next birthday, has seen a good many pitchers of both kinds come and go during his thirteen years in the National League.

Constipation

It is a disease-producing malady, and if not corrected may result in serious complications. In good health the bowels should move freely at least once every day, carrying away the waste products from the Blood and Liver. If this function fails or is irregular, the work of removing the poisons falls on the Skin and Kidneys, with the result of the latter organs becoming congested and clogged. The Blood becomes poisoned, Indigestion sets in, the Kidneys become deranged, and a severe if not fatal illness is brought on. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS correct this trouble by its action on the Liver, causing a healthy flow of Bile, and exerting a soothing and toning influence on the whole Intestinal Track.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are put up in three sizes—25c, 50c, $1.00 per Box. For sale at Warne's Drug Store, Peterborough.

Music and Drama

AT THE GRAND.

"THE SILVER KING".

Mr. Norman B. Cannon, stage director, and one of the principal players of the Trans-Canada English Players, is one of the best known English dramatic producers, as well as an actor of exceptional ability. His interpretation of the "spider" in "The Silver King" was claimed by Toronto critics to be one of the finest bits of individual acting ever seen in Toronto.

Among the players are Mr. Henry Lonsdale, the leading man, who was last seen here as leading man for E. S. Williard; Miss Dorothy Reeve, Miss Peggy Bryatt, Mr. Frederick Ross, Mr. Vernon Fortescue, and a dozen other well-known actors with London reputations.

The plays which will be presented here are "East Lynne" and "The Silver King", Wednesday evening.

"DAMAGED GOODS"

"Damaged Goods," a picturization of the stage play used with such great success by Richard Bennett, a few years back, will be the feature attraction at the Grand on Thursday for three days. When Richard Bennett presented "Damaged Goods in New York and later on the road, theatre-goers were astounded. In those days, the world was not ready to admit the presence of a dread disease that menaced society. Today, social organizations not only are fighting it but welcome the coming of so powerful an ally as "Damaged Goods." Mr. Bennett himself, leads a strong cast in the picture version, which is released after being withheld for nearly six years.

"Damaged Goods' was written by Eugene Brieux, one of the leaders of the French school of realists. Even blase France, was aroused by the frankness of the play. For a time it was not permitted to be presented, but eventually the broad minded prevailed and "Damaged Goods" was shown in the theatres of Paris where the remarkable dramatic skill displayed by its author won for him undying fame. Brieux is ranked with Emile Zola, De Maupant, Balzac and Sue among French realists.

"Damaged Goods" tells the story of a young man, who like so many others, has sown wild oats He becomes engaged and before his marriage receives treatments from a so-called "specialist." Imagining himself to be free from disease, he marries—let Brieux tell the rest of this story, for no one but Brieux could bring out the high lights of this great drama of life as does the master writer. With consummate skill and delicacy he deals with a problem which modern civilization is now trying to solve. He writes of life as he sees it; not as he believes it should be.

Moralists welcome "Damaged Goods" in their fights for a cleaner social life. The problem of the ill-fated prostitute has never been presented more impressively than Brieux does in "Damaged Goods". Brieux is an artist and has an artist's dislike for the sensational. Probably this accounts for the absence of that calculated to attract those who desire to see something sensational and offensive to people of good taste. The producers have succeeded in putting in their picturization the refinement of Brieux's writings.

"Damaged Goods" is a picture that fathers and mothers should bring their older children to see. The moral contained in it is as unmistakeable as the charm with which Brieux tells his story.

AT THE ALLEN.

A screen drama rich in tense situations in which the American beauty, Katherine MacDonald, is starred, is "My Lady's Latchkey", which will come to the Allen theatre Wednesday. It is a First National attraction which bespeaks its excellence. The story moves swiftly to an exciting climax. It opens aboard the ocean greyhound "Monarchic", Europe bound, where Ruthven Smith, the trusted international representative of a big diamond merchant is guarding a rare collection of gems on their way to London, but is robbed of same. In London Annesley Grayle, played by Miss MacDonald, has grown tired of a drab five years' existence, spent in a house of gloom, with her aunt, Mrs. Ellsworth, has just answered a newspaper advertisement calling for a travelling companion to an elderly lady.

While awaiting the advent of the "elderly lady" in the Hotel Savoy she is accosted by a young man who is ostensibly American, and in apparent trouble, begs Annesley to save him by pretending to be his wife. She is astounded at this proposal, but the man's distress appears so great that she agrees. Later, after two men have threatened the young man who gives his name as Nelson Smith, the two young people depart for Annesley's home, which by a coincidence is also the London home of Ruthven Smtih, the latter thinking that Nelson is another robber, fires point blank at him.

The whole affair so enrages Mrs. Ellsworth that she orders Annesley out of the house, whereupon Nelson declares his love for Annesley, who having lived a colorless life, devoid of romance, is so bewildered by Nelson's protestations of love that she accepts him.

During the progress of a ball given later, after Annesley and Nelson are married, Ruthven Smith, who is present, is commenting on the diamond robbery and in particular he speaks of a blue diamond that was stolen. He finally comes out direct and demands to see the blue diamond that Nelson has given his wife.

To the girl's horror she finds that Nelson is the jewel thief and is about to give him up to justice when she overhears his declarations to the thieving gang that—right here we leave you in suspense, dear reader. Do you remember him the famous novel of a decade ago, "The Lady or the Tiger?" left its readers in suspense. Well this screen play does not do that. It ends in a manner highly agreeabl to the spectator.

WOLF-DOG LEAPS TO LONE GIRL'S RESCUE

The killing of "Black" McCready by the half-savage wolf-dog who wreaks revenge for the murder of his master is said to be one of the most thrilling scenes in the screen version of James Oliver Curwood's "Kazan," which will be shown at the Allen Theatre for the last time today. The dog "Kazan," hearing the screams of a girl, the one human whom has befriended him, breaks his bonds, and races to the tent, in which McCready has found the girl. With a flying leap at McCready he sinks his fangs into the throat of the girl's assailant and the slayer of Jim Radisson of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police pays for his crimes with his life. Jane Novak as Joan Radisson, the girl, has the leading feminine role, and Ben Deeley enacts the part of the hero. Edwin Wallock interprets the character of "Black" McCready.

AT THE REGENT.

"THE GENTLEMAN RIDER" A BRITISH MASTERCRAFT FILM.

Competition is the hub around which the Wheel of Life revolves. It was a primitive instinct which manifested itself in various forms of savagery. With the growth of civilization this instinct, strong as ever, diverted to new channels less ferocious, so that among the most civilized peoples we find competition necessary to the success of any enterprise. The love of racing is thus an instinct inherent in every normal person, because there is man's natural love of a horse and because the competition of a horse race is the most exciting of all trials of skill. This explains why pictures featuring a horse-race meet with so much popularity.

The big British Mastercraft Production "A Gentleman Rider" to be shown at the Regent Theatre to-day is beyond doubt one of the best yarns of the turf ever put on the silver sheet. Coming direct from England, the cradle and home of horse racing where it is a tremendous hit, there is an atmosphere about the picture which at once excites and sustains that exaltation to its final thrilling climax.

No one bored b vthe humdrum of the workaday world and desirous of placing himself in a different environment should miss seeing this great exhibition of skill, matching of wits and thrilling situations. It is one of these rare things, a big, clean, absorbing entertainment to which you may take your parents or children. London went wild over it and Canada is bound to do the same.

SPORT COMMENT

W. R. Rose of Havelock is showing the result of his labors in the interests of lacrosse in the Trent Valley district. In addition to lining up about 24 players for his Havelock squad, he has helped in the organization of teams in Marmora, Madoc and Tweed (known as district No. 1), and Warkworth, Campbellford, Hastings, Peterborough and Havelock, district No. 2. The towns named will play intermediate, while junior teams will operate in Peterborough, Hastings and Campbellford. If any of the teams named have not yet officially registered and paid their fees, they should do so, otherwise they will not be privileged in the grouping arrangements, to be dealt with toward the end of this week.

Havelock have already had two fine work-outs, and are quite optimistic of the season's results. They will wear purple and red jerseys, and have ordered their full equipment.

A reader, in commenting on Tommy Burns' first fight, as told by Russell T. Kelley, claims that it was a much better showing than the former heavyweight champion made in his first professional battle at Detroit.

"On that occasion," says reader, "Burns stood his ground until he got a punch in the chin, and then it was all over. He jumped out of the ring and made for the dressing-room, and try as they might, his trainers could not get him back again. But he must have been groggy from the blow, for he showed his gameness several times after that."

And, according to Mr. Kelley, he showed it that afternoon at Bright away back in 1898.

Regarding the question of grace on the ball field, a New York newspaper has been printing views from those who have seen all the great players in action. Nap Lajoie and Jimmy Collins are the favorites. One who has just written the New York Herald writes thusly of Collins: "Your reference to Lajoie was all right. He was grace personified in his ball playing, and I want to refer to another one in his class. James Collins, who played third base for the Boston Americans for so many years. To my mind, there never was a more graceful ball player than Collins, and he did his work with the least effort and without any 'grandstand' accompaniments."

The Boston Braves, we see by the box score, have a new outfielder who is hitting. His name is Nicholson. On Thursday he made four hits in four times up, and yesterday hit safely the first three times at bat. Also, on the same team, Powell, who used to play the outfield for Providence when the Grays were in the International League, made a couple of three-base hits. Needless to say, with this sort of artillery assistance, the Braves beat the Dodgers.

FOOTBALL EXECUTIVE WILL NOT ATTEND SPECIAL MEETING

CLAIM THEY HAVE BEEN IGNORED BY P. A. A. A.—REFEREES AND SCHEDULED GAMES FOR NEXT TWO WEEKS.

The bi-monthly meeting of the Peterboro Football Association was held last evening in the G.W.V.A. rooms. Every club representative was present with the exception of the Caledonians, who have not been represented for several meetings.

Referees Attended.

All the football referees in the city were present to consult the executive and the discussions proved beneficial to all concerned.

Referee's Meeting and Motion.

It was unanimously agreed that a special meeting be held on Monday evening, April 25th, to examine referees, and the motion of Mr. Sid Whatley in regard to referees be left over to the next regular meeting, when all the referees will have passed the necessary examinations

Cup Tie Rules Adopted.

The Gordon Cup Tie Rules were unanimously adopted en bloc and a motion made that the Gordon Cup take the place of the Peterboro City Cup. The winners will represent Peterboro in the Ontario Cup.

Secretary Write Public and Separate Schools.

The secretary was instructed to write to the secretary of the Board of Education and the Rev. Father Phelan that the Peterboro Football Club is willing to donate a trophy for a School League.

Dates of Postponed Games

A motion was carried that the Executive fix the dates for the postponed games on last Saturday, which resulted as follows:

Tuesday, May 3rd—Caledonians vs. G.W.V.A. J. L. Howarth referee.

Tuesday, May 10th — Canadian Woollens vs De Laval—J. Hensby, referee.

Athletic Association Ignored the Football Association.

A very interesting discussion took place between the members of the Executive in reference to the attitude of the Peterborough Athletic Association ignoring the Football Association at the recent banquet given in the Empress Hotel when all the other organizations were sent invitations to attend. The Football Executive decided not to attend the special meeting called by the mayor for Wednesday evening, claiming that they have not been treated fairly as a sporting fraternity.

Referee's for Saturday's Games.

April 23—De Laval vs. Comrades—Referee J. Clark; C. G. E. vs. Caledonians—Referee J. Hensley.

Aprilj 28—Peterboro City Cup — C. G. E. vs. Woollens. Mr. Alex. McKinley.

April 30th—G. W. V. A. vs. Caledonians. Referee Mr. Howarth.

Comrades vs. Woollens, Referee J. Clark.

Registered Players.

A number of players were struck off the respective teams list. Mr. Arthur Edwards still remains as a G.W.V.A. player.

OLD PLAYING GROUNDS BOUGHT BY EXCELSIORS

BRAMPTON, April 19.—After an attempt to obtain the sole use of the Exhibition Grounds for their games this summer the Brampton Lacrosse Club has decided to purchase the old playing grounds at the west end which were used last year. The purchase price is understood to be $2,700. Another $2,000 will be spent in fixing up the grounds. To finance the deal a joint stock company is to be formed and the shares sold to the public.

It is proposed to erect bleachers and a temporary club house almost immediately. The grounds will be fenced and a course built for motorcycle races and other events.

The attempt to obtain sole use of the Exhibition Grounds failed because the Fair Board did not like to turn down the Soccer Club. The board offered to lease the grounds to the two organizations on a fifty-fifty basis.

The Excelsiors will go into training at once.

PETERBORO'S NEW PLAYHOUSE OPENED AUSPICIOUSLY, BEAUTY OF APPOINTMENTS NOTICEABLE

EXCELLENT PROGRAMME OFFERED LAST EVENING AT THE OPENING OF THE PARAMOUNT "CAPITOL" THEATRE

Peterborough's new playhouse — the Paramount Capitol Theatre — opened last evening under very auspicious circumstances. The house, with a capacity of over 1,100, was sold out before six o'clock, and hundreds of late-comers were turned away.

Many complimentary and appreciative remarks were neard regarding the beauty of the appointments and the excellence of the programme offered. "Behold My Wife," from Sir Gilbert Parekr's novel, "The Savage," was the initial production, a splendid example of the programme to be afforded Peterborough movie lovers in this artistic new palace o the silent drama. It is a drama o the great Canadian North-West, and contains many scenes from the Canadian wilds. A derelict Englishman of aristocratic parentage is the outstanding figure. In a fit of rage at his Puritanical family, he sends his squaw wife home to them, in full regalia of blankets and moccasins. The family, however, take her in without protest, educate her, and she becomes in time a general favourite with them. The husband, whose rum-seeking career in the Klondike finally disgusts him with its sordidness, returns to England, is received with open arms by his wife and family, and the play ends with a general reconciliation.

The two comedies, in one of which Larry Semon acts 'The Suitor," and the Topics of the Day from the Literary Digest, also received well-merited attention.

The one-play-a-night system inaugurated here by the Capitol Theatre will doubtless become popular with Peterborough audiences, as it enables the management to put on a better and bigger performance, with less crowding and inconvenience all around, while those who prefer to see only the feature picture, may delay their arrival until 8.50, when it starts.

The performance of Miss Marjorie Stevens the dainty little violiniste from the Palace Theatre in Toronto who came to Peterborough for last night's opening on her way from Montreal where she has been for two weeks directing the ladies' orchestra at the Capitol Theatre in that city made a decided hit especially in her last solo, a gipsy number. "Love Will Find a Way," the beautiful "Souvenir," and "Just Like a Gipsy," in which Miss Stevens, dressed as a gipsy, plays under a spotlight, brought the house down, and applause was loud and enthusiastic. The young artiste excels in her beautiful tone and excellent bowing, and her performance last night was in accordance with the nature of the fine opening programme.

The orchestra, which had only one rehearsal, gave an excellent rendition of good music under the direction of Mr. Herbert Hawthorn.

The netx production will be "Humoresque," on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, a picture which is considered one of the greatest stories of the power and depths of mother love ever filmed.

Mr. N. L. Nathanson, president and general manager of the Famous Players' Corporation for Canada, arrived in time for the opening last evening, leaving on the midnight train for Montreal, en route to New York.

Mr. J. C. Green left this afternoon for Toronto.

The new theatre which will remain under his direct supervision, will be managed by Mr. Edward Abbey.

Armstrong, in the name of the Excelsior Club, presented him with a handsome electric grill. Mr. Everett made a suitable acknowledgment, expressing his regret at severing his pleasant relations with the Club, of which he has been so faithful and popular a member.

LATE RETURNS SHOW 113,645 DRY MAJORITY

EXPECT MORE DRY VOTES

TORONTO, April 20.—(Canadian Press). — With forty-eight electorate districts out of fifty-one heard from and returns from these centres only partially complete prohibition leaders estimate that Ontario had declared for a bone dry province by a majority of 113,645 votes on compilations made this morning. They claim that only sixty per cent of the total vote of approximately 750,000 has been heard from and point out that their majority will reach two hundred thousand when complete returns are available, as it is understood that the remaining sub-divisions to be heard from are essentially dry districts.

Rev. Dr. A. S. Grant of the Ontario referendum committee, discountenanced reports to the effect that a court hearing relative to deciding the constitutionality of the referendum would affect the time limit for inauguration of the Sandy Bill Prohibition Inter-Provincial Traffic and reiterated his former statements that Ontario would be bone dry after July 18th.

PRESIDENT OF REICHSBANK REJECTS PROPOSITION TO PLACE RESERVE WITHIN ALLIED REACH

CABINET NON-COMMITAL

BERLIN, April 20.—(Canadian Press).—While the German Cabinet has not yet indicated the nature of its reply to the Reparation Commission's demand that the German gold reserve be transferred to some point in the occupied zone, President Havenstein of the Reichsbank summarily rejects the proposition, taking the ground that the gold is not only the property of a private bank but that its removal from Berlin is under the conditions named would result in the collapse of German currency at home and abroad.

Financial experts also assert that such a proceding would work havoc with German economic interests and promptly result in the advance of all commodities to fabulous prices as a result of the inevitable depression of the nation's currency President Havenstein declares that serious consideration of the proposition by the cabinet would be a mere waste of time and that it is doubtful whether any government could be found in Germany which would accede to the Entente's demands.

The latest figures of the gold holdings of the Reichsbank, contained in the Bank's statement of April 7, showed that on that date there were 1,001,602,000 marks. The German government is given until April 22 to transfer these holdings to Cologne or Coblenz. In event of default the Reparation Commission will demand delivery to itself direct.

ADDRESSED THE LOCAL ROTARIANS

Capt. R. M. Roy, of the 73rd Carnatic Inf., who has been with the British forces in India, Africa, Persia, Thibet and Mesopotamia for the past six years, spoke to the Peterborough Rotary Club at their regular luncheon held at the Empress Hotel on Monday last. Capt. Roy's address was on present conditions in India and the events which led up to them, forecasting to some extent their possible outcome. The speaker showed a deep knowledge of his subject and delivered his address in a clear and concise manner.

A hearty vote of thanks in the name of the Club was tendered Capt. Roy by the president.

SLIGHT BLOCKAGE IN LIQUOR CONTROL.

Scotch Distillers Snub Quebec Authorities.

MONTREAL, April 19. — The intention of the Provincial Government to take over complete control of the spirituous liquor business in Quebec, importing, wholesaling and retailing has been temporarily blocked by a decision of the great distilleries in Scotland and Europe not to deal direct with the Liquor commission. The distillers are insisting that they can only do business with their agents in Montreal and Quebec. These agents are the big wholesale houses in Montreal and Quebec, the Government Commission had hoped to be able to displace.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF MOON FRIDAY NEXT

Will Be Visible Generally in North and South America.

A total eclipse of the moon, visible generally in North and South America, takes place on April 22, the duration of total eclipse being the forty-two minutes from 2h. 23m. a.m., standard time, to 3h. 05m. a.m. At this time the moon is darkened by its passage through the shadow of the earth.

Lunar eclipses can only occur at the times of full moon, that is, when the moon and sun are on directly opposite sides of the earth. At 6h. 20m. p.m. of April 21 the moon rises full and round some fifteen degrees south of east and is due on the meridian at an altitude of 32 degrees by 11h 47m. p.m.

At this date, April 22, the earth is 93,408,000 miles, in round numbers, from the sun, and the length of the earth's shadow to its apex is some 864,000 miles. The moon is 236,550 miles from the earth, and the diameter of the section of the shadow where the moon cuts through it is 5,750 miles.

MONTREAL HOLDS NO HOPE FOR ARID ONTARIO; LIQUOR STOCKS IN OASIS ARE CLEANED OUT

MONTREAL, April 20. — (Special.) — Those in Ontario who did not expect the province to vote dry, and who neglected to get their supplies in advance of the vote will experience a well defined period of drought as soon as what they have on hand is used up, if they are depending on the Province of Quebec to replenish their stocks.

This is due to two causes; first the new License Commission which takes hold on May 1st will not sell to any outsider. This was made plain this morning by the Hon. G. A. Simard, Chairman of the Commission, who stated:

"After May 1 we will sell one bottle at a time to people in the Province of Quebec only."

The other cause is that the present license holders, who go out of business on May 1 and to whom no extension of time will be granted even to fill orders to outside places, are inundated with business and can't handle between now and May 1st any more business. In addition most of them have been cleaned out of the standard brands, as when the new law was announced some months ago they stopped putting in orders for any more goods. There are a few who have still some stocks on hand and these will make an effort to get rid of them between now and the 1st of May, but what they have all combined is but a drop in the bucket compared to the amount that will be ordered between now and the date of the new regime in Quebec.

"We have been turning back orders at the rate of $10,000 a day or so for the last two weeks," said the head of one of the oldest firms this morning. "We have been practically cleaned out except for odd lines and bulk stuff, and will close our doors for the last time at the end of this week."

Similar information was given by other large dealers.

There remains for the Ontarionan who wants to stock up for the long arid period ahead therefore only the distilleries in Britain or their agents in Montreal. An order put in now would give time to have delivery before the expiration of the 60 days when the law voted on Monday goes into effect. The stuff will go through the province of Quebec in bond and so will not be interfered with by the Commission.

Mysterious Shot From Side of Bewdley Road At Dusk Last Evening

WILLIAM TRUE AND JAMES JOHNSTON CUT BY SPLINTERED GLASS WHEN BULLET SMASHED THROUGH WINDSHIELD OF THEIR CAR—JOHNSTON CARRYING ABOUT $300 AT THE TIME—POLICE INVESTIGATING.

While slowly driving north on the Gravel road a half-mile south of Bewdley last night at dusk, William True, driver for G. Dunford, Brock street, and James Johnston, produce dealer of Bailieboro, were shot at from the side of the road, but escaped serious injury, although both were cut about the face with flying glass when the bullet smashed the windshield, glancing off on the other side of the road.

James Johnston lives in Bailieboro and buys produce in the country. Evidently his own car is not in use and for some time he has had an agreement with G. Dunford by which he is furnished with a car that goes out from Peterborough every day and a wide territory is covered. Yesterday he was buying south and west of Bewdley and they were returning to Bailieboro when the supposed shooting occurred. True was driving and Johnston sitting beside him in the front seat.

Shot Shatters Windshield.

It was between seven and eight o'clock and objects were becoming indistinguishable in the gathering gloom, and they were just about a half mile from Bewdley, according to True's story, when he saw a flash of fire at the side of the road, followed by a ringing crash as the windshield was struck by the bullet and the showers of glass fell upon them. It all happened in a second. True said he saw the flash and then the top half of the windshield right in their faces was split and splinters of glass flew about the car. True has is left eyebrow cut and Johnston was cut about the neck. Before they were fully aware of the shooting the shot had died away and the hush of the fading day had returned.

Wanted to Investigate.

Johnston, it is said, wanted to stop and follow up the shot, but True's counsel to drive on and let the police solve the shooting prevailed, and they drove to Bailieboro. Johnston unloaded the produce at his house at Bailieboro and True drove to Peterborough, where the Provincial constable, T. Y. Stratton, was notified and later with several officers of the local force, returned to the scene of the shooting. The hotelkeeper at Bewdley was interrogated but he said that he had not heard the shot, though True stated that the occupants of a car which was waiting for them to pass farther down the road, said they heard the shot distinctly.

The case is to-day being further investigated by the authorities. It is said that Mr. Johnston was carrying about $300 at the time of the shooting.

They were out on a pier in the river and were trying to get into an old boat when by accident they fell into the water. At twelve o'clock neither body had been recovered.

ESTIMATES OF REFERENDUM EXPENSES RUN HIGH

TORONTO, April 20. — (Canadian Press.) — Estimates of the cost of the referendum campaign to the "wets" and "drys' vary, but it is believed the Liberty League expenses will run to a hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and that two hundred thousand was actually spent on the "dry" campaign.

Rev. Ben Spence stated that it would not be possible to figure out the cost of the fight. "This was just one battle of the war on booze," he said: "all that had been spent before had an influence on the result.'

RADIUM AIDS BONE GROWTH.

Seen to Help Wounded Soldiers.

NEW YORK, April 20.—To an endowment of $300,000 bestowed by the late Jacob H. Schiff to the Montefiore Home and Hospital at Bainbridge Avenue and Gun Hill Road, Bronx, for medical research work was accorded the credit, at the recent annual meeting of the institution, for considerable progress made last year, especially in cures of cancer patients by means of the x-ray and radium. Experiments at the hospital, it was said, had led to a discovery that radium is of marked value in certain bone diseases, in that it stimulates the growth of new bone. It is believed this discovery may be of great value in the rehabilitation of wounded soldiers.

At the Montefiore County Sanitarium at Bedford Mills, satisfactory progress and results have been attained, it was reported, in the treatment of tuberculosis by the pneumothorax method. Of sixty-five cases treated by this method, 28 per cent. of them were discharged with the disease arrested, 42 per cent. improved and 30 per cent. did not profit by the treatment.

200,000 MORE AGAINST HUNS

FRENCH CLASS OF 1921 YIELDS 75 PER CENT. EFFECTIVES WHO MAY HALE TO FIGHT GERMANS

PLANNING INVASION

PARIS, April 20. — (Canadian Press.)—Reports show that the military class of 1921, called to the colors during April has yielded two hundred thousand men, which is more than seventy-five per cent. of the youths twenty years of age, who are subject to military service. This is the first time such a high percentage of effectives has been secured.

PARIS, April 20.— It is understood that a complete plan for the invasion of the Ruhr Valley has been approved by Marshal Foch and his technical advisers and furthermore the French consider it is not necessary to notify Berlin of thier intentions.

They have taken the attitude that Germany has been warned sufficiently and that if at midnight of April 30 there has not been the payment of 1,000,000,000 francs due by Germany to the reparations commission March 23 last and 11,000,000,000 francs in addition which is due to make the 12,000,000,000 total due May 1, the French will simply use the economic and military sanctions under the treaty and march eastward on to Ruhr. While no official statement could be obtained, it is known that the classes of 1918 and 1919 have been ordered to be in readiness. As for any new propositions which are under way from Germany, the French declared they did not take them seriously.

MOTOR FLUSHER MUST SATISFY THE MAYOR

MANUFACTURERS OF NEW TRUCK DESIRE TO GIVE FULL SERVICE

The motor truck bought for the Board of Works Department to be used in flushing the paved streets and oiling the roads must give entire satisfaction before Mayor McIntyre will sign the cheque in payment for it. "This truck is more or less in an experimental stage yet," the Mayor told the Examiner. "It is something new and Peterborough is in advance of the times in buying it. Certain adjustments will have to be made before it is right, and the company have shown a desire to make it right according to their promises and as specified when the order was given."

Mayor McIntyre said that if it was necessary to send the truck back to the factory that recourse would be taken. He would insist that this apparatus fulfill the purposes for which it was bought. The Mayor remarked that the company's interest in the servicability of the truck under local test operations and their wish to give the fullest satisfaction was evidently an assurance that there would be no difficulty in securing the adjustments desired.

TOWNSHIP TO PAY HOSPITAL RATE; NO CUT

BUT NORTH MONAGHAN APPEAL AGAINST ISOLATION HOSPITAL CHARGE, WINS REBATE.

HEALTH BOARD MEETS

Cimplaining that the township of North Monaghan was unduly charged bp the city for a child patient in Queen Mary Hospital, Reeve J. McIntosh, Fred Rowan, North Monaghan councillor and E. A. Peck, solicitor, appealed to the Board of Health at a special meeting last night to have the charges reduced and an agreement reached respecting the rightful rates to be paid.

The Board las night comprised G. H. Duncan, chairman, Mayor McIntyre, James Lynch E. F. Mason and Dr. W. H. Young, medical officer of Health.

The patient was a young boy, whose parents reside on Western avenue. The child according to the bill submitted by Reeve McIntosh was charged with 22 days treatment at $3.50 a day, $77. Another item of $12 for special nurse's board at the hospital from Feb. 21 to March 4 was shown. Of the total of $89 the township paid the $77 but Reeve McIntosh declared they did not feel responsibl- for Miss Dorris Price, the special nurse's board bill or for her bill for services of $65. The total rate he assereed came to $9.50 a day and this seemed "pretty steep". He understood he said that the $3.50 included everything.

Special Nurse.

Dr. Young said the special nurse was needed as the child required special attention which, as the hospital was filled, the regular nurses were unable to give. The nurse was engaged by Dr. J. V. Hayes, the child's doctor, Dr. Young said.

"You don't expect the board to pay the nurse $5 a day out of the $3.50?" asked Dr Young.

The Reeve said they wanted nothing unreasonable but wanted to pay so much a day and not have any special accounts. To this it was pointed out that he could have no quarrel with th ecity over the nurse's bill, which was a private matter but rather should he discuss it with Dr. Hayes. It was also said that city patients had to pay for special nurses, evidently a piece of news to Reeve McIntosh.

"Somebody must pay this bill. You surely wouldn't shift it on to the ratepayers of the city?" asked Mr. Lynch.

"I think when the city had no nurses they should not have charged $3.50 a day. I wouldn't think it would cost $3.50 a day. They must be making a gain," interposed Councillor Rowan.

"If you'd like to know —we're running that hospital at a loss" said the M.O.H

Appealed to Board.

"I can't see how the municipality of North Monaghan can get out of paying that bill. I would certainly object to the city paying it" declared Mr. Lynch.

Mayor McIntyre held a similar opinion.

E. A. Peck appealed to the board to regahd the matter from a humanitarian viewpoint, rather than a matter of money and legal rights but his suggestion had no supporters in the city's camp. The feeling was that it was time an understanding was reached between the rural municipalities and the Board over the rates at the hospital and this case offered the city an opportuniy of pressin gfor such an undertaking.

Cost Per Day

It was here Mr. Mason got in some fine work. He computed the cist per day of maintaining a patient in the hospital at $4.15. This allowed nothing for overhead or for the M.O.H.'s salary. This estimate was especially pointed out to Councillor Rowan. Drooping the claim against the $65 bill Reeve McIntosh asked only for the withdrawal of the board bill of $12. He was turned down when he left but the board made a concession later. Reeve McIntosh promised to speak to th etownship council about an agreement and pay the special nurse's bill.

When the deputation had left the board got their heads together and the following resolution moved by Mayor McIntyre, seconded by E. F. Mason was adopted:

"That the township of North Monaghan be allowed a rebate of $12 on the bill and that the township be informed that in view of the expense the city has to bear in maintaining the Queen Mary Hospital and in order to avoid any misunderstanding the city cannot admit patients to the hospital from the township unless the township agrees with the board that it will pay the per diem rate fixed by the board for patients, not residents of the city and also any extra expense that the hospital may view by the employment of a special nurse or otherwise by the admission of any patient from the township and that the council of the township be aske deo let the board accept these terms and also whether the hospital authorities will require the authority of any official of the township before admitting a patient from that municipality."

WHEN SELECTING SEED POTATOES

Profitable Points to Be Observed.

Care should be taken in selecting seed potatoes if good yields are to be secured, according to the Department of Botany at the Ohio Experiment Station.

Potatoes showing inside discoloration when they are being cut for seed should not be used. Fusarium wilt is identified by a sunken area at the stem end of the tusbr and a dark brown crescent shaped mark on the longitudinal section of the potato.

Treating seed stock with formaline or corrosive sublimate fails to control this wilt and spraying later on gives no help.

The selection of disease-free seed potatoes, together with crop rotation, seems to be the only method to check this disease.

Black leg is controlled by selecting seed showing no internal discoloration. The time to check this disease is when the seed is taken from the storage bin.

NEW BILL FOR GOVT. CONTROL OVER G.T.R.

TO APPROVE STAND OF GOVERNMENT IN ITS RECENT DEALINGS WITH GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

TO REVIVE ARBITRATION

OTTAWA, April 20. (Canadian Press.) — Parliament is asked by enacting legislation introduced by Premier Meighen in the Commons yesterday ,to affirm its approval of the stand taken by the Government in its recent dealings with the Grand Trunk Railway Company.

The legislators of the Dominion, moreover, are called upon to fix a period within which the company, by surrendering to the Government full control of the Grand Trunk Railway System, may effect a resumption of the arbitration proceedings to determine the value of the stocks to be acquired by the country and the completion of the bargain set forth in the agreement of March, 1920.

The Bill allows the Grand Trunk Railway Company until May 16th next to accept the terms offered by the Government, and to enter into an agreement to that effect; it authorizes the Government and the company, within the time limit mentioned ,to agree to revive and continue the arbitration proceedings, and provides that upon execution of the agreement, "the agreement of March 8th, as hereby modified, shall be and continue to be, effective for all purposes and stipulations thereof affecting the Government and the company respectively, and shall have the same force and effect as if specifically enacted by Parliament."

The main provisions of the bill call for the resignation of the G. T. R. directors who would be succeeded by five directors appointed by the Government. These would carry on all business of the company. A committee known as the G.T.R. Shareholders' Committee, may be appointed to represent the shareholders during the continuation of the arbitration.

EMIGRATION RESTRICTION

MR. T. TOOMS BROUGHT THE QUESTION UP IN ONTARIO HOUSE.

In the Ontario Legislature, Mr. T. Tooms, M.P.P., asked the following question:

1. Is the Provincial Government still encouraging emigration to this Province. 2. How many persons have been influenced through this Department to emigrate to Ontario. 3. What is their destination. 4. How many have been placed in situations on farms or taken up land through this Department. 5. Is any action being taken by the Government to restrict or prevent mechanics or city workers from emigrating to this Province.

And the Minister of Agriculture replied as follows:

1. Yes, for agricultural purposes, competent domestic help and investors, especially in farm lands. 2. Impossible to give exact figures. 3. Distributed to farms in different sections of the Province direct from the boat or immediately after arrival. 4. During present fiscal year approximately 1,000 to date. 5. This is a matter of Federal jurisdiction, but Ontario agents are instructed to discourage emigrants other than those defined in answer to Question 1.

In a communication to the Examiner, Mr. Tooms has the following to say regarding the above question:

As the question of immigration is of particular interest to the people of the cities, and the great amount of unemployment at present existent, I would suggest to Mr. Gordon, M.P., as question five seems to be a federal matter, that the attitude and action of the federal house in this matter is of vital importance, that if he thinks proper to raise this question in the house at Ottawa.

CAR LEAPED OVER AN EMBANKMENT.

SHANNONVILLE, April 19. — After a sensational escape from serious injury, when his large car plunged over an embankment twenty feet high, on the road between the 5th and 6th concession of Tyendinaga, recently, Dr. Denyes, of Shannonville, Hastings County, is around once more. Leaving the road the car leaped into space, and landed on its wheels on the rocks below. The doctor was dazed by the fall but was otherwise unhurt, and when he came to he found the motor on fire. A gentleman who was in the car with him was also fortunate in not being injured. The auto which was wrecked in the fall, caught fire and was consumed excepting the metal parts and the engine.

GOOD CONCERT CAMPBELLFORD

PROGRAMME PROVIDED BY ST. ANDREW'S CHOIR — LACROSSE NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 20. — The school room of St. Andrew's Church was filled to its capacity last evening, when an excellent programme was rendered by the choir, under the able leadership of Mr. Henning, organist and choirmaster.

The dainty refreshments, to which all did ample justice, were in charge of the Ladies' Aid Society, who upheld their already good reputation in catering.

Mr. C. L. Owen, ex-M.P., very acceptably filled the chair.

The opening number was a piano duet by Miss Meiklejohn and Mr. Henning, which was exceptionally well rendered. A chorus by the choir, "Where the Beautiful Lilies Bloom," showed a careful training, and was well received. Miss Marion Burleigh sang in fine voice, "We'll Never Miss the Springtime in the Garden of My Heart." Mr. and Mrs. Walter Henson then delighted the audience with a duet, which was followed by a reading By Miss Lillian Hay, "Examination Day," taken from Ralph Connor's School Days. This selection showed marked elocutionary ability, and was heartily encored. Mr. John Scott's rendering of "When the Great Red Dawn is Shining" was encored, and he replied with "I'm Lonesome for You, That's All." The Misses Dickson and Cairns sang very sweetly "Sleep and Forget," after which the "Anvil Chorus" was well rendered by the following, Messrs. Ward Archer, John Scott, Donald Graham, James Dickson, H. G. Bertrand, J. A. Armstrong, Edwin and Walter Henson, and A. MacDonald. Miss Hazel Atkinson's solo, "Barney O'Hea," was heartily applauded, and she replied to the encore with "The Harp That Once Through Tara's Halls." The Ladies' Chorus was well rendered, those taking part being Miss Alice Martin, Mrs. Robert Bell, Misses H. Innes, E. Meiklejohn, M. Dickson, and M. Burleigh.

Mr. Henning's rendering of "A Tramp Abroad," from Mark Twain, was exceptionally well given, and called forth hearty applause.

"Smiles" was sweetly sung by Miss Meiklejohn, and then followed the playlet, 'The Circus," in which the various participants showed marked dramatic ability. Special mention might be made of A. MacDonald in the role of the Dutchman, Donald Graham as Doctor, H. Bertrand as Farmer, Miss A. Martin as the Widow, Mr. Lewis Hay as Freddie, and Misses Atkinson and Innes as attractive Young Ladies.

A dainty lunch was then served, an the concert closed with the National Anthem.

The choir and Ladies' Aid should feel very gratified over the success of their entertainment, the proceeds amounting to over $65.00.

THE SEMI-WILD DUCK FARM.

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C., April 20.—(Canadian Press).—Unique in British Columbia is the semi-wild duck farm maintained by W. F. Smith. Three years ago Mr. Smith bagged two Mallard ducks in a wounded condition and nursed them back to health. The ducks returned the kindness with regular contributions of eggs and Mr. Smith has been in a position to enjoy, irrespective of closed seasons and game laws, Mallard duck and Mallard eggs as a regular item of his family bill-of-fare.

The birds require no particular care and no watching nor enclosed runs. In fact, the descendants of the original birds have become more domesticated than the ordinary domestic duck, never making any attempt to fly. Although being free to roam in the bush, they always return home at sundown.

TO-NIGHT'S MEETING.

At the banquet tendered the Y. M. C. A. basketball champions a week ago prominent local professional and business men unhesitatingly paid a tribute to the value of clean amateur sport as a character-builder and as an influence in bringing to the top the finest qualities in the youth of Canada. It is in accordance with this belief that to-night's public meeting in the Council Chamber, for the purpose of discussing an Amateur Athletic Association, has been called by Mayor McIntyre. There is so much that could be accomplished in Peterborough by such an organization that every loyal citizen will hope that the movement may be successfully launched and that it will blaze the way for a better condition of affairs in regard to sport in this city. Those who are interesting themselves in the initial steps are possessed of the right ideals, i.e., that victory is not the sole aim and object of amateur sport. "The game is the thing," and it is of more moment that a team should be conducted honourably and play fairly than it is that victory should perch upon its banners. The citizens of Peterborough who share these views should do their part in bringing about a revival in amateur athletics of all kinds by attending to-night's meeting and showing their interest in the movement. There will be a cordial welcome for everyone.

EMIGRATION.

The announcement in the British Parliament that at the coming conference of Ministers of the various Dominions of the Empire, to be held in June, a comprehensive policy of empire land settlement and directed emigration would be discussed, should be received with satisfaction. The matter is one that not only affects the motherland but that is of direct concern to the overseas Dominions, and it is gratifying to find that at last an effort is being made to place the question of emigration upon a businesslike basis. Up to the present, each of the overseas sections of the Empire has carried on its immigration work with little consideration as to what its sister Dominions were doing. Quantity and not quality has been the motto and too little attention has been paid to fitness of the prospective emigrant, or to what became of him after he was once dumped into the country of his choice. A frank discussion of the whole question at the coming conference should be helpful to the whole Empire, and out of it may perhaps be evolved a policy that will have beneficial effects upon each of the overseas Dominions.

TOBACCO NEXT?

Some people, resentful at the result of the referendum, profess to believe that the next step will be a campaign to do away with the sale and use of tobacco. The danger of such an effort proving successful is not serious enough to be worried about. There are ultra reformers, of course, who would dearly love to be able to deprive Canadians of the pleasure they derive from worshipping at the shrine of my Lady Nicotine, just as there were fanatics who, when Canada's army was suffering the hardships and dangers of the Great War, wanted to take away from the soldiers the solace they were able to obtain from cigarettes. But keen as these zealots would be to launch an anti-tobacco campaign, they realize that fighting the liquor traffic and fighting tobacco are two separate and quite distinct propositions. Even the renowned Pussyfoot Johnston finds pleasure in a cigar and many prominent members of the Referendum Committee can see nothing wrong in a quiet puff at a pipe. But the women vote might turn Canada into a smokeless region, someone remarks. No much danger. No married woman who has known what it was to have her husband forced to go a few hours without tobacco is going to take chances of having such an experience made permanent. The time for storing tobacco away for a possible anti-smoke regime has not yet arrived.

THE FIRE RECORD.

The questionnaire which the Ontario Fire Prevention League is to distribute among Peterborough's schools, to be filled in by the parents of the pupils, will doubtless be characterized by some thoughtless citizens as a "fad." The figures of Ontario's fire loss for the past year, however, show the necessity for the step that is being taken. It is a matter of record that the majority of the fires that take place in the Province could be prevented with ordinary care, and it is because of this fact that the League has adopted its novel plan of making each school pupil a deputy fire marshal to investigate the conditions in his own home and to bring to the attention of his parents the presence of fire hazards around the house that could with little effort be eliminated. There is in every house perhaps a lack of care in this respect, sometimes in ignorance of the danger, but more often because people are thoughtless about such things, allow waste paper to accumulate, pile inflammable material under stairways and in attics, keep oily rags in dark corners, leave matches around where children can get at them and have a dozen other careless practices that are a virtual invitation to the fire fiend to step in and do his terrible work. The question blanks that will be distributed should prove an effective reminder to citizens who have been neglectful.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

One thing the people of Ontario will agree in is the hope that there will be no more referendums for a while.

Life in this Province is getting to be just one vote after another.

There were a few local showers in Ontario on Monday, but the prevailing weather was fine and dry.

"Get ready for the next fight," advised Rev. Ben Spence. He had better be careful or he'll work himself out of a job.

Having tried to make Government control an issue in the referendum, is the Citizens' Liberty League ready to accept Monday's vote as an expression of opinion on that method of dealing with the liquor problem?

If Attorney-General Raney can see in the result of the referendum an endorsation of himself, he is about the only individual in Ontario who will be able to find that conclusion in Monday's figures.

Peterborough's motor sprinkler remains in the "dry" column.

Now that the fight is over, how about cleaning up the back yards?

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The way of the transgressor is to blame a woman for driving him to it.

"I wonder if your father would consent to our marriage?"

"He might. He's very eccentric, you know."

A college professor has been lecturing recently on the art of reading aloud, which he fears is being lost. Evidently he isn't a "movie" fan.

Speaking of this love in a cottage stuff, if the housing shortage continues much longer many young married couples will certainly have to live in the clouds.

R. J. W. suggests that now that everyone else has had a chance why not let the crop of war profiteers, at present idle, collect the German indemnity. Looks like a sure solution, but the difficulty is that it might be harder to get it out of the profiteers afterward than it is now to get it out of Heinie.

Once there was a Cub Reporter who thought it would be Great to be an Editor. He began observing People when they bought Papers and found that the women turned first to the Society Page and the men to the Comic Cartoons. Then, having been born with a Molecule of Wisdom, he concluded that the Influence of the Press, and particularly of the Front Page, is not all that its Cracked Up To Be, and he threw in the Reverse and backed up his Ambitions.

REST ROOM FOR LADIES, WARSAW.

Women's Institute Procures Quarters For Same — Cheese Factory Prepares For Opening — Social Doings.

WARSAW, April 20.—Warsaw cheese factory is getting a thorough overhauling before opening to receive milk. The patrons of this factory are very fortunate in having Mr. Charles Foster as cheesemaker. Mr. Charles Calder will take charge of Warminster cheese factory this year.

Enjoyable Dance.

The dance given by Messrs. Wm. Dunford of Warsaw and Mr. Scott of Westwood was quite a success. About 150 were present and had a very enjoyable time.

Protestant Rally.

The Protestant rally in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening was very interesting. The hall was comfortably filled. Mr. Wm. Batten occupied the chair, Miss Olga Miller and Mr. Stephen Miller sang a duet, Mr. Verne Selkirk gave a reading and Mr. Stephen Miller a banjo solo, Mrs. Geo. Taylor accompanying.

The lecture by Capt. O'Brien was both interesting and instructive. He explained that an Orangeman living up to his obligations must be a good citizen, and a temperance man. The Orange platform is: "Equal rights to all, special privileges to none." Among other things, the speaker pointed out the good of the Privy Council, and warned against doing away with it.

In the Churches.

Service in the Anglican Church Sunday was conducted by Mr. Hughes.

At the morning service in the Presbyterian Church Rev. G. Graham's subject was, "What is Truth?" The evening subject was, "The Moral Force of Hope." At the end of the service he gave a short but very pointed illustration, showing the great need of prohibition.

In the Baptist Church Mr. Vose's subject was, 'It Was Well With Us in Egypt." He spoke principally on the number of people who "let well enough alone."

Temperance Meetings.

Miss J. Barrie was to have been one of the speakers at the temperance meetings held during the week, but, on account of illness, was unable to be present. Revs. Knox and Graham were the speakers. Mr. John Crowe was at the meeting in Carmel on Tuesday evening, also Mr. Jas. Greystock was at the one at Hall's Glen Friday. In addition to Revs. Graham and Knox, Mr. Vose spoke at the meeting in the Town Hall Saturday evening. A union choir supplied music. Unfortunately, most of the people one would wish to reach do not attend these meetings.

Women's Institute.

The regular meeting of the Warsaw Women's Institute was held in what was once Mrs. Choate's millinery parlor. The room was very comfortable and nice. It was necessary to decide about a place of meeting; also the subject of a rest-room had been brought up at the last meeting. There were three offers for the ladies, over and above using the Town Hall, by paying the janitor $1.00 an opening, viz., the Orange Hall at $15.00 for 12 meetings, Mrs. Choate's room, opening practically off the street and no stairs, which could be had for the summer as a rest-room, to be open afternoons and evenings, except holidays and Sundays and early closing nights, at $5.00 per month, or for $100 a year, including heating, and Mr. Archie Hawthorne's north upstairs room free, the Institute to take care of it and provide light and heat. The Institute were very grateful to Mr. Hawthorne for his kind offer, but decided to take Mrs. Choate's room, as it would be more likely to be used as a rest-room.

Now that the Institute has undertaken to go to the expense of providing the room, it is hoped the ladies of the vicinity will use it. All are welcome.

The subject for the day was, "Child Welfare." Miss Healy, a Government nurse, who is organizing work in Peterborough, addressed the ladies present and showed the actual results of care to mother and child.

The next Institute meeting will be held on May 12th in the new Institute room. Subject, "Gardening and Its Results."

DOUBLE FUNERAL IN APSLEY HOME

SAD CASE IN NOREHERN HOME—APSLEY NEWS OF INTEREST

APSLEY, April 20.—To lose their only two children within twenty-four hours was the distressing blow that fell on Mr. and Mrs. George Woodbeck of Chandos, last week. Their elder child, Alec, 4 years old, took sick on Tuesday the 12th inst., and died in convulsions on the following Friday morning, while the other child, Lloyd James, a boy three weeks and four days old, passed away unexpectedly on Saturday morning. The funeral was held on Sunday, service at the house being conducted by Mr. W. Hall, the Methodist minister at Apsley, after which both little ones were laid to rest in the one grave in Owenbrook cemetery. The sympathy of the whole community is extended to the bereaved parents in their great sorrow.

Severe Storm.

A very severe storm of rain, hail and snow occurred on Saturday afternoon with a big drop in the temperature.

The country on Sunday appeared to be again locked in the icy grasp of winter and the roads were in good condition for sleighing, of which several took advantage. However, by Monday afternoon the snow had disappeared and farmers were able to resume spring work.

Small Vote.

The voting on Monday caused very little excitement in the village, only 62 votes being polled at the town hall. All the polling stations in both townships report the same apathy, the vote being very light all over the district.

Returned Home.

Mrs. W. Hall returned home on Sunday after spending the winter in England. She had a delightful voyage, calm weather being experienced all the way across the Atlantic.

"Here Comes The Bride!"

Everybody wishes her well! Happy and radiant she starts out on life's adventure. She should have health to begin with. Good looks in woman do not depend upon age, but upon health. You never see a good-looking woman who is weak, run-down, irritable, out of sorts, fidgety and nervous. Headaches, backaches, and troubles of that sort are all destroyers of beauty. Men do not admire sickness. It is within the reach of every woman to be well, healthy and strong if she will take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

TORONTO, ONT.—"Less than a year ago I was in a very poor state of health; my back ached dreadfully and I could scarcely drag myself around to do my housework. I started to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I cannot praise it too highly for the great benefit I received. My backache and pains disappeared entirely and I soon was restored to perfect health. I know that Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best woman's medicine, for I have tried others that were recommended, and nothing has ever helped me so much as the Favorite Prescription."—MRS. KATHLEEN WHILLANS, 13 Brookfield St.

FARM AND STOCK

Some potatoes were planted in Kent county before March ended.

A carload of horses sold at auction in Simcoe county recently at $165 to $235.

The sales of 20 farms were reported in Northumberland county last week.

The embargo placed on Canadian cattle by France eight months ago has been removed.

The Royal Show will be held in Derby from June 28 to 2nd July; £13,379 is offered in prizes.

In order to provide green feed early in the spring many Pacific coast dairymen sow large acreages of vetch with oats or rye.

A farmer in Sussex, England, claims to have cured foot-and-mouth disease by administering half a pint of cattle salts to affected animals.

Farmers in Dover township never made better progress with their seeding than they have done this year, according to The Chatham Planet.

It works both ways: A pure-bred sire pays for himself in improved offsprings; a scrub soon loses more money for its owner than a pure-bred would cost.

A leter received by J. H. Evans, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Manitoba, states that herds in Germany decimated by war, have been further reduced by foot and mouth diseases.

In a greater average production campaign under the auspices of Saskatchewan Dairymen's Association, D. A. Welk of Rosthern was first with an average of 28.35 pounds fat for eight cows.

A tree will make a million matches; a match may destroy a million trees. When in the woods take no chances with lighted matches ,tobacco, or camp-fire.—Get the habit. Be careful with fires in the woods.

The "Winkler Cow Scheme," under which the Manitoba Government finances the buying of cows, has been adopted in the Saar Valley, local savings banks providing the financial backing in this case.

An English farmer, writing to The London Times on the Canadian cattle embargo, says that a lot of grass will go to waste in his section this year because of lack of cattle to eat it.

A former President of the Board of Agriculture once, says The Glasgow Herald, confessed privately to an inquirer that one of the chief reasons for maintaining the embargo upon the importation of Canadian cattle was the desire of the British Government to "please Ireland."

M. P. Tullis, Commissioner of the Field Crop Branch of Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture, says that, while recent snowfalls have delayed seeding, they have proved beneficial by adding to the supply of moisture. In the last four years, Mr. Ellis adds, the date of general seeding has varied from April 15 to 1918 to May 6 last year.

LOVE!

HOME AGAIN

Chapter 32

"A honeymoon is fine, but home is the best place to spend it after all," I told Leonard the next morning at breakfast.

"Yes, if your wife's home with you," Leonard responded jocularly, helping himself a third time to pancakes.

"I don't go away so very often, do I, dear?" I asked ungenerously.

"No, do you want to?" he returned with lack of feeling.

We had been living at such a high tension of happiness for the last few days that there was bound to be a slump. I was beginning to recognize these inevitable happenings as the pitfalls of married life. They didn't mean anything, but they lead to lots of difficulties. It is impossible for two people to remain forever at the summit of mutually thrilled emotions, and the slide down is as dangerous as the climb up is fascinating.

I intended to keep quiet this time. Unkind words acted as fire-brands.

But the reaction had irritated me.

"I'm not so sure you found it lonely without me—missing the pan-cakes seemed to be the only thing that bothered you," I said unkindly.

Leonard looked glumly at his watch, then at me. I wanted to take back the unkind words, but only tears rushed to my eyes and I sat silently brooding.

He kissed me automatically and went into the hall to get his overcoats and hat. I got up and followed him, trying all the while to find something to say that would make me fe l better.

"We didn't get much sleep last night, dear. I guess we're both tired," I said with an effort at naturalness. "Let's try to get to bed early tonight. The trip home yesterday was so tiring," I added.

"I guess you are tired," he answered, with a twist of sarcasm in the remark. "Don't know when I'll be home to-night," he said and went out and slammed ed the door after him.

I wanted to cry, but my mood seemed to crave something stronger for relief. If I could only scream or throw that tall blue vase through the mirror. I could picture the mirror cracked and splintered before me. The thought made me shudder. Goodness, had I really thought of doing any terrible thing like that? I dropped down exhausted on the couch, and hid my face in my hands.

I needed Leonard. He was my rock. If anything ever happened to him, I couldn't go along.

Why had I ever spoken to him like this Now we had parted from each other with hard feelings. He had gone to New York, with its terrible traffic congestion and thousands of awful accidents that happened every day—yes, every minute too.

Maybe my thinking about breaking the mirror was a bad omen. I began to cry. But I must not be hysterical about it—if only I had not been so cross with him, I wouldn't worry so. He went every day to New York, and he was careful surely.

I pressed my handkerchief to my eyes until it was damp and uncomfortable.

Suppose this time he didn't want to be careful. The thought sent me into another fit of crying—it would be all my fault.

Some one rang the front door bell. I dabbed quickly at my eyes with the wet handkerchief and slipped upstairs before Emma had time to go to the door.

I listened at the head of the stairs. A woman's voice was inquiring if Mrs. Allen was at home. I heard Emma say yes, and show her ito the living room. My heart sank within me. The voice sounded for all the world like Mrs. Russell's. I didn't want to see her. Why did she, of all women, have to come just at the time when my eyes were red and tell-tale from crying.

Ever since that detestable evening I had felt insidious curiosity in her visits.

I tip-toed across the hall into my room and tried to cover the redness of my eyes with face powder. It helped a little.

Tomorrow—Mrs. Russell Calls

POSSESS GOOD HEALTH BY LOOKING AFTER THE BOWELS

A free motion of the bowels, once or twice a day, should be the rule of every one, as half the ills of life are caused by allowing the bowels to get into a constipated condition.

When the bowels are allowed to become constipated, the stomach gets out of order, and the liver does not do its work properly on account of holding back the bile so that it does not pass through the bowels, but is allowed to get into the blood, thus causing a poisoning of the whole system.

If you would escape constipation, sick and bilious headaches, heartburn, floating specks before the eeys, coated tongue, foul breath, the nasty irritating, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, you should keep your liver stirred up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

These pills, being purely vegetable, keep your liver working actively, helping it to resume its proper functions, and thereby removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the whole system.

Mrs. H. Barrows, Enfield, N. S., writes:—"I was troubled with sick headaches and constipation. One day a friend told me of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I got two vials, and found they did me a world of good. I therefore have great faith in them."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limied, Toronto, Ont.

ONLY CAPTIVE GORILLA PINES AWAY TO DEATH.

John Daniel, of Barnum & Bailey and Ringling Bro.'s Big Circus, Succumbs to Pneumonia.

NEW YORK, April 20. — John Daniel, the only gorilla in captivity, and one of the big attractions of the Barnum & Bailey and Ringling Bros. Circus this year, has breathed his last in a bed in the tower of Madison Square Garden, where for several days he has had a private room and a private nurse and a private physician. The physician and the nurse said that the big gorilla died of pneumonia, but all of the animal men with the circus know that while John Daniel may have had pneumonia, the thing that killed him was homesickness for the trees and the underbrush of the African jungle. He died in a bed, and he should have died in a den in the deep forests.

John Daniel was born in the Congo some four years ago, and in that short space of time he had reached the height of four feet and four inches, and the weight o 183 pounds, and was still growing. He has been a captive for about three years, mostly in England and Germany, and was brought to the United States by the Hagenbecks, the animal people of Germany, and sold to the Barnum & Bailey and Ringling Brothers' Circus for $20,000.

John Deniel has always been very gentle, so much so that one of his owners, a woman, kept him in her room and taught him numerous tricks, all of which increased his value for exhibition purposes.

But the big gorilla has always been just intelligent enough to be unhappy in his civilised surroundings. He had uncannily human eyes and actions, but particularly his eyes seemed always to be saying that he was very unhappy. His lonesomeness became so pronounced not many days ago that the owners of the circus held a consultation of their animal men to decide what could be done. They finally put John Daniel in the custody of Roy Clark, who has a way with monkeys, but even that didn't lift the big gorilla out of his depression.

The weather has been bad, and a few days ago John Daniel became ill with a cold in the head, which quickly spread to the bronchial tubes and the lungs. Pneumonia developed, just as it had finally developed in the lungs of all the other gorillas which from time to time man has made captive.

The Ringlings did everything they could for John Daniel. They took him out of the room of the strange people, as the freaks are called now, and moved him and his iron bed to a private room in the tower where he had hot drinks and hot applications. Finally Dr. William J. Shields was called in. He prescribed quinine and aspirin to relieve the congestion in the gorilla's lungs, but they were not successful.

GRAIN VERY GOOD IN NEW ZEALAND.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(Canadian Press).—A report received from the U. S. Trade Representative at Auckland, New Zealand, says:

"This season has been a fairly favorable one for agricultural interests in New Zealand, notwithstanding the yield per acre for wheat and oats fell somewhat below the yield for last year. However, the grain is especially good and the total output somewhat above the output for last year, so far as wheat is concerned. The latest estimate for the wheat yield of the whole Dominion is 28.52 bushels per acre, compared with an actual yield last year of 32.66 bushels per acre. The acreage sown was materially above that sown the previous year, with the result that the approximate yield will be 5,975,000 bushels, as compared with only 4,559,934 bushels for the 1919-1920 season.

"The wheat growers of New Zealand have asked the New Zealand Government to continue the guarantee that the price of wheat for the next season shall be the same as that paid during the present season, namely, $1.76 per bushel for Tuscan, $1.82 for Hunters and $1.88 for Pearl wheat. If the guaranty is not forthcoming, the wheat growers say it is not likely the same acreage will be sown this year as last year, which means that the New Zealanders must go into the open market for more wheat than they will be compelled to buy this year—about 2,000,000 bushels, according to the best advice obtainable at present.

'The New Zealand Government still proposes to control the wheat distribution in the future, and regulations have been promulgated that make it unlawful for any person in the Dominion to purchase, offer or agree to purchase, whether as principal or as agent, save under permit issued by the Wheat Controller, any wheat of the harvest of 1920-1921 in New Zealand. In granting a permit, the Wheat Controller may impose such terms and conditions as to the purchase and as to the disposition and use of the wheat so purchased as he thinks advisable. Permits may be granted or refused at the absolute discretion of the Controller."

THE JAP MANDATE NOW AT IMPASSE

NO FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS FOLLOWING JAP NOTE OF YESTERDAY.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Following the reception of the Japanese note in reply to communications from the United States Government regarding the mandate over the Island of Yap, no official statement has been issued, but the matter has reached an impasse apparently.

American opposition to Japanese mandatories in the Far East is not confined to the Island of Yap but, as indicated on February 21, 1921, in the note of former Secretary of State Colby to the League of Nations, to all of the islands in the Pacific Ocean north of the Equator which formerly belonged to Germany. These "gems of the Oriental seas," of which Yap is one, aggregate 127 and are comprised in four groups, namely the Carolines with 62, the Marshall with 32, the Marianne (or Ladrone) with 25 and the Pelew with eight. They form a kind of strategic semi-circle around the Philippines.

While chief interest in the discussions of the Allied Communications Conference, which began in Washington on October 8, 1920, to determine the allocation of these islands, has centred in Yap by reason of its importance as a cable station, the problem of Yap is overshadowed by the larger international aspect of the control of all the 127 islands. The contention of the United States Department of State has been that Yap should be "internationalized." The Allied Communications Conference, attended by representatives of the five Allied powers, becoming deadlocked in February, 1921, the questions were referred to the Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Senate. Date of the resumption of the conference has not been announced.

Opposition to Japan's mandate over Yap expressed by Mr. Colby to the President and members of the Council of the League of Nations, included the declaration that Yap "constituted an indispensable part of any scheme or practical arrangement of cable communication in the Pacific and that its free and unhampered use should not be hampered or controlled by any one power." Under the mandatory, agreed to by France and England, "full power of administration and legislation" over Yap was vested in the Tokio Government and Yap was to be considered "an integral part of the Empire of Japan." Another objection by the United States is, that it sees in the Yap situation the possibility of a foreign nation exercising a censorship over its communications to Europe and Asia.

The fact that the former German operated cable from Shanghai, China, which passes through Yap, was taken over by Japan and its Oriental terminus removed to Tokio was another occasion for the American protest. Control over Yap by Japan was granted by the Paris Peace Conference on May 7, 1919, when it was decided that the mandate for the Pacific islands north of the Equator formerly belong to Germany should be awarded to the Tokio Government and the mandate for those south of the Equator to Australia and New Zealand.

It is not generally known that the Island of Yap was originally called Guap or Wap, a cognomen given by Spanish navigators who discovered it in the 16th century. Until 1885 Yap, like all the other of the Carolines, was owned by Spain. Germany at this time cast covetous eyes upon Yap, realizing that it was well situated for communication with Japan, China, the Philippines, the Dutch East Indies and New Guinea and that it was a convenient station on the trans-Pacific route via Honolulu to San Francisco.

Suiting action to desire the German gunboat Iltis, in that year raised the German flag on Yap and other islands. It created considerable excitement in Madrid, and an appeal was made to Vatican, with the result that the Pope decided in favor of Spanish sovereignty. Fourteen years later, after the Spanish-American War, Spain sold the Carolines, including Yap and Pelew and all of the Marianne (Ladrone) Islands except Guam, to Germany for $4,200,000. The United States had acquired Guam from Spain in 1898. It is 360 miles from Yap.

The importance of Yap and Guam as cable bases is shown by the fact that to-day an all-American cable runs from San Francisco via Honolulu, Guam and Manila to Shanghai, while from Guam another cable, the southern part under American control, the northern under Japanese, goes direct to Yokahoma. The former German cable runs from Guam to Yap, whence one line goes on to Shanghai and another from Yap to Menado in the Dutch East Indies. The Yap-Guam cable, it is said, was of great service to Americans as it gave them an alternative to the Guam-Manila cable for communication with China.

When the Great War began, Japanese naval forces seized the Ladrone, Pelew and Caroline Islands, including Yap, and held them until Japan was made their mandatory. Germany, in accepting the Treaty of Versailles, renounced her cables in the Far East in favor of the allied and associated powers and the final allocation of them among the powers is the object of the International Communications Conference, which is to be resumed in Washington at an early date.

Aside from its tactical advantage in the Pacific, the island which has caused such an international diplomatic stir, is not much of a possession. It has a population of 7,000 or 8,000 Malays. A volcanic pile, which many years ago poked its nose out of the ocean's depths, Yap at intervals since, has been visited by earthquakes and other upheavals of nature. The latest seismic disturbance was in December, 1920, when, following a storm of great intensity, severe shocks were felt for three or four days.

SUBURBAN ROAD COMMISSION AND THIS YEAR'S WORK

REFUSED TO ACCEPT THE RESIGNATION OF ALD. WHITEHOUSE —70 MEN ON COUNTY ROADS

A citizen has asked for information regarding the roads in the county to the cost of which the city is contributing. County Clerk E. M. Elliott told the Examiner that the city bears no share of the cost of county roads, county provincial and provincial roads. The cost of constructing and maintaining suburban roads is apportioned between the city, the county and the province in the following proportions, respectively, 30 per cent., 30 per cent and 40 per cent. In other words the city and county together pay 60 per cent. of the cost of suburban roads and the government pays the remaining forty per cent. It is stipulated, however, that the charge against the city in any year shall not exceed one-half a mill in the taxes.

The roads designated by the Suburban Road Commission for improvement this year are as follows: The Chemong road in Smith, from the city boundary to the 4th line; the river road also in Smith from the city boundary to the 4th line above Nassau; the Warsaw road from the corner at the Nicholls Oval three miles easterly in Douro; the Norwood road, from the city three miles east; the river road in Otonabee from the Locks bridge three miles south; the extension of Park street in North Monaghan, one mile and a half south and west; Sherbrooke street extended in Monaghan one and a half miles past Wallis' grove.

Last year the city was assessed $6,000 by the Suburban Roads Commission, and this year's Council has been called on for $8,000.

Employ 70 Men.

Duncan McFarlane, country roads superintendent, told the Examiner to-day that he has seventy men at work on the various county roads that were designated for improvement. Labourers are being paid thirty cents an hour, and the men are apparently keener to retain their jobs than they have been for several years past.

Resignation Rejected.

Ald. White house who is the city's representative on the Suburban Roads Commission, tendered his resignation on the plea that the duties interfered too much with his business. The other commissioners simply refused to hear of Ald. Whitehouse's retirement. They urged the fact that the Commission was working smoothly and in full accord and understanding. They were beginning to show results, and it was stated that Ald. Whitehouse had contributed largely to the work that has been accomplished.

William Brown suggested that Ald. Whitehouse give up some of his work in the Council rather than quit the Commission. The outcome of this special meeting was the continuance of the Commission with its present personnel.

WOULD PREVENT GERMAN DUMPING

LECISLATION PROJECTED IN BRITAIN FOR PROTECTION OF INDUSTRY.

LONDON, April 20.—Legislation for protection against German competition, projected some time ago, may be introduced in Parliament at an early date.

The main object of the bill is the protection of British industries against German competition. Coupled with the recent announcement that France has increased her duties on numerous imports, the home manufacture of which is menaced by foreign competition under the encouragement of depreciated exchange, the British Government's move is held to mark the realization of growing danger from Germany.

The British Government a year ago endeavored to get an anti-dumping measure through Parliament, but failed. The present measure is an alternative and comprises two sections. One levies a duty of 33 and 1-3 per cent. on a specified number of articles for the proection of the key industries believed essential in the prosecution of war, especially scientific intruments and chemicals.

Section 2 applies the same tariff, at the discretion of the Board of Trade, to all articles sold in Great Britain below the price of production abroad and, by reason of the exchange, below the prices at which similar goods can be profitably manufactured at home.

Official statistics show British imports from Germany increased about 20 per cent. in the final quarter of 1920 over the preceding quarter. The largest increase in value was in dyestuffs, from 1,000,000 pounds sterling to 3,000,000 pounds sterling, but other items doubled or tripled and sugar recorded a twenty-fold increase.

The principal increases were (figures denote pounds sterling):

	4th Quarter.	3rd Quarter.
Coal, tar, dyes, etc.	3,041,798	1,010,546
Zinc crude	314,612	67,356
Sugar	240,432	11,927
Copper bars, etc.	143,386	22,023
Pig lead	136,251	66,973
Steel bars, etc.	43,785	6,866

Some Pretty Frocks, Suits and Coats
Make Their Bow in "Fashion's Fairway"
Rare Beauty Is Displayed in This Splendid Assemblage

SUCH LOVELY CREATIONS can come only from the shops of expert makers, where experienced designers, cutters and sewers are employed, for they have the finish, the appearance and the goods in them that give pre-eminence. In spite of all these merits the prices are not out of the way. Some of the garments we are now displaying arrived recently and exemplify the latest trend of fashion. Some of the suits, for instance, are typical of the later Spring styles and show an increased length of coat and other minor differences. It is truly a showing of fashionable garments, well worth coming to see.

Glorious Array of Silken Frocks

The picture of a slim miss of sixteen summers or thereabouts, in a frock of brown taffeta, is a pretty vision indeed, but when it is a triumph of tucks stitched with a marigold colored thread its charm is doubled..

The tucks are perpendicular and are in clusters of six, and each cluster about four inches apart. There is a wide girdle looped in girlish fashion at the side. The neck is square and collarless and the sleeves are short. Priced at $45.

In such a beautiful creation of black charmeuse one would feel dressed for any occasion, no matter how grand. It exemplifies the circular skirt and the last four inches of the bodice presents something novel—the front, back and sides are checkered with an inch and a half black moire ribbon, threaded through picot-edged eyelets. The fastening of the blouse is at the back, and concealed by a loose panel that is lined with rust georgette, and falls over the belt in sash fashion. Both edges of this panel are trimmed with a row of tiny black buttons. The square neck is relieved with touches of the rust georgette and embroidery trimming. The ¾ sleeves are finished with flare cuffs, and are trimmed in the same manner as the neck. Price $62.75.

There is nothing severe about the lines of this black charmeuse model. The skirt is given fullness and falls in graceful folds because it is liberally gathered at the waist. The semi-basque bodice has a soft appearance on account of the numerous rows of shirring. Richness is given to the waist line and round neck by floral and vine design of jade duvetyne worked in silk. The sleeves are ¾ length and the cuffs flare widely. Priced at $75.

The designer has bestowed great favor on this model by choosing black charmeuse and henna georgette. It is a beautiful color harmony. The skirt is of the charmeuse, with cascade sides, lined with henna, and the long waisted bodice is of the henna, and has a series of clusters of small pleats. The round collar is black, embroidered with henna, and the band that defines the waist line is the same. The sleeves are short. Priced at $55.

Almost daring in its contrast is a model of brown taffeta piped with marigold georgette. The circular overskirt, with a series of scallops, is piped with the marigold, the pleated vestee is treated in like manner and the wool embroidered floral spray just above the waist line is partly green and partly marigold. A long tuxedo collar is shown. It is of the taffeta and so are the ¾ sleeves. Price $62.

Coats! Three Models in the Wrap Style
They Are Model Coats

for they are above criticism and swing loose from the shoulders in the approved fashion of wrappy garments. All are of reindeer-colored velour, although there are slight variations in the shades. Rows of silk stitching in the form of bands are important as trimmings. On one it starts in front at about the wrist and continues straight around to the back and then turns at right angles and disappears under the collar. The band from the other side does the same and the result is a pretty panelled back. On the other models the trimming is worked in different fantastic and equally as attractive patterns. The price of any of the three models is $52.

A Collection of Short Length Ripple Coats

Some of these desirable little coats have just come in, and for the most part are in brown and fawn toned velours. They are swagger ¾ length affairs, with narrow belts to restrict their fullness slightly at the waist. They are half lined with a good quality silk. Priced at $35.

A novelty model of Mrs. Harding blue undershot with gold. Two inverted box pleats relieve the plainness of the back. There are twin pockets (four in all), they are arranged in double deck fashion with a smoked pearl button on each. The collar buttons over if desired, and is a medium, convenient size. The belt is narrow and there is a narrow adjustable strap at the wrists. A very jaunty little coat in a smart knee length. Priced at $49.

Suits! More Alluring Than Ever
Showing the Increased Length of Coat

Here are two suits that disprove the erroneous conception of some people that for a suit to be smartly cut, attractively designed and of reasonably good material, the price must be very high.

One is marked at $45 and the other $55. Both are navy serge and came from the factory just the other day. Their coats are a little longer than those of earlier spring. The back seams are slashed high and there is much hand embroidery done with a black silk thread. The $45 model is lined with floral Nipon silk and the $55 model is lined with a pure silk foulard in navy blue with a gold colored pattern.

With a piece of cloth, a bit of braid, a few buttons and some thread, the makers have wrought wonders. Of course there were clever fingers and artistic minds, too. The result is a tricotine suit in a pretty taupe shade. It is a masterpiece in braiding, and the color used is taupe, with a gold thread intermingled, and the way it is used is across the back and front to a depth of about eight inches, and three-inch panels with rounded ends extending up the sides to above the waist line. Other features are the tuxedo collar, slashed sides edged with fawn bone buttons, narrow belt and a lining of sand colored Duchess satin. The price is $89.

The semi-box back and the novel way the military braid is used for trimming contribute distinction to this suit of navy blue tricotine. A narrow inverted pleat in the centre of the back is the full length of the coat, and on either side of this main pleat there are two smaller ones that extend just past the waist line. A pleasing and novel feature about these pleats is, that they are filled with pleated military braid. The sides are deeply slashed and trimmed with rows of buttons. The price is $69.

JOHN J. MOORE, Clerk.

The City Manager

It has been suggested earlier in this series that the arrival of a city manager at the city hall usually has marked the coming of a new spirit of usefulness, an inclination to think and plan far beyond the mere minimum of service which the people have the right to expect of their government.

The city-managered communities have been leaders in establishing the agencies of more direct and personal enrichment of life, particularly for the less fortunate citizens, which are generally known as "public welfare."

Dayton dignified this kind of activity by establishing at the start a department of public welfare and put at its head a very competent clergyman who had distinguished himself in a practical way in this line of endeavor.

When the first year of the administration was up and inventory was taken, it was discovered that the general death rate and infant mortality was materially lower.

How had it been done? By the devices that a man trained for his job knows how to institute: free nursing, medical inspection and clinics, extended food inspection, the passage of a pasteurization ordinance and kindred measures.

Prison contract labor was abolished and the parole system established; public charities were increased. The free legal aid bureau handled over a thousand cases in the first year.

Eleven loan shark companies were put out of action. A free employment bureau for women was operated. Crime prevention was organized and policewomen employed. The red light district was abolished.

Five thousand vacant lots were turned into gardens, the plowing being done by the city. A country club with a vast and lovely acreage has been acquired for the workers of the city.

Norfolk has opened 14 new playgrounds. It, too, has radically reduced infant mortality, established a juvenile court, employed visiting nurses and operated medical and dental clinics.

Grand Rapids assumed the care of all destitute families and extended the work of the school dentists and medical inspectors.

Sault Ste. Marie inaugurated municipal entertainments, concerts and lectures. Wichita and Dayton likewise.

Other cities have developed street dances and city-wide tournaments in every sport from baseball to marbles.

Are such activities the exclusive product of a city manager's brain? How about New York, Philadelphia, Chicago? Yes, it is true that these cities also have gone in for welfare.

But search for the origin of those activities and in nearly every instance, it will be found that advances in these directions have usually come from some force outside the city government, in the form of a citizens' association or else have been set in motion during one or another "reform" administration as, for example, Mitchel's in New York or Blankenburg's in Philadelphia.

When the reaction comes and the spoilsman again takes hold, some of the good work of the reformers hold; some of it is prostituted to the spoils system and some of it is abolished in the interest of "economy."

Under the city-manager plan these humane services in a very great measure originate from city hall. The plan, moreover, has given a very substantial promise that "reform," in the best sense of that much discredited word, is the permanent and normal condition.

OPPORTUNITY IN NORTHERN COUNTRY

Liard River District Better Than Yukon.

STEWART, B. C. April 20.—(Canadian Press).—"Canada's great opportunity lies in the North and in twenty-five years, with an efficient development programme, the northern country will be producing $500,000,000 annually," stated J. T. Burns engineer, geologist and Yukon pioneer in an interview here.

"I have spent twenty years in the Yukon," Mr. Burns continued, "and have panned it from one end to the other, so I may be said to know the Yukon as well as most old sourdoughs. But from what I have seen of the Liard river and its head streams I am convinced that for production it could out do the Yukon.

Mr. Burns is urging construction of a railway from Stewart into the Liard country about the confluence of the Dease and Frances rivers and thence north to Fort Norman or east to Fort Simpson at the confluence of the Liard and the Mackenzie. This road, he points out, would not only tap the newly-discovered oil fields, but would open up the Groundhog coal country and the placer gold and quartz district west of Fort Simpson.

The Portland Canal, Mr. Burns insists, is the logical outlet for the mineral products of the Mackenzie river basin, and he backs up his contention by reference to the map. From Stewart to Fort Norman is approximately 625 miles, 275 miles less than from Edmonton to Fort Norman. From Stewart to Fort Simpson is approximately 500 miles 150 miles less than from Edmonton to Simpson. In addition to this Stewart is at tidewater, while Edmonton is hundreds of miles away from it.

NEW PROVINCE IN B. COLUMBIA.

Proposition Finds Favor in North.

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., April 20.—The announcement of a proposal to form a new Province of Northern British Columbia and the Yukon has aroused much interest in the North Country and has developed into one of the chief topics of discussion. The City Council has gone on record as favoring the project.

Editorially the Prince Rupert Daily News says that most of the comments heard in connection with the movement were favorable. It continues:

"A similar move was made not very long ago to partition Ontario. No success was attained, although it is stated that as a result of the movement the new section received better treatment than formerly. Those who favor the move usually seem to assume that in case of a change Prince Rupert would become the capital. Other places, however, have claims."

The Prince Rupert Daily Empire strongly favors the project. "Northern residents," it says, "are tired of the constant depletion of natural wealth merely to see the revenues therefrom lavishly squandered in the upbuild of south while the northern districts are forced to go begging. By secession all this would be changed. Wherever our natural resources were converted into money that money could be spent in opening up northern areas. By all means, therefore, let's have a new Province just as soon as possible. . . ."

RIFLE ASSOCIATION FORMED AT KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, April 19. — A Rifle Association has been organized in the Kingston Garrison, open to members of the permanent and non-permanent active military units, also to the staff and gentlemen cadets of the Royal Military College.

It is proposed to classify the members under two or three groups, so as to give each a fair chance of winning trophies given for competition. Two cups have already been donated for annual competition—by Brig.-General W. B. M. King, C.M.G., D.S.O., known as the King Cup, and by Ald. R. J. Rodger, known as the Aggregate Cup.

CAMERON TARTAN FOR PIPE BAND

CALEDONIAN PIPE BAND DECIDED TO GET THE CAMERON TARTAN —ONE OF THE MOST PICTURESQUE OF PLAIDS WORN BY REGIMENTS—HISTORY OF THE CAMERONS OF ERRACHT, CHIEF OF LOCHIEL.

The Peterborough Caledonian Pipe Band at a meeting held recently agreed to adopt the Cameron of Emacht tartan, which has a great and glorious record that goes as far back as 1715, also in the last great world war. It is anticipated that the band may be able to get six pipers' uniforms and four drummers' uniforms, providing that they get the necessary finance.

Color of Tartan.

The back-ground of the plaid has a square pattern of deep blue and green. Running across the middle of the previous colors is two heavy outside red lines along with two thin red lines. Then, running through all the square, are thin red lines in proportion, and separating the beautiful picture of harmony in coloring, a thin light yellow line, two inches apart, gives the Cameron tartan a very pleasing and distinctive position as a plaid.

Camerons—Clan Chattan.

By the best Celtic authorities, the Camerons are supposed to have been the same origin as the Clan Chattan. At first there were three branches—Camerons of Gleveyis, Camerons of Strone and MacMartins of Letterfailay—all separated from the Clan Chattan at end of 14th century, probably after the battle of Norwich of Perth.

War Cry and Pipe Music.

War cry—"Chlauna Nan Con Thigible a So's Gheible Sibh Jeoil" (Gaelic); "Sons of the Hounds Come Here and Get Flesh" (English).

Clan pipe music—'Ceann Na Drochaide Moire" (Gathering), "The Head of the High Bridge"; "Piobaircachd Dhonuill Duibh" (March), "Pibroch of Donald Dubh."

Ewen Cameron, Chief of Lochill.

The first member of this family was Ewen Cameron, son of Ewen, thirteenth Chief of Lochiel, by his second wife, Marjory MacIntosh. The family were known locally as Sliochd Eoghain'ic Eoghainn, or "the Children of Ewen, the Son of Ewen."

Donald Cameron, the second laird of Erracht, whose residence was a kind of farm house, near Corpach in Ervoerness-shire, was born shortly before the insurrection of 1715; "for we are told," says McKenzie in his "History of the Clan Cameron," "that he was quite an infant when his father joined the Earl of Mar to fight at battle of Sherriffmuir, in which he was slain."

Thirty years later, Donald joined Prince Charles, and under Lochiel, was second in command of the Camerons af the muster in Glenfinnan, as Cameron of Fassifern, who was actually the second, by his position in the tribe, had not, as yet, come out.

Vic Ian Vic Alaster.

The latter was Ewen, son of John, the Tanister, a younger brother of the great Lochiel and his wife was Lucy Campbell, Baleardanne, whose father succeeded to the estate of Glenure on the death of the uncle, who was shot at the ferry of Ballachulish, in Appin, by Allan Breal Stewart, otherwise known as Vic Ian Vic Alaster—a crime for which the Laird of Ardshiel was judicially murdered by the Duke of Argyle at the Castle of Inverary.

Battle of Culloden.

After the battle of Culloden, Donald Cameron of Erracht, was a homeless wanderer for three years. Then famour Sir Alan Cameron, son of Lieutenant Alex. Cameron, who commanded the 79th Highlanders at Waterloo during the last three hours of the engagement.

Always Spoke in Gaelic.

The eldest son of Donald, Sir Alan Cameron of Erracht, K. C. B., was known as Cia Mar Tha, from always addressing his soldiers in their native Gaelic. Having offended another member of the branch of the clan, known as Fear Nihorsheirlich, a duel took place on the bank of Locky. Alan was wounded by his adversary became infuriated and dealt the latter a blow on the head with his claymore which killed him.

At Defence of Quebec.

Disliking desk work in Scotland as a Customs official, he went to America and joined the old 84th, or Royal Highland Emigrants, and was present at the defence of Quebec against the insurgent General, Arnold. He was taken prisoner, and interned for two years in the common prison at Philadelphia. In 1793 he raised a regiment of Highlanders, known as 79th, or Cameron Highlanders, became Lieut.-Colonel, through the campaign in Flanders, of 1794-95, then proceeded to the West Indies.

Colonel Cameron took part in Helder Expedition in 1799. In 1880 was in Egypt, 1804 he served in New Zealand, and under Lord Cathcart in the campaign of Oporto. Extreme ill-health compelled him to retire from the service of his country for ever, and lost his second son, Major of 79th, through sickness after a long career of hard fighting.

On the 9th day of March, 1828, Sir Alan died at Fulham.

He left only one son, Lieut.-Col. Nathaniel Cameron, fourth of Emacht, who, until close of the war, commanded the 2nd Batt. of the Camerons, and followed to the grave the remains of his veteran parent. Lieut.-Col. Nat. Cameron's family consisted of ten children, the eldest, Nathaniel, fifth of Erracht, married Charlotte, daughter of Loftus Tottenham, Esq., County Limerick.

APPEAL BILL SUBJECTED TO A HEAVY FIRE

FINALLY GETS SECOND READING AFTER STORMY DEBATE

TORONTO, April 20.—(Canadian Pres).—The report of the special Committee on the O.T.A. in which the dispute over the sort of appeal to be allowed from police magistrate's decisions is the major point at issue came up in the Ontario Legislature yesterday when Hon. W. E. Raney moved a second reading of the Government bill to allow an appeal to a county judge only upon the record of evidence taken in the police court.

Mr. Dewart took the floor with the proposition that the government allow the bill, together with several others affecting the Ontario Temperance Act, including Mr. Dewart's "Anti-Native-Wine" bill, to go to the Special Committee that considered the administration of the act during the interim. Since the majority of that committee is now said to favor a wider measure of appeal than Mr. Raney will agree to the refusal of the Attorney General to submit his case to that tribunal is easily understood. With the Premier backing him he insisted on the house going on with a second reading.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson added his quota to the debate and severely criticized the conduct of the Attorney general, referring o him as a bully in his attitude towards magistrates and other officials. The debate continued for the balance of the afternoon and all evening until shortly before midnight when J. C. Tolmie, Liberal member for Windsor, gave it a new turn. Mr. Tolmie put in the form of an amendment the proposal made earlier in the day by Mr. Dewart. At 145 the Tolmie amendment was defeated and the bill given its second reading.

CALLS FOR RELIEF ARE SLACKENING UP

BUT LOCAL SUPERINTENDENT OF EMPLOYMENT BUREAU NOT OPTIMISTIC OF NEAR FUTURE.

The effect of many local men who have been given unemployment relief securing jobs is now being felt, F. W. Miller, relief officer, stating to-day that the calls for assistance have considerably diminished. In his opinion, the worst is passed, and although much of the recently acquired work is only temporary, when finished, other employment will be more plentiful.

Hugh Robertson, superintendent of the Ontario Employment Agency, was not so opimistic. A slight improvement was noticeable, he said. Odd jobs of a temporary character had been seucred, but otherwise the situation was unchanged. Several factories were showing a little more activity, but the iron works are only running part time and the men are feeling the pinch of business depression.

The building trades are very slack Mr. Robertson said, and carpenters and masons are going to Toronto and other places, where considerable building is in progress, in direct contrast to Peterborough's backwardness.

Several river drivers were sent from Peterborough to the camps, but there is no further demand, as the companies can get sufficient river men in the back country.

Experienced farm labourers can be placed at from $35 to $60 a month, with board, but Mr. Robertson said that farm work was the last resource of most of the married unemployed—and naturally so, for only a few farmers have homes for the farm hand. Unmarried men who could take the jobs are generally inexperienced and undesirous of learning agriculture. The wages for inexperienced men and boys range from $25 to $40 a month.

SEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING ONTARIO PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY OPENS HERE ON APRIL 25TH

The seventh annual meeting of the Ontario Provincial Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church will be held in St. Paul's Church here on 25th, 26th, and 27th April, when between 400 and 500 delegates from all parts of the Province are expected to attend. The members of the Board of Management will arrive in the city for a conference to be held on Monday evening, 25th April, in St. Paul's Schoolroom. There will be a Board meeting on Tuesday morning, and the general sessions open on Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Not since amalgamation has Peterborough had the privilege of entertaining the Society. Since 1914, when the Foreign and Home workers united forces, the annual meetings have been held at Hamilton, London, Kingston, Toronto, Guelph and Stratford. The seventh annual meeting to be held here is to be distinctly a young women's meeting stressing young women speakers and thinkers, sessions and conferences being held particularly for young women.

Peterborough has always taken a great interest in the Women's Missionary Society. One of the finest and best equipped hospitals in the chain stretching across Northern Canada is situated in the town of Canora, Saskatchewan. It is known as "The Hugh Waddell," and was placed there because of the munificent gift of $25,000 from Mrs. Hugh Waddell, of Peterborough, and is named in memory of her husband.

Among the speakers at this convention will be Miss Florence Clerihill, of Kharna, Central India, and Miss Agnes Dickson, South China. Both of these speakers know and love the lands of their adoption, and can speak with authority on their work amongst the native people.

Officers of the Board coming to Peterborough for this meeting are: Hon. President Mrs. McZalsten (Hamilton); President, Mrs. Charles Robertson (Toronto); Vice-Presidents, Mrs. J. D. Walker (Toronto), Mrs. Frank Rae (Unionville), Mrs. R. Barbour (Meaford), Mrs. (Dr.) L. McCrae (London); Recorder, Mrs. Charles Begg (Toronto); Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. F. H. ALL HEADLIGHTS NEED ADJUSTMENT.

Try This Test On Your Car and Avoid Legal Trouble.

One of the motorist's chief difficulties since the headlight regulations were introduced is, how to know if he is fulfilling government regulations. Frequently cars equipped with lenses that have Government approval, have been stopped by the police officials, the latter claiming that the glare of light oversteped the law. Such incidents have been a constant source of irritation to both the police and the motorists. Each so far as his knowledge went, was doing what the law demanded.

The Whole Trouble.

The whole trouble has been that neither motorists nor police, have understood that even a lens given Government approval, can break the rules unless the headlight is properly adjusted and the lens correctly focused. Yet testing your light to see if it conforms to Government regulations is one of the simplest things possible. An authority gives the following directions which apply to practically all motors except those with headlights set unusually far from the ground.

On a stick, mark the distance from the ground to the middle of your light. Now walk 15 feet away. Again rest the end of the stick on the ground and the main beam of light should pass through the mark indicating the centre of the headlight. If there is more than an inch or so variation either way your headlight needs adjusting. If it strikes higher than the mark on your stick, your light fails to keep within the 42 inches from the ground—the limit the law allows. If it strikes below the mark then you are getting less light than you are allowed ,or are driving at a disadvantage. Whichever way the fault lies, go at once to a service station or garage and have it remedied.

Police to Direct.

In several municipalities, notably Chatham and London, the Board of Commerce, brought to a realization of the cause of the misunderstanding between motorists and police, have opened demonstration booths where the police may direct motorists whose lamps are not properly adjusted, and where the correction will be made without any expense. Other Boards of Commerce might to advantage follow the example set by London and Chatham.

DEATH TO ALL MODESTY IN MODERN CLOTHES

Girls' Morals Are Speeding Towards Destruction.

DETROIT, April 20.—"The modesty of our country's girlhood is crumbling away because of immodest styles in clothing," declares Judge Arthur Turtle of the U. S. district court, who is an authority on social disease.

"American morals—the future of our race— are speeding toward destruction because of a growing delinquency among the country's girlhood, tolerated, yes, fostered by unsympathetic and careless mothers and fathers," added Judge Tuttle.

"Modern clothes spell ruination for the young women of to-day; fashionable immodesty is the greatest menace to our national life; a disappearing institution—the family fireside—must be revived to save the American girl in her ideal form.

"As a nation we are losing our home life. The family fireside is a thing of the past, banished by a diversity of interests.

"It is easily accounted for why the divorce courts are working overtime aid white slavery flourishes.

"I consider our fashionable immodesty the most sinister influence in all our national life and believe it is pulling many girls from the path of righteousness.

"For how is it possible for a woman, child, though she may be, not to grow calloused to shame when she endures, day after day, open and suggestive stares at her Gossamer-clad legs, bare knees, bare breast and face painted in a manner that even Jezebel would not have dared. And for these things I say mothers are responsible."

HAD BAD COUGH FOR THREE YEARS

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything that you have done to get rid of it, is the kind that is dangerous.

The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health.

There is no remedy that will relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go—like Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It has a healing and soothing action on the air pasasges and at the same time acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory orgns, destroying the germs tht produce serious lung complictions.

Mrs. John Miller, Minburn, Alta., writes: "I had a very bad cough for three years. I went to several doctors and tried different cough medicines, but nothing seemed to help me. One day a friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and after using several bottles I became completely relieved. I always keep a bottle in the house and also recommend it to others.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been universally used for over 30 years and so great has been its success, it is only natural that a great many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; 3 pine trees the trade mark; price 35c and 60c a bottle; manufactured only by the T. Milburn Company, Limited; Toronto, Ont.

BAD GAME OUTLOOK.

Police Magistrate Moore, of Parry Sound, says: "In five years, under prevailing conditions, there won't be deer south of the French river. Under the present laws there won't be a partridge in the bush in a very few years. Unless officials get busy there won't be, in five years, any black bass in the waters among the islands and along the shores of the Georgian Bay."

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

ANOTHER SPECTACULAR BREAK IN RIORDAN AT MONTREAL

MONTREAL, April 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Another spectacular break in the shares of the Riordan Pulp and Paper Company occurred this morning on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Stock closed last night at 63, opened 10 points lower this morning and later dropped to 44 1-2. Last Friday Riordan sold at 107.

Riordon continued to be a feature of the trading during this morning's session by dropping to 39, at which figure it closed. Abitibi advanced half a point, and Atlantic Sugar closed fractionally stronger than its close last night at 29. Brazilian did not change, but Laurentide closed a point stronger at 89, as did also Spanish River at 70. Wayagamack remained the same.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 20.— (Canadian Press.)—Oils asserted their recent leadership at the irregular opening of to-day's stock market. The favorite issues soon advanced from large fractions to almost two points. Pullman, which was especially heavy last week in connection with unfavorable dividend rumors, rose 1 3-4 points and Utah Copper, Famous Players, Corn Products and several of the Rails were among the firm shares. Manhattan Elevated was conspicuously weak, falling six points in connection with reports that its seven per cent. guarantee may be cancelled in the prospective re-organization of local traction lines.

The selling of Mexican Petroleum which reacted about 2½ points from its top price of the morning, gave the market a general set-back at midday, although call money rates were easier. Aside from a few obscure specialties, the list, including Rails and Steels, was inclined to sag.

Regardless of more reactionary movements elsewhere, oils, including a number of the low - priced speculative issues, continued no stronger. Pressure against Rails, Equipments, Sugars and Tobaccos was resumed. Canadian Pacific fell one point to a new low for the current movement, and Norfolk and Western, New York Air Brake and American Car lost one to two points. Crucible Steel, Atlantic Gulf, American Sugar and International Paper also registered similar declines. Columbia Graphophone Preferred, at a gain of 3 3-4 points, was the only conspicuously strong specialty. Call money opened at 6 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 20.—(Canadian Press).—Descents to new low price records for the season continued in the wheat market to-day. Favorable crop reports had a bearish influence. The absence of any aggressive buying, however, was the main depressing factor. Opening prices, which varied from the same as yesterday's finish to a ½ advance, were followed by a material set-back all around and then something of a rally.

Further export business gave firmness to the corn market. After opening 1-8 to ¼ higher, the market eased down temporarily, but then rallied above the initial range in some cases. Oats were governed by the action of corn, starting ¼ off to 1-8 up, and after a slight sag scored gains all around. Lower quotations on hogs tended to pull down provisions.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 20.—(Canadian Press).—Rallies to-day in the general list followed the declines which occurred yesterday as a result of the specular break in Riordon Puln on the Toronto Stock Exchange. With the exception of Riordon itself, which duplicated yesterday's exhibition, advances from the low levels set yesterday afternoon were the order. Paper stock opened weakly after closing last night at 65. Before the morning was over extensive liquidation had carried the price down to 44, where it closed at noon. Brompton recovered 1½ points to 32½. Abitibi sold at 33 7-8 and Spanish River at 69. Canadian Steamships Preferred moved up 1 7-8 to 41 7-8, while Hollinger was active and strong, advancing fifteen cents a share to $7.25.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange steady; demand, 3.92½. Canadian dollars, 11 1-16 per cent. discount.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, April 20.—(Canadian Press.)— Cattle receipts medium, trade brisk. Quotations: Heavy beef steers, $9.50 to $10.50; steers, choice, $9 to $10; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7.50; calves $12 to $14; lambs, $12 to $14; hogs, fed and watered, selects, $12.50.

DIVORCE CASE JUDGMENT HERE

MOCK TRIAL AT GEORGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH

(Contributed.)

Before an audience that packed the large Sunday school hall of George street church, the mock trial, entitled, "Peck vs. Peck," was presented last night under the auspices of the Epworth League. The first section of the programme was musical, the opening number being a vocal solo by the well known artist, Mr. Douglas Carlisle, who delighted his hearers to such an extent that he had to respond to repeated encores. The other musical number was furnished by Mrs. W. Harold Young, who gave a piano solo, in the finished and pleasing style which people have associated with her offerings on all occasions.

After these numbers the curtains were drawn back to display a complete court room scene, with the court clerk at her desk. The amusement began when the jury began to arrive. As they were all ladies and represented many different stations in society, the incongruity of the situation soon became apparent, to the amused spectators. The arrival of the plaintiff and defendant, each with their own counsels, gave another touch to the court effect, which was completed by the appearance of the honorable judge fittingly escorted by two constables in full uniform.

As soon as the formal opening of the court was completed the lawyers became the centres of attraction. Each side of the case had their own witnesses, who were put through a complete and gruelling cross-examination, much valuable evidence being brought forward. Much credit is due to the work of the two counsels, Miss Stella Bennett acting for the plaintiff and Miss Hazel Dix who supported the defendant. Their closing addresses to the jury were masterpieces of logic and emotional effect. After the judge had summed up the case, the decision was left in the hands of the jury, who demonstrated their cool judgment and knowledge of human nature to such good effect that the trial ended with a complete reconciliation between Mr. and Mrs. Peck.

Much of the success of the play is due to the work of Mrs. E. E. Harvey and Mr. C. S. Thompson, who directed the rehearsals, and to Miss Jean Buck whose help in choosing the costumes added much to the desired effect.

The proceeds of the play will be placed to the credit of the Missionary Fund, and the financial return is expected to be increased as the Epworth League of Lakefield has arranged to have the trial repeated in that place on Monday evening, May 2nd. The caste of characters was as follows:

Hon. Josephine Sifter, judge of court—M. Dorman.

REMAINED AT POST FOR DAYS.

Heroism of Telegraph Operator Recalled.

SYDNEY, N.S., April 19 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell, wife of the inventor of the telephone, has written the following letter to the Sydney Post, recalling a story of the days immediately subsequent to the laying of the first Transatlantic cable.

"Sir,—Some years ago I wrote a little play, having for its motif the heroic conduct of a telegraph operator at Cape Breton North who for several days and nights never left his operating table. It was way back in the sixties of the last century when the cable connecting America with Europe was landed at Cape North. Two operators lived there and alternated in transferring the cables to wire lines or vice versa. This arrangement, I presume, worked all right when both were well, but the time came when one was stricken with serious illness and all the work fell on the other.

"His devotion in remaining at his post until relieved, which was not for days, as it was in the depth of winter, and relieving operator had to come some distance, together with the dramatic consequences to the whole world had he failed, has always appealed to my imagination, and now in an attempt to preserve the memory of a really heroic man, I want to publish this little play.

"Unfortunately, while I had the story from the doctor who went to the assistance of the sick operator, I cannot remember the names of either of the operators. Perhaps some of your readers may remember them, and I write to ask that you will kindly give space in your paper for this inquiry, and thus help in an act of justice to one of the noble men of Cape Breton.

"Yours very truly,
"Mabel G. Bell.

IMPROVEMENT IS TALK OF FRIENDS

"CHANGE TANLAC HAS MADE IN ME IS SIMPLY WONDERFUL," SAYS TORONTO WOMAN.

"Tanlac has certainly had a good chance in my case to show what it can do, for I sure had a long hard struggle and had just about tried everything," said Mrs. Mary Richards, of 251 Ashdale avenue, Toronto.

"I have been in a badly run-down condition ever since I had pneumonia six years ago. My stomach was nearly always out of order. My appetite was very poor and I had to be very careful about what I ate, as I suffered terribly from indigestion, bronchitis and pains in my chest. My sleep was never sound and I had a tired worn-out feeling all the time. I had dreadful headaches and weak spells and had fallen off in weight until I was scarcely more than a shadow of my former self, and I was absolutely unfit for work of any kind.

"But Tanlac has done me a world of good. My stomach is in fine condition and I eat all I want and everything agrees with me perfectly. All my aches and pains are things of the past and I'm stronger than I've been in a long time. In fact, Tanlac has the same as made a new person of me, for I can do my housework with ease, and my friends are talking about the wonderful change that has come over me. I don't believe anyone who suffers as I did can do better than take Tanlac."

PETROGRAD IS NOW NEAR DEPOPULATED.

Red Rule Eliminates 71 Per Cent. of Residents—Women Outnumber Men

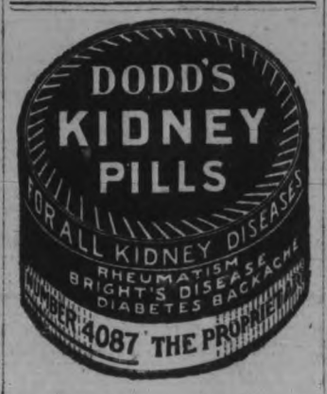
PARIS, April 20. — Since Red rule began in Russia the city of Petrograd has lost 71 per cent. of its population, according to a statement made in a book entitled "Moscow the Red," which has been published in Russia and from which extracts have been received here.

The first toll was taken in the early days of the revolution when the bourgeois who escaped massacre fled abroad. Then came typhus and other disease scourges, and later famine, owing to the complete breakdown of transport, which drove the working people to the country, where at least there is enough to eat.

One of the feautres of the decline in population is that at present women outnumber the men in the proportion of 100 to 72. The death rate in the city has almost trebled since the advent of communism, and now stands at 22 per 1000 in place of 8 per thousand before the war.

Moscow has not suffered in appearance nearly so heavily as Petrograd. The loss of population in the Soviet capital is given at 49.67 per cent. The reason is stated to be the great influx of functionaries, and employees of the Central Soviet, who number 360,000.

One curious feature of the situation is that the number of marriages is very large and both men and women are marrying younger than formerly. The explanation is stated to be that women as well as men work, and that married couples find living easier with joint resources.



BRITISH REDS' ACTIVE IN MINERS' STRIKE

RADICALS WERE EVIDENTLY IN CONTROL — POSTERS DEFINE OBJECT OF MOVEMENT.

Special to New York Herald, London, April 11th, says:

In certain mining districts, particularly those which are regarded as hotbeds of disturbance, posters were distributed to-day which clearly identified the sinister undercurrent behind the strike movement. These posters were red and carried the caption: "British Miners' Reform Movement." The text was much like the propaganda of the Industrial Workers of the World as it is known in the United States. However, secret service agents here declared they could trace it directly to Moscow.

Objects of the Reds.

These posters define the object of the "movement" as follows:

"To work for the abolition of capitalism and the substitution of Communism, which means ownership and control of the means of life by the working class."

The appeal to the workers says:

"Fellow Workers: We are organized as a body nationally to work inside and outside our union to bring it about that all the miners' and the workers' unions shall be merged into one grand mining and industrial union; taking in all wage earners in industry. We are organized on the undertaking that injury to one is injury to all.

"Our immediate objects are:

"1. Full wages during times of compulsory unemployment

"2. Five working days a week and a six hour day.

"3. Resistance to local and national reductions.

"4. The abolition of piece work.

"5. The abolition of the income tax and other impositions on workers.

"6 A full wage as compensation for accidental disablement.

"7 An annual holiday with pay.

"Remember that during the war they called us soldiers of industry. Well, they pay their soldiers to be ready to fight and they must pay the workers to be ready to work.

"In Wales there are over 60,000 miners out of work. All over the country things are bad. Help us to work for a better time right now."

Call Time Ripe for Revolt.

According to the men who were haranguing the troops to-day the time is ripe for the overthrow of the present social system in the British Isles by using the miners and, if necessary, the Triple Alliance. The policy of the radicals is one of "boring from within" Both the men and the women who are taking part in the campaign, according to Scotland Yard, appear to have ample funds. They encourage disorder and sabotage whereever possible and denounce all leaders of the miners who give any indication of a desire for peaceful strike methods.

LIT HIS PIPE AND DISCOVERED NATURAL GAS.

Lucky Strike of Farmer Drilling a Cattle Well.

CALGARY, Alta., April 20—(Canadian Press.)—Wm. Embree, a farmer a short distance west of this city, while drilling a stock well on his farm, stopped work for a moment to light his pipe and in stooping down to do so ignited gas coming from the well. The flame shot several feet in the air and was only put out by the use of sods and earth. This strike of natural was was made at depth of 130 feet and is said to be a wet gas, indicating the probability of oil.

The property on which the strike was made was filed upon a year ago for petroleum rights, but no development work was done and the lease expired. Mr. Embree has now taken out a lease for the petroleum and gas rights, and the strike, being made so close to the city, is likely to be watched closely.

PETERBOROUGH MAN JAILED FOR 10 YEARS

MEMBER OF A GANG WHO BURGLARIZED SANDWICH HOME

WINDSOR, April 20.—Paul Scarr, 25 years old, Ecorse, Mich., and H. L. Graus, 24 years old, Peterborough, were sentenced to serve ten years each at Kingston Penitentiary yesterday by Magistrate Gundy, when they were found guilty of breaking into the home of Ralph Churchill, River Front, Sandwich, two months ago.

The two men were members of a gang who broke into the Churchill home, and after firing several shots, badly injured Roy West, a friend of Churchill. The men got away with 216 cases of liquor.

A third member of the party, John McEvoy, 25 years old, was sentenced in Detroit to serve from 20 to 40 years at Marquette Prison after the shooting, when he was found guilty of highway robbery.

Efforts of Chief Thompson to extradite McEvoy from Detroit failed because of the charges against him on the Detroit side of the river.

Scarr was tried on four charges, but was convicted on only one count, that of the Churchill home.

West is still in the Salvation Army Hospital. He was shot three times in the left leg, one of the bullets shattering a bone. Doctors said West would never fully recover from his wound.

HEAVY FIRE LOSS.

NORTH HASTINGS, April 19.—It is understood that Mr. Alex. Taylor, of Monteagle, North Hastings, carried no insurance to offset his serious loss by fire recently, when practically all his farm outbuildings were destroyed. Fourteen head of stock, 750 bushels of grain, twenty ton of hay and straw, and 500 feet of lumber were consumed by the flames.

SPORT COMMENT

Strong efforts are being made just now for the inauguration of a lacrosse team in Peterborough. The executive committee in charge of the proposed team are doing all in their power to encourage the promotion of local enthusiasm in Canada's national game. Lacrosse, which was exceptionally popular some time ago, seems to have lost favour in recent years, and baseball and football have usurped its place in public favour.

Claims have been made that it is too rough a game, but, as a matter of fact, there are fewer casualties in this game than those incurred in either baseball or football. It is to be hoped that a united effort will be made to restore once more to popular favour a pastime that may be regarded as essentially Canadian.

According to a New York writer, events preceding the matched race at Windsor last fall between Man o' War and Sir Barton were largely responsible for the action of the New York Jockey Club against Guy Bedwell. The writer, who says he was on the spot at the time, says that Bedwell was not himself for a few days before the race, and that he approached Louis Feustal, trainer of Man o' War, and asked that he instruct his jockey to make the race close, as Bedwell evidently realised that Sir Barton was in for a good beating. Feustal refused to listen to the proposition, and the day before the race became so enraged at Bedwell annoying him that he told the Ross trainer a few things, among others being a request that he seek a warmer climate. This, on top of the Carl Shilling case, is no doubt the real reason for Bedwell being refused a license.

The statisticians tell us that the opening home run in Babe Ruth's 1921 campaign, slammed out last Saturday, was the 104th such blow made by him in his big league experience, the seventh year of which is just beginning. No player in the majors, save Gavvy Cravath, has ever made as many. Cravath registered 119 circuit clouts, but it took him ten years of active service to reach the figures. Honus Wagner, incidentally, had an even 100 homers to show for his twenty-one years of play.

The Argonaut Boxing Committee of Toronto is doing some tall hustling to bring the best amateur boxers in Canada together in the Canadian championship tourney at the Arena on Friday and Saturday nights in Toronto. The Riversides, Broadways and Classics forwarded their lists last night, and the strings from those three clubs alone would provide an excellent tourney.

Add to the Toronto entries will be a team from Ottawa, three or four Quebec champions from Quebec, and several Maritime and Alberta champions. The list of U. S. champions who are coming will be made public later.

The Argonauts expect to stag 20 bouts each night, starting at 8.15, and are perfecting a scheme to have two boxers gloved and waiting at the ringside for the competition.

All indication point toward the best amateur tourney held in Toronto in many years.

Hilliard of Beamsville, the new middleweight champion, will be back to show that he can beat more than one man, as he only had to do to win his Ontario championship. He is a hard-hitting youngster of superb stamina.

Peterboro Has Man.

W. J. Gilson, light heavyweight, has been entered by the Peterboro Amateur Athletic Association in the 175-lb. class, and will be the only representative of Peterboro in the Dominion tournament. Mr. C. G. Graham will accompany Gilson, who is confident of winning his class.

Gilson had considerable experience, boxing in Scotland and while serving in France with the Imperials and the Air Force, winning many bouts.

FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION WAS NOT SLIGHTED, SAY BANQUET PROMOTERS

Peterborough, Ont., April 19, /21.
Sporting Editor, Peterborough Examiner, City:

Dear Sir,—Having noticed in your publication of last evening a report wherein the Football Association of our city decline to accept the invitation of the Mayor to attend a general meeting of all sporting fraternities in our city, on account of not being sent an invitation to attend the banquet given in the Empress hotel Wednesday, April 13th to the basketball champions, the committee of management offer an explanation.

For the first time in many years a championship cup was brought to our city. What was more proper and fitting than that our City Council, our Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association or some public body either sporting or otherwise, should give the winners of that cup a right royal welcome. But no. Days passed; a week passed and still nothing doing. The Y.M.C.A. did honor, but that was to be expected in that they had "fathered" the team.

Then again the time was ripe to have a real get-together gathering of those interested in amateur sport.

First thinking of the honor due our champions and secondly taking advantage of the white heat of enthusiasm along amateur sport lines in our city, a committee composed of Messrs. A. Cranfield, J. J. Duffus, F. Conway, W. Jackson, McBride, H. E. Rayner, Jos. Batten, H. W. Jobbitt and R. G. Langford, got together (on their own accord asolutely) and proceeded to arrange a banquet and purchase prizes for the basketball players.

The financial end of the banquet was taken care of by selling seats at $2.00 each and by public subscription. The affair was published in the newspapers and a public invitation issued through the Evening Examiner to all interested in amateur sports.

Invitations were NOT sent to any sporting organization.

The banquet was not in any way connected with, or under the management of, the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association.

Trusting the above explanation is satisfactory to the Peterborough Football Association, and thanking you, Mr. Sporting Editor, for your valuable space, we remain,

ROBERT G. LANGFORD,
Chairman Sportsmen Committee.
H. W. JOBBITT,
Secretary.

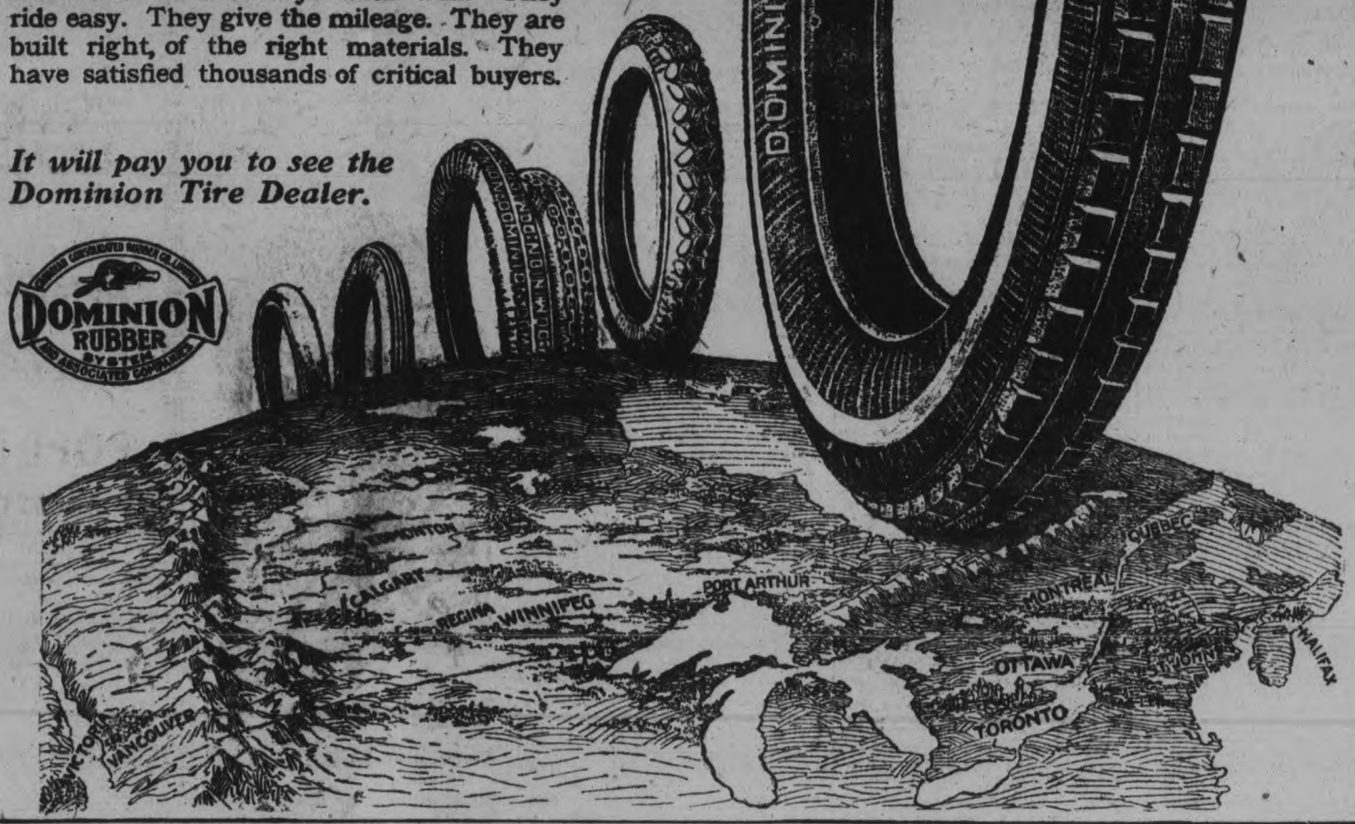
DOMINION RUBBER SYSTEM



LACROSSE CALLS FOR BETTER PHYSICAL SHAPE THAN OTHER PASTIMES

Lacrosse and hockey are Canada's two national games. The foundation of one is running and of the other skating. Faddists have at one time or another attempted to even up teams by putting hobbles on speed in both games, writes H. S. (Sport) Martin, in Toronto Telegram. But invariably the ill-advised experiments have been speedily abandoned and the prime factors of the games have been raised to performance again. Hockey has been fortunate in having a monopoly of outdoor sports in winter. There is no doubt that it has the essentials to smother any competing sport which it might be possible to put in the public eye against it. Lacrosse has had serious inroads made upon its popularity by having to stand an interminable variety of summer counter-attractions and against the space-devouring organization of baseball. That it has held up its head against all these destructive influences and now appears to be spreading with a new and conquering enthusiasts proves that it contains the finest elements of manly sport.

It is not a parlor game but neither is it, if kept within the bounds of the rules, a brutal one. The rule should be strictly enforced which keeps a player's stick below the level of his opponent's head. It is unfortunate that a small cut which though not so serious as a ball player's finger, is followed by a copious flow of blood, may give a disgusting though false idea of brutality to the spectators. It is these same people with delicate aesthetic tastes who also raise the cry of brutality against that other manly gloves smeared with nose bleed. They are against the doctors and the players themselves, of course, but unfortunately they have a lot to say in putting the stamp upon the game.

No summer game calls for the possession of such physical and mental powers as lacrosse. It combines the dogged endurance which alone commends rowing, the speed of running and the play of every muscle in the body and limbs. It develops the intense quickness of eye and measurement of distance of boxing and the alertness of mind to seize every opportunity in a quickly changing scene which raises every field sport above the drudgery of gymnasium exercise. But the foundation of the game is at all times running, and any attempt to cut down teams or field to eliminate this factor, is a blow at the heart of the game.

CONTRAST PRONUNCIATION.

Harding's is Compared to Wilson's by Observers.

WASHINGTON, April 19. —It took President Harding fifty-five and a half minutes to read his address to the Congress. Notes made on the President's pronunciation showed that he was inclined to accent every syllable in some words while in many he exhibited a tendency to accent the first syllable strongly. In only one word or its variations did he used the long "a."

Here are the notes:

Advantage, pronounced ad-vahntage.

Disadvantage, pronounced also with broad "a."

Either and neither pronounced ee-ther and nee-ther; President Wilson pronounced them i-ther and ni-ther.

Personnel pronounced purs-onel, with accent on last syllable; President Wilson pronounced it "pare-sonn-eel," with accent strongly on first syllable.

Program pronounced pro-grum with neither syllable accented.

Ally pronounced al-lie with accent on second syllable as President Wilson pronounced it.

Maintaining, every syllable accepted distinctly.

Maintained, accept on both syllables, with "main" and "tained" as spelled. President Wilson pronounced it "mentained," with accent on second syllable.

Maintenance pronounced main-ten-nance with accept on first syllable.

Finance, pronounced fin-ance, with accept on second syllable.

Inhibition, every syllable accented strongly.

Heedlessness, every syllable accented strongly.

Emergency, every syllable accented strongly.

Comparable, pronounced, comprable, with accent on first syllable.

Indirect, pronounced in-di-rect, with accent on first two syllables.

Aviation pronounced avee-ashun, with strong accent on first syllable.

Profoundly pronounced profoundly, with accent on first two syllables.

Compatible pronounced com-pat-i-bul, with accent on first two syllables.

In the following words the President stressed the first syllable with marked emphasis:

Complete, confusion, compact (meaning an agreement), proclaimed, continuing, inland, impelling, considerable, increased, control undue, entirely.

CARPENTIER EXPECTS TO WIN BEFORE THE 12TH ROUND AGAINST DEMPSEY

PARIS, April 20. — "Jack's got nothing on me. I, too, expect to win before the twelfth round!"

Georges Carpentier, French pugilist ,thus declared himself here. On his return from a triumphant swing around Europe, Carpentier had been shown a clipping quoting Jack Dempsey as saying he expected to win their fight July 2 within twelve rounds.

Georges will sail for New York May 7 on the Savoie. He will begin training for the fight on board the liner.

"In the meantime," he said, "I'm going to loaf. I'm just going to have a good time."

He left to-day for his old training camp at Lagyrbhe. His long exhibition trip left him worn down to 173—a good fighting weight for him—and his greatest anxiety now is to add a few pounds to be worked off during the training grind in the United States.

He talked eagerly of the fight, confident of its result. His usual confidence was increased by his tour, which took him into Sweden and into Northern Africa. He convinced European sportsmen that Dempsey will lose his crown July 2.

Manager Descamps said he is negotiating for training quarters somewhere along the shore near New York.

Descamps said he was satisfied with the arrangements of Promoter Rickard for a division of 60 per cent. of the receipts between the fighters.

MERCANTILE BALL LEAGUE GETTING IN SHAPE FOR UMPIRE'S CALL OF "PLAY BALL!"

With all four clubs represented, the Mercantile Baseball League held a meeting at the Y.M.C.A. last night and made good progress in preparing a constitution. The clubs were unanimous in all the decisions reached.

Secretary Frank Jobbitt was authorized to forward the League's application for affiliation with the O. B.A.A.

It was decided that a double schedule of games be played, with a winner declared for each section. In the event of different clubs being returned as winners, they will play one game for the championship of the League. The champions will then enter the O.B.A.A. race. By declaring a winner for each half of the schedule the League will be following out the plan adopted by the City Hockey League last season, which proved successful.

All games will be played at Riverside Park. The co-operation of the City Baseball League will be sought in an effort to make arrangements for Saturday afternoon games, the two leagues making a double-header attraction for the afternoon, each league providing a game.

The Mercantile League is made up of teams from the Western Clock Co., the Cressman Co., Ltd., Barries Ltd. and the Peterborough Lock Co.

The League will assist in any plan to provide a holiday attraction for the 24th of May.

SPECIAL PRIZES GIVEN FOR THE BOWLING TOURNAMENT

The bowling tournament which is taking place at the Water street alleys this week will see some good bowling. Special prizes have been donated by Messrs. McWilliams & Co. and LeBrun & Co. and Ed. Wright for the high single game in doubles, three-men and five-men events. To-night singles and doubles will be played.

CALGARY PLANTED 29,000 TREES BY CITIZENS' EFFORT

Work Begun in 1912 Has Been Most Fruitful.

Over 29,000 trees have been planted in the parks and on the streets of Calgary since 1912 by the Parks Board of that city. What these trees will mean in comfort for the pedestrian and in the appearance of the city in a few years can hardly be appreciated. In the meantime, however, these trees must be cared for if the best results are to be secured. In commenting on this phase of the work the Calgary Herald says: "Many of the most thoughtful of the citizens assist in the work by watering the trees in summer time, keeping the weeds down and doing all they can to strengthen the hands of the parks department, and to hasten the time toward the city beautiful. It is also true that there are many that do not take the trouble that others do, and allow the weeds to grow, do not bother about watering, and generally adopt the attitude of leaving it to the parks department. True, it is their work, but the point is that the city is something that all have an interest in, and to a certain extent a share in, and a little work of this kind should not be dodged."

The support and co-operation of the individual citizens are a tremendous incentive to those who are labouring in their interest. A little effort in maintaining or improving home surroundings, including boulevards, streets and sidewalks, assists to enhance the general appearance of a district, and to induce others to do likewise.

The British Government is granting the sum of $300,000 a year for direct assistance to companies in commercial development of air traffic.

A SCENE FROM EUGENE BRIEUX'S FAMOUS PLAY, "DAMAGED GOODS," COMING TO THE GRAND TO-MORROW, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

Music and Drama

AT THE GRAND.

"THE SILVER KING."

The first appearance of Trans-Canada's English Players, a specially selected company of London artists brought to Canada to tour the Dominion in a repertoire of the most popular romantic dramas and other well-known plays, will be made at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday, April 20th, matinee and night.

For this occasion, the world-famous love drama, "East Lynne," has been selected, and Henry Arthur Jones' powerful drama, "The Silver King."

Among the cast are such noted actors as Mr. Henry Lonsdale, Mr. Frederick Ross, Mr. Vernon Fortescue, Mr. Norman B. Cannon, Mr. Edward Cooper, Mr. Hilliard Vox, Mr. Bert Randall, Mr. F. Joynsen-Powell, Mr. Godfrey Ward, Mr. Tom Wilson, and such actresses as Miss Winifred James, Miss Dorothy

"DAMAGED GOODS."

"Damaged Goods," the startling drama by Eugene Brieux, will be the attraction at the Grand for three days, starting to-morrow (Thursday). This is undoubtedly one of the most unusual and at the same time, candid plays yet written. Only a master such as Eugene Brieux could have developed the story to obtain the dramatic intensity without offending good taste, that is found in "Damaged Goods."

"Damaged Goods" tells the story of a young man who is soon to be married. In his youth he has sown wild oats and now finds that he must suffer the penalty. On a pretence of fearing that he has consumption, he succeeds in postponing his marriage, and is treated by a quack. With a feeling of guilt, for he is by no means certain of the success of the treatments from the quack doctor, he is married.

Then with the skill o the born dramatist, Brieux carries his story to a climax. He develops a situation that only a master in stagecraft could conceive. The remainder of the story of "Damaged Goods" carries a moral more powerful and compelling than that of any picture yet made. So delicately that it cannot possibly give offence, yet so intensely is the story told, no one can escape its influence for the good.

Brieux is no moralist. He is a dramatist dealing with a situation all too frequently found in actual life. In telling his story in "Damaged Goods," he has brought out one of the big truths in life—the foolish sow, but the innocent must reap with them.

"Damaged Goods" has been endorsed by many societies striving to abolish the social evil for the candour with which it speaks of a subject which, until recently, has been talked of only in whispers. The fact that Brieux wrote "Damaged Goods" ensures an absence of the cheap, offensive, and vulgar appeal which so often mars pictures of this kind, and rightly causes fathers and mothers to forbid their sons and daughters attending them.

"Damaged Goods" at the Grand is a picture everyone may see and learn from.

"Damaged Goods' was originally presented some few years back by no less a star than Richard Bennett. The producers of the picturisation have adapted with marked success the ideas used by Mr. Bennett in his stage version, and Mr. Bennett himself leads a strong cast in the picture.

"DAD'S KNOCKOUT" MAKES YOU SEE PRETTY STARS

Twenty-six of the fairest of California's fair—and any native of the Golden State will tell you there are none finer to gaze upon, help make 'Smiling Bill" Parsons' newest Capitol Comedy, "Dad's Knockout," two bewitching reels of fun and feminine fetchingness.

The twenty-six are only "extra" girls, to be sure, but they almost "stop the show" in the hundred feet of picture devoted to them in the course of the splendid stage performance which is a part of the story of the millionaire screen comedian's latest film funniness, which comes to the Allen Theatre, beginning to-day. Each surely is good looking enough to star on her own right or to wheedle a fat contract from Florenz Ziegfeld.

The scene in the theatre forms one of the most pretentious scenes ever photographed for a Capitol Comedy. Disregarding the theory that any old settings will do for funny pictures, the art director at the Parsons studio in Hollywood put a little of everything good he could think of into a stage set, showing the exterior of a beautiful villa where these 26 fair damsels give an unusually fine dancing exhibition.

A sixteen-piece orchestra, engaged for the occasion, made sweet music for the dancing which forms part of the picture. An audience of 200 "extras" is seen admiring the Golden State beauties. The orange scene in which the stage "peaches" throw paper imitations of the fruit at the audience, adds beauty to the theatre incident.

THE REASON WHY.

Claire Du Brey, who will be seen in the support of Katherine MacDonald in "My Lady's Latchkey" at the Allen Theatre, starting to-day, tells of the witty reason advanced by an easygoing actor friend, who to the surprise of the profession, had not immediately applied for a divorce when his talkative wife eloped with another man. "What's the use," he sadly opined, "I never won an argument with that woman in my life."

KATHERINE MACDONALD IN "MY LADY'S LATCH KEY"

AT THE [illegible]

AT THE EMPIRE.

Winsome Elaine Hammerstein will appear in what is said to be the most dramatic role of her entire career, when her latest Selznick Picture, "The Miracle of Manhattan" is shown at the Empire theatre to-morrow.

Distinctly novel is the construction of plot of Bradley King's photoplay and the Selznick producing forces under direction of George Archainbaud have exerted every effort to make this picture one of outstanding interest.

The story in brief, relates to a strange wager made between Evelyn Whitney, a gilded society butterfly, and Mary Malone a destitute girl who is on the point of starvation. The woman of wealth claims that she can start from exactly the same position the other woman is in and maintain herself for two months. The results of this strange pact are most unexpected and the young woman in a short time finds herself in a most dangerous position in which her life is in danger. The outcome of it all is shown in a series of very dramatic scenes and the final climax is both original and surprising.

AT THE EMPIRE.

"SCARECROW" SCREAM OF FLIPPANT HILARITY

From a wierdly marvelous, rural bachelor apartment down to the erratic robes of a hermit of the fields, Buster Keaton, the sober faced comedian of the silver sheet, slapsticks his way through two reels of flippant fun in "The Scarecrow," his latest smile reel which comes to the Empire Theatre to-morrow.

As in his previous sidesplitters, "One Week" and "Convict 13" the wearer of the comical mantle of Fatty Arbuckle keeps the wealth of humor in "The Scarecrow," revolving at a high speed.

The comedy itself bears that stamp of artistic slapstick which marks all the Buster Keating smile reels. Through the whizzing atmosphere of jazzing bachelor life in a trick apartment, where every modern convenience is double-faced and nothing is what it seems, to the final amusing and salubrious windup, Buster Keaton is shown in his best mirth getting style.

"The Scarecrow" has a toothpick plot in which Buster under the urge of winning the favor of a farmer's fair daughter is forced to go through many acrobatic whimsicalities to beat out his bitter rival, big Joe Roberts ,and overcome the rural antipathy of the girl's father. His disrobing journey through a threshing machine is an uproarious feature. The swiftly moving, mirthful love yarn is finally brought to a happy but unexpected conclusion through the opportune assistance of a handy scarecrow.

"The Scarecrow" is replete with new features and gives Buser Keaton plenty of chance to put the blackbirds of gloom to flight in his bouncing career of whizzbang love while his contortions as an unnatural, nature fakir furnish a continual scream.

WESTERN COAL GAINING FAVOR.

SASKATOON, Sask., April 20.—(Canadian Press). — Saskatchewan goal is gaining favor among users in other provinces and there was a large increase in the number of tons exported during the year 1920 as compared with the 1919 figures. The figures for last year show that about 3,132 tons were exported, as against 389 tons for 1919. With approximately 334.89 tons of coal mined in 1920, the amount exported is one percent. of the total. The import of the same commodity last year amounted to less than a thousand tons, being 206 tons of anthracite and 530 tons of bituminous coal.

The total number of coal mines in operation in Saskatchewan last year was 45, and employment was given in this work to 3,040 men, or a monthly average of 253.

The monthly output during the year varied according to the demands, and the number of men varied proportionately. Last November the production and the number of men reached the highest peak, when the output was 55,298 tons and the number of men 475.

There were 19 accidents recorded in the mines although not one of them proved fatal.

Half of the 1921 wheat crop of Kansas, or approximately fifty million bushels, will be held in reserve and marketed through a State agency.

Build Up Your Health

Recollect that 95 per cent. of so-called disease is due to a subluxation of the vertebrae of the spine which causes pinching of nerves preventing the unimpeded flow of vital force. Have this pressure removed by CHIROPRACTIC SPINAL ADJUSTMENTS and you will be HEALTHY.

YOUR OWN FAULT

If you do not enjoy Health it is your own fault. This may seem to be a harsh statement. It is, however, true; for with the advent and growth of CHIROPRACTIC, everyone has an opportunity to become Healthy and to STAY Healthy. Do not take our word for it. Do not even take the word of any friends who have been helped. FIND OUT FOR YOURSELF. Visit a Chiropractor. Let him give you a Spinal Analysis. If there is anything wrong he will at once tell you so. Then let him adjust the wrong. The result will be that you will be enjoying Health. Don't say it can't be done, until you have tried for yourself.

Those who say a thing cannot be done are constantly being interrupted by someone doing it.

POPULATION OF PARIS INCREASES SLOWLY.

2,863,741 Souls in France's Gay Capital.

PARIS, April 20.—According to the recent census, the population of Paris on March 6 was 2,863,741.

The figures which are now definitive, show an increase since 1911 of only 16,512 persons.

In view of the scarcity of apartments, a much larger increase was believed to have taken place in the past ten years. The figures for the different wards of the city show, however, that the house scarcity is due to the increase of business premises and offices. In the centre of the city and number of residents has decreased by more than 32,000 as the result of former dwellings having been taken over by business firms. The Seventh Arrondissement on the left bank of the Seine, where many nef streets were completed just before the war, show an increase of more than 10,000. The artistocratic Sixteenth Arrondissement, where many new dwellings for work-people have been built, has the biggest increase, 23,000.

Paris is almost the last capital in the world to follow the course of abandoning the centre of the city to business, as is done in London and New York. Until a few years ago Paris business men of all kinds found it most convenient and not objectionable to live near their business, but now the outward movement has unmistakably begun, and with the demolition of the ancient fortifications it is likely to continue rapidly.

FORTY-THREE YEARS ON NEW DICTIONARY

Only Half Finished—Work of French Savants.

PARIS, April 20.—Friday was a great day in the peaceful history of the savants of the French Academy. After laboring for forty-three years they completed the revision of the first half of the eighth edition of their dictionary of the French language.

They, or rather their predecessors, began this work of revision in 1878, and when they put the finishing touches to the derivation and the definition of the last word beginning with the letter H they had completed the study of between 24,000 and 25,000 words. That number constitutes about half the number of words in the French language. A number of new words have been admitted in this revised edition of the dictionary, but the French do not accept new words so readily as the English and the Americans, and Murray's Oxford English Dictionary, when it is finished, will contain many thousand more words than there are in French.

The French Academicians have expressed great satisfaction at the rate at which they were proceeding. M. Rene Doumic declared that if the present progress was kept up the eighth edition would be completed about 1964.

COMMITTEE ON RE-ESTABLISHMENT REITERATES ITS STAND

OTTAWA, April 20 (Canadian Press).—The Parliamentary Committee on Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment this morning reiterated its stand of last year that soldiers of all ranks should be on the same basis for pay and allowances during training and treatment under the D. S. C. R.

This was brought out by the discovery of the fact that the Government had not given effect to the original recommendation.

Major N. F. Parkinson, of the D. S. C. R., dealt at length with the proposals submitted by the G. W. V. A., and said that several of these were already in effect.

Dr. Arnold, director of Medical Services, was not prepared to admit that resistance to disease was lessened by service in the Army. Old age complications were sometimes mistaken as due to war services. In the majority of cases the soldiers were sincere.

PACKERS' STRIKE IS NOW AT AN END

MEN RETURN TO WORK AT A REDUCTION IN WAGES

TORONTO, April 20.—Threatened by the Harris Attatoir Co. that their jobs would be no longer open to them, the company's striking employees hurried back to work yesterday, and practically forced an ending of the strike in all other Toronto packing plants. Unable to hold the men in check at the Harris plant, union officials hastened to make the best terms possible with other companies, each of which made their own terms with the strikers.

The William Davies Company took their men back at a 12½ per cent. wage reduction for a forty-eight-hour week, with a guarantee of forty hours a week to regular hands.

Similar terms have also been agreed on at Gunn Bros.' plant. There will be no discrimination against strikers in either plant.

PLANS TO CUT COST OF LIVING.

Submitted in Report to President Harding.

TORONTO, April 19.— An assistant to the Superintendent of the Tobacco Station at Harrow is to be immediately appointed, which will enable those in charge to spend more time among the growers during the season than they have been able to do so far, says F. Charlan, Chief of the Tobacco Division.

For a long time it has been realized that a great real of practical information cannot be properly conveyed by correspondence, but war conditions prevented the extension of the field work of the Tobacco Division With a larger staff it will be possible to reach growers looking for assistance and unable to call at the station.

An extensive program of co-operative work is also being arranged by the division through its tobacco inspector for Ontario. This will include more than 300 plots and about fifteen series of experiments covering practically all phases of tobacco culture over a wide area, including the whole district in Ontario. The experimental plots will be scattered in such a way that any grower looking for information on some special point will be able to find it within a short distance of his farm and see for himself what can be done in order to improve the quality and yield of his crop. More time will be spent than ever in the field by the inspector, whose headquarters this summer will be located at Harrow, where his services will be readily available.
